FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

June 13—Poor time to plant and the fish won't bite. A good time to cut weeds or spray. The Moon trines Mars at 5 p.m. local time so you can look forward to an enjoyable time with the opposite sex this evening.

June 14—A good day for a n athletic endeavor, the Moon in Aries gives that extra surge of energy needed for tennis, baseball or golf. The Moon will square Mercury at noon, so if you make a mistake in keeping score it will be unintentional. Venus trines Jupiter a few hours later so the day will end very pleasantly.

June 15—You can look for this unexpected this morning while the Moon is in opposition to Uranus, however the nervous tension will pass before noon and the day will look bright as the Moon makes a good aspect to the Sun. The Moon enters Taurus at 7:00 P.M. so you will probably be inclined to laze around this evening.

June 16—You will awake to peace and contentment this Sunday morning as the Moon is making a good aspect to Saturn. Dress leisurely and wear something new to church if you want it to be admired. The evening hours would be a fine time to visit or write letters as the Moon makes a harmonious aspect to Mercury.

June 17—A good day to plant some late onions or any other below ground vegetables. Also plant applied now will last longer and posts set now will stay tight in the ground. If you can get to your dentist this is the right day for fillings or plate impressions. The Moon goes into the sign Gemini at 10:00 P.M.

June 18—A good day to cut hay (weather permitting) it should dry quickly while the Moon is in the air sign Gemini. The Moon makes harmonious aspects to Pluto and Mars during the morning hours, probably be a good time to shop for some new appliances, possibly a different car, or take care of any legal matters.

June 19 — The Moon squares Jupiter early this morning, so get up quietly and go to work without starting a fuss, nothing wrong except a poor lunar aspect. After lunch you will probably get a pleasant surprise as the Moon trines Uranus. We have a new Moon tonight at 8:17 p.m. local time, so the fish will take a notion to bite before dark.

When Words Fail Us We Still Have Recourse To The Beautiful Thoughts Of Famous Poets, Philosophers and Writers.

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
 When the sweetest love of his life he gave
 To simple things: where the violets grew Blue as the eyes they were likened to,
 The touches of his hands have strayed
 as reverently as his lips have prayed;
 And he pitied as much as a man in pain
 a writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
 Think of him still as the same, I say
 He is not dead — he is just away.

CHRIST'S COMING — OUR HOPE

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

I Thessalonians 4:13-5:6

We are told that each night as Dr. Horatius Bonar retired to rest, his last action before he laid down to sleep was to draw aside the curtain and looking up into the starry heavens, say, "Perhaps tonight, Lord?" In the morning as he arose, his first movement was to raise the blind, and looking out upon the gray dawn, remark: "Perhaps today, Lord?"

Since that breath-taking moment nearly two-thousand years ago when a cloud received Him out of sight, Jesus has been expected to return. Since that same day when the messengers of heaven said, "This same Jesus shall so come in like manner as you have seen Him go into heaven (Acts 1:11b)."

FAITH

Paul had preached this blessed promise to those in Thessalonica. They had taken the message seriously as Paul intended them to take it. There were some things concerning this matter which were not clear to them. From time to time there would be a death among those who had believed. This posed a problem for them. What would happen to those who were falling asleep?

Paul's answer is direct and simple. "If we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." The answer lies in the fact of the resurrection. Their faith in Jesus assured them that He was alive. He had both died and rose again. His resurrection guaranteed this resurrection of those who died believing in Him.

Paul speaks of those who have fallen asleep in Jesus being brought back with Him. This must mean that they are not sleeping in their graves. Only their bodies are in the graves. They are asleep in Jesus and will return with Him.

According to verse 15 their faith is anchored in the word of the Lord. Those who are alive at His coming will not prevent or precede the ones who have died in Jesus. Because of their faith in Christ they are not to sorrow "as those who have no hope."

FACTS

The apostle continues with some stated facts concerning the second coming of Jesus. He will return personally. "The Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout." The end of the age will be ushered in by the Lord Jesus Himself, not an angel or messenger from heaven.

Paul mentions three things which will accompany the Lord's return, a shout, the voice of an archangel, and the trumpet of God. His coming will be glorious and victorious.

Another fact is stated concerning the order of events. The dead in Christ shall rise first; then those alive at His coming will be caught up in the clouds to meet Jesus in the air. From here on the Lord's people will be with Him.

The Thessalonian Christians are to comfort one another with these great truths. Christians through the centuries have used these verses to comfort those who were bereaved.

FALTER

Paul now writes to the Christians not to falter in understanding and action because of this doctrine. There is no need for him to write about times and seasons. They know already that Christ will return suddenly and unexpectedly. "As a thief in the night" would mean "without warning." His return will be at a time when men are saying, "Peace and safety." This indicates the false security which will prevail at His coming.

There will be no escape for those who have their hope in false security. The Thessalonians believers would not be overtaken because they were sons of light. They must not sleep as those who were of the night, but be awake and watchful and mentally alert. This is one matter in which no man must be found to falter!

Bible Question: "What is the size of Galilee?"

Answer: Galilee was not very large. It was approximately 50 miles from North to South and 25 miles from East to West. It was densely populated. Josephus claimed it had 204 villages and none of them with fewer than 15,000 people.

the spiritual guidance by reading passages from the book called "Life Extra" by Arthur Ruedge. She read the interesting statement that God loves us by giving everything we need. She chose Psalm 8 for her scripture reading.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Lucy Hume, who gave a book review of "Swap Fox-Francis Marion" by Noel Gerson, which deals with the days of the American Revolution, especially in South Carolina. Mrs. Hume recently went to South Carolina and visited many of the battle sites of the Revolution around Charleston. It was here where guerrilla warfare was first used.

The installation ceremony for the new officers for next year was conducted by Mrs. Sally Duguid. The new officers are: Pres. Mrs. James L. Cobb, Vice-Pres. Mrs. Claude Thompson, Secretary-Mrs. W. W. Rouse, Treas. Mrs. Fay Conner.

The hostesses were Mrs. Claude Thompson, Mrs. Melvin Wasson, and Mrs. William Brown.

The tables were decorated with roses and other flowers.

At the close of the meeting, a delicious dessert course was served.

Those present were: Mesdames Dan Bedinger, Cameron Brakfeld, William Brown, James L. Cobb, Jose Callen, John Campbell, Carl Conner, John Farrell, A. H. Kenton Board Adopts Policy On Evaluation

A fourth grade teacher at the Vissla school, Cassandra Wright, was a leading member of a committee which helped draft a policy for the Kenton County Board of Education on teacher evaluation.

The policy, adopted by the board at its June meeting, contained 14 points on steps to be taken in "grading" a teacher and also steps to be taken in case of a discharge.

Miles Wright was aided by Sharon Feltz, math teacher at Turkeyfoot. Both are members of the Kenton County Faculty Association.

George Edmondson, director of curriculum; Arthur Walsh, supervisor of high schools, and two instruction supervisors, Mrs. Opal Vincent and Mrs. Rita Freurmuth, represented the administration.

"If You Have Anything To Sell—Call Us"

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

—by—
Joe Claxon

There are both "Cadillacs" and "Fords" in the bedding plant industry. It is wise for you to keep this in mind when you plan to purchase plants. In these times of inflation and rising prices one may say, "This year I am going to wait before purchasing my bedding plants, until there is a good bargain or sale." On items other than live plants, this is a very thrifty thing to do. However, plants are perishable and, when not properly cared for while growing or during the period when they are on display, their quality will deteriorate rapidly. Extremely wilted plants that are offered for half price, or plants that have shed most of their leaves, are not a good purchase at any time. Plants that have been subjected to water stress (drought conditions) frequently and for long periods of time will very seldom recover and, even then, will perform poorly. Most plants that are sold at bargain prices are leftovers and have been subjected to the above mentioned conditions.

Look for plants that are healthy; not in a wilted condition; compact; with dark green leaves (except for the variegated kind); devoid of any blemishes; insect free; and, last but not least, a good, named variety.

It is best to buy young plants not in flower. Select plants that show sturdy growth and an abundance of buds rather than those bearing many open flowers. It is better to purchase a single good quality geranium that may cost a dollar than to purchase some cheaper ones that sell for a dollar a dozen. Why spend money 1971. Last year they took on stronger competition against a team from the Cincinnati Bell and also got a victory 13-10. What more can be said for a truly terrific ball club.

This year their roster includes the following ladies: Darlene Ryan, Judy and Kathy Kelly, Patty Song, Myra Cuthbert, Pat Scott, Rita Ryan, Linda Cade, Dianne, Patty and Rose Raybourne, Pam Rettig, Marilyn Hamilton, Jeanette Cady, Kathleen Robinson, Mary Jo Rehtin, Margie Stewart and Margaret Ryan.

John Ryan, Jr., is their manager and is assisted with coaching by Tony Berkemeter and Wayne Hamilton.

Rev. Harry J. Tenhundfeld is the pastor of All Saints Church. The team extends their support to Stan Jones of Walton IGA for his financial support this year.

Other results from last week's games were:
Walton Baptist No. 2.....18
Walton Baptist No. 1.....18
New Bethel Baptist.....15
Piner Baptist.....11
Richwood Union Presbyterian..20
New Banklick Baptist.....12

Oak Island Homemakers

The June 3 meeting of the club was a luncheon at the home of the president, Mrs. Betty Goebel. The members enjoyed the bountiful food and good fellowship during the lunch hour. After lunch, Mrs. Goebel presided during the club's regular meeting.

Spiritual Guidance was given by Mrs. Leontine Stephens on the topic, "Today is Here." One of her comments was, "Don't wait until tomorrow—make things happen today." Her scripture selection was Proverbs 29:18.

Plans were completed for the club's Variety Sale, Friday evening July 7 at the home of Mrs. Goebel.

Mrs. Dixie Dressman, secretary, announced that the following had perfect club attendance for the year, Elizabeth Barberick, Betty Goebel, Glenda Jackson and Margaret Rector.

The club selected the president, Mrs. Goebel, to attend the Home-maker Cultural Arts Camp in July.

Mrs. Mary Jackson and Mrs. Betty Rucker presented a most interesting lesson, the June project, "Today's Entertaining."

Those present were: Elizabeth Barberick, Dixie Dressman, Betty Goebel, Kathryn Guttridge, Lydia Huffaker, Glenda Jackson, Mary Jackson, Nancy Peebles, Margaret Rector, Betty Rucker, June Smith, Leontine Stephens, and Elma Taylor. Four children were present, Dawn Dressman, Laurie Goebel, Danny Peebles, and Steve Rucker.

On Dean's List
Local UK students making the Dean's List are: Carol Elizabeth Gibson, Walton, college of education; Judith Ann Hetterman, Crittenden and Michelle Lee Baute, Union, college of home econ.

It has been said that a smile adds to your face value.

A lot of drivers get the credit for being good drivers simply because other drivers get out of their way.

Courtesy on the highway is as rare as a gentleman in a lady's sauna bath.

In Europe, an automobile is passed down from generation to generation. In the U.S. it is passed from junkyard to junkyard.

Courtesy with us here at G & G TIRE COMPANY has built our reputation.

Surprise Celebration: On Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Estil Mitts of 28 High School Court, Walton, recently celebrated their Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary at a surprise reception given at the home of the Weeley Burgess family in Grant County. The joyous occasion, with a wedding cake (their first) and champagne punch was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burgess, Mr. Frank Mitts, Hilda Callen of Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Burgess.

The couple received many beautiful cards and gifts and a good time was had by all who attended.

In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kitch; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kitch; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gamel and family; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burgess and family; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lueke; Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson; Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mitts; Mrs. James Robinson; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gellman; Mrs. Mary Stephenson; Mrs. Sue Stamper and Mr. Tim Burgess.

Those unable to attend due to illness were Mrs. Mitt's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stiller of Dayton, Ohio; and Mr. Mitt's mother, Mrs. Ben Mitts.

THE FARMER AND MEAT-FEED PRICES

Letters from urban areas frequently imply that consumers suffer economic injustice at the hands of the farmer. What consumers often don't know is that from time to time, farmers and feeders suffer substantial net operation losses. This happened to cattle feeders last fall and the losses continued for several months. Most packers and retailers also endured losses on meats last summer because of price ceilings.

Last spring, consumer resistance to high retail meat prices and subsequent boycotts touched off a lot of uncertainties in the meat market, and caused some losses to producers. More recently, cattle feeders' losses proved substantial due to mounting costs for feeder cattle, labor, and feed, along with falling prices for fed cattle.

Cattle in feedlots need 8 to 11 pounds of grain and concentrates to produce 1 pound of weight gain. They are fed for 5 to 6 months for a total weight increase of 350 to 450 pounds per head. During the feeding period, changes may occur in the cost of feeds or market prices of fed steers.

Farmers don't set fed steer prices. Rather, the prices are derived through various stages of the marketing system—initially from consumer demand and incomes, less costs to process, transport, cut, package, and retail-balanced against current supply.

In short, the market offers farmers a take-it-or-leave-it price for their fed steers, and for months at a time, prices they can get may fail to cover costs already incurred for the market-ready cattle.

Under these circumstances, the farmer can ill-afford to hold his cattle longer and feed them more.

Verona Vols Picnic Friday And Saturday

THE VERONA VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT MEMBERS WILL HOLD THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC THIS WEEKEND—JUNE 21 AND 22.

Beginning each day at 5:00 o'clock until midnight, they have a variety of food and entertainment for the youth and adults. The location will be at the ball park on highway Ky. 16 across from the old grade school.

They will have all kinds of food, such as fish plates, barbecue chicken, all kinds of sandwiches, cole slaw, french fries, pie and cake, soft drinks and coffee.

Also on Saturday night, there will be some nice prizes given away. Chief Miles Strong invites you to bring your family and friends for two nights of fun and friendship.

The new fire truck is on the road and a new fire house is ready to go up. Your support by attending this event will be deeply appreciated.

To Be Installed

Melinda Rose Gunther

Charles William Gibson

The Covington Chapter Order of DeMolay and Covington Bethel No. 5 Order of Job's Daughters will be having a joint installation of officers. The installation will take place at 7:30 p.m. on June 27, at the Scottish Rite Temple on 1553 Madison Avenue in Covington.

Melinda Rose Gunther, 16, a junior at Holmes High school will be installed as Honor Queen of the Job's Daughters. Charles William Gibson, 17, a senior at Walton-Verona will be installed as Master Councillor of the DeMolays.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Local Girls Attend Girls State At MSU

Last week, four girls in this community attended the Twenty-Eighth Annual Kentucky Girls State at Morehead State University. They were Connie Lawrence, Patsy Marsh, Gwen Milner and Pam Morgan. They were sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Post Number 277.

The week was full of meeting new friends, rushing to conferences, and learning about their state government.

The highlights of the week were addresses from a few select people in our state and a trip to Frankfort. The speakers were Mary Louise Foster, Auditor of Public Accounts; Thelma Sovall, Secretary of State; and Governor Wendell Ford.

The girls also had refreshments in the Governor's Mansion, hosted by the First Lady.

A spokesman stated, "I can truthfully say that we had a very stimulating, learning experience and we encourage the girls in the future to participate."

Patchwork, Quilting Lesson By Mrs. Norman

The Walton Homemakers Club will have a lesson on "Patchwork and Quilting" on Thursday, June 27, 1974 at the home of Mrs. John Wood of Chambers Road. The lesson will begin at 10:00 a.m.

This lesson will be taught by Mrs. Nancy Norman.

Those interested are invited to attend. Bring your own supplies—needles, thread, scissors, sandpaper, cardboard, compass, protractor, ruler, pencil and fabric.

Miss White To Instruct

Majorities and Drill Team members of Walton-Verona High School will have their training camp June 24-26 at the school.

Instructor will be Miss Lynette White of Ashland, Kentucky. Miss White, a student at U.K., is the winner of over 200 twirling trophies and is a former Miss Kentucky Majorette.

She has been working with the Walton-Verona Band for the past two years in their training camps.

Attend TV Show

Our Lady of Fatima Altar Society of All Saints Church, Walton, attended the Paul Dixon Show on June 11. Those attending were: Katherine Carr, Janada Ryan and Danette, Pat Albis and Debbie, Mary Blau and Tammy, Flora Ryan, Lucille Hetteman, Lula Hye, Rel Day, Dolores Butler and Debbie, Jo Code and neighbor, Rosemary Benton, Diana Ruck, Ann Greene, Rose Kelly and Barbara, Judy Turner, Stella Code, Mary Brooks, Hattie Ryan, Thelma Smith, Nellie Egan, Ruth Glenn, Patty Glenn, Martha Kirby, Sarah Schwenke, Carol Hyland, Mary Berkemeier, Mike Berkemeier, Anna Kunkle, Gert Butler.

JACOBS—JOHNSON

Miss Deborah Jacobs

Miss Deborah Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Jacobs, Jr., of Walton, Kentucky, and Mr. Keith Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Jr. of Walton, Kentucky, will be united in marriage on Saturday evening, the sixth of July, 1974, at 7:30 p.m. at the Walton Christian Church, Walton, Kentucky.

No invitations are being sent, but friends and relatives are cordially invited to attend the ceremony.

A reception will immediately follow the ceremony in the fellowship hall.

Dystrophy Carnival

A neighborhood Carnival Against Dystrophy will be held on June 28-29 at Walton Fireman's Picnic grounds, High School Ct. Ricky D. Ruf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruf will serve as Ringmaster, assisted by Ronnie A. Norris.

The carnival, which begins at 1:00 to 8:00 p.m., will feature such games as nickel pitch, dart throw, a fortune telling booth, french book stall, etc., and all proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases afflicting millions.

The children got the idea for staging their event while watching TV personality Larry Smith, who is promoting carnivals on his "Larry Smith Puppet" children's show seen on station WXIX-TV. Last year, in cooperation with Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, 28,143 Carnivals were held by children across the country, and over $755,667 was raised for MDA's research and patient service programs.

For additional information call 485-7149.

Wa-Na Club Installs Officers

The Wa-Na Club held its annual installation dinner at the Quality Inn in Covington.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Jack Rouse gave an inspiring spiritual guidance.

Miss Dayna Cheesman entertained club members and guests by playing a lovely selection on the piano. Miss Cheesman had been the club's enter in the music contest held at the KFWV district meeting in May.

Mrs. Chester Sturgeon read the history of the meetings of the past year.

Mrs. Asa Rouse introduced KFWV treasurer, Mrs. Russell Fields who gave some amusing illustrations of different types of club members. Mrs. Fields installed officers for the new year. They are Mrs. Gayle McElroy, president; Mrs. Willie Mathis Jr., first vice president; Mrs. Jerry Treadway, second vice president; Miss Joella Sleat, recording secretary; Mrs. Asa Rouse, treasurer; Mrs. Chester Sturgeon, historian; Mrs. George Black, parliamentarian.

Mrs. McElroy appointed Mrs. Asa Rouse and Mrs. Jack Rouse to audit the records.

Members and guests attending were mesdames George Black, Daniel Hance, Clayton Jones, Patsy Slusher, E. A. Lauterwasser, Willie Mathis Jr., Gayle McElroy, Jack Norris, David Peebles, Asa Rouse, Jack Rouse, Chester Sturgeon, Jerry Treadway, Malcolm Simpson, Ruby Treadway, Lewis Webster, Dave Webster, Wally Wierman, W. W. Rouse, Elmer Croger, Russell Fields, Robert Eisenschmidt, and Miss Joella Sleat and Miss Dayna Cheesman.

Music Teacher Visits New Pupils

Mr. James Layne, music director of Walton-Verona High School, will be visiting the homes of prospective band members this week. Students who are entering the fifth grade at Walton-Verona Elementary School will be recruited for the Beginning Band which will start this summer.

Mr. Layne will discuss the band program with the parents and make arrangements for securing the instruments needed.

All beginning students must start at the fifth grade level.

Visitation will be held on Wednesday through Friday this week. In case you were not at home when called, Mr. Layne will be at the school building, Walton-Verona High School on Saturday, June 21 from 9 until noon. You may also enroll your child here.

The Walton-Verona Band will have about 150 members this year.

Group To Tour

The Keenage Group of Walton will be going to Mr. Ralph Cassons on June 24th at Burlington, Kentucky, to see a clock he has made and other antiques. They are to meet at 11:00 a.m. and will eat at the Johnson Smorgasbord before going.

Boone County Fashion Revue Winners

Everyone has her own "style"—a certain look, a way of walking and talking that says: "This is the one and only ME!" And each Boone County 4-H'er who takes part in the 4-H Fashion Revue program has a chance to discover a style which reflects her individual personality and to create a look that makes the most of her attractive features.

The Boone County 4-H Fashion Revue was held Saturday, June 1, at the United Presbyterian Church. The two top winners in this event will represent Boone County in the Kentucky 4-H Fashion Revue in Lexington, July 15-17. The winners were Laura McMillan and Gena Combs, both of Walton.

The Fashion Revue program is a follow-up of 4-H clothing project work. While the clothing project emphasizes sewing skills, the Fashion Revue gives more attention to the 4-H'ers and how she presents herself than to the garment she has made.

And, although most Fashion Revue participants are girls, boys are starting to take part in this 4-H activity, too. The clothing project has long attracted boys who want to learn the basics of sewing in preparation for the time when they will be "out on their own." In recent years, they have started to model the shirts, slacks, jackets, and other garments they have made in Fashion Revue competition, gaining training similar to that the girls receive in poise, grooming, and clothing selection.

Laura is an 11th grade student at Walton-Verona High School and is a member of the 4-Leaf Clover 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McMillan of Chambers Street.

Gena is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Combs of U.S. 25 south. She also is a member of 4-Leaf Clover 4-H Club and attends school at Simon Kenton where she is in the 11th grade.

Wedding Shower Given

The Union Fire Department held a Wedding Shower in honor of Neal Halpin and Janet Wilson, on the 12th of June. They were married on Saturday, the 15th of June.

Also, while meeting, the ladies decided to have a Walkathon to raise money for firemen's boots. The Walkathon will be held June 23rd at 1:30 at the Northern Ky. Speedway. It will be a $1.00 a mile. Anyone willing to join is welcome, all help is appreciated.

Little Miss Kenton County Fair Applications

Applications are now being taken for the contest. If you are a girl, between the ages of 3 and 8 and live in Kenton County, you are eligible. Contest will be held on August 13, 1974 at the Fair Grounds. All applications must be completed and returned by July 29, 1974. For an application and contest rules, send a self-addressed envelope to Peggy McEntire, 5625 Wynola Dr., Independence, Ky. 41051 or phone 856-7725.

Piner-Fiskburg's New Ambulance Dedicated In Ceremonies On May 19th

THE PINER-FISKBURG LIFE SQUAD'S NEW AMBULANCE WAS DEDICATED TO SERVICE ON MAY 19th, 1974, AT 2:00 P.M.

The dedicatory letter was read by Dave Shanklin, Youth Minister and was written by Rev. Bob Montgomery of Goshen Christian Church.

The Ladies Auxiliary presented a check for $700.00 and about $250.00 was received in donations.

The "Robinson Express" presented gospel music. The following song was commissioned by Chief Lewis E. "Jeff" Williams, written by Mr. Jackie Robinson and Mr. Gerald Stephenson was performed by the Robinson family singers.

PINER-FISKBURG VOLUNTEERS

Call them in the dead of night,
Call them in the day,
Call them at the setting sun,
They'll be on your way.

They have worked hard every day,
And it's all for you,
They have worked hard every day
Now, what will you do?

Dig down in your pocket friends
Give a dime or two,
Dig down in your pocket friends
So they can come to you.

Chorus—
Piner-Fiskburg Volunteers,
Every man is trained,
Piner-Fiskburg Volunteers,
Call them when there's pain.

Using the theme "Come Alive", the ambulance was officially and appropriately christened with a 42 ounce bottle of Pepsi-Cola. The Piner-Fiskburg Life Squad has two fully equipped and staffed ambulances on call at all times. Their phone number is 356-5323.

Area Residents Featured In New Book

Two Walton residents are featured in a new book, Late in the Bluegrass. Mary Ella Bedinger Logan and J. Ashlin Logan appear in the book which is designed to reflect on the current history of the Bluegrass through the life sketches of more than 650 people from the area.

"Signer" J. Winston Coleman, Jr., a noted Kentucky historian, served as Supervising Editor for the book.

The individual stories appearing in the Life in the Bluegrass were written by Mrs. John Wilson Townsend, widow of the late John Wilson Townsend, a noted Kentucky author, and Ann Lemert (Mrs. Abner Lemert) of Lexington, a talented free lance writer and editor.

Life in the Bluegrass contains 256 pages in a hard back cover. The dust cover features pictures of many people whose stories appear in the book. It will be released June 29 at a special Publication Party.

A thousand copies of the book will be numbered and autographed by Mr. Coleman and will be available in selected book stores for $25 a copy. The numbered and autographed copies will become first edition collector items. Information may also be obtained from Historic Records Association, P.O. Box 1774, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

The Christian's Hope And The Daily Task

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

Sir Thomas Lipton of England, the multimillionaire, shortly before dying said, "I'd give up every trophy in my collection for the collection for the one I have not got"—that is a hope of Heaven and eternal life. He was well-known as a winner in both English and American boat races.

The Christian lives in the glorious hope of the return of Christ. This hope is precious to the child of God. But the concern of today's lesson is that one must not become so "heavenly minded" that he is of no earthly good.

A CONCERN FOR STABILITY
Conditions were developing in the church at Thessalonica which promised to be damaging. When the minds of people become bent away from the truth the results are devastating. Paul is concerned that they be not shaken in mine. The picture is that of a tent bent over by the wind. It needs to be brought back to its original position.

Some of the church members had become excited over the teaching of the return of Christ. This happens today. Too often the excitement leads to extremes as it did in Paul's day. Some pastors never preach on this subject. Some never preach on anything else.

Paul had neither spoken nor written anything which should have caused some to stop working and wait for His return. To set dates for His return is to go beyond Paul and even Jesus himself (Mark 13:32).

Christians need to get excited about the return of Christ. He is coming again. Many believe His coming will be in the near future. But Christians must not allow their looking for Jesus to cause them to be poor examples before others. The very opposite is intended by Jesus.

A COMMAND FOR STERNNESS
The situation called for firmness even to the point of being stern. There were those who were walking disorderly and not after the tradition which Paul had passed on to them. To walk disorderly was as a marching soldier breaking ranks. The Church was admonished to stand back from these who were breaking ranks. This would serve to stop such action and bring the church back in unity.

Paul and his companions had set the example for them. They had worked with their hands "from daylight till dark" in order to support themselves. They had the authority to demand a living from the Christians but refused to use that power. Paul reminds them of his previous command, probably based on Genesis 3:19, "I eny would not work, neither would he eat."

There is no better way to witness to the saving grace of God in one's life than the willingness to work God's original plan and purpose for man was that he work to support himself and his family and even to have to give to others.

Manual labor was not the result of the fall. God knew how much man needed to work. Has man exceeded God in wisdom in his matter today? This does not mean that there should be no social and welfare programs to help the needy. It does mean that anyone unwilling to work ought to be allowed to starve!

These pious deadbeats soon become busy but busy in other men's matters. Such are commanded by God through Paul to work in quietness and eat their own bread. Timely advice in any day.

There is always the tendency to become weary in well-doing. The Christian needs the strength to "walk and not faint."

A CALL FOR STRICTURE
Paul continues in the same train of thought but calls for censure of the man who stubbornly refuses to follow orders. The Christians are to have no company with such a man. The purpose of this treatment is not to destroy the man but to win him back to the fellowship. He is not to be counted as an enemy, but admonished as a brother.

The Christian can never fulfill God's perfect will in this matter or any other matter in his own strength. But with the divine peace and the very presence of the Lord, how can one miss? With the hope of heaven before us, the daily task about us, the living Christ within us, how can we lose?

Bible Question: "Upon what did Paul base his apostleship?"

Answer: Paul based his apostleship upon his having seen the risen Christ (1 Cor. 9:1). Also upon his call and commission from Christ (Acts 9:15-16).

GETTING CAUGHT!

When the jelly disappeared from the refrigerator, when a baseball shattered the window, when Mother discovered the stray cat sleeping in her washbasket . . . like a magnetic needle the accusing finger of my parents pointed toward me.

It's a crushing experience to get caught. But it can teach us a vital lesson. We soon discover a sense of responsibility and learn our obligation to others. Our true identity emerges.

The Church stands ready to help us learn responsibility. Through religious education youth today can still discover personal identity—while gaining a responsible view of man's obligations to God and to society.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

June 20—The Moon enters cancer early this morning so you can plan on some good fishing the next couple of days. An excellent time to plant trees if you want quick growth. Flowers planted now will give good bloom. Any above ground vegetables planted now should do well and mature fast. If you are shopping for a bargain, noon would be an excellent time when the Moon conjuncts Saturn.

June 21—You should wake to a jovial good mood this morning as the Moon forms a trine to Jupiter. The Moon is still in Cancer so you can complete anything you didn't get done yesterday, especially the fishing. Get a haircut if you want it to grow back fast. A good time for home baking as yeast dough rises well at this time. The Moon squares Uranus in mid afternoon so if you feel nervous tension coming on, just be calm—it will soon go away.

June 22—The Moon goes in to Leo early this morning. A fixed fire sign so it's a poor time to plant and the fish won't bite. It is a good time to start buildings or stretch wire. Also rent or move if you want a long stay at the new residence. Any furniture bought now will give good service. The Moon trine Neptune after lunch will give you harmonious thoughts.

June 23—A good day to make lasting new friendships, probably someone you may meet at Church this morning. Also an excellent day for gourmet dining and we choose in this locality. This Sunday would be an excellent choice for a wedding ceremony. It should give a long marriage and much happiness.

June 24—The start of a pleasant day. The Moon in Virgo settles the sun at 6 a.m. so if you have any bad teeth, get them pulled today or tomorrow and the gums should heal quickly. The Moon squares Neptune at noon so be careful of telling tall tales and don't believe everything you hear at lunch. The Moon makes a good aspect to Saturn in the afternoon, so the truth will come out before evening.

June 25—You will wake up in a gay good mood this morning as the Moon forms a trine to Venus. Now would be a good time to travel or get any legal matters taken care of. If you are looking for employment, try to get an interview now. If you have been planning on buying a pet, make your choice today.

June 26—The Moon goes into the sign Libra early this morning and forms a trine to the sun at noon. A wonderful time for social activities since the fish are not biting. The Moon is in the right sign for a manicure or a haircut to bring out the beauty. Plan a party or dance for tonight and it will be well attended and enjoyed. Buy a new dress this afternoon and it will be admired at the party.

Taylor Mill Sr. Citizens

The Taylor Mill Area Senior Citizens met Tuesday, June 11, at the Brucewood Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Hilda Griffith welcomed the group and Rev. Melvin Riley of the Oak Ridge Baptist Church, who gave the devotional. The tables were beautifully decorated. Also pictures were displayed of the "Good Old Days" by Mrs. Dorothy Ballinger. Mr. Jack Albert, an engineer from Cincinnati Bell, showed a film, "Charisma of Queen," which was pictures of Cincinnati in the 1800's and before. The group met in the auditorium and sang songs of the good old days.

Those present were Ruby Armstrong, Ethel Gabbard, Caroline Kech, Ruth Kech, Lillian Bridges, Marie Rich, Cleona Brider, K.L. Galloway, Georgia Rapp, Leslie Frazier, John Bruce, Gert Reblotz, Stella Lloyd, Alice Dorman, Marion Halker, Dortha Ballinger and Jack Ebbert.

Leader Hosts 4-H Club

The Briarcrest Briddlers held their monthly meeting June 10 at the home of the 4-H leader, Mrs. Kenney.

Before the meeting, there was a lesson on halter classes. The president, Patricia Spurlock, conducted the meeting with Paula Collins reading the minutes. Refreshments were served and there was further discussion on the pre-area show. A film was shown and the meeting was adjourned.

Proud Grandmother

Mrs. Jack (Hazel) Code of Verona is a proud grandmother. Two of her grandchildren graduated from high school and both have plans to enter college.

Alvin Martin son of Jackie Martin graduated from Walton-Verona High School. He plans to go to Thomas More this summer. Connie Davis, daughter of Mrs. Joann Tatum, graduated from a high school in Atlanta, Georgia. She plans to enter Georgia Tech this fall.

Auxiliary Says Thanks

The Ladies Auxiliary of John-son-McElroy Post No. 277 wants to thank everyone that in any way helped make their Poppy Day a big success. It would be impossible to name everyone but the auxiliary would like to especially thank all the children that helped sell poppies. Without them, there would not have been such a great Poppy Day.

Last year we brought you over a billion dollars worth of furniture.
You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of furniture rode our rails in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value of furniture we shipped amounted to $1,120,000,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got almost half of all the furniture Americans buy.

Why do the furniture industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is five times as much as rail. Air shipping is almost fifteen times more expensive.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents: It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

THINK ABOUT US FOR

We've been trying for quite awhile to make the point that ours is a multiple-line agency offering a wide scope of coverages in addition to Automobile Insurance.

Maybe it's time, then, to remind you that we do provide Automobile protection plans, for both private passenger cars and commercial vehicles. In fact, you could say we're specialists in this field. We can furnish you with the Auto coverages you need plus the planning and claims services which are as important as the policy itself.

When it comes to Automobile Insurance, think about us. We'll be pleased to talk things over, so just give us a call or mail the handy coupon.

Private William S. Rose, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rose, Dry Ridge, Ky., completed a ten-week Basic Health Science Course at the Academy of Health Sciences of the U. S. Army, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Students learn to perform routine patient care and treatment duties in combat area, hospital units, dispensaries, clinics and other medical facilities. They also receive instruction in the transportation of sick and wounded by ground, air and water means.

Air Force Sgt. Rodney Robinson is home, spending a 20-day furlough with his family, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Robinson and Harold. Rod is stationed at Luke AFB, Phoenix, Arizona.

Rod Bud and Stu Cluck spent some time fighting at Barron River Res. in Western Kentucky

PCA Purchases "Cattle Holding Chute"

The Production Credit office in Walton has taken another step to further extend their services to the farmer.

A "Cattle Holding Chute" has been purchased and is available for use to any PCA member. The use and availability of the chute will hopefully cut the cost of farming capital. It can accomplish this by cutting down unnecessary and expensive investments in farm equipment. The chute will shorten the time and trouble involved in such things as dehorning, tagging and medical uses such as vaccinating, treating pink eye and many other uses.

The chute is available through a rental program set up to be used at cost only; not on a profit basis. The cost for rental is $1.00 an hour with an $8.00 maximum per day. The chute will be parked at the Walton office with easy access for hook-up.

Letter To The Editor:

I would like to have a one-year subscription to the Walton Advertiser as I can keep up with some of the news around where I used to live.

Shortage Of Buses In Kenton County

The Kenton County School system will have to begin the new school year with a temporary shortage of buses.

Superintendent Don Davis has been notified by the Kentucky Department of Education of a possible 90-day delay in the delivery of ten new buses.

Shortage of transmission parts was cited by the department which acts as purchasing agent.

In the meantime, J. R. "Bob" Walters, director of transportation, said that tentative schedules and routings will be made and the new purchases put into operation as each arrives.

Usually, he added, buses are delivered prior to school opening, at this year for August 27.

The addition of the ten buses will bring to 104, the largest school bus system in the area. Four buses are being used as spares and in the event of emergencies.

White's Tower Teacher Appreciation Luncheon

Mrs. Mary Heffman and Mrs. Virginia Noem were chairman for the Teacher Appreciation Luncheon given by the White's Tower PTA for their faculty.

The lunch was prepared by the various members of the PTA and there was a large variety of foods and pastry.

After all were seated and served, two of the teachers, Mrs. Dillion and Mrs. Crutcher were presented with going away gifts from the PTA. They will both be joining their husbands next fall—Mrs. Dillion in Lexington where her husband is completing school and Mrs. Crutcher in Florida where her husband was transferred.

The luncheon was ended after Mrs. JoAnn Scott, president of the PTA expressed the thanks of all the members for the tremendous cooperation given by the teachers in the past year.

In conclusion, a cake doctored with candles was presented to Mrs. Gerry Bishop who was celebrating her birthday that day.

A surprise birthday dinner was given in honor of Mrs. Emma Cheesman at the beautiful country home of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cheesman, on the Walton-Nicholson Road, by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Rich and family; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cheesman and family; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Collins and son and about 60 of her relatives and friends attended. A beautiful dinner was served to all. She received lots of gifts and they all wished her many more happy birthdays.

25th Anniversary

Mrs. Evelyn Colley
Mrs. Evelyn Colley, of Dublin Drive, Union, will observe the 25th anniversary of her employment with Cincinnati Bell on Thursday, July 25, 1974.

A native of Covington, she joined the telephone company in 1949 as a sorting clerk in the Accounting Department. She has been working as a Traffic Supervisor in the Engineering Department in recent years.

Mrs. Colley and her daughter have been living in Union for nearly 11 years.

"Family Together Night" — July 2, 5 P.M.

A "Family Together Night" is being planned this year for the annual membership of Owen County RECC. The meeting will be held at Grant County High School in Dry Ridge on July 2nd. As in the years past, there is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend. The official membership registration will begin at 5:00 o'clock p.m. EDT, with the Annual Meeting. A program will get under way at 7:00 EDT. An important business session will be held, entertainment will be supplied, a new Miss "Owen County RECC" will be crowned, and door prizes will be given away.

LATE PAPER?

We have had several calls lately of subscriber's paper being delivered late in the week.

We have no explanation for this as the papers are mailed on Wednesday and should be delivered locally (All Northern Kentucky especially) on Thursday.

Check your name and address stamped on the paper. If it is spelled incorrectly or has insufficient street address, this could cause a delay. Otherwise it must be caused by large mail volume or some other reason.

Continue to let us know if your paper is not delivered on time and we will check further into the matter.

Golden Anniversary Of Verona Alumni

On June 15th, the Alumni Association of the former Verona High School met in the Walton-Verona Elementary School to celebrate their Fiftieth (50th) Anniversary. This organization came into existence in 1924, when a class of starry-eyed seniors graduated from the old high school and went out into the world, but thinking it would be nice to meet once a year to reminisce and renew old acquaintances.

Simon Kenton FHA

Alumnae Met June 13th
Simon Kenton FHA Alumnae held its regular monthly meeting on June 13th at the RECC building with eleven members and one guest present.

The annual "White Elephant" sale was the highlight of the meeting. Many items were sold in auction fashion by Judy Scholier. The club was pleased to receive $24.00 from the auction of many miscellaneous items.

The hostess, Carol Reid, made a White Elephant cake to serve with jello as dessert along with an orange cake by Martha Lawless. These refreshments were enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be July 11th with Ms. Vera Kline as guest speaker to talk on Handwriting Analysis. Past FHA members are invited to attend and bring a guest. This should prove to be an interesting meeting.

Balance Of Trade

Last year, the U.S. achieved its first year's balance of trade since 1970—due in large part to our agricultural exports.

The record $9.3 billion surplus in farm trade is the equivalent of our oil imports for calendar 1973.

About one-fifth of our net farm income came from agricultural exports in fiscal 1973—and about one-half of the increase in net farm income over fiscal 1972 was a result of farm exports.

With each dollar increase in farm exports generating $2.26 of business in the economy, agricultural exports were responsible for generating an estimated $26.8 billion in business activity in fiscal 1973. Of that, less than half—$11.7 billion—occurred in the farm sector.

The food processing sector alone received more than a $4.9 billion boost; the transportation sector, $1.7 billion; and the wholesale and retail sector, $1.8 billion.

In fiscal 1973, farm exports provided directly or indirectly more than 450,000 non-farm jobs in the service sector, manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, food processing, and transportation and warehousing.

Road Improvement

Governor W. H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Billy Paxton encouraged an improvement in Boone County.

The project as authorized provides for blacktop resurfacing of 0.9 mile of the Watson Drive-Marydale Road, beginning at the junction of Ky. 238 and extending southwest 0.9 mile.

Jehovah's Witnesses

Open Convention Today

All roads lead to Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati for the opening of the "Divine Purpose" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, Convention officials expect 32,000 delegates to attend the four-day assembly.

Linley Rockwell, convention manager, says everything is in readiness for the official opening at 9:55 a.m. on Thursday, June 27.

Permanent chairman Richard Thompson of Lexington, Ky. will open the convention speaking on the subject "Called Out of Darkness into His Wonderful Light."

Four-Day Celebration In Owen County, Ky.

History will be reflected in the sounds of ducks quacking as Owen County begins a four-day Fourth July 47 with a duck race.

The dash of the ducks, a reenactment of a race of the Owen County citizens who took place 30 years ago in Owen County, will be the highlight of an old-fashioned picnic to be held on July 4 at the high school beginning at 10:00 a.m.

The duck race is open to anyone who wants to enter although Owen County citizens will supply their own ducks. There is a $5.00 entry fee and a first place prize of $50.00.

A bicycle race, various competitive games, square dancers and a concert of bluegrass music by the McClain Family Band at 8:00 p.m. will round out the day.

July 5 will feature arts and crafts displays including candle-making, quilting, knitting, spinning, crocheting, jewelry making, leathercraft and printing.

Mrs. Nellie Meadows, who did Kentucky's official Bicentennial painting, will join local artists in a show.

Entertainment will be provided all day long on the courthouse square.

A fashion review called a "Pageant of Kentucky Memories" tracing the history of Kentucky dress will be held that evening.

SATURDAY

The festivities will continue Saturday night with a concert by the "Sweet Adelines." This concert, to begin at 8:00 p.m. will be held at the high school.

SUNDAY

The celebration will close Sunday with "Religious Emphasis Day" featuring an all-county worship service at the high school followed by an open house beginning at 2:00 p.m. at the New Liberty churches.

For more information on this four-day event, contact Mrs. Betty Riley, phone 502-494-3925 or the Owen County Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 188, Owen County, Kentucky 40359.

Each member is urged to attend. Mabel Maddox and Margaret Finnell plan to tell some of the highlights of their trip to Spain.

Piner Clever Clovers 4-H Club Members Plant Flowers

The June meeting of the Piner Clever Clovers was held at the Piner-Fiskburg Fire House with Cherie and Doug Smith as the hosts. Dexter LaFollette called the meeting to order in the absence of the president. Pledges were led by Cindy Parker and two songs, "Guns" and "Mine Eyes Have Seen The Glory."

Roll call was answered by naming something to do during the summer.

Cindy Parker and Dawn Morehead received blue ribbons on their projects.

The projects were discussed and then it was decided to have a picnic on June 24th to work on the electric projects. July 30th is pre-judging day for the 4-H projects.

Recently the club met and planted several kinds of flowers in front of the fire house.

For the months of June and July, the club will be holding a "paper drive." If you have any newspapers or magazines, please call 356-2934. Your help in this project will be greatly appreciated.

Members present were Dexter LaFollette, Cindy Parker, Doug Smith, Cherie Smith, and leader, Mrs. LaFollette.

Day Camp Scheduled By Walton First Baptist

Walton First Baptist Church will sponsor a Day Camp again this year for children including those who have just completed grade 8. The weeks of July 8 and July 15 have been scheduled for the camp which will meet often at Big Bone Lick State Park.

In order to secure materials and workmen, the church requests you let them know now if your child will attend.

Don't Forget The Carnival

Don't forget the Muscular Dystrophy Carnival this weekend at the WV State Fair. The hours on Friday and Saturday are 1:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Hotdogs, soft drinks, games and fun for everyone awaits you.

Tuesday, August 27th First Day Of Kenton Classes

Kenton County school children will return to class on Tuesday, August 27 with the first holiday, Labor Day less than a week later.

The school calendar was presented to the Board of Education by Superintendent Don Davis. Teachers will return to their desks on August 23 for orientation. An in-service training day is set for August 26.

There will be a two-day Thanksgiving holiday and the Christmas recess will begin at the end of the school year, December 20. Students return to school January 6.

Supt. Davis told board members the schedule was made flexible so that make-up days would be available in the event of bad weather forcing school closing.

THINK ABOUT US FOR

We've been trying for quite awhile to make the point that ours is a multiple-line agency offering a wide scope of coverages in addition to Automobile Insurance.

Maybe it's time, then, to remind you that we do provide Automobile protection plans, for both private passenger cars and commercial vehicles. In fact, you could say we're specialists in this field. We can furnish you with the Auto coverages you need plus the planning and claims services which are as important as the policy itself.

When it comes to Automobile Insurance, think about us. We'll be pleased to talk things over, so just give us a call or mail the handy coupon.

Luxury On Wheels

Public transportation can be uncrowded, clean, and efficient. It can even be luxurious.

This spring the federal government unwrapped a model of the "bus of the future." The sleek, soft-riding vehicle sported huge panoramic windows, which were three feet high and ran the entire length of the bus. Doors were plenty wide enough to enter comfortably. And the floor was only 17 inches above the curb, half as high as in standard buses, making it faster and easier to board as well as less of a hassle for elderly and disabled people.

According to riders, the trip was quiet and soft, a bit bumpier than even rail commuter trains but smooth enough to read newspapers and enjoy it. In addition to comfortable, upholstered seats, there was wall-to-wall carpeting. Not a bad way to go.

Major companies submitted designs for the model, the first new bus design in this country in more than 15 years. It took three years and $26 million to finance the project.

For one year, the bus will be driven hard in the Arizona desert. And it will face the hazards of the big city too. Identical models will be sent to New York, Miami, Seattle, and Kansas City this summer. The buses, which won't cost much more than current models, probably won't be ready for the boarding public until 1977. Hopes are that they will lure motorists away from their cars and cut down air pollution.

Car exhaust is the major contributor to polluted air. And improved public transportation can help lick the pollution problem. Decreasing the number of cars on the road—by organizing car pools or substituting bicycles whenever possible—is another way to attack the problem.

SHOWBOAT FOLLIES '74

"Showboat Follies '74," opened since June 18th on the Showboat Majestic can be termed a salute to the Broadway Musical—the Broadway that was and the Broadway that is. Starting with the turn of the century, the Showboat Bunch will recreate that joyous era of Cohen, Gerashwin and Irving Berlin. Songs and dances chosen from their most famous shows will recall many old memories and prepare the ground for our brief highlights of that first true landmark of musical theater history, "Showboat."

Arriving in our own time, the musicals of Rogers and Hammerstein are represented with music and dances from "Oklahoma," "South Pacific" and "Carousel." The grand finale is a fast paced song and dance collage of great shows of modern Musical Theater, including "Promises, Promises," "My Fair Lady," "Charlie Brown," "Gypsy," "Grease," "Oliver" and a rousing host of others.

Showboat theater is musical theater and this collection of time honored songs and dances will provide entertainment for a summer evening long to be remembered.

"Showboat Follies '74" runs at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings through August 21 except July 2, 3, 30 and 31. For ticket information and reservations, call the Showboat box office at 241-6550.

Letter To The Editor:

Dear Editor:

After: reading an article in the Kentucky Post today, I feel the citizens of Walton, who have been so kind to my family and I, have the right to know why I was forced to resign my position as Water Superintendent.

Walton city councilman, Hess Vest stated, that I had accepted the "specifications" set by the council, then a week later resigned for "unknown reasons."

This is only part true. After consideration of the 26 general rules and guide lines given me, I found 12 to be both questionable and objectionable.

To these 12 items, I made a list of comments for each item. Councilman Kyle Nicholson read my list, and asked if I would reconsider resigning if certain rules were rescinded by council and that he agreed with me.

The list was given to my immediate superior, the Chairman of the Water and Sewer Committee, Councilman Roscoe Denny.

Mr. Denny discussed the situation with council the 3rd of May, nine days after my receipt of the new general rules and guide lines.

My resignation was accepted without further negotiation, although I offered to stay until a certified operator could be obtained to replace me.

The basic problem was interference by Councilmen Hess Vest and Bryon "Butch" Kent, with the duties and operations of an operator, who was certified by the State Dept. of Health, Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Secondly, lack of support and co-operation by other members of the administration.

My only hope now, is that the people obtain through its elected officials, an operator to maintain their water system, who is certified by the State and that he not be dictated to by city officials other than those on the Water and Sewer Committee.

Then only in an administrative capacity unless they have a greater knowledge of Water Plant Operation or a higher license rating than he.

With deep regret,
Willard L. Rowley

On entering the barber shop, the barber remarked to his customer: "Your hair needs cutting badly." Settling himself into the barber's chair, the customer immediately exclaimed: "It does not, it needs cutting nicely. You cut it badly last time I was in here."

It has never been denied, that two heads are better than one, but who can afford the haircut?

The hippie, with an overgrowth of brush and fuzz on head and face, heard that hair is almost all protein, that protein is a nutritional value and essential to the diet, felt he had made two great discoveries... a built in health spa, and a way to stay in style.

Cold cash can be saved

Refrigerators and freezers serve you day and night, so they offer real opportunities to save. Filled to capacity, but not overfilled, a freezer or refrigerator runs most economically. But be sure your unit is not set to run colder than is necessary. The manufacturer's recommendations can save you energy and money.

Carefully check the seal around all doors. Air leaks cause the unit to overwork, wasting electricity and money. Obviously, you save most if your unit is the right size for your family.

COMMISSIONER BUTLER LOOKS AT Agriculture

Wendell P. Butler
Commissioner of Agriculture

Identification is a key tool in livestock health programs, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture has proposed regulations which would require the identification of all swine being shipped across state lines.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture through its Division of Livestock Sanitation has had a program for the identification of breeding stock and feeder pigs for a number of years. Under the USDA proposal, the only change for Kentucky would be the identification of slaughter hogs.

Our identification program has proven real effective since it was initiated. Without this program, we would have had considerable trouble during the hog cholera outbreak a couple of years ago. The identification program allows health officials to trace the farm of origin of an animal, which is an important step in the disease control operation.

If an animal is found to be sick and its point of origin can be determined through an ear tag or a tattoo, then the farm can be checked for other animals that might also be infected. On the other hand, if there is no way to determine the farm from which the animal was sold, then additional infection might go undetected for a period of time, or prove a source of infection to clean herds.

Under the proposal of officials of the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, interstate shipping rules would require slaughter hogs to be identified with an approved tattoo. Slaughter codes have been developed by the USDA which would be assigned to owners, marketing agencies, dealers, meat packers and other persons upon application to state and federal livestock health officials.

As is the case with proposed regulations, interested persons can file written views or comments. They should be sent to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA, Federal Building, Hyattsville, Maryland.

Indianapolis Success Makes Vern Rapp Happy

Vern Rapp isn't calling the Indianapolis team the best in the American Association, but produces a broad smile when he says "we have one of the finest teams in the league".

Rapp is the manager at Indianapolis, the Cincinnati Reds top farm team, where his job is to prepare his players for a promotion to Riverfront Stadium.

The Indians have overcome a slow start and have won 15 of their last 19 games (including one 10-game win streak) to hold a record of 34-24. They led the Eastern Division standings of the A-A by four games going into last week's series with Wichita.

Beechgrove Homemakers

Only fourteen members attended the June 20th meeting of the Beechgrove Homemakers which was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ann Andrews with Mrs. Hazel Kummer as co-hostess.

"Prayer Answered" was the devotional topic as read by Mrs. Minnie Letcher. She also gave this additional information—"Quiet people are not the only ones who don't say much."

Mrs. Pat Blanton presided over the meeting and did remarkably well considering all the business that had to be conducted.

A lesson "Today's Entertaining" was given by Betty Skelton. It is enlightening as to what should be planned—the type of party, guests, menus, etc., so the hostess can enjoy the party as much as the guests.

A special guest, Steve Ziegler, from the American Cancer Society showed a film pertaining to breast cancer. Afterwards he answered numerous questions of the group.

The present officers will remain in office for another year. Members present were Ruth A. Andrews, Margaret Dickson, Alice McHale, Loretta Stierling, Bonnie Mutsch, Zola Floyd, Hazel Kummer, Betty Skelton, Minnie Letcher, Ruth Powers, Ann Woising, Ruth Kelly, Pat Blanton and Carrie Hall.

A picnic for the members and their families is planned at Leroy Kummer's on August 11th.

It was decided to have "Foil Art" for the Christmas exhibit.

The next meeting will be on September 18th at the home of Mrs. Pat Blanton with Hazel Kummer as co-hostess.

The club members wish to say thanks to those who contributed coupons for Riverside Good Council School.

ABSOLUTE AUCTION

SATURDAY, JULY 6th — 1:30 P.M.

KNIGHT'S HARDWARE STORE BUILDING ON DIXIE HIGHWAY, U.S. 25, MAIN STREET
DRY RIDGE, KENTUCKY, GRANT COUNTY
JUST EAST OFF DRY RIDGE EXIT I-75.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Knight have decided to quit the hardware store business and devote their full time to the contracting business and have signed an absolute auction contract with us to sell this

28' x 52' two-story buff brick building with full poured basement on lot 47' x 147'.

First floor has large store room (all shelving will stay) front & rear entrance, large storage area in basement.

P.S.—This building is suitable for any business. Second floor has newly remodeled 3-bedroom modern apartment with large eat-in kitchen, double bowl sink with ceramic top. All the floors are covered with in-laid linoleum and wall-to-wall carpeting. Building is heated with natural gas hot water heating system.

There is a front and back stairway and this beautiful apartment could be rented separately from the store. Parking area in rear.

If the buyer of this building wants to maintain a hardware store here, Mr. and Mrs. Knight will give them a flat price on stock and equipment on the day of the sale. But we are selling just the building at auction and not the stock and equipment.

Come, buy this building — live on the second floor and have you a business on the first floor in a fast growing community.

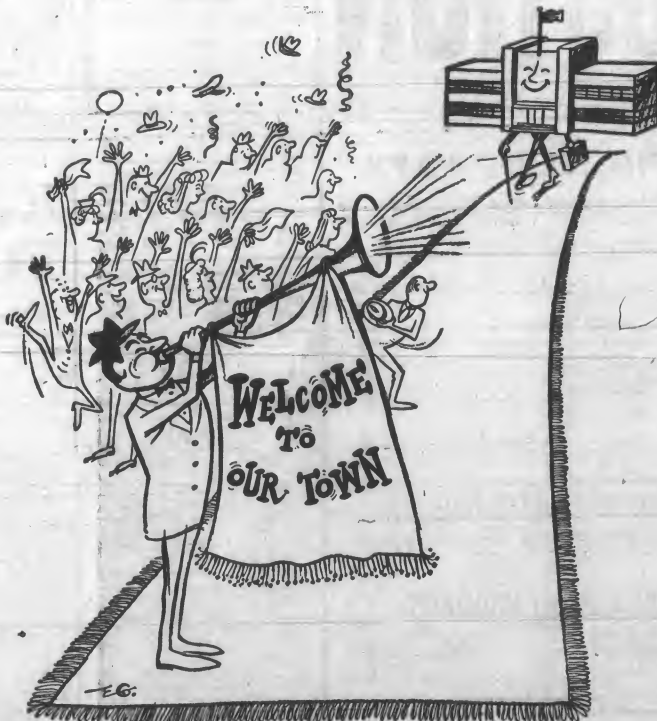

TERMS—20% down day of sale. Balance 30 days.

It's everybody's job!

BRINGING NEW INDUSTRIES to a community and keeping them happy after they get there is everybody's job. No one man or organization can do it alone.

Community leaders help by initiating and carrying out long-range civic policies and programs attractive to industry. Owners and managers of existing plants help by welcoming industrial newcomers and making them feel at home. Men and women workers help by showing their willingness to do a full day's work for a fair day's pay.

Yes, and Southern Railway helps, too! Southern's Industrial Development Department constantly seeks new industries for available plant sites. Throughout the year, our national advertising urges industrialists to "Look South" for new and greater opportunities. And we do our best to provide an ever-better, low-cost mass transportation service, so vital to the modern industrial South.

All of this effort helps all of us. For a community's economic growth does more than provide new and bigger job opportunities. It quickly spreads out in all directions to benefit men and women in almost every type of service, trade and profession.

Save On Income Tax—Pay Working Children

You may be able to save on income taxes by paying your children for work they do on your farm. That is pointed out by Stephen Q. Allen, extension farm management specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"You should consider paying reasonable wages to your children for work they actually do," says Allen. "Such payments are deductible farm expenses so long as there is a true employer-employee relationship."

In order to establish such a relationship, you should assign your children definite jobs or responsibilities, agree on wages, and pay the children by check as you would any other employee.

Wages paid by parents to children who are under 21 years of age are not subject to Social Security tax, according to Allen. Also, these wages are not counted on the child's Social Security record.

A child under 19 years of age or one who is regularly enrolled in school may still be counted as a dependent on his parent's tax return as long as the parent pays over half of the child's support. Of course, a child who earns more than $2,050 a year may have to file a tax return of his own, notes Allen. Even so, this makes it possible for two personal exemptions to be claimed for him. The child can claim his own exemption when he files his return and his father can claim an exemption by including the child as a dependent.

Rules regarding a child filing a tax return may be different when a child has unearned income (rent, interest, dividends, etc.), or is self-employed—Allen explains.

Energy Progress Report—IRS

During Internal Revenue Service administration of petroleum price controls in Kentucky, 341 price rollbacks were obtained and $282,000 in overcharges were refunded in the form of lower prices to area motorists and other state petroleum users, Paul Niederecker said. He is district director.

In a final report on IRS involvement in the energy program, he also said that from December 1, 1973 through June 14, 1974, the IRS received 532 price complaints and investigated more than 115 gasoline and diesel fuel retailers, home heating oil firms, and propane distributors finding 341 price violations.

Mr. Niederecker emphasized that although the IRS will no longer participate in the energy program, petroleum price controls remain in effect and that duties formerly performed by IRS will be assumed by the Federal Energy Administration on July 1. Persons with inquiries on the energy program or who wish to report an alleged energy violation may call the FEA Offices in Louisville (502-582-5713) and in Lexington (606-252-2706) or write: Federal Energy Administration, Room 553, 600 Federal Place, Louisville, Ky. 40202.

TERMITES How To Cope With Them

Termites or white ants resemble true ants in general appearance, but the two can be distinguished by comparing them. There are four ways to tell termites from ants: (1) The antennae of the termite is not elbowed. (2) The two pair of wings of the termite are of equal length. (3) The termite's waist is thick. Termites, like ants, are social insects that live in colonies which may contain thousands of individuals. The colony is a complex society made up of three castes: workers, soldiers, and reproductives. Workers and soldiers are wingless and stay within the colony. They are only seen when the colony is broken into. Winged termites are mature males and females that are often seen when they swarm from the nest at certain times of the year.

A colony usually begins from a single pair of winged reproductives. They find each other flying in the air, drop to the ground, shed their wings, and then crawl off to a suitable place underground to start a new colony. For the first couple of years, the female termite, or queen, produces only workers. As the colony gets larger, soldiers will also be produced. When the colony is sufficiently large, winged reproductives will be produced. The winged forms are seldom numerous in a colony, because they swarm from the colony periodically to start new colonies. Most swarming occurs in early spring in Boone County. Sometimes a new colony can be established by fragmentation. That is, a colony may become large and sprawling; then if something happens to break the connection between distant parts of the colony, the separated parts begin to function as independent colonies.

A mated pair of termites always begins its colony in wood that is on, or in, the soil. When the colony has used up this wood, it may move into wood that is not in direct contact with the soil. Even though house wood above ground may be infested, the colony has to have contact with the soil. The means of contact may be foundation cracks, or openings, or earthen tubes that the termites build. The passageways from soil to above ground wood are protected from open air, because neither the workers nor soldiers can live in open, dry air very long. Termite tubes may be built inside the hollows of cinder blocks, or exposed against foundation walls, or they may rise from the soil unsupported. If the contact between soil and wood is broken, the part of the colony in the above-ground wood may survive for a while, if the wood is damp. Usually the isolated part of the colony dies out if it cannot re-establish contact with the soil.

The Crusaders Class of the Walton Christian Church will have its annual ice cream social on Saturday, beginning at 4:00 on the church lawn. Each freezer will be tested and approved before being released for consumption.

Work on the laying of a water line from Boone Lake to the Walton reservoir is progressing nicely. All preliminary work has been completed, the pump is at the lake and it is hoped pumping will start next week, which will be none too soon, as the reservoir is quite low.

The Vacation Bible School of the Independence Baptist Church had their commencement on Friday evening, followed by an even-gistic message from the pastor, Bro. Jolly. The enrollment was 211 with an average attendance of 181.

Beginning this Saturday, a new type of entertainment will be offered at Verona Lake Ranch, featuring the Ziegler Follies, under the direction of Bob Ziegler. This major vaudeville attraction will be the biggest song and dance follies ever produced at Verona Lake Ranch, (also known as K.I.O. Ranch.)

A pillow slip social will be given by the Firemen's Auxiliary at the City Building on Saturday.

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

—by—

Joe Claxton

Farmers may have trouble this year tying up a valuable crop.

The crop is hay, and making hay is big business. Cash receipts from farm marketing of hay tallied $767 million in 1972 and were probably considerably higher in 1973.

But without the twine that binds—be it natural fibers or man-made—or without wire, hay farmers couldn't get it all together. And, recent changes in world production, demand, imports, new fiber uses, and prices point to a shortage of baled twine for the 1974 hay season.

Hay fed on the farm where grown is mostly baled with twine. Hay grown for commercial sale is usually baled with wire. Either way, hay farmers will be walking a tightrope in getting their binding material in 1974.

The twine comes mainly from imported sisal of the cactus family, and world sisal production has been stringy in recent years. Also, world stocks are negligible at a time when the world demand for sisal products is strong.

In the U. S., the imported twine supply for 1974 will shrink by an estimated 15 to 20 percent. There is little to indicate that other exporting countries can stretch their twine supplies to help meet our shortfall.

The higher price for natural twine may stimulate production of synthetics. But synthetics production has its drawbacks, including the shortage of petroleum needed to make synthetic twine.

GOD'S REDEEMING GRACE — (Ephesians 1)(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)
(EPHESIANS 1:1-14)

When Clara Barton was engaged in Red Cross work in Cuba, during the Spanish-American War, Col. Theodore Roosevelt came to her desiring to buy some delicacies for the sick and wounded men under his command. His request was refused. Roosevelt was troubled: he loved his men, and was prepared to pay for the supplies out of his own pocket. "How can I get these things?" he asked. "I must have proper food for my sick men!" The surgeon in charge of the Red Cross Headquarters answered, "Just ask for them, Colonel. 'Oh,' said the Colonel, 'I'll do you for that.' And he got them at once; but you notice that he got them through grace, and not through purchase."

God's salvation along with all of His blessings cannot be obtained by anything man can do. This letter follows the pattern and practices of letter writing in Grace to be grate must be God's Paul's day. The theme of the free gift to underserving man. The writer comes first. The writer establishes his authority to speak to his readers. He is an apostle of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ has called and sent Paul to be His spokesman.

The letter is addressed to the saints. The saints are the people who are dedicated to Christ and are separated to the service of Christ. Paul further identifies them as the "faithful in Christ Jesus."

"Grace" is God's unmerited and unearned favor bestowed upon the underserving human race.

"Peace" is the condition of the human heart after God's grace has done its work.

What is the purpose of God's work in the human heart? God has chosen His people in love. What is there left for man to do except to praise God for such grace? Since God chose His people before the foundation of the world, this would exclude merit. One of the primary teachings of election is that God has taken the initiative in man's salvation.

One must not lose sight of God's purpose in election, "That we should be holy and without blame before him in love." God marked us off (the meaning of predestined) unto the adoption of His children. He did this by the sacrifice of His Son Jesus Christ. This was all done to the praise of His glorious grace. To God be the glory!

THE PRICE
In Jesus Christ we have redemption. The meaning or redemption as used here is a deliverance from enslavement. The children of Israel were in bondage in Egypt. He did not pay Egypt a price for them. God does not pay Satan a price for sinners. There is a price, but it is the price in the sense of a sacrifice.

The price of man's redemption was the shed blood of God's Son. This redemption includes the forgiveness of our sins according to the wealth of God's grace. God has lavished His grace upon us. This abundant supply of grace confers upon us a wisdom and an understanding of His will.

God's will can be known only as God reveals it to man. This is the meaning of the word "mystery". It means something which was hidden but now revealed or made open.

In verse 10 the writer speaks of "the dispensation of the fulness of times." This is a reference to all that God has planned and purposed before time and for all time. He is referring to that which God purposed in His redemptive work in Christ.

THE PROCESS
By what process does God accomplish His purpose in human lives? First of all, the writer tells us that it was determined by the decision of God's will. God willed our right standing with Him. In verse 12 Paul probably refers to the Jews, including himself, who had been among the first to set their hopes on Christ. In this they had been appointed to live for the praise of His glory. This was not only true for the Jews but also for the Gentiles.

The process, chosen by God, was that man should "hear the word of truth." This was the gospel as preached by Paul and his companions. The next step in the process was man's response to God's offer of salvation, "in whom ye also trusted." There must be a trustful acceptance of Jesus Christ as God's revealed Saviour of men.

Then came the work of the Holy Spirit. Of course it was the work of the Holy Spirit which enabled them to grasp the truth of the gospel. Now that they have accepted the truth the Holy Spirit seals them. The seal of the Holy Spirit is the guarantee that the transaction has been accomplished. The seal of the Holy Spirit is as the down payment on the eternal inheritance. The believer has a guarantee written by God the Father, in the blood of God the Son, and stamped with the seal of God the Holy Spirit! This is all to the praise of His glory. So let it be!

A CASE OF BALANCE

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rocks are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place. The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

Build your future.
Learn a trade.

Let's be practical. To build a future, you need a trade. And there are over 300 different skills you can learn in the Navy. You also get on-the-job training to back up your classroom work. And you get paid for learning. Electronics, construction work, or mechanics, just to name a few. Of course, you're not getting something for nothing; you EARN it. You gotta have what it takes to begin with, then measure up to high Navy standards, and show a willingness to do your share of it, housekeeping chores.

The opportunity is for real . . . and so are we.

"THE FRIENDLY BANK"

Get Ready To Can

By Nancy Norman

Canning preparation should start about the same time as your gardening endeavors for you to maximize canning efficiency and enjoyment.

The first step involved would be to decide the kinds and amounts of fruits and vegetables that you want to can. An important consideration is to plant or choose varieties suitable for the method you plan to use in preservation. "Vegetable Varieties in Kentucky", HO-8, is available at your local County Extension Service and is a good guide to follow.

Another consideration is to plan in advance what your family's needs will be. One easy way to calculate this is to figure how much of a given product you would use in one week and then multiply that by the number of weeks you would use it. For example, if you would use 2 quarts of green beans a week for 35 weeks, plan to can only 70 quarts of beans. Food loses texture, color, and flavor appeal if stored for more than a year.

Plan to preserve a variety of produce rather than only two or three products. Your family will appreciate the selection even more next winter. Always preserve food when it is at its peak of quality.

You need to check supplies and equipment, too.

Jars and lids: Use only those manufactured for use in home canning because they are designed to give a correct seal and have the strength to withstand temperature and pressure during processing and cooling. Last summer a shortage of jars existed because of a tight supply of soda ash, a basic material in the manufacture of glass. Glass jars are expected to be relatively tight in supply through 1975. However, don't use baby food jars, mayonnaise jars, very old canning jars or jars with nicks, dents, cracks, or rust. Use clean new rings for one-piece lid type and new metal lids with sealing compound for the two-piece lid.

Select the jar size that most nearly provides meal-sized portions for your family. Certain foods require specific sized jars. For example, corn is usually canned only in pint containers. Half gallon jars should not be used for any food because it is difficult to reach the recommend temperature in the center of the jar.

Canners: It is important to choose the right canner for each food. For fruits, tomatoes, and pickled vegetables, you will need a boiling water bath canner. The canner must have about a two-four inch clearance above the jars, a tight-fitting lid, and a rack in the bottom.

Low acid foods (meats, fish, and common vegetables) require a temperature higher than boiling water for safe processing. A pressure canner permits this and should always be used. Check the rubber gasket on old canners as it may need replacing. Two steam gauges may need to be checked periodically for accuracy, too.

Plan early to space the canning season over several weeks. Small plantings every two weeks are much more manageable than one big crop of vegetables.

The most important preparation you can do is to get up-to-date scientific instructions. Fill the books your mother used under "nostalgia" and collect your own set of pamphlets.

The local Extension Service, which has Land-Grant University and U.S.D.A. publications, will supply you with the pamphlets or use those published by equipment manufacturers. Information concerning the latest techniques and equipment often varies from that of several years ago due to technological advancement.

Remember that there are no safe short cuts in canning. Avoid all "trick" methods such as aspirin canning. Be wary of word-of-mouth recommendations unless they are based on scientific facts.

Your local County Extension Office has many preservation leaflets. "Home Canning and Fruits and Vegetables," Circular 440-B, "Making Pickles and Relishes," Circular 464-B, and "Jellies, Jams, Preserves, and Marmalades," Circular 447, are some that you may want to pick up or call and have sent to you. Your Boone County Extension Office is located in Burlington in the Reaker Annex and the phone number is 586-6101, extension 17. The County Extension Agent for Home Economics will be glad to answer specific questions.

CARD OF THANKS—

Proclamation BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE Commonwealth of Kentucky

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has declared the week of June 30 through July 6, 1974, as National Safe Boating Week; and,

WHEREAS, Kentucky, having more miles of navigable streams than any of the 48 contiguous states, is expected to attract more than 1,500,000 recreational boaters to its lakes, rivers and streams during the 1974 boating season; and,

WHEREAS, The people of this state can set a safe boating example by remembering that overloading, improper loading, speeding, drinking and careless driving are the chief causes of boating accidents each year which lead to a tragic loss of lives and needless destruction of property on our waterways;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WENDELL H. FORD, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim the week of June 30 through July 6, 1974, as in Kentucky, and urge all citizens of this Commonwealth to make Kentucky's waterways as safe and as accident free as possible during 1974.

DONE AT THE CAPITOL, in the City of Frankfort, this the 26th day of June, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred Seventy-Four and in the year of the Commonwealth the One Hundred Eighty-Third.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

JUNE 27—One of the best days of the month to collect outstanding debts. The morning hours would be best, and you may be in for some pleasant surprises. The afternoon would be a good time to buy new shoes or clothing if you want a good fit and the latest styles. If you would rather stay home this is a good day for baking or house cleaning.

JUNE 28—The Moon goes into Scorpio in mid-morning so the fish will start biting in the afternoon and stay hungry until Sunday evening. Drive extra careful during the morning hours as the Moon makes a square aspect to Mars and it might make the driver in the other car a little reckless. If you have not gotten all your garden planted, the afternoon would be a good time to plant any late above ground crops.

JUNE 29—You will awake mentally alert this morning and probably have fishing on your mind, with your garden all planted, why not have some fun? Anyone having an auction or yard sale should do well this afternoon. With the good aspects to Jupiter, you are in for a jovial good time this Saturday afternoon.

JUNE 30—With the Sun in aspect to Saturn this morning, your thought will turn to the elderly. What a wonderful day to do some older person kindness. The minister will be in rare form today with the Sun making an aspect to mental Mercury at midday. His message should be very enlightening. The fish will stop biting before dark, so no use planning to stay late as the Moon goes into the fire sign Sagittarius at 6:49 this evening.

JULY 1—A good time to get teeth pulled so the gums will heal quickly and you won't be bothered with aches over the holiday. With the Moon in opposition to Venus this morning, don't expect too much out of your friends or relatives before lunch. Just take it easy today and start planning on a big fourth of July.

SOYBEAN FEED—

The soybean—a poor but deserving immigrant from Asia—has hit it big in the New World.

The origins of the soybean are oriental, and more than 4,000 years ago it was one of the five sacred grains of China. But until recently, many U.S. farmers considered the soybean little more than a cover crop, to be planted and then plowed under to restore the soil.

In the last 10 years, things have changed. Today the soybean has achieved real status—everyone in the world seems to want soybeans, and if you were fortunate enough to have 2,000 bushels of them last June, you would have grossed $24,000.00.

Harvested acreage in the United States has more than doubled since 1960, and the soybean is now the farmer's leading cash crop.

FEED INTO FOOD

The reason for this meteoric rise to fame of the humble soybean is basic. The expansion of flocks and herds of sheep and cattle throughout the world in recent years has been great. The need for high protein animal feed—for which soybeans are a prime source—has risen accordingly. As worldwide demand for animal protein grows, a continuing strain will be placed on the resources necessary to produce this essential nutrient.

One offshoot has been closer scrutiny of the soybean as more than just an animal feed. Researchers are finding that the protein-packed bean has been much to recommend it as human food in its own right.

Economists now estimate that about 85% of all soybean meal used domestically is fed to livestock. Most of the rest is either exported or used for industrial purposes, with less than 1% going into human food. The utilization of the beans we export is not too different. Almost all the meal is still used for animal feed.

However, predictions are that more and more meal will be used in food products. In fact, food specialists point to soy protein-based foods as one of the most promising areas of nutritional research.

THE NEW BURLINGTON TELEPHONE SWITCHING OFFICE, BULLITTSVILLE RD.

Cincinnati Bell placed in service major improvements in telephone service for customers in Boone County in the communities of Burlington and Hebron at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, June 23.

These improvements include a new telephone building on Bullittsville Road; modern telephone switching equipment inside the building and the necessary outside telephone cables, costing in excess of $2.8 million. The building is located on a 5-acre tract of land.

Four improvements will be immediately noticeable:

—A different more melodious dial tone.

—Elimination of the need to dial the number "2" before dialing a local call.

—For toll or long distance calls it no longer will be necessary to dial the 3 digit Direct Distance Dialing access code.

—Automatic number identification eliminates the need to give your number to an operator on direct dialed calls.

Complete dialing instructions have been mailed to all customers and also are listed in the 1974-75 telephone directory.

Burlington and Hebron customers also will have available the option of Touch Tone telephoning—the push button method of placing a telephone call. This service is available for a nominal monthly charge.

Cincinnati Bell has been working for more than two years to bring this improved telephone service to the two areas.

As a part of the general improvement of telephone service, Cincinnati Bell installed more than 20 miles of new telephone cable, including the placement of 5,000 feet of underground conduit along the Bullittsville Road from the new switching office to Kentucky 18.

Man, Woman Die In Early Morning Accident

Vehicles Collide On I-71 In Heavy Fog

A 31-year old Warsaw woman and a 38-year old man from Cleveland, Ohio lost their lives in a grinding two-car near head on crash on I-71 Saturday morning at just past 1:30 a.m. The auto driven by Mrs. Delores Diane Warren, reportedly crossed the median strip while traveling east and struck the auto driven by Amos Young, Sr. He was killed instantly and she died Saturday evening at St. Elizabeth Hospital of multiple fractures and internal injury.

Riding with Mrs. Warren was William "Mike" Rider, 25, also of Warsaw, Kentucky. He sustained a possible hip injury and head lacerations. His condition was listed as fair by hospital spokesman.

Passengers in the Young auto were Clint Young, a brother, and Amos Jr., 12, and Anthony, 13, who suffered a broken femur and multiple cuts and abrasions. Little M. Hunter, 54, and Richard Johnson, both of Cleveland were also injured, and were in fair condition.

Walton Rescue Squad dispatched four vehicles and ten members to the scene who took four of the injured to the hospital and the body of Mr. Young to the Stith Funeral Home. Three of the injured were transported in private ambulances.

When the demolished vehicles could be removed from the road, the glass and debris was flushed from the area by a Walton Fire truck. Traffic flow was reported extra heavy for that evening and was backed up all the way to I-75 before it could be allowed through.

The accident occurred in a valley just about a mile from the Verona interchange in the west bound lane.

Heavy fog hampered emergency vehicles in their efforts to reach the hospital with those who were critically injured.

2-Car Accident Puts Two Men In Hospital

ON FRIDAY MORNING AT ABOUT 12:30, A TWO-CAR ACCIDENT ON U.S. 25, SOUTH OF WALTON SENT TWO MEN TO A HOSPITAL WITH MULTIPLE HEAD AND BODY INJURIES. Injured were Timothy Alexander Williams, 26, of Butler. He received a large cut on his upper lip, a knee laceration and many small cuts and scrapes. Ricky Sasher, 20, R-1, Walton, had a deep scalp laceration and both hands and arms were cut and bruised. Both autos were demolished, one of them burned.

These men were rushed to the emergency ward of St. Elizabeth Hospital by the Walton Life Squad.

THE LATE MODEL CAR DRIVEN BY MRS. WARREN

THE 1968 FORD TORINO DRIVEN BY MR. YOUNG

What's Going On?

Al Martin got a haircut; "Chick" Worthington has shined his shoes; every fireman is on the move. The annual Walton Fireman's Picnic is just around the corner and they will miss you if you don't attend.

There will be games, booths, food, cold drinks, and prizes galore.

Mark your calendar for these important dates—July 12-13. The Volunteer Fire Department depends on your support. If we don't get it, how can they operate? Don't let them down

IN THE HOSPITAL, Mrs. Myrtle Young, Mrs. Mildred Vest and Mr. Floyd Sobree are patients at St. Elizabeth.

Boone Library Receives $30,000

State Librarian Charles Hinds has presented an accomplishment grant of $30,000 to the Boone Co. Library Board.

This month the state Department of Library and Archives gave grants to four other Kentucky counties to finance demonstration projects.

These grants provide books, materials and staff for two-year library demonstration projects, which are intended to motivate community support for permanent library services.

Earlier this year the people of Boone County voted a library tax on their own, without the benefit of a demonstration.

"We felt that this kind of initiative should not go unwarded," Hinds said. "Local support for the library is forthcoming, but not until late fall. The accomplishment grant will help the library board get services started so that the strong citizen interest in the library will not die."

The money for the grant comes from Title I of the federal Library Services and Construction Act, 1973 funds impounded until recently.

BOOKS TOO

In addition to the $30,000 grant, the Department of Library and Archives will provide Boone Co. with $40,000 worth of books, financed from 1974 funds.

"We hope the funds will provide a good beginning for a successful library program in Boone County," Mr. Hinds said.

The library will be located temporarily on Girard Street in Florence.

Keen-Age Group Tours Cason Home; Views Solar Clock

On Monday, June 24, the Keen-Age group of Walton, had a delightful lunch at the Johnstone Smorgasbord in Florence.

They then drove to the home of Ralph Cason, Middle Creek Road, near Burlington, to see the "Solar Clock" track the moon and planets.

Mr. Cason is a nephew of the late "Uncle Tom Roberts", and now resides at the Roberts' home place where the Solar Clock has rested against the same wall for some sixty years.

Uncle Tom finished the clock in 1913 and died one month short of the 12-year cycle in 1925.

The story goes that Mr. Roberts, was asked of a neighbor one Sunday morning why he was in the field working on a Sunday. Mr. Roberts had lost track of the time and did not realize it was a Sunday. He vowed to himself never to make such a mistake again. So he spent a year at night watching the stars, etc. from a tower before he started to build the famous Solar Clock.

It tells the time of day, day of the week, the month, position of the moon and relates the position of the earth to its nearest planets—Jupiter, Mars and Venus. It takes twelve years to make this circle. The clock is seven feet tall.

The following persons were most interested in the clock and some other antiques in Mr. Cason's home: Mrs. Fanny Adams, Dale Hottle, Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Acres, Mrs. Clara Presser, Mrs. Leona Jump, Mrs. Lottie Gailen, Mrs. Virginia Kacaba, Mrs. Lil Wassen, Mrs. Cleo Vallandigham, Lucetta Neumeister, Mrs. Mabel Maddox, Mrs. Gaynelle Flynn. The Keen-Age group is planning another trip for Monday, July 15.

Summer Program - Walton-Verona Schools

DEAR PARENTS:

This year the Walton-Verona Schools are going to offer a recreation program. The purpose of this program is to provide activities for the children in our community.

The summer program will begin in July and end either the last of July or the first week in August. The hours will be from 9:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon, except on Tuesdays when the hours will be from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. This program runs Monday through Friday with the exception of July 4th.

IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED...

VERONA VOLUNTEERS TO TRY AGAIN

On Saturday, July 6, at the Verona Ball Field, starting at 3:30 until midnight, the Volunteer Firemen will have their drawing and will have all kinds of food, entertainment and booths for young and old.

Prizes to be given away include a mint bike, 26 inch bicycle, 19 inch portable black and white TV, a shag rug and a spray and steam iron.

The firemen regret having to postpone the awarding of these prizes but due to the storm on June 22, they are now giving you a chance to come out and have fun with them.

Bavarian Trucking Gets City Contract

The City of Walton has a new garbage collection service effective immediately.

The contract to pickup garbage in Walton has been awarded to Bavarian Trucking Company of Independence.

For about ten years this service was handled by Northern Kentucky Sanitation, later known as Browning-Ferris.

The new rate is $2.30 per month for a single residential unit, payable directly to the Bavarian Trucking Company.

Payments made in advance will save the customer fifteen cents $0.15 when paid early to get this lower rate.

Mayor Sam Gamble said that no garbage bills for the new service will be mailed by the City of Walton as this new service includes billing by the contractor.

Pickup will continue on Wednesday and continue into Thursday until all collections are made.

Regulations regarding trash containers remain about the same the standard 20-gallon can or disposable bags or boxes, not too large or heavy.

WATER SUPERINTENDENT

John M. Taylor, of Catalina St., is now serving as Water Works Superintendent for the city.

He replaced Willard Rowsey who resigned. Mr. Taylor holds a state approved Third Class Certificate as an operator.

Mr. Woodrow Rose is the man in charge of maintenance and repair of Walton Streets.

Day Camp

Begins July 8th

Day Camp starts next week at Walton First Baptist. Ages four and five will meet on Mondays, July 8 and 15; while grades one through six will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays of the weeks of July 8 and 15.

Sessions begin at 9:00 in the morning and extend to mid-afternoon for all except ages four and five who are dismissed at noon.

Grades 1-6 should bring sack lunches.

If you have not already registered for Day Camp, do so now so adequate supplies for all the youngsters will be available.

A $1.00 fee for materials will be collected on the first day of camp.

Name Was Misspelled

In last week's news item about E. Madrox accompanying a position with a church in Texas, the name of his wife was not spelled correctly.

Her name is Sandy.

We regret any embarrassment caused by Mrs. Maddox due to the misspelling of her name.

Many activities will be offered for the enjoyment of the children. For general activities there will be no charge. We will also provide additional activities such as a picnic at Big Bone State Park (no charge); swimming at Safari Camp Grounds on Tuesday mornings, 25 cents per child; bowling at $1.20 which includes 3 games plus shoes. The bowling day will be scheduled later.

The above activities such as swimming, bowling, and the picnic are optional.

Permission must be in writing by the parent or guardian for permission to transport the children to the swimming, bowling, or picnic.

It is our hope that this recreation program will be a success, so that we may offer it annually on a larger scale.

We hope to see your sons and daughters at our program.

Sincerely,

John P. Scheper,

Walton-Verona Schools.

Southern States Meets At Big Bone

Election of local advisory board, farm home advisory committee members and operations reports will highlight the Southern States Cooperative's membership meeting for the Union area, on Monday, July 8, at Big Bone Lick State Park. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m.

Ralph Curry of Verona will serve as chairman of the local meeting. The Rev. Walter Shinkle of Beaver Baptist Church will give the invocation.

GUEST SPEAKER

Frank Guthrie of Lexington, a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, will report on the over-all Southern States operations for the fiscal year ended June 30. His report will also touch on (1) the availability of production supplies; (2) some basic effects this has had and will have on agriculture; (3) remedial action taken by Southern States in light of these shortages; and (4) some projections on the future supply situation of many commodities.

COMBS IS HOST

Local operations and services rendered to agriculture in the community will be discussed by Christopher C. Combs, manager of Boone County Farm Supply.

Theme of the meeting will be "Your Cooperative Now, More Than Ever."

HONOR RETIREES

There will be special recognition for local board members and farm home advisory committee members who retire this year. Retiring board members are, A. J. Lunsford and Robert Northcutt of Morning View.

Retiring farm home advisory committee members are, Mrs. Joe Jones of Verona and Mrs. Jimmy Meessmer of Crittendon.

Theme of the meeting will be "Your Cooperative Now, More Than Ever."

Refreshments will be served following adjournment.

The following committee chairmen will assist with the local meeting: Mrs. Robert Cooper of Morning View, Attendance and Telephone; Mrs. Christopher C. Combs of Walton, Foods; and Joe Jones of Verona, Greetings and Ribbon.

Ice Cream Supper

At Independence Christian

The public is invited to attend an old fashioned homemade ice cream supper at the Independence Christian Church on July 6, beginning at 6:00 p.m.

This event is sponsored by the CWF and proceeds will go toward missionary work.

Maurice N. Johnson, minister, invites you to attend and enjoy an evening of Christian fellowship.

Women Democrats

Sponsor July 13th Dance

The Boone County Woman's Democratic Club is sponsoring a dance at Boone Aire Country Club on Saturday, July 13th from 9 till 1:00 a.m. Admission is $3.00 per person.

Country and Western music by Chick Morris.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and have an evening of fun.

Signup Deadline

Is July 15th In Boone

Just a few days until the deadline—July 15th for farm program signup and certification. Boone County producers are reminded that program participation provided the insurance and eligibility for payments.

"Now that the crops are planted, we want to remind farmers to come by the ASCS County Office at their convenience to signup and certify—just as long as they can do so by July 15th," said Dorsetta B. Rouse, Executive Director for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service in Boone County.

Mrs. Rouse explained that the 1974 procedure is different from previous years when there was a signup period ahead of planting and a certification period after planting. Now a farmer makes only one signup and certification visit to the county office and can even sign up by mail if he chooses.

SIGN UP IS DIFFERENT

Signup and certification is as important as ever to producers, Mrs. Rouse said. She pointed out that new agricultural law includes provisions for disaster payments to participants if their feed grain and wheat crops are lost or the rainfall substantially reduced because of natural disaster.

Measurement service is available at cost from the ASCS county office for any program purpose for those who want to make use of it. Spot checks will be made at random by the county farms following certification to be certain that certifications were correct.

DEADLINE

"Remember—July 15th—is the last day farmers can signup and certify their farm program participation," Mrs. Rouse said. "We hope every eligible producer has visited or is in touch with the Boone County ASCS office before then. The opportunity to sign up is available to farmers without regard to race, color, creed, national origin or sex."

Little Miss Kenton

County Fair Applications

Little Miss Kenton County Fair contest applications are now being taken for the event.

If you are a girl and between the ages of 3 and 8 and live in Kenton County, you are eligible.

The contest will be held at the fair grounds on August 13. All applications must be completed and returned by July 29.

For an application and contest rules, send a self-addressed envelope to Peggy McEntire, 5925 Wynola Drive, Independence, KY 41051 or call 356-7785.

The Willing Workers Club held their meeting in the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fulton on June 27 at noon. Several members were unable to be present because of illness and vacations. A delicious pot luck dinner was served to Mrs. Lulu Huey, Mrs. Jane Sleet, Miss Rachel Acree, Mrs. Eshaleen Whitson and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Rouse.

Mrs. Whitson had charge of the business meeting. Miss Acree held the devotional. She read the 8th Psalm and made interesting comments on patience.

DEATH

ALFRED TRACY HUME, 80, of 2122 Howell Street, Covington, died at his home while watching TV Friday evening.

He was a retired maintenance man for the Lodge and Shipley Company. They formerly lived in Walton.

Survivors are his wife, Lula; four stepsons, Russell Baynum of Covington, Howard Baynum of Cleveland, Verence Baynum, Richmond, and Wallace Baynum of Gardnersville.

Services were at Allison and Rose Tuesday morning with burial in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mr. Fulton dismissed the group. They then had a social hour in the yard which is full of flowers and many easy chairs.

IN VETERAN'S HOSPITAL
Friends of Mr. J. W. Isley are sorry to hear of his serious illness in Veteran's Hospital in Cincinnati.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

JULY 4—Full moon at 6 a.m. local time today so get ready to start catching fish, have your hook in the water at day break and catch a big one or you would rather spend the holiday working it would be a good time to chop weeds or spray for garden pests. Also any fruit picked now will keep well.

JULY 5—You will wake up with nervous tension this morning, but don't blame the holiday. The Moon squares Uranus at daybreak so just stay calm and it will soon pass. You could plant some late vegetables today and have plenty of time for them to mature before the first frost. The Moon goes into Aquarius at 6 p.m. so you could plan on cutting hay tomorrow—weather permitting.

JULY 6—Take advantage of the three good aspects the Moon is making today and start something you can finish, like a good time to go on a diet or quit smoking. Now is the time to start weaning either two or four legged babies and you will have two good weeks to get the job done. If you just want exercise, paint or pour concrete. Also set fence posts if you want them to stay tight in the ground.

JULY 7—A good day to make new friends, go visiting or get married. The Moon well aspected in a fixed air sign puts out vibrations that makes mental images and spoken words a fixed and lasting thing. Be sure to put your best foot forward all day.

JULY 8—The Moon goes into the water sign, Pisces, early this morning so plan on putting in more late garden and beat the high prices this fall. Late potatoes, carrots and onions will still make a crop before frost. The afternoon would be a good time to buy new shoes if you want a good fit. The Moon squares Neptune in the evening so ignore any late salesmen or commercials.

JULY 9—The Moon trines the Sun early this morning so you will start the day in a good mood and you can finish anything you started yesterday or if you have any garden surplus, this is a good day for canning. If you are going to plant bulbs for seed, do it today.

JULY 10—The Sun makes a good aspect to Jupiter this morning so why not take care of any legal matters you have been putting off. Also take care of any thank you notes or maybe a personal letter you were going to write later. When you get all that done, take a trip while it is safe driving.

Countians Attend VFW Convention

Commander and Mrs. Lloyd Givens, Sr.; Vice Commander Cyril Ecker; Colonel and Mrs. Robert F. Horton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Slayback; Lee Middendorf; Mrs. Ida Mae Shelton; and Mrs. Irene Helphinstine represented the Boone County Memorial Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 6099, Union, Kentucky, at the 54th annual State VFW Convention at the Ramada Inn East in Louisville, Kentucky, June 22 and 23.

Much time and hard work by the members of the post rewarded them many State awards—membership, legislation, cancer contributions, crippled children contributions, national home contributions, hospital work and two awards for selling VFW Buddy Puppies for disabled veterans. The most exciting award, winning 2 awards and a plaque for first place in community service and now the scrapbook is being sent to national for judging.

Congratulations to Col. and Mrs. R. F. Horton for their faithful and hard work.

The theme for the convention was "VFW Woos Vietnam Vets As It Tries To Keep Growing." World War II Veterans were plentiful at the convention. They were heard speaking of Americanism, Patriotism, Community Service and duty to country. But few Vietnam Veterans talk about planning to step high in uniform. VFW leaders are concerned with the recruiting of Vietnam Vets, whose enrollment will enable the membership to grow.

"We want the Vietnam Veteran and need him. The old heads are slowly passing away. Kentucky has lagged behind in recruiting these young vets. Most of them have not settled down into families and some are still in school, some are apprentices," said former Commander Al Fisher.

James Watson of Hopkinsville suggests "It's a problem of communication. We have a generation gap with these young men. Vietnam was a different kind of war."

However, every eligible VFW person is needed as a member to help get and keep all veterans benefits, as this is the means of getting veterans' bills passed in Washington. Even if a person can not attend the VFW meetings, every VFW member has a vote when bills are taken to Washington to be passed for the veterans.

Unless membership in the VFW continues to grow, the government will change the Veterans Administration into the Health, Education and Welfare; thus putting the veterans on welfare and cutting many of their benefits.

The members of the Boone County Memorial Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 6099 in Union, Ky., urges each eligible veteran to join in the membership and help fight to get and keep the benefits which you fought as bravely for. The post especially welcomes the Vietnam Veterans. Meetings are held on the second Wednesday night of every month at 8:00 p.m. at the post.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank everyone for the flowers, food and cards and to everyone for their thoughtfulness and prayers in the loss of our loved one. We would also like to thank Carlton Funeral Home, Bro. Kelly Kennedy and Bro. Kirtpatrick for the services they rendered.

—MARY KATHERINE and DON KANNADY.

Letter To The Editor:

DEAR EDITOR:

ABSOLUTE AUCTION

SATURDAY, JULY 6th — 1:30 P.M.

KNIGHT'S HARDWARE STORE BUILDING ON DIXIE HIGHWAY, U.S. 25, MAIN STREET) DRY RIDGE, KENTUCKY, GRANT COUNTY JUST EAST OFF DRY RIDGE EXIT I-75.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Knight have decided to quit the hardware store business and devote their full time to the contracting business and have signed an absolute auction contract with us to sell this 28' x 52' two-story buff brick building with full poured basement on lot 47' x 147'.

First floor has large store room (all shelving will stay) front & rear entrance, large storage area in basement.

P.S.—This building is suitable for any business. Second floor has newly remodeled 3-bedroom modern apartment with large eat-in kitchen, double bowl sink with ceramic top. All the floors are covered with in-laid linoleum and wall-to-wall carpeting. Building is heated with natural gas hot water heating system.

There is a front and back stairway and this beautiful apartment could be rented separately from the store. Parking area in rear.

If the buyer of this building wants to maintain a hardware store here, Mr. and Mrs. Knight will give them a flat price on stock and equipment on the day of the sale. But we are selling just the building at auction and not the stock and equipment.

Come, buy this building — live on the second floor and have you a business on the first floor in a fast growing community.

TERMS—20% down day of sale. Balance 30 days.

Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture's annual district dairy show for 4-H and FFA members will open on July 8 with the show at Harrodsburg, the first show this year.

Following the Harrodsburg show, the others will be Cynthiana, July 9, 4-H Club Fairgrounds; Campbellsville, July 10, Taylor County Fairgrounds; Shelbyville, July 11, Shelby County Fairgrounds; Bowling Green, July 12, Southern Kentucky Fairgrounds; and Murray, July 13, Murray-Calloway County Fairgrounds. There will be nine (9) classes at each show, plus a showmanship class. The showmanship class is divided into two divisions—junior and senior—in both 4-H and FFA.

The district dairy show program is among the older programs sponsored by the Department of Agriculture. Last year, there were 905 entries shown by 343 and FFA members. This total is down from a few years ago, perhaps reflecting the decline in the total number of dairy herds in the State.

Despite the small yearly drop in dairy animals, the participation in the district dairy shows has remained strong, with the average number being well over 1,000 yearly. I think this is a good indication of the value the young dairymen place upon the show program.

The shows are sponsored in cooperation with the University of Kentucky Extension Service and Division of Agriculture Education. They are designed to supplement the educational objectives of the FFA and 4-H programs.

A concern of agricultural leadership today is being able to attract highly skilled young people to go into farming. Those who do go into farming, particularly livestock farming need a basic understanding of animal selection, proper feeding and handling.

Through participation in these district shows, boys and girls are able to have their animals evaluated on the basis of type, feeding and handling. Although it may seem that the primary objective in show participation is to win ribbons, the evaluation that goes into the selection of a class winner or champion is the real dividend.

I trust that this year will see another successful year of district dairy shows. I realize that for the exhibitors, participation represents considerable time and effort. Yet, if it results in a stronger dairy program, it will be worth the effort not only to the exhibitors, but to the dairy industry.

Kenton School System
Now Part Of Region Seven
 The Kenton County School System will become a part of Region Seven's educational service agency.

Approval was voted at the June meeting of the Board and Supt. Don Davis was named as a member of the regional policy-making board.

The region covers eight counties of Northern Kentucky and 20 school districts. Boone County's school districts are included.

Under the set up, financed by the State Department of Education, tion, school districts may exchange information and resources. It is possible, Davis told the board, that teachers in one district may be sent to another school district to help beef up a program.

The governing board, he said, will appoint a director. The assistant director will be the director of the area vocational educational school. No site has been selected as headquarters and school districts are free to withdraw from the project.

ATTEND DISTRICT WORKSHOP
 Mrs. Gayle McElroy, Mrs. Chester Sturgeon and Miss Joella Sleet of the Wa-Na Club attended the Fifth District Workshop and luncheon of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Club at the Town and Country Restaurant last Saturday.

CARD OF THANKS—
 A sincere thanks to my family and friends for their prayers, visits, flowers, cards, calls, food and general concern during my recent illness. And especially to Blanche Rich for always being there to take over for me.

SPECIAL OPERATOR

It's almost bound to happen to anyone who uses a telephone regularly. You dial a friend or business acquaintance, one you probably haven't called for a while. You hear a ring. Then a voice. "Special Operator. What number are you calling, please." You've reached what the telephone company calls an Intercept Operator. That would be one of the 22,000 such calls received at Cincinnati Bell's Intercept positions on an average business day.

After you give the operator the number you dialed, she—or he—requests a computer search for that number. Instantaneously the response is displayed on a TV-like screen. "That number has been changed to (new number)," or, "That is a correct number, please dial again." (you probably misdialled), or any one of 12 other possible responses.

Intercept operators, however, can not complete your call for you. Their equipment does not have the capability to connect you to another number; they can only tell you how you can complete your call.

In that regard, Intercept service is similar to Directory Assistance. Neither can pass your call to the switching network. You must seek Directory Assistance, though, by dialing 1-655-1212, when you need help in finding a telephone number. The Intercept operator is reached automatically when the number you dialed is not a working number. There is no extra charge for this service.

Life Squad Member Practices His Training

A Piner-Fiskburg Life Squad member was credited with saving a life on May 28, 1974.

An accident occurred at Bracht involving a state highway right-of-way maintenance tractor, a water truck and a pickup truck.

The tractor driver had severe arterial bleeding from a neck wound and the water truck driver applied direct pressure with his hand.

Both of Piner-Fiskburg's ambulances were dispatched to the scene to transport all of the injured to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

COMMISSIONER

Agriculture

Wendell P. Butler
 Commissioner of Agriculture

Plans for the North American Livestock Exposition are shaping up real well, giving those involved with this event strong feelings of optimism for its future development.

The North American will be held the week of November 17 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. As has been reported, the 1974 event will feature beef cattle. In coming years, other types of livestock will be added, which will make the North American a full-fledged livestock exposition.

As of now, most of the major beef breeds will be holding some activity at the 1974 North American. The American Angus Association will be holding its national meeting in Kentucky during the North American, as will the American Polled Hereford Association.

The Charolais Association has named its show at the North American as one of its "Roll of Excellence" shows. The Hereford show will be a "Register of Merit" show. These special designations add considerable prestige to our North American events.

In addition to the livestock events, some special entertainment, such as a country music show, is being planned for the evenings. Then, too, many commercial firms and organizations will have displays in many areas of the Fair and Exposition Center.

There is much more to be said about the North American, and I will be saying more in the months ahead. The important thing now is the fact that such an event is a reality.

Kentucky has a long-standing tradition as a center of good livestock. In addition, the Department of Agriculture has an outstanding show and sale program, which gives us a solid foundation from which to draw as we build a major livestock exposition.

The Department, through its Division of Shows and Fairs and Division of Promotion, is now preparing various materials on the North American. Persons wanting specific information on the new show can contact either of these divisions in the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

LIVING WITH EMPHYSEMA

Emphysema is a long-lasting disease of the lungs which very few non-smokers develop.

For someone with healthy lungs, it is difficult to imagine how life feels for a person with emphysema. But these comments from many different emphysema patients, which were published in a recent issue of the magazine, "Respiratory Care," describe the effects of the disease in a grim, graphic way:

—Emphysema is thinking the next breath won't be there.
 —Emphysema is feeling like I'm going to blow up from the inside.

—Emphysema is not being able to sleep more than 2½ hours before I have to get up and clear my chest.

—Emphysema is being weary constantly.

—Emphysema is not being able to bend over and put your socks on.

—Emphysema is going to my daughter's house for dinner and spending all day tomorrow in bed.

—Emphysema is asking people to come and see me because I'm lonely.

Emphysema develops gradually. Some of the first signs of the disease can be shortness of breath during only minor exertion. As the disease progresses, the air sacs of the lungs where oxygen and carbon dioxide are exchanged, rip and tear.

Doctors can help patients to breathe easier with the disease but as yet there is no known cure. The prevention—not smoking—is clear, however.

To find out more about all kinds of lung diseases, contact your Kentucky Lung Association. It is a matter of life and breath.

Reds Salute Agriculture Industry

The Cincinnati Reds, who depend so heavily on their own farm system for success, are going to pay tribute to another style of farming, "Farmers Night," a salute to the Agriculture industry, will be held at Riverfront Stadium on Saturday, July 27 when the Reds meet the San Diego Padres in a 7:00 p.m. game.

The Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana area, otherwise known as Reds Country, ranks as one of the largest agriculture regions in the United States with a farm population of more than 1.2 million people.

These loyal fans have been giving their support to the Reds and now the Reds have arranged a giant giveaway program that is geared to the Agriculture industry.

A long list of prizes, with special appeal to farmers, will be given away after the game to fans in attendance at Riverfront Stadium.

Heading the list are two valuable products of the International Harvester Co.—a Model 574 tractor and a Series 200 pickup truck.

Other prizes are: International Harvester Cub garden tractor with trailer; a large capacity Admiral home freezer; enough DeKalb XL-70 seed corn to plant 30 acres; a set of Uniroyal tires for a farm truck, a tractor or a family car; a pair of 250 pound hogs from Partridge Meats; a dairy heifer from Cincinnati Co-operative Milk Sales Association; a Sears 6 horse-power shredder-bagger; paint for a house or barn from the Foy-Johnston Paint Company.

Get your tickets now and be assured of a good seat for all the Reds action on the Astroturf.

Walton Homemakers

The Walton Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. John Wood where they had a most interesting lesson of the art of Patchwork. The lesson was taught by the Boone County Home Extension Agent Mrs. William (Nancy) Norman.

The fourteen ladies present were Mrs. Donald McMillan, Mrs. John Hetterman, Mrs. William Gibson, Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. Roy Eason, Ms. Margaret Fields, Mrs. Robert Eisenhardt, Mrs. John Wood, Ms. Mabel Maddox, Mrs. Gaines Huey, Mrs. Paul Beighle, Mrs. Gayle McElroy, Mrs. Edward Lay and Mrs. Norman.

They all enjoyed a delicious luncheon.

If you're really cool, you'll save cold cash!

By simply setting your thermostat carefully and thoughtfully, you can save up to 15%. And that doesn't mean making big changes. As little as two or three degrees will do it.

For instance, if you set your thermostat at 79 degrees instead of 78, you can save about 5% on the cost of operating your air conditioner. Save 10 % at 80 degrees and 15% at 81. That's worth thinking about . . . if you're really cool.

Electricity is to good to waste!

GOD'S ETERNAL PURPOSE—Ephesians 3:1-13

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

Some years ago the Christian Herald carried this helpful illustration. A missionary, teacher of Tokyo told of a Japanese woman who asked her if only beautiful girls were received into her school to be educated. "No," was the reply, "we take all the girls who come to us." "But," continued the woman, "all your girls seem to be very beautiful." "We teach them the value of their souls in God's sight," explained the teacher, "and this makes their faces lovely." "Well," said the woman, "I don't want my daughter to become a Christian, but I would like to send her to your school to get that look in her face.

This illustrates the tremendous truth that God's guidance is more than a mere ad hoc plan. The Cross was in God's heart before the foundation of the world.

THE MYSTERY
Paul refers to himself as a prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles. He is not using the term "prisoner" as he does the term "servant" or "slave" of Jesus Christ. Here he means to be taken literally. He is in prison in Rome. He is in prison because of his ministry to the Gentiles. He assumes that his readers have heard of the "dispensation" of God's grace to him. "Dispensation" means stewardship or Paul's ministry. God in his grace had chosen Paul for the ministry to the Gentiles. God had revealed this mystery to Paul. What was this mystery which had in other ages been hidden but now revealed? It was the inclusion of the Gentiles in God's redemptive plan!

The universal scope of the gospel was no second thought on God's part. He had never intended that only the Jews be saved. In the call of Abraham (Genesis 12:1-3) "all nations of the earth" were to be blessed. Jesus indicated this in Luke 4:16-30. He spoke from Isaiah 61:1-3 declaring God's intention to bless the Gentiles.

Verses 6 gives the meaning of the mystery as "that the Gentiles should be fellowheirs, and of the same body and partakers of his promise in Christ by the Gospel."

THE MINISTER

Paul had originally despised the Christian way. It had taken almost a death blow to open his eyes to God's great truth. Once he had experienced the living Christ, he was then commissioned to be the apostle to the Gentiles. Paul attributed his call and commission to the principle of God's grace and the working of God's power.

Paul never ceased to marvel that God should use him. He saw himself as "less than the least of all saints." This is no mock humility. But Paul was no stranger to the working of the grace of God. It reached the lowest and the highest.

Paul's task was to preach among the Gentiles the "unsearchable" riches of Christ. The word "unsearchable" was used to describe a trail or road which could never be traced to its end. The riches of Christ are as a man seeking to trace out the arms of a lake. Eventually he discovers that it was no lake at all but an arm of the ocean.

God's minister was to make all men see the fellowship or the plan of the mystery. This to the intent that through the church God's wisdom might be made known to spiritual powers in the heavens. As the church proclaims God's plan of redemption the angelic order comes to a better understanding of God's many-sided wisdom.

THE MANNER

The manner in which all of this has come about was according to the eternal purpose of God. God has purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord the redemption of mankind. "The Eternal Purpose" means "a purpose of the ages."

Now that God's eternal purpose has been revealed to and through the apostles and prophets, we share in many other blessings. Among them, the boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him. Our new relationship to God has given us "boldness" which means literally "freedom to speak." "Access with confidence" means that we are introduced to God and we come before him without fear of being rejected. We now come to Him as our Heavenly Father, not as One to be shunned.

Because of these blessings in Christ, Paul pleads that they not lose heart over his tribulations. Properly understood, his tribulations should give them cause to rejoice! God is at work in them!

A man disclosed his good fortune to a fellow-club-bender at a bar: "I was real lucky on my wedding day. I got a wife and a cigarette lighter, and they both work."

When asking a husband what he gave his wife for her birthday, he proudly replied, "A new set of dinner plates—upper and lower."

Wives are very generous and understanding people. One wife made quite a compromise with her husband. "I'll meet you half way," she said. "I'll admit I'm wrong if you will admit I'm right."

FREEDOM

A liberty bell and lilies. Both symbols of freedom.

Nearly two hundred years ago, a bell proclaimed our release from political domination. The Founding Fathers gave us our liberty, and today we reap the benefits: a man can speak his mind without fear. This is freedom.

The lilies represent another kind of freedom. Synonymous with Easter, they are symbols of the greatest freedom of all, the freedom from death.

With its promise of everlasting life, with its hope for an eternal spring, the Christian message today rings across the land with ever increasing clarity.

Renew your own freedom. Go to church.

NATIONAL BOATING SAFETY WEEK

DEAR EDITOR:

The period from June 30 to July 6 is National Safe Boating Week.

In view of this, as the summer boating season gets into full swing, I would like to suggest that this is a particularly appropriate time for an article on safe boating and water sports.

Early activity counts indicate that 1974 will be the busiest recreational boating season in Kentucky history. It is estimated that Kentucky, with more miles of navigable streams than any other state except Alaska, will attract more than 1,500,000 boaters to its lakes, rivers and streams during the 1974 boating season.

So you can see that Safe Boating Week, and the practice of safe boating at all times, are of particular significance for Kentuckians.

The people of Kentucky can help to insure their own safety—and set a safe boating example for the visitors to our state—by remembering that overloading, improper loading, speeding, drinking and careless driving are the chief causes of boating accidents each year. These lead to a tragic loss of lives and needless destruction of property on Kentucky's waterways.

In 1973, a record 157 people died while participating in water related activities in Kentucky. This figure includes 54 boating fatalities and 103 non-boating fatalities, predominantly accidental drownings.

During the first five months of 1974, a total of 50 water-related fatalities have taken place. Sixteen of the 1974 fatalities have been boating accidents, and 34 have been non-boating accidental drownings.

You can help to prevent accidents and save lives by informing and reminding your readership of the need to be safety conscious during boating and other water-related activities during the coming weekend and throughout the water recreation season.

I hope you will add your voice to the water safety effort.

Sincerely,
H. Doug Shoulders,
Administrator Kentucky Division of Water Enforcement

Get Ready To Can

By Nancy Norman

Part II PROCESSING METHODS

Choosing the correct processing method is one of the most important steps in canning. Foods properly processed will be safe from yeasts, molds, and bacteria that cause food spoilage as well as giving you maximum flavor and nutrition.

You will need a boiling water bath canner for fruits, tomatoes, and pickled vegetables. Natural acid in these foods make them safe when heated at the temperature of boiling water for the time period recommended for the specific food. A good boiling water bath canner will have a tight-fitting lid, a rack in the bottom, and two to four inches above the tops of the jars to allow for water to cover the jars and boil freely. Boiling water is required for low acid foods such as meats, fish, and common vegetables. A pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure reaches a temperature of 240°F. Always follow the instruction manual, U.S.D.A. publications, or those from your local County Extension Service to make sure you are canning in a safe manner.

Not all low-acid foods are contaminated with the botulism bacteria, but since we have no way of knowing which are or are not, all low-acid foods should be processed with enough heat to kill the botulism spore.

A pressure saucepan can be used for canning if it has a gauge that will maintain 10 lbs. of pressure; if it is tall enough so that steam can circulate around and over jars; and if you add 20 minutes to the processing times recommended for each vegetable. Open-kettle canning is not recommended for fruits and vegetables. In open-kettle canning, food is cooked in an ordinary kettle, then packed into hot jars without processing. The temperatures obtained are not high enough to destroy all the spoilage organisms that may be in the food. Spoilage bacteria may get in when the food is transferred from kettle to jar.

Don't confuse processing methods with types of pack—raw (cold) pack and hot pack. The method of pack is only whether the food is put into jars raw or hot. Many foods can be packed by either method and a good canning manual will give you further instructions.

Contact your local County Extension Service for the latest up-to-date food preservation materials. The Boone County office is in the Rensselaer Annex in Burlington and the phone is 565-6101, extension 17. The county extension agent for Home Economics will answer specific inquiries.

Big Red Machine II

The Cincinnati Reds have taken another major step to assure their loyal fans that games at Riverfront Stadium will go on as scheduled.

Big Red Machine II, another of the custom-designed vehicles that vacuums water off the AstroTurf, has now been delivered and is ready to join Big Red Machine I in the battle against rainouts.

"With this new machine, we'll be able to do a complete blowoff of the water in less than twenty minutes," said Terry Barthelme, director of Stadium operations.

"Not only will we have twice the capacity by using two machines, but we will be able to use them more efficiently. Our new truck has a much shorter turning radius, which means you can cover more turf in a shorter time. The other truck is being converted to that, too," he added.

Big Red Machine II, a special vehicle produced by the company that makes the Zamboni resurfacing unit for ice rinks, cost about $25,000, but the Reds figure it is a good investment for the pleasure and enjoyment of their thousands of loyal fans.

Cliffenden Baptist

Missions Fair July 12

A "Missions Fair" will be sponsored by the Cliffenden Baptist Association on Friday, July 12, from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

Williamstown Baptist Church will be the center for all the fun. There will be many booths representing the various organizations of the Baptist church. Booths will contain games, prizes, and lots of things to do and see as well as information and inspiration.

Missionaries will be on hand with interesting stories and information about the foreign country or area of this country in which they were raised.

Free refreshments and a variety of musical entertainment will also be provided during the evening.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and join in this good time.

STAFFORDSBURG

The old saying held true for the weather in June. The last days of May were rainy so we had a wet June. Let's see if it holds true for July as the last days of June were rainy.

Ronald Lowry attended a training school in Melaine, Illinois this past week.

Mrs. Charlie Brown was in an automobile accident and is in the hospital with a broken leg.

Farmers are having a time trying to save their hay and tend their crops due to so much rain. Have to turn on a little heat once in a while to take the chill off and dry up the dampness.

Firemen' Picnic Friday & Saturday

Well, it's Picnic Time again, and the Volunteers of the Walton Fire Department and Life Squad have gone all out to make this one of the best.

There will be booths and games plus live music for dancing and lots of prizes to be awarded.

And don't forget those delicious fish prepared and served by the Ladies Auxiliary. In addition to fish they will have hot dogs and bar-b-cue. You may purchase either sandwiches or plates with cole slaw and french fries. Dessert will be served as it is available. The ladies are asking for donations of cakes and pies to serve each evening beginning at about 5:00 p.m.

On Friday night there will be United States Savings Bonds and other prizes awarded.

On Saturday night a Homelite chain saw is to be given to some lucky person plus savings bonds and many other nice prizes.

Support Your Local Fire Department.

Attend the Picnic both nights.

Boone County Fair Catalogs Off The Press

The Boone County 4-H & Utopia Club Fair Catalogs are off the press, and according to R. V. Lents, Advertising Manager of the Fair, the catalog is the largest ever published for Boone County. Mr. Lents advises that the catalogs will be available to the public for the asking after July 18th at the following places: All Boone County banks; Hetzel's Grocery; Fletcher's Store, Hebron, Stevens Mower, Lawn Farm, and Garden Center, Hebron; Scothern Motor Co., Idelwild; J. Scott Garage, and Cliff Stephens Grocery in Rabbit Hash; Big Bone Mobile Home Park and Sales; Fred and Fran's Place in Big Bone; George and Bonnie's Marathon Service, Beaver Lick; Caintuckee Corner Gulf Service and Carry-out, Frogtown Road, Union; Carter's Corner Store, Union; Smitty's Meats, also in Union; Ryan Hardware and Implement Co., and Benton-Bonar, Walton; Howell's Carry-out, 8626 U.S. 26, Florence; Chuck's Market in Florence; Convenient Food Mart, 80 Burlington Pike, Florence; The Boone County Farm Bureau, Farmers Mutual Insurance Co., Boone County Recorder in Burlington; R. V. Lents, 11 Lloyd Avenue, Florence; and the Kentucky Federal Savings and Loan Association in Florence; plus at the Walton Advertiser who printed the book. Mr. Lents stated that not only the Fair catalogs are larger, but that the Fair will be bigger than ever. Many premiums and classes have been added including a Frog Jumping Contest in the arena.

GOSPEL SINGERS

THE AGAPE SINGERS from Little Rock, Arkansas, will be at Independence Christian Church on Sunday, July 14th at the 11:00 a.m. Worship Service. This group consists of Happy and Jeanne Caldwell and their son, Ronnie. They have been called into a singing evangelistic ministry and have recorded two albums. Their ministry is to project Agape Love (The Love of Christ) in song and testimony to the world.

On Friday, July 12th they will appear at the Church of God Assemblies on L.L. Highway and Fowlers Creek Road at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday evening, July 14th they will sing at the Walton United Methodist Church in a combined service with Walton Christian Church at 7:30.

The pastors, Maurice Johnson, Tim Suter, Robert Yates and Eva Richard Harris, invite you to attend these services.

SELECTION OF DELEGATES

All Boone County Democrats are urged to participate in the local County Convention for selection of delegates to the National Democratic Mid-Farm Conference on Saturday, July 13, at the Courthouse in Burlington, at 2:00 p.m. W. P. McEvoy, Democratic Chairman for Boone County, has announced that 17 delegates may be elected from Boone County to attend the Congressional District Convention on July 20.

Delegates chosen at the Congressional District will represent Kentucky at the national conference this December 6, 7, 8 in Kansas City, Missouri.

Every registered Democrat is invited to attend the County Convention and by so doing let their voice be heard in the decision making of the national Democratic Party.

Women's League Softball Scores

Last week the Women's Area Churches Softball League played three games. The results were: All Saints 19
Richwood-Union re-sbyterian 11
Walton Christian 11
Piner Baptist 1
Walton Baptist combined with on Baptist 6
New Benckick Baptist 5

The last game of play was a real thriller and excitement for everyone.

This week the league is spotlighting the New Bethel Baptist Church Women's Softball team. This team won the 1973 Runner-Up trophy.

Roster
Sandra and Barb Dixon, Karen Leek, Diane Berkemeier, Rhonda Thomas, April and Sherry Parker, Barbara Coyle, Tina Haddix, Teresa Black, Roma Jean Stephenson, Marsha Leek, Karen Hamilton, Paula Duma, Carla Washum, Patty and Kitty Walker, Glenda Hicks, Lisa Disney, and Donna Ryan.

Bill Disney is the team's manager with Gene and Barb Dixon as the coaches.

Rev. Jerel Treese is the pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church. If you haven't watched these teams play as yet, attend some Tuesday at 6:30 at Verona or Walton ballfields for an evening of great pleasure.

Notice Of Meeting

Walton Lodge No. 719 P.M.M. will hold its regular monthly business meeting on Thursday, July 18 at 7:00 p.m. There will also be work in the E.A. degree. All members are urged to be present. Visitors are welcome.

LOCAL 4-H FOOD WINNERS

Among the top winners in state 4-H foods demonstration competition, held June 27 in Lexington, were (left to right): Dena Franklin, 13, Bingham Lane, Crittenden (Grant County), who won third in the junior division (for ages 9-13) of "other foods" demonstrations by showing how to make "Tomato Flower Salad"; Gina Combs, 15, Rt. 1, Walton (Boone County), third in the senior division (ages 14-19) of dairy food demonstrations, showing how to make "Apple Cream Coffee Cake"; Libby Graves, 13, R-1, Crittenden (Grant County), third in the junior division of foods and nutrition illustrated talks, discussing "The Four Food Blocks of Nutrition"; and Rhonda Emminger, 13, R-1, Alexandria (Campbell County), second in junior breads demonstrations, showing how to make "Brown Bread."

Each 4-H'er taking part in this event had earlier won top honors in county and area foods demonstration competition to become eligible for the state contest.

Walton-Verona "Old Fashion Day" Promotes Whiskers & Community Worship

PLANS ARE WELL UNDER WAY FOR THE SECOND WALTON-VERONA "OLD FASHION DAY" WHICH IS TO BE ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1974.

There are several activities planned to go along with the one big day which are to transpire prior to "Old Fashion Day."

One thing that many are looking forward to is the "Whisker Club," headed by Ed Hardin. It is reported that any man may begin his own style of growth (after July 11) and not be subject to a fine. Membership cards are available at a cost of $1.00 and may be picked up at Brakfield Drugs, Ryan Hardware, Walton IGA, Roenestell's Barber Shop, Robinson's Store, Dairy Delite, Dunn's Gulf, and Boone County Farm Supply.

For the women and girls there is the group known as Walton-Verona "Belles." The committee wants to include everyone in the activities for this big event.

Worship Sunday is scheduled for August 18th and the committee for this is chaired by Rev. Robert Yates, president of the Ministerial Association. Assisting will be the pastors of the local churches with a special choir committee of Mrs. Dorothy Beighle, Mrs. Fred Kirtland and Mrs. Leola Waller.

The meetings will begin each night at 7:30 p.m. Monday night there will be a "Good Old Fashioned Gospel Sing" with five groups participating, including the Gospel Group from Community Pentecostal Church of White's Tower; The Rice and Shiners from Sherman Full Gospel Assembly; Layne Chessman's Quartet from Walton Christian Church; The Gospel Express from Sherman Full Gospel Assembly; The Crossmen, Goshen Christian Church any maybe the Ball Family from the Church of God in Lebanon. This Gospel Group sings professionally and it is hoped that they can attend.

Friday night will be "Youth Night" with special emphasis upon the youth with a bon fire and hot dog roast afterwards.

Everyone is invited for a good time in Jesus. Bob Montgomery is the Minister with David Shanklin the Youth Minister.

Attend Convention
Jehovah's Witnesses from this area were among the thousands in attendance at the "Divine Purpose" District Assembly at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati.

Convention delegates represented 238 congregations in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia, according to Circuit Supervisor of the local Witnesses, Andrew Laguna.

"The purpose of the gathering was to strengthen Witness families in Christian living while being in a world surrounded by an atmosphere that turns Bible principles aside, he said.

4-H Horse Show
The Northern Kentucky Area 4-H Horse Show will be held on July 14th at the Boone County Fair Grounds.

This show is for Area 4-H members only.

The show starts at 10:00 a.m. and continues until all 60 classes are completed.

There are English and Western classes. Coggins Test Certificates are required.

Food and drinks will be available on the grounds. Attend and see your 4-H in A-C-T-I-O-N!

Catherine Nix Chosen "Miss RECC"

On Tuesday evening, July 2, Miss Catherine Ann Nix, 17-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Nix, Owenenton, Kentucky, was named "Miss Owen County R.E.C.C. of 1974."

Miss Nix was sponsored by the Eweet Owen Homemakers' Club.

The Beauty Contest was one of the highlights of the 38th annual membership meeting of Owen County R.E.C.C. Approximately 2,000 persons attended this year's meeting of the cooperative.

A total of sixteen young ladies from this area participated in the Beauty Contest. Among other honors, Miss Nix won an expense-paid three-day trip to Louisville to participate in the state finals of Miss Kentucky RECC Beauty Pageant to be held during the Kentucky State Fair in August. The winner there will represent the state in the national finals to be held in New Orleans next January.

First Runner-up in the local contest went to Miss Rhonda Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hudson of Dry Ridge. Miss Hudson was sponsored by the Dry Ridge Homemakers.

The "Miss Congeniality" award went to Miss Debbie Whitton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitton of Dry Ridge. She was sponsored by the Community Homemakers Club of Mason.

In addition to the beauty contest, this year's annual meeting of Owen County RECC featured entertainment by the Kismen Gospel Group and by Wandl the Magician.

During the business session, members of the cooperative received reports on the activities and plans of their cooperative by Manager, Marvin Keith, president of the board, Howard Greene, and secretary-treasurer, Robert Arthur. In other action, the members re-elected to the Board of Directors Robert Arthur of District No. 2; Howard Greene of District No. 3; and Roy Gray of District No. 4.

Recipients of prizes drawn at the meeting were: Anna Lee Bowen, range; Urcie Wright, ice cream freezer; Gary Kimmann, a grill; Charles Carron, ice cream freezer; Roy Adams, iron; F. B. Farnes, turkey; Larry Graves, make-up mirror; Raymond Davis, glass shades; Lucille Evans; an electric charcoal starter; Mable Barton, fan; Herman Souder, ice cream freezer; June Griffin, drill; Robert Stamper, hand mixer; Robt. Cravens, hair dryer; Shirley Melton, electric shaver; Wilford Perkins, iron; Leonard Price, sander; Russell Alexander, pig saw; and George Frost, can opener.

Two youngsters were the lucky winners of bicycles—Wesley B. McClure, age 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McClure of Elliston; and Rosetta Spencer, age 13, a daughter of Mrs. Delores Spencer of Union.

Officers Are Chosen

Election of officers was held at the regular June meeting of the Piner-Fiskburg Volunteer Fire Department. The following were elected and took office at the first Monday in July meeting—

President, Roy Ferguson;
Vice President, Robt. Chapman;
Secretary, Don Dressman;
Treasurer, Leatha Woods;
Reporter, Carl Chapman;
Chief, Lewis E. "Jeff" Williams;
Assistant Chief, Gene Roland;
Squad Captain, Cliff Vickers;
Squad Lieut., Don Dressman.

New members on the executive committee are Milton Jenkins, Don Dressman and Carol Chapman.

Four Programs At Chase Law School

Chase Law School Library, NKSC, presents your right, their rights, (who's right) in four Friday evening programs consisting of award winning films, followed by informal discussion with the audience by local judges, doctors, social workers, lawyers, policemen and educators on problems and issues of citizens' rights of this area.

Topics for each of the sessions are:

July 12—Juvenile Court System;
July 19—"Patients' rights";
July 26—The Phenomena of Law and Order;

August 2—Children's Rights.

Admission is free and the public is encouraged to attend.

Each program will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. at Chase Law School Auditorium, 1401 Dixie Highway, Covington, Kentucky.

For further information, call 491-3948.

The program is sponsored by the Kentucky Humanities Council.

CHRISTIAN RENEWAL — Ephesians 4:17-32

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)
Henry Ward Beecher is reported to have said: "The church is not an art gallery for the exhibition of eminent saints, but a hospital for the curing of weak ones."

Another has said: "The church is not an organization of good people, it is an organization of sinners. It is the only organization in human society that takes sinners into membership just because they are sinners. It is the only organization that keeps on saying, week after week, year after year, age after age: 'we have done those things that we ought not to have done, and left undone those things that we ought to have done.'"

This is the glory of the church, its uniqueness in human society, that it lives perpetually on the vitality and realism of its own repentance, its contrition, and its plea for God's help and forgiveness. At the same time, Apostle Paul, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit demands that the Christian be different.

BE DIFFERENT

Now that the believers have come under the lordship of Jesus Christ they must not live as others who have not believed in Christ. Paul's readers had once walked or lived 'as other Gentiles' but something very vital had happened to them. They had become "born again." They had become new creatures in Christ Jesus. They must now become what they in reality were—the children of God.

What was there about the "other Gentiles" of which Paul's readers were to be different? Paul expresses in the strongest terms their old way of life. "In the vanity of their mind" means that there was an emptiness, an aimlessness, a hopelessness about them. They neither saw nor knew of any goal or purpose in life. "Their understanding of spiritual matters was darkened." They did not know God. Not knowing God, they were alienated from God. Sin separates man from God. Man cannot have fellowship with God when there is unconfessed, unjudged sin in his life. "If I regard iniquity in my heart the Lord will not hear me."

This lack of understanding and their being alienated from God was caused by "the blindness of their heart." It would seem that these things worked together to bring about their condition. It cannot be said that they were not to be blamed. Individuals may allow themselves to become "past feeling." Dr. William Barclay says that the terror of sin is its terrifying effect. A person can give himself "over to lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness." Here is life without any sense of shame or regard for what others think.

Paul comes now to emphasize the need to be disciplined.

BE DISCIPLINED

What has been said of "other Gentiles" must not and cannot apply to them. They have not so learned Christ. From this word "learn" we get our word "discipline."

Verse 21 does not raise a question as to the genuineness of their salvation experience. This is a conditional sentence in the Greek language which actually affirms the fact that they have heard Christ, and have been taught by Him.

This teaching in Jesus had called for a putting off of the old way of life and to a putting on of the new man. This new man had been divinely created in righteousness and true holiness.

The soldier who would be a more effective soldier must continue to prepare himself. So it is with the Christian. This can come about in the Christian's experience by being renewed in or by the spirit of his mind. The mind of the Christian needs to dwell upon things eternal.

BE DILIGENT

There must be no more lying but every man speaking the truth. What a change this would bring in our present society! "Be angry," and sin not. There is much in our world today which good men ought to be angry about. We must not hold grudges. Settle disputes between you right now. "Stop stealing" and start working that you may share with those in need.

Paul would have no foul-mouth speaking, but reminds his readers that words can be spoken to build up people.

Don't grieve the Holy Spirit. He is our instructor, our Guide, our Comforter. He is God in us. He is God with us. He is God for us!

KEEPING IN STEP

You don't have to be "square" to go to church. The image of our individuals with "holier-than-thou" attitudes is as old fashioned today as people dancing the minuet.

Take the Adamses, for example. They aren't youngsters, to be sure, but they are very much in step with the times, and their home is a haven for teenagers. Mr. Adams is a lawyer, who works with kids who have been in trouble. Mrs. Adams is on the local school committee and also helps the Girl Scouts.

The Adamses like to walk to church each Sunday and to discuss the sermon on the way home. Their minister is "with it" too—he strives to counsel his parishioners on the dilemmas that confront Christians today.

The Adamses, their minister, their church—all a part of today.

Are you?

Fuel and Food

By Joe Claxton

PART I

It is important that everyone understand why American farmers should get all the fuel necessary for production of food and fiber. In times of shortages the question of who gets how much demands straight answers. The information in this article explains why agricultural fuel allocations must be top priority.

Today, each American farmer is producing enough food for 52 people. Twenty years ago that figure was just 1 person. Our farmers today consume about three percent (3%) of the nation's total energy output. In 1950 they were using four percent (4%). So, as the farmer's productivity has increased, his percentage of total energy use has declined. That is a record to be proud of. In 1973 our agricultural production came from 331 million acres of cropland, requiring 22 gallons of petroleum fuel per acre to produce (11 gallons of gasoline, 7 gallons of diesel oil, and 4 gallons of liquid petroleum gas).

In 1974 farmers were asked to put an additional 10 million acres into production, requiring at least 220 million more gallons of petroleum fuel. They will need 15% more petroleum fuel than they used in 1972.

The problem now seems to be less a matter of availability than it is of getting fuel to farmers where it is needed and when it is needed.

Fuels for drying crops such as soybeans, corn, sorghum, and alfalfa will probably be hardest hit. These fuels range from natural and propane gas to kerosene and No. 2 heating oil.

Agriculture is making internal adjustments to save fuel, but the margin or adjustment is narrow. If the energy supply situation in agriculture does worsen, the solution will have to come primarily from outside agriculture where the overwhelming bulk of the fuel is used.

No-Till Field Day July 17 At UK

by

DARWIN FOLEY

Kenton County Extension Agent

You can learn about some of the latest research findings on no-till crop production by attending the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's No-Till Field Day on July 17. The field day will be held at UK's Spindletop and Maine Chance Farms near Lexington, beginning at 9:00 a.m. C.D.T.

The advantages of using the no-till system are well-known to many farmers in Kentucky, where last year over one-fourth of the state's soybean acreage and one-fifth of the corn acreage was planted no-till. The no-till system saves fuel, time and labor. In addition, it helps prevent soil erosion, an especially important consideration this year with more steep land being used for row-crop production.

Much of the pioneering work in the development of no-till was done by the UK College of Agriculture, and UK scientists are continuing to conduct extensive research on no-till crop production. These people will be on hand at the field day to discuss their work and answer questions. In addition, they will show no-till plots of corn, soybeans, tobacco, alfalfa, clover, peppers and tomatoes to field day visitors.

At the field day you will be able to take a first hand look at some 25 herbicide treatments for corn planted in sod, 30 treatments for corn planted in cornstalks, and 3 treatments for soybeans planted in small grain stubble.

UK researchers are testing a mechanical pasture renovator which seeds legumes into grass pastures without tillage. The machine applies a herbicide which helps control the grass while the legumes are becoming established.

Also showing promise as a no-till corn planter, the machine was developed by UK agricultural engineers, and will be demonstrated at the field day.

No-till tobacco planted on different dates, in plots treated with different chemicals, and with different rates and methods of fertilization will be shown to field day visitors.

Information on varieties, insect control, planting dates, water use, liming, and many other topics related to no-till crop production will be presented at the field day.

If you want to find out more about the no-till system of growing crops, you should plan to attend the field day. You can reach the field day site by taking the Newtown Pike exit off I-75, going north (turning left) on Newtown Pike to Ironworks Road, and then west on Ironworks Road until you see a sign showing where to enter Spindletop Farm.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

JULY 11—The Moon decreasing in a fire sign is supposed to be an excellent time to harvest grain (weather permitting). Potatoes dug now will keep well and if you cut weeds they will be slow growing back. The Moon squares Saturn after lunch so stay out of the boss's way if he is old and inclined to be grumpy.

JULY 12—Finish anything you started yesterday while the Moon is still in Aries but look for unexpected after lunch as the Moon will be in opposition to Uranus and it will be mighty easy to get an argument started.

JULY 13—The Moon goes in to Taurus before breakfast so if you are lucky enough to have an appointment this is the right day for having teeth filled or plate impressions made. Also a good time to pour cement, paint or set fence posts. The Moon squares Mars this evening so don't start any quarrels with the opposite sex.

JULY 14—The Moon makes a harmonious aspect to Jupiter at noon and to the Sun this evening so you should have a pleasant day. If you wear new jewelry or clothes, it will be noticed and complimented. A picnic or cook-out will be thoroughly enjoyed by the whole family today.

JULY 15—The Moon goes into the air sign Gemini at mid-morning so if you have any grain to harvest or hay to cut the Moon is in the right sign for quick drying. With the good aspects this evening you will be full of ambition but there is danger of self delusion later when the Moon goes in to opposition to Neptune at bedtime.

JULY 16—The Moon is still in Gemini today so you can finish yesterday's projects. The Sun squares Uranus at mid-morning, may give you a setback in your plans and the Moon square Jupiter in mid-afternoon may cause some needless expenses through negligence; just grin and bear it because tomorrow will be a wonderful day.

JULY 17—The Moon goes in to the water sign, Cancer, at 11:12 a.m. local time, all the aspects are good. The fish will bite this evening so get the bait ready. This is the right time for making sauerkraut, also an excellent time for some home canning. With the Moon conjunct Mercury at 9 p.m., be prepared for some intellectual stimulation.

GENERAL BUTLER EXPANDS FACILITIES

Thirty new paddle boats have been purchased at General Butler State Resort Park in anticipation of an increase in public use of beach facilities this summer.

Park Superintendent Woody Woodcock said he expected the beach facilities at General Butler to better accommodate the growing numbers who frequently visit the resort.

Get Ready To Can

WHY FOODS SOMETIMES SPOIL PART III

Food spoilage in home canning is a real concern of homemakers because first of all, they don't want to endanger the health of the family and secondly, it is discouraging to lose food that has required so much work.

The three causes of food spoilage are:

- (1) obtaining faulty seals,
 - (2) underprocessing,
 - (3) improper handling.
- Each of these may be avoided in most cases by following recommended procedures and methods. Listed below are some of the most common reasons for each of the causes.

1-SEALING FAILURE accounts for 86% of all canning failures.

A—Failure to read and follow instructions on package for using caps and lids is one common cause of sealing failure. All canning caps are not alike so check the package for instructions.

B—Leaving the wrong amount of head space which lifting jars interferes with the vacuum seal. A general guideline for head space is 1 inch for low-acid foods; 1/4 inch for acid foods; 3/4 inch for pickles

- and relishes; 1/8 inch for jams and jellies.
- D—Particles of food, seeds, seasoning, or pulp of fruit on the top of jars threads will prevent a good seal that stays sealed.
- E—Not processing the food the recommended time and method will cause a sealing failure due to insufficient heat.
- F—Another cause might be re-using jars in which commercial foods is sold.
- G—Improper use of the pressure canner such as not exhausting the steam before closing the petcock or letting the pressure fluctuate may cause sealing failures.
- H—The lid of a two-piece metal cap should not be used more than once. This applies to all brands.

2-UNDERPROCESSING can cause food spoilage if recommended procedures, times, and methods are not used. This includes processing pickles and relishes according to the latest information and not using the open-kettle method for any fruits and vegetables.

3-IMPROPER HANDLING covers a broad spectrum of reasons for food spoilage. Follow these rules for success:

- A—Use only products that are young, fresh, and sound. Remove any bruised, discolored spots.
- B—Clean the food thoroughly

- before cutting or breaking the skin.
- C—Pick produce in the "cool of the day" or cool artificially. Can within a few hours. Spoilage organisms grow rapidly in warm heaps of fruits and vegetables.
- D—Cool quickly as recommended in instructions. Do not leave jars to cool in the canner.
- E—Be extra sterile with all equipment.
- F—Store in a dark, cool, dry place.

Watch for signs of food spoilage. Bulging jar lids or rings, leaks, spurting liquid, an off odor, or mold are such signs. Remember, it is possible for canned vegetables or meats to contain the poison-carrying botulism without signs of food spoilage.

1—Handle foods properly before and after canning and be "extra" clean with all supplies to avoid contamination.

2—Use a pressure canner for low-acid vegetables, meats and fish. Follow instructions.

3—For an extra precaution, boil low-acid foods at a rapid boil, uncovered.

Call or visit your local Boone County Extension Service for canning advice and publications. The office is in the Reaser Annex in Burlington and the telephone number is 586-6101, ex. 17.

Tips on job hunting.

Here are a few tips on getting a job after graduation. Upon leaving school, be sure to seek an employer who can meet the following conditions:

—You should receive at least $326 per month spending money after regular monthly expenses and deductions have been paid. Request regular promotions with increases in pay for promotions and for length of employment. And, you should receive your first promotion, and pay raise to $363 after four months, if you qualify.

—Earn 30 days paid vacation per year starting with your first year, if you're newly married (or about to be) your prospective company should agree to pay the doctor and hospital bills (less $3.50 per day) for any children you have while working for them.

—You should be able to continue your education with the company paying 75 percent of the cost. If you are selected for college, your tuition should be paid and your normal salary continued.

—Ask your prospective employer for a clothing allowance of some $300 for initial outfitting for your job and at least $4.50 per month to maintain or replace worn-out clothing. At the same time, request a cost of living allowance and quarters allowance for your wife and family. This should be in the form of $105 to $200 per month added to your regular salary.

—In many locations where you would be expected to work (if you travel) your new employer should be expected to provide swimming pools, tennis courts, bowling alleys, boats, fishing gear, golf courses, movie theaters, libraries and craft or hobby shops including photo labs, depending upon the geographic location. All this for your leisure use.

—The employer should also provide unlimited sick leave with full pay for the entire sick period. Any medical or dental care for yourself should be free, with additional free medical care for your wife and children.

—The prospective company you wish to work for should provide you with a grocery, department and variety store plus laundries, service stations, auto repair and restaurants which reduce your cost of purchase or expense.

—Make sure the company's retirement clause states you may retire after 20 years active service with them at 50 percent pay and 75 per cent at 30 years active service, plus continued free medical care for yourself and dependents.

—You should be able to relocate at regular intervals, travel in the United States or the free world at the company's expense subject to your job assignment. If you are married, you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your permanent move is at the company's request.

—After all this, inform your prospective employer that you want a bonus ranging up to $10,000 in cash after four years with him to stay another six years. This is available in some Navy career fields, if you qualified in one of these selected areas of expertise.

—And then don't forget to let this employer know that you are not experienced in the work but would like to be sent to school at full pay and receive all the company benefits right from the start and through school.

—Now, if your prospective employer can't meet all or most of the requirements you have outlined to him, go see your local Navy Recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer you everything you have asked for above!

SCOTHORN MOTOR CO.

Walter E. Scothorn — Owner

In this day and age when every car maker has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is? Obviously all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We therefore can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from.

The ideal dealer to buy a car from offers a fair price on the new unit as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year.

A dealer that considers the most important part of selling a car the quality service he can offer you after the sale is the SCOTHORN MOTOR CO., with two locations at Highway 20 in Hebron, and 6813 Dixie Highway 20 in Florence, phone 536-6218 or 371-5018, dealers for the famous Imperial, Chrysler, Plymouth, Valiant automobiles and the unexcelled Dodge trucks. See them today for a new or quality used car, and you'll see why we say "Customer Consideration" is their byword.

People from our area will find this a pleasant place to dine while in the area.

DON'T SCRATCH . . .

Don't even itch if you can help it. But if you must itch, don't scratch.

It's that time of the year again—poison ivy time, sunburn time, bug bite time. Scratching improves nothing but your state of mind, and then, only temporarily. Blisters and skin irritations should be treated, but not with your fingernails.

Scratching introduces germs, germs breed infection, and that is bad, explains Actina Life and Casualty, the nation's largest private health insurer.

What do you do instead? Ask your doctor to recommend a soothing ointment or lotion.

Avoid temperature extremes; stay out of the sun and from in front of air conditioners and fans. Don't wear rough clothing next to the irritated area—it'll scratch.

If nothing seems to help, grit your teeth, burn a happy tune, and tackle a job requiring concentration. If the itch gets unbearable, put it gently. And, oh yes, you might try staying away from poison ivy, insects and too much sun. You'll have a much pleasanter summer.

TRAFFIC BUILDING

The Department of Transportation's Bureau of Highways has announced that a project calling for construction of a traffic building in Boone County will be re-advertised at a later date.

The project will consist of construction of a frame and masonry building on the O'Hara Road. The building will be used as a traffic electrician's shop for maintaining traffic signals in the area.

bids taken on the project by the Bureau of Highways in the contract letting of June 20 were rejected after review by the Bureau of Highway's Awards Committee.

Oranges Help Smokers

PEOPLE WHO WANT TO QUIT SMOKING CAN TRY ORANGES INSTEAD.

A research psychologist at the Outspan Organization in Britain conducted an experiment with two groups of confirmed smokers.

There was only one requirement — when they felt the urge to light up, the smokers would eat a piece of orange, preferably sucking the juice out first. After three weeks of controlled orange eating, the number of cigarettes smoked by the groups dropped an average of 74%. Twenty percent of one group quit smoking altogether.

Dr. Edward Hernandez claims the evidence suggests that orange eating is a good substitute for cigarette smoking during an initial period of withdrawal. The effect of citrus fruit, particularly oranges on the palate is similar to the "bite" experience by smoking a cigarette, he says.

There is another interesting fact about smoking and oranges. Smoking reduces the supply of vitamin "C" in the body, while oranges build it up. Some studies show the vitamin contributes to a feeling of well-being and also reduces the duration of colds.

Dr. Hernandez, like every other experts in the field, says the basic requirement for quitting smoking is a strong wish to quit. Oranges are a technique, but the determination to quit is essential for success. When that's there, people find their own way to quit. With oranges or without.

The overwhelming majority of smokers now say they want to quit. Oranges are worth a try.

For more information about ways to quit smoking, contact the Kentucky Lying Association.

IT IS A MATTER OF LIFE AND BREATH.

Bicentennial Homecoming Celebration Gallatin County Announces

THE GALLATIN COUNTY BICENTENNIAL HOMECOMING CELEBRATION WILL BE JULY 19, 20 AND 21 IN WARSAW, KY.

Most of the events in the program will take place on the grounds of Gallatin County High School which is located on U.S. 2. Highlights of the program will be a music show by television personality Kenny Price and an extensive demonstration of spinning and weaving skills by the Kentucky Fleece and Flax Guild.

KENNY PRICE SHOW

Kenny Price will perform on Saturday evening at 9:00 o'clock. This will be a rousing program of Country-Western music to last approximately two hours. Tickets will be $4.00 for adults and $2.00 for children at the gate. Advance tickets are available.

The Kentucky Fleece and Flax Guild is a Louisville-based organization dedicated to the preservation of the old-time skills of spinning and weaving. At their demonstration, wool will be sheared from the sheep, carded, spun, dyed by the use of vegetable dyes, and woven or knitted into fabrics.

The Guild dresses in authentic costumes and many use antique spinning wheels. These spinning wheels have been restored and put into working condition by the Guild members.

Throughout their demonstration, the Guild members give explanations of their work and allow the visitors to examine the product of their labors.

HELICOPTER RIDES

Other features of the program will include helicopter rides provided by Cincinnati Airways.

The helicopter rides will provide the passenger with a view of scenic Gallatin County and Markland Dam which will be most unique.

FLEA MARKET

There will also be a Flea Market with dealers from both local organizations and other parts of the Mid-West.

Anyone familiar with the Flea Market situation in the Mid-West knows that there is a veritable mountain of old articles that have value if the right person finds them. The Flea Market at the Gallatin County Bicentennial will be the place to search for that piece of treasure.

Y'all come, now, ye hear, said a spokesman for the celebration.

FUEL & FOOD

By JOE CLAXON

Here are some facts about food and fuel.

Farming—the actual production of food and fiber—consumes about three percent (3%) of the total energy used in the U.S.

Production of food and fiber in all their parts—manufactured inputs, growing, processing, transporting, wholesaling, retailing, refrigerating, and cooking—account for up to thirteen percent (13%) of the total U.S. energy requirement.

In 1960, farming in the U.S. used four percent (4%) of all energy, and in 1939 about three percent (3%), the same as today. So the proportion of the total used in farming has changed hardly at all in 35 years. Consequently, continued and even expanded use of fuel in farming would make virtually no impact on agriculture's share of the nation's energy supply.

Agriculture cannot turn back the clock to 1939 when it consumed 1.6 billion gallons of petroleum products, compared to 6.5 billion gallons in 1972. We do not have the land, manpower, or the horses and mules to produce today's volume of production with 1939's technology.

Here is what it would take:

(1) 669 million acres of land, instead of the 296 million acre acres harvested in 1972. About 81 million acres would be needed just to feed the horses and mules.

(2) 16.5 million people in the farm work force instead of the 4.4 million now working on farms.

(3) There would only be 1.5 million tractors on farms rather than today's 4.5 million larger tractors.

(4) We would need 27 million horses and mules to replace the tractors.

City Council Passes Two New Ordinances

The Walton City Council met in regular session on July 9, 1974. Members present were Mayor Sam Gamble, who conducted the meeting, Mr. Kent, Mr. Vest, Mr. Norris, Mr. Nicholson and Mr. Denny.

Guests were John Stephenson and daughter of Clearwater, Fla. Mr. Stephenson was water Superintendent for many years.

Attorney Joseph F. Bamberger, representing Leonard Construction Company, was checking project on Stephenson Mill Road. Errors in construction on Ky. 16 are to be corrected after Committee meets with Mr. Leonard on Thursday at 5:30 P.M. Mr. Leonard asked for City of Walton portion which is $5,130.00.

Mrs. Lucile Hetterman and Mrs. Christine Thompson of Walton Literary Club were present to ask the City to participate in the Ecology Drive. Club would like a location to store paper and cans. Council will check for a location.

John Fields, electric inspector, was present. Council and City Attorney will check with county so electrical inspection will be the same regulation.

Greg Turner will be sworn in as Fire Police Officer as soon as an ordinance can be prepared.

Two ordinances were read and approved and appear in the Walton Advertiser on July 18 and 25.

Goshen Christian Missionary Meeting

Mrs. Ruby Worthington was the hostess for the July meeting of the Goshen Christian Missionary meeting held at the church.

Mrs. Esther Glenn conducted the meeting and gave a prayer. Roll call was given by the members giving a Bible verse that contained the word "free."

The Sunshine report showed 39 cards had been sent out and 19 visits made to the sick.

A very nice luncheon was enjoyed following the business session.

The lesson in the afternoon was in the book of Acts with Rachel Daniels as program leader. All ladies took part.

Those present were Mesdames Esther Glenn, Ruth Worthington, Goldie Glenn, Rachel Daniels, Hazel Mullins, Lillian Elliott, Nannie Cliff Fisk, Georgia Cornelius, Eula LaFollette, Mary Cook, Ruby Worthington, Faye Bray and one child, Derek Cook.

The program leader for August will be Hazel Mullins with Rachel Daniels as hostess. The word will be "serve."

BANNER WINNERS

The winning banner at this year's "Banner Day" at Riverfront Stadium was a creation by the R. A. and J.D. Brewer families of Columbus.

Runner-up award was captured by Jim Borgman and Kathy Thompson who repeatedly spend about 180 hours in finishing their banner built around the slogan, "Ours in October."

More than 1200 persons, of all ages, displayed banners between games on July 7th.

Boone County Road Improvement

Secretary of Transportation Billy Paxton has announced that the Bureau of Highways has awarded a contract in the amount of $215,536 for road improvement in Boone County.

According to Paxton, the contract was awarded to Eaton Asphalt Paving Company, Inc., of Lexington, Kentucky.

The contract calls for blacktopping the Constance-Hebron-Petersburg Road (KY 20) from the Kenton County line to the project marker east of the school in Petersburg. The total length of the project is 13.1 miles, excluding approximately 1.4 miles of new construction at 1376.

The contract also includes blacktopping the Price Pike (KY 1017) from U.S. 26 and U.S. 42 in Florence to the end of the construction limits of 1-73, a distance of approximately one mile.

Walton Sewer Project Has Go-Ahead

As of Monday morning, the City of Walton has their go ahead for the Sewer Project.

The City lacked some funds, but the Environmental Protection Agency has come up with the additional funds for the sewer project.

A meeting will be held Wednesday, July 17th at 7:30 p.m. with Attorney John Hartman and the Walton City Council in order to sign the contract with the contractors.

The digging of the sewers is scheduled to begin in two to three weeks.

Volunteers Say "Thanks"

The Verona Fire Department wishes to thank everyone who helped in any way of making their picnic a success. To the ones who took ads; who donated prizes and especially for all who came out and supported the fire department.

The Ladies Auxiliary wants to also thank everyone who donated cakes and pies.

Again we say thanks and a big thanks to the Walton Advertiser for doing a fine job in advertising for us.

—Thanks,
—MILES STRONG (Chief)

Registration Date Draws Near For Fair Contest

If you are a girl between the ages of 3 and 8 years old and live in Kenton County and want to enter the contest—better hurry! Deadline for all applications is July 29, 1974.

The contest will be on August 13th at the fair grounds.

For an application and contest rules, send a self-addressed envelope to Peggy McEntire, 5825 Wynola Ave., Independence, Ky., or call 356-7785.

Ladies Auxiliary Installs New Officers

The July 9th meeting of the Pioneer-Flakburg Ladies Auxiliary was called to order by the president, Eula LaFollette. Roll call was answered by ten ladies.

The auditing chairman, Audrey Ferguson, read the years progress which showed the Auxiliary had a successful year. The auxiliary wants to thank everyone who donated toward the projects for the past year and please continue to donate to this worthy cause. The newsletter was presented to the members and it will soon be sent out to all members of the Fire Department.

Highlights of 1973-74 were read by the retiring president which showed the Auxiliary had a busy year.

The new officers were installed by Edrolia Goshorn. They were: President, Ruth Worthington; Vice Pres., Leatha Woods; Secretary, Audrey Ferguson; Treasurer, Georgia Roland. Others were reporter, Carol Chapman; sunshine reporter, Donna Williams; and ways and means, Hazel Vickers and her committee, Wanda Willenburg, Georgia Roland, Eula LaFollette and Blanche Willenburg.

The new president took her office and plans were made for the Fair "booth" at the Kenton Co. Fair and the Calendar Sale. They ask all people in the community to donate to these projects.

Those present were Audrey Ferguson, Edrolia Goshorn, Georgia Roland, Hazel Vickers, Donna Williams, Blanche Willenburg, Georgia Cornelius, Ruth Worthington, Wanda Willenburg, and Eula LaFollette.

5,350 Welfare Recipients Get Work

Nearly 5,350 welfare recipients have found employment through a Kentucky Department for Human Resources' Work Incentive (WIN) program in the 23 months it has concentrated on placing people directly in jobs, Laurel W. True, secretary of Human Resources announced.

They found the jobs between July 1, 1972 and May 31, 1974.

Participants in the WIN program are employable persons receiving Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC). As the result of a shift in emphasis under the 1971 Social Security Amendments, WIN stresses referral to jobs rather than training.

Of the 5,331 persons, 4,382 took jobs for which there was no public subsidy. Of them:

—376 no longer required assistance from AFDC;

—178 continued to receive small AFDC payments because of family size or other reasons;

—671 had not yet worked at the job three months by May 31 and therefore their future welfare status was undetermined.

Of the remaining 2,519 persons:

—56 were in public service employment or on-the-job training; and 2,363 left their jobs in the first 90 days but were still being helped to find work.

Employers pay 576 of the WIN participants claimed the job development tax credit. This amounts to 20 percent of the employee's first-year wages and is allowed only if the employee is kept on the job a second year or terminates through no fault of the employer.

Council Wishes To Clarify Issue

Walton City Council wishes to clarify a matter regarding the matter of whether Willard Rowsey was fired or resigned from the position of Waterworks Supt. with the City of Walton.

Enclosed below are two letters from Mr. Rowsey to Walton City Council, and the action taken by the council on May 14, 1974.

Regular Meeting, May 14, 1974, of Walton City Council. Mayor Sam Gamble called the meeting to order. Members present: Mr. Norris, Mr. Peebles, Mr. Nicholson, Mr. Kent, and Mr. Vest.

Mr. Rowsey's contract is due to be renewed. Rules and regulations were given to him to approve.

Motion by Mr. Peebles to hire Mr. Rowsey for one year; seconded by Mr. Norris; vote 5 aye; no nay; motion carried.

May 19, 1974

Mayor Gamble and Members of Council Walton, Ky. Gentlemen:

Please be informed, that after careful consideration of duties and guide lines given me last Tuesday and evaluation of attitudes, both good and bad of those which I'm required to cooperate.

I find I'm no longer interested in trying to pursue the position of Water Superintendent and tender my resignation. I ask that I be relieved as soon as my replacement is available.

To those who have offered assistance and expressed appreciation, instead of ridicule and criticism, I wish good luck and success.

Respectfully
Willard Rowsey

Mayor Gamble
Walton, Ky.

Please be informed, that after careful consideration of duties and guide lines given me last Tuesday and evaluation of attitudes, both good and bad of those which I'm required to cooperate.

I find I'm no longer interested in this position of Water Superintendent and tender my resignation. I ask that I be relieved as soon as possible.

To those who have offered assistance and expressed appreciation, instead of ridicule, criticism and, or indifference, I wish good luck and success.

Respectfully
Yours "Bill"

Special Meeting—
May 23, 1974

Mr. Denny read the resignation of Willard Rowsey, Superintendent of Water Works.

Motion by Mr. Kent to accept the resignation as read.

Seconded by Mr. Peebles.

Affends Workshop In London, England

Mrs. Catherine Fagan of Walton, Route 2, is among 15 women in a Murray State University summer workshop group now in London, England, to study the open classroom plan in British Infant and Junior Schools.

The workshop group is living at Westfield College, Hampstead, London N.W.1 while abroad. After spending part of the first week of the workshop on the Murray State campus studying concepts and setting up objectives, the group departed Thursday, July 4.

A three-week program of lectures, seminars and workshops conducted by specialists from the University of London and other English schools is planned for the participants before the workshop concludes July 26.

Workshop participants are earning six hours of graduate credit in elementary education.

Supervision A "Must" For Children Around The Water, Red Cross Warns

For the thousands of youngsters who this summer will be joining in the nation's most popular sports—swimming and boating—mere seconds of inattention could be fatal, the Cincinnati Area Red Cross has warned.

"Lack of responsible supervision is a major cause of drowning among small children," said Bill B. Ramey, Volunteer Chairman of water safety for the Cincinnati Area Chapter. "Even though they know how to swim, young children in and around the water should always wear some sort of personal flotation device."

He added that in a boat, a youngster can sometimes slip overboard even with good supervision. If he is wearing some sort of flotation device—preferably a life jacket—the chances of coming out of the water unharmed are considerably better, Ramey says.

He stressed that every parent, especially those who live close to a natural body of water, should be sure their children know the fundamentals of swimming as well as the ways in which water accidents can be prevented.

He cited these additional water safety rules for swimmers, young and old:

—Never swim alone! Make sure someone is nearby who can help.

—Swim at a safe bathing place, preferably one with lifeguards.

—Don't swim when overheated, overdrunk, or right after eating.

—Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and has no hidden objects.

—Know your ability, distance over the water is misleading.

Make every trip to the water a safe one.

Get Ready To Can

By NANCY NORMAN
 SPECIAL QUESTIONS ABOUT CANNING

The basic information regarding canning has been covered in preceding articles and special questions will be considered in this one.

Q—Can I omit sugar and/or salt?

A—Commercially prepared special diet foods are often costly.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

JULY 18—Plan on doing some home canning during the morning hours and put some of that surplus garden away for the hard winter ahead. If you have any cabbage this is an ideal time to make sauer kraut. If you are going to do any baking, the yeast dough will rise exceptionally well today. With the ideal aspect to Jupiter coming up in the afternoon, plan a picnic and take your fishing poles along.

JULY 19—We have a new Moon at 5:29 a.m. local time so today is ideal for forming new friendships or having a first date. Also, a good day for sports activities—baseball, golf or tennis. The fish will bite until noon then the Moon moves in to the fire sign, Leo, and the fishing will be poor until the 25th.

JULY 20—Plan on a full day of sports this Saturday and really enjoy yourself. Don't waste time fishing but take a good boat ride and try some swimming to cool off. It is not too late to get that first date if you want a lasting impression. End the evening at a good dance or musical and go to bed happy.

JULY 21—Don't plan too much this Sunday. Try to stay off the highways after church and relax in the shade. A good day to write letters and plan for the future, but a poor day to take direct action.

JULY 22—The Moon increasing in Virgo is the time to have those bad teeth extracted so the gums will heal nicely. The Moon sextiles Saturn at daybreak and Venus at noon so you will be inclined to make a sensible approach to any legal matters you have been putting off. Also a good day to travel if you find it necessary.

JULY 23—You can visit your dentist in the morning hours. The Moon goes into the air sign, Libra, at noon so plan on beauty treatments in the afternoon. Get a permanent, manicure, or possibly a haircut. Anything you have done you will be pleased with and you will feel ready for a good party.

JULY 24—The morning hours will be a little depressing with the Moon, Mercury and Saturn in bad aspect. Just keep your own council until noon. Do some house cleaning or baking and don't plan any long trips. After lunch, think of someone nice and invite them over for the evening and you will have an enjoyable time.

You can save dollars by canning your own diet foods at home.

Fruits and fruit juices may be safely canned at home without using sugar because sugar is used mainly for retention of shape and for enhancing the flavor. Sugar does not prevent spoilage; processing time is the same for unsweetened fruits as for sweetened. Jams, jellies, pickles and tomato sauce can be made by substituting artificial sweeteners for sugar. Sometimes special recipes are required for jellies.

Vegetables, meats, etc. can be canned at home. The amount called for in the recipes is too small to help prevent spoilage; it is there only for seasonings.

Q—What caused "this?"

A—Do you notice an unusual condition about the product and wonder if it is safe to eat and how it could be prevented?

Examples of such conditions would be foods darken at the top of the jar or the fruit floats in the jar or some foods change color.

To find the cause and prevention of these conditions, consult a canning manual from the County Extension Service or equipment manufacturer.

Q—I would like to exhibit some of my canned foods. How would I go about this and are there any special considerations?

A—There are several classes at the Boone County Fair for canned fruits and vegetables, pickles and relishes, jams and jellies. The dates of the 1974 Fair are August 5-10 and exhibits will be entered on Monday, August 5, between 2 and 7 p.m.

Standards for good judging home canned food are the same as those you strive for at family use. Attractive produce that is at its peak and uniform in size, color is one such guideline.

Another would be observing good canning techniques such as in choosing jars and lids, packing the jar, allowing correct headspace, having proper amounts of liquid, etc.

Uniform judging guidelines require the use of standard jars and two-piece metal lids with the screw band removed. Pickles, relishes, jams and jellies will be opened for tasting and checking the texture.

Boat Mufflers Cuts Noise Level

Water Enforcement Administrator Doug Shoulters says a motor boat muffling law will soon do for Kentucky's waterways what the highway muffling law does for the highways. It will reduce the noise level.

The passage of House Bill 176 by the 1974 General Assembly amends KRS 236 to make it "illegal (for any person) to operate any motor boat without an effective exhaust muffling system, or in any manner which renders the exhaust muffling system ineffective in muffling the sound of engine exhaust."

AN ORDINANCE ACCEPTING AND CONFIRMING WATER MAIN AND WATER PIPE INSTALLATION ON STEPHENSON MILL AND SCHOOL ROADS AND LEVYING AN ASSESSMENT TAX UPON EACH LOT FOR THE COST OF THE IMPROVEMENT.

WHEREAS, the City of Walton has passed Resolutions and Ordinances authorizing the construction and installation of water main and pipe on Stephenson Mill and School Roads pursuant to Ordinance Number 1973-5 and other related ordinances and resolutions, and

WHEREAS, pursuant to KRS Chapter 94 the City Engineer has furnished the Clerk with a Certificate of Apportionment, and

WHEREAS, the City Council has inspected and approved and accepted the work and confirmed the Certificate, notice having been given pursuant to KRS Chapter 424;

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I

That the water main and pipe installation on School Road and Stephenson Mill Road be and the same is hereby accepted, and the letter and report written by the Inspecting Committee attached hereto is incorporated by reference herein as if the same were herein after set forth.

SECTION II

That ten (10) percent of the assessable funds be retained and held by the City until the minor corrections set forth in the report in Section I above are complete, at which time the Mayor and City Clerk are hereby authorized and ordered to pay over said retained amount to the appropriate parties.

SECTION III

That the letter from the City Engineer, James Ransom to the City Council, attached hereto, the same being the Certificate of Apportionment, is hereby incorporated by reference herein as if the same were herein after set forth. That the costs for this improvement are hereby apportioned pursuant to said letter and that an assessment tax is hereby levied on each lot or parcel belonging to the particular party mentioned in said letter to the extent therefore set forth.

SECTION IV

That payment pursuant to said assessment tax is to be made in cash within thirty (30) days after the adoption and publication of this ordinance and shall carry a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of said assessment and bear interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum if paid thereafter.

SECTION V

The Mayor and City Clerk are hereby authorized and ordered to pay pursuant to the contents of this ordinance the appropriate parties for the installation, construction and labor involving said water main and system.

SECTION VI

This ordinance shall be in full force and effect when passed and published as required by law.

STEPHENSON MILL WATER MAIN INSPECTION

Saturday, April 20, 1974, 9:30 A.M.

Present

Mr. Sam Gamble, Mayor

Mr. Dave Peebles, Public Works Committee

Mr. Bill Rowsey, Public Works Director

Mr. Raymond Lonkard, Contractor

Mr. James E. Ransom, Engineer

The entire line was inspected and no protests from property owners. The Contractor was in the process of making restoration on School Road but had not started on Stephenson Mill Road.

Rocks to be removed from area and ditches made to drain. The opposite side of the road needs some restoration in places where equipment has rutted ditches and where pea gravel was stocked piled. These areas to be ditched so water will drain.

It was decided during inspection to issue a change order for two 12 inch culverts under to Macadam drives so that water will not stand and damage the roadway. Mr. Rowsey to get a quote price from Mr. Lonkard Monday before change order is issued.

The School Zone sign at Alta Vista to be turned around.

This line and the Kentucky 14 & 16 line to be retested and measure the amount of water required to bring the pressure back to 150 psi after a two hour test.

The Committee recommends the job be accepted and the assessment ordinance passed. The Committee also recommends the 10% be retained pending the completion of the above punch list.

Respectfully Submitted

LIFETIME JUSTICES

"Absurdity and Inconsistency"

by

M. GENE SNYDER
U. S. Congressman
4th District, Kentucky

The 198th anniversary of the proclaiming by Congress, July 4, 1776, of the Declaration of Independence, causes one to think of the author of that magnificent document, Thomas Jefferson.

In school we learn a great deal about this man, but I wager few of us recall the stern warnings he uttered on the danger in the lifetime appointment of Supreme Court Justices.

In our time, we have come to feel the very real impact of Supreme Court decisions of the type that Jefferson foresaw and feared. Major, unpopular decisions have penetrated our personal lives very deeply.

All of our densely populated areas have the threat of court-ordered busing staring them in the face. Yet, men and women elected by the people to the House of Representatives in the present and past Congress, twice have voted to ban busing beyond the school second nearest to any child's home. Each of the two anti-busing votes was two and a half to one or better! The Senate, unfortunately, voted the measure down each time, this past occasion by only one vote.

In June of 1971, I introduced in Congress a Constitutional Amendment which would limit the term of office for the Supreme Court and inferior court justices to six years, unless they were renominated by the President and reconfirmed by the Senate.

In March of this year, I reintroduced the Amendment in the 93rd Congress. Thomas Jefferson called for such action. For example, on July 2, 1822, he wrote the following in a letter to William T. Barry:

"We already see the power, installed for life, responsible to no authority, (for impeachment isn't even a scare-crow), advancing with a noiseless and steady pace. The foundations are already deeply laid by their decisions, for the annihilation of constitutional States rights... Before the canker is... beyond control, remedy should be applied. Let the future appointments of judges be for six years, and renewable by the President and the Senate... That there should be public functionaries independent of the nation... is... of the first order of absurdity and inconsistency."

My Constitutional Amendment limiting the Justices' term, would, in Jefferson's words to Barry, "bring their conduct, at regular periods, under revision and probation."

Statement of Nondiscrimination

"OWEN COUNTY RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE CORPORATION has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

"Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 90 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purpose of the Rules and Regulations."

Red River Lake Statement Is Filed

The final Environmental Impact Statement on the Red River Lake multi-purpose water resources project in Eastern Kentucky has been filed with the Council on Environmental Quality in Washington, it has been announced by the Louisville District of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Louisville District has mailed copies of the statement to all governmental agencies, groups and individuals who filed comments on the Draft Environmental Impact Statement last summer. Any other interested person which desires single copies of the statement may obtain one by writing: District Engineer, Louisville Engineer District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 59, Louisville Ky. 40201.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all of my friends and relatives for all the prayers, visits, cards, phone calls, help with the farm work and other acts of kindness shown me and my family during my illness, while in the hospital and while I am convalescing at home.

Tips on job hunting.

Here are a few tips on getting a job after graduation. Upon leaving school, be sure to seek an employer who can meet the following conditions:

—You should receive at least $326 per month spending money after regular monthly expenses and deductions have been paid. Request regular promotions with increases in pay for promotions and for length of employment. And, you should receive your first promotion, and pay raise to $363 after four months, if you qualify.

—Earn 30 days paid vacation per year starting with your first year, if you're newly married (or about to be) your prospective company should agree to pay the doctor and hospital bills (less $3.50 per day) for any children you have while working for them.

—You should be able to continue your education with the company paying 75 percent of the cost. If you are selected for college, your tuition should be paid and your normal salary continued.

—Ask your prospective employer for a clothing allowance of some $300 for initial outfitting for your job and at least $4.50 per month to maintain or replace worn-out clothing. At the same time, request a cost of living allowance and quarters allowance for your wife and family. This should be in the form of $105 to $200 per month added to your regular salary.

—In many locations where you would be expected to work (if you travel) your new employer should be expected to provide swimming pools, tennis courts, bowling alleys, boats, fishing gear, golf courses, movie theaters, libraries and craft or hobby shops including photo labs, depending upon the geographic location. All this for your leisure use.

—The employer should also provide unlimited sick leave with full pay for the entire sick period. Any medical or dental care for yourself should be free, with additional free medical care for your wife and children.

—The prospective company you wish to work for should provide you with a grocery, department and variety store plus laundries, service stations, auto repair and restaurants which reduce your cost of purchase or expense.

—Make sure the company's retirement clause states you may retire after 20 years active service with them at 50 percent pay and 75 per cent at 30 years active service, plus continued free medical care for yourself and dependents.

—You should be able to relocate at regular intervals, travel in the United States or the free world at the company's expense subject to your job assignment. If you are married, you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your permanent move is at the company's request.

—After all this, inform your prospective employer that you want a bonus ranging up to $10,000 in cash after four years with him to stay another six years. This is available in some Navy career fields, if you qualified in one of these selected areas of expertise.

—And then don't forget to let this employer know that you are not experienced in the work but would like to be sent to school at full pay and receive all the company benefits right from the start and through school.

—Now, if your prospective employer can't meet all or most of the requirements you have outlined to him, go see your local Navy Recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer you everything you have asked for above!

— ORDINANCE NO. 1974-27 —

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF ALTA VISTA DRIVE, IN THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, BY THE WIDENING OF EACH LANE OF THE EXISTING PAVING AT THE MEDIANS BY EIGHTEEN INCHES AND BY RESURFACING THE ENTIRE STREET FROM ITS INTERSECTION WITH EXISTING PAVING ON DIXIE HIGHWAY S 58-15 W 84 FEET AND S 42-51 W 1044 FEET WITH THREE INCHES OF BITUMINOUS PAVING SAID IMPROVEMENT ALSO TO CONSIST OF GUTTERS AND ALL NECESSARY CURBS AND SUPPORTING FACILITIES; DECLARING SAID IMPROVEMENT TO BE A "STAGE" IMPROVEMENT; PROVIDING FOR THE ADVERTISEMENT OF BIDS FOR SAID PROJECT AND FOR THE ASSESSMENT OF SAID COSTS OF SAID IMPROVEMENT AGAINST THE PROPERTY FRONTING AND/OR ABUTTING SAID IMPROVEMENT.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky deems it necessary that the said Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton, Kentucky, be improved by the construction and resurfacing of said street pursuant to this Ordinance, complete with curbs, gutters and all necessary supporting facilities from Alta Vista Drive's intersection with the existing paving on Dixie Highway S 58-15 W 204 feet and S 42-51 W 1044 feet, all being in the City of Walton, Kentucky; and

WHEREAS, said improvement is deemed to be necessary for the general health and welfare of the citizens of the City of Walton and in the best interest of the City and its citizens;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky does ordain as follows:

SECTION I

That if hereby ordered and requires construction and improvement of Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton Boone County, Kentucky, from it's intersection with existing paving on Dixie Highway (US 25) S 58-15 W 204 feet and thence S 42-51 W 1044 feet by revising the approach to the median, and by widening each line of the existing paving at the medians eighteen (18) inches and by resurfacing the entire street with three (3) inches of bituminous paving. Further, it hereby orders and requires the addition of concrete curbs, gutters, and all necessary supporting facilities. Construction and improvement areas are those set out in the attached drawing which is hereby declared to be a part of this ordinance and is incorporated herein as if the same were herein after set forth.

SECTION II

Said improvement shall be made in accordance with the plans, grades and specifications prepared by the City Engineer; and these said plans, grades and specifications are hereby approved by this Council and all of the said plans, grades and specifications for the improvement herein ordered are hereby adopted by this Council as the plans and grades and specifications for the improvement ordinance as if fully set out herein. Said plans, grades and specifications are available to bidders through the City Clerk, Main Street, Walton, Kentucky

SECTION III

Said improvement is hereby declared to be a "stage" improvement and installation of sidewalks, storm sewer drains, and sewer improvements, and additional improvements deemed necessary by the City Council of the City of Walton will be required for the improvement to be complete.

SECTION IV

The City Council hereby declares said improvement to be a necessity and the materials provided for in said plans and specifications to be suitable therefore and the City Clerk is hereby ordered to advertise for sealed proposals for the performing of said work and the furnishing of said materials by the insertion of an advertisement in the Walton Advertiser, Walton, Kentucky, once week for two (2) consecutive weeks prior to the date set for the opening of said sealed proposals. Said advertisement will require the prospective for which they will furnish said material and said work according to said plans and specifications. Said proposals shall be accompanied by certified check or a bid bond in the amount of five percent (5) of the bid and sealed proposals or bids shall be opened and read before the Council at it's regular meeting of the thirteenth day of August, 1974, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P.M. Boone County time. Said City hereby specifically reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The contractor whose bid is accepted shall enter into a written contract with the City of Walton, Kentucky, and execute a bond with surety acceptable to the Council in the sum equal to one hundred percent (100) of the bid. Said bond shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of said contract. The contractor shall complete said work within ninety (90) days of the date said bid is accepted and the contract entered into by the said Council; provided, however, that said time may be extended for a reasonable period of time in the discretion of the Council, if the contractor is prevented from completing said work in time, without any fault of his part.

All of said work to be done under direction of the City Council and the City Engineer. The Engineer of the City of Walton, Kentucky, shall be the referee in all decisions pertaining to the completion of the improvement herein ordered and his decision shall be final whenever the compliance with the plans, estimates and specifications are involved, but the City Council may reject said work if it is not done in a workmanlike manner and to its satisfaction. The City Engineer is hereby required to report to the Council when said improvement is ready for acceptance and he shall prepare a full and complete "certificate of apportionment" showing the total cost of the improvement, the number of assessable units of benefited property, according to the number of feet abutting on said improvement, the cost per assessed unit, the names of the owners of benefited property, according to the number of assessable units owned by each person. Said "certificate of apportionment" shall be delivered in duplicate by the City Clerk to the Council by a copy thereof transmitted by the City Clerk to the Council and the City Attorney.

The Council, upon receipt of the "certificate of apportionment" shall delegate its public works committee to inspect the work and report to the Council as to whether same be accepted. The committee shall fix a time and place at which it will inspect the work and the City Clerk shall then cause to be published in one (1) issue of the Walton Advertiser, a newspaper of general circulation in this City, a notice stating the time and place so fixed for inspection of said work. The property owners concerned, or their agents or representatives may appear and be heard before the committee as to whether the improvement has been made in accordance with the ordinance and the contract. When the committee is satisfied that the work should be accepted, it shall issue a report to the City Council. If the committee is of the opinion that the work has not been done in acceptance with the contract or the "certificate of apportionment" is incorrect, it may require the contractor to complete work in acceptance with the contract or it may modify the apportionment of costs to conform to the fact, or both.

SECTION V

It is hereby ordered that the entire cost of said improvement shall be ascertained, apportioned, and assessed equally on a front foot basis against the owners of all real estate fronting and/or abutting the herein above described street improvement. A statutory lien prior to all other liens is hereby created on all lots, parts of lots, or parcels of land fronting and/or abutting on said improvement to secure the payment of said assessment.

If, and in the event any state or federal funding can be obtained in the financing of said project, in that event, the respective costs to benefited abutting property owners will be proportionately reduced.

PARTNERSHIP IN THE GOSPEL

(Philippians 1:1-11; 4:10-13)

It is said that when Andrew Fuller went into his native town to collect for the cause of missions, one of his old acquaintances said, "Well, Andrew, I'll give five pounds, seeing it's you." "No," said Mr. Fuller, "I can't take anything for this cause seeing it's me," and handed the money back. The man felt, reprieved, but in a moment he said, "Andrew, you are right: here are ten pounds, seeing it's for the Lord Jesus Christ."

This must have been the spirit of Paul as he received gifts from the Philippian Church. This must have been their attitude as they gave their gifts to Paul.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES

Philippians 1:1-2

In Acts 16:8-40 we are given the account of Paul and his companions coming to the city of Philippi. They had wanted to preach in Asia, but were forbidden by the Holy Spirit. They then would have gone into the region of Bithynia, but the Holy Spirit would not allow them. Then they came to Thracia where Paul received a vision of a man of Macedonia calling them to come and help them. They immediately left for Macedonia and to the city of Philippi.

You will remember that it was in this city Paul met Lydia and she was converted to Christ. It was also here that Paul and Silas were thrown in jail and resulted in the conversion of the Philippian jailor.

So a church was founded here in Philippi and it became a great-hearted church. When Paul was in Thessalonica, the Christians at Philippi sent gifts to him time and again. This church was very dear to Paul.

Paul had founded the church on his second missionary journey about 49 A.D. He now writes to them, probably from his Roman prison, about 59 or 60 A.D. We cannot be exact about the date. Paul writes to express his gratitude and joy for the cooperation they have given Christ and Paul.

THE COOPERATION

Philippians 1:3-11

Paul thanks God everytime they come into his mind. He is thankful for their fellowship in the Gospel from the first day of their existence as a church. The word "fellowship" means participation, partnership, cooperation, sharing together.

Paul knew that it was God who had saved them and had given them generous hearts. Paul further knew that God would continue to work in them until Christ returned.

Verse 7 indicates the place these Christians had in Paul's life. Even in prison as he made his defense of the gospel and as his claims were vindicated, the Philippian Christians were sharing with him in his grace.

The apostle was not merely scattering flowers or playing on their feelings. In verse 8 he offers God as Witness that he yearns for them in an affection which comes from Jesus Christ. He loved them. They are very dear unto him. But they are not perfect. He will pray for them. He will pray that their love may increase and overflow.

This is no prayer for sentimental love. He is concerned that their love be enlightened. He wanted the love to be moral insight. They must come to the place where they would be able to make the proper moral choices. This is sorely needed among Christians today.

Verse 10 calls for a testing of things with the possibility of proving them. In other words, they needed to discern the things that really matter. Paul would have them to be sincere and without offence. Their characters must be crystal clear. Every Christian should "take care" that he offend no one until Christ returns.

Verse 11 indicates that Christians ought to be filled with fruits of righteousness. But these fruits are the results of the working of Jesus Christ in the Christian. They are to the praise and glory of God.

THE CONTENTMENT

Philippians 4: 10-13

Even though Paul is in prison, he can and does rejoice. His attitude and emotions are not controlled by his circumstances. He rejoices in the Lord. He rejoices greatly!

For some time, there had been no gifts from them. Now their gifts were again reaching him. It was not that they had ceased to care but they had no opportunity. Paul was not rejoicing over the gifts themselves but over their meaning.

Paul had learned contentment. What a needed lesson this is today. Contentment must be learned. One must be instructed in how to accept poverty or prosperity. This is within the reach of every child of God because we too can do all things through Christ who strengthens us!

CARD OF THANKS—

I want to say thanks for the many cards received and for the flowers sent to my mother's funeral.

Grandpa, why don't you get a hearing aid?
Don't need one Sonny, I hear more now than I can understand.

Etiquette is saying "No thank you, I've had enough ice cream," when you really want more.

"How's your grandfather?"
"He's in his second childhood and back on the bottle."

Mother: "Why didn't you brush your teeth?"
Junior: "The battery's dead."

"And now gentlemen," continued the congressman, "I wish to fax your memory." ...
"Good grief," was the retort of his colleagues, "why haven't we thought of that before?"

"Look, Daddy! A stopped freeway!"

Eight-year-old Kristen pointed at the span of concrete that soared over the road ahead of us and then ended abruptly as if it had encountered an invisible wall.

Two months later, we took a hike in the country. A small trail led us through green fields of waving grass and wildflowers. There the trail ended, gradually, as if reluctant to stop.

Is your life like a freeway—fast, impressive, known to many? Or is it more like a trail—plain, but comfortable, less well-known, but quite adequate?

It really doesn't matter.

The important question is: Does your life have a goal?

A freeway or trail can end, gradually or abruptly, without ever reaching a specific destination. In God, your life can have a goal. In church, He'll tell you how to reach it.

Airman Parr, who was trained to compute aircraft loads and to deliver material and supplies by parachute, is being assigned to Charleston AFB, S.C. for duty with a unit of the Military Airlift Command.

He is a 1971 graduate of Grove City High School.

Anyone who has ever wanted to have a garage sale but does not have a garage here is your chance. BAWAC, INC., a Workshop and Activity Center for Disabled Adults, is celebrating its one and a half years of existence with a Community Bazaar to be held on the shop's front lawn July 24 and 25 from 10-5.

They are renting space on the front lawn to anyone interested in selling anything from handicraft items to white elephants. There will, also, be refreshments, a bakesale and a guided tour thru the Workshop which will be in operation those days.

BAWAC is located in the old Hebron School Building at 76 North Bend Road in Hebron, Ky. The phone number is 639-7565.

SK FFA Attends Leadership Training Center

There were 22 Chapters with 217 members that attended the Kentucky FFA Leadership Training Center at Hardinsburg, Ky. during the week of July 8-12. The Simon Kenton Chapter of FFA had 14 members and one advisor that attended. Those members are Gary Riley, Dexter LaFollette, Tim Smith, Peggy Collins, Ben Heeger, Scott Parker, Ricky Courtney, Kevin Pike, Mike Shipman, Dave Roland, Stan Collett, Doug Williams, Carl Parker, Doug Clayton and John Gray, the advisor.

Each morning our day began at 6 A.M., breakfast was from 7 to 8 A.M., and our cabins had to be cleaned for inspection before 8 a.m. Each member attended class from 8 till 11 and Special Interest class from 11 to 12 and from 1 to 2. Lunch was served from 12 to 1. After the Special Interest class was the athletic period, where sports like softball, basketball, horsehoops, swimming and other sports were going on. Supper was from 5:30 to 6:30 P.M. There was also a session at 7:30 P.M. each evening.

The swimming pool was open from 8 to 10 P.M. for anyone who wanted to swim. Lights went out at 10:30 P.M.

There was an award for the cleanest cottage. Our chapter received 377 points out of a possible 400 points, receiving a cottage award.

On the way home from camp, we went to Mammoth Cave and had an enjoyable time.

"Triple Play Action" in Women's Softball League

Last week Pinet Baptist Church pulled a triple "OUT" on Walton Baptist Church No. 1 Women's Softball Team. The action was a line drive to shortstop, to second base and then third base for the last out. However, they weren't fortunate enough to gain a victory as Walton Baptist No. 1 won 21-13. Other results were:

All Saints Baptist..... 1.
New Bethel Baptist..... 2.
Walton Christian..... 3.
New Banklick Baptist..... 4.
Walton Baptist No. 2..... 6.
Richwood Union Presbyterian..... 7.

This week the Women's Area Churches Softball League is spotlighting another new team for this season. The roster for Pinet Baptist Women's Softball Team includes the following: Ladies Mary, Rhonda and Sandra Belev, Cheryl and Donna Byrd, Connie and Edith Childers, Jeff Faeth, Julia and Karen Glacken, Glenna Mann, Laura McMillan, Becky Robinson, Geri Menefee, Darla Spaulding, Mary Saunders, Kim Beighle, Dorothy Warmen, Denise Kidwell, and Rhonda Bell. Julia Glacken is the team's manager assisted with coaching by Edith Childers and Dennis Glacken. Rev. Robert Shettler is the pastor of Pinet Baptist Church.

STAFFORDSBURG

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Keeney and Barry spent the weekend with Rev. and Mrs. Frank Phillips and family of Sommerst, Ky.

Mrs. A. L. Osborne is spending a couple weeks with her daughter helping to care for her new granddaughter.

Johnny Losey spent last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sayles of Ovirton.

Another sudden death in our community that of Cecil Clay, who passed away while fixing a tire.

Harris Mires, who was seriously injured by an over-turned tractor is not much improved.

Frank Lipscomb Sr. is in the hospital with a heart attack and is able to be out of intensive care.

NEW SCHOOL TO OPEN IN WALTON AREA

Families in the Walton area have another choice of schools for their children because a new, independent school is planned to open this September in the school building of All Saints Church. With an enrollment of 30 to 40 students, the school will provide close personal attention and learning activities individually designed for each student.

The school for fifth through twelfth graders will also emphasize: (1) special approaches to learning the basics of math, reading and writing; (2) many outdoor, nature activities; and (3) development of basic values of respect, cooperation and teamwork. Tuition for the school is $400 per year to pay for small salaries, rent and materials.

The teachers and school organizers are Bob Wallace, Dick Asimus and Greg Maynard. They are experienced educators with a total of 16 years accumulated experience, and among them they have two State Teaching Certificates and two Masters Degrees in Education.

The new school has worked out a rental agreement for the Needmore Street school building with the Parish Council and School Board of All Saints Church. The school will be non-denominational. During July the teachers are trying to contact all interested parents and students in the area to discuss the new school. They plan to have an enrollment set by early August.

For more information call Bob Wallace 291-8928 or Dick Asimus 621-9083.

Kenton County Garden Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Wm Straw was hostess at her beautiful country home, 47 McCullum Rd., Independence for the June 27 evening meeting of the Kenton County Garden Club.

Mrs. Straw, president, presided during a short business session. Mrs. Chalmers Ballinger gave an inspirational devotional, using scripture and poetry. She closed with prayer.

Mrs. Ralph Gauge, in theme of "green thumb" hints read some interesting "Flower Fables."

Plans were made for the July meeting - a tour of the University of Kentucky gardens on July 27.

Mr. Wm Straw introduced the guest speaker, Mr. F. F. Flattman of Flatman Co. Inc. of Crescent Springs, Ky. His topic was "Roses." With slides, charts and explanations, he gave a most informative talk on roses, from how to plant them to how to enter a rose show. His own beautiful rose garden is a testimonial of his expert knowledge.

Members answering roll call by naming "My Favorite Rose" were: Mmes. Edwin Damon, Wm Jutcliffe, Ralph Gauge, Wesley Hall, Chalmers Ballinger, William Straw and Misses Margaret Stephens, Elma Taylor and Aike Jane Williams.

St. Clair Service Station Is Sold To C. Armstrong

The Guy St. Clair Texaco gas station, located at the north end of Main Street in Walton, was sold last Saturday to Chester Armstrong for $44,000.00.

Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair have been in business on this corner for nearly 38 years. They plan to move soon to the house purchased from the Mary Alice Conrad heirs on Alta Vista.

The sale was conducted by the Cecil Wayman and Gayle McElroy Realty Companies.

Benefit Softball; WUBE DJs vs City Council COME ONE, COME ALL!!!

See the greatest show on earth on August 1.

The WUBE Disc Jockeys will travel to the City of Walton to take on the "Powerful Hitting team" of the Walton City Council in a Benefit Softball Game for Melvin Collins, who recently has been in the hospital.

Just to mention a few "Powerful Players"—

"Sparky" Kyle Nicholson, manager; Hess "Speed Ball" Vest; Dave "Faster Than A Bullet" Peebles; Royce "Home Run" Denny; Sam "Power House" Gamble; Byron "Southpaw" Kent; and Jack "Triple Play" Norris.

The game will start at 8:00 p.m. on the Walton-Verona High School ball field.

Donations are $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Photos Of Kentucky Mines

Kentucky is going to be observed for a year by ERTS.

That's the acronym for the Earth Resources Technology Satellite, according to Senator Marjorie Cook, that starting at the end of this year will be targeting the Commonwealth as a test site for using orbital cameras to monitor and inspect surface mining operations.

Cook said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington has advised him it has approved a program for photographing the state from a height of 330 miles.

Women's Softball Has Close Game

New Banklick Baptist Church Women's Softball Team gained a victory last week over Flier Baptist in an exciting bottom of the seventh inning with a score of 11 to 10.

The Women's Area Churches Softball League is honoring this new team which will compete at the rosters for the 8 churches in the league for this season.

ROSTER

Cheryl McClain, Nancy and Lee Ann Haubner, Terri Kyle, Melissa Holbrook, Stephanie Grayson, Karen Courtney, Barbara Johnson, Sue Bair, Jeanie Lawson, Robin Mattesi, Bert, Donna and Carla Kidwell, Debbie Wills, Marilyn Young, Kitty Davis, Linda Schadler, Brenda Johnson and Linda Amerson.

The team is managed by Jack Bair and coaches are Steve Powell and Mike Schadler.

Rev. James Johnson is the pastor of New Banklick Baptist Church.

MORE SCORES

Day's games were:

In 8 innings of play at Verona: New Bethel Baptist.....15

Richwood-Union Presbyterian.....14

At the Walton field:

All Saints.....11

Walton Baptist No. 2.....5

Walton Christian.....22

The Eastern against the Western Division Championship game will be August 6th at 7:30 at the Walton field.

Immediately after this game, all managers and coaches are invited to attend a meeting at the home of Rose Raybourne to discuss plans for the all-star and tournament games and the purchasing and presentation of the trophies.

Every 18 days at the same time of day, 100 mile areas of the state will be photographed by ERTS to detect surface mines, mineral resources, agricultural fields and so forth.

MAY NOW BUILD

The Walton Advertiser received word early Tuesday morning that the ban of construction of new houses and businesses has been lifted by the Boone County Health Department.

For several years there has been a restriction against the construction of any new building where plumbing was involved.

Now that the municipal sewer system has been approved, new or remodeling may now be realized with a permit as long as the new structure is to be connected to the sewer line.

No septic tanks are allowed to be installed within the city limits of Walton.

For additional information on securing a building permit, call Don McMillan at 485-4555.

Golden Wedding Observance On August 4

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Overbay of Verona, Kentucky will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary on August 4th with "open house" 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. at their home.

Mr. Overbay is retired from L&N Railroad.

They have eight children—Mrs. Lela Pernell, Covington; Mrs. Elsie Beach, Walton; Mrs. Christine Wight, Hebron; Mrs. Margie McKinley, Independence; Mrs. Martha Tomlin, Walton; Edward Overbay, Covington; Buddy Overbay, Verona.

Their eldest son, Lawrence, died June 14, 1973, during open heart surgery in Alabama.

Relatives and friends are invited to join them for this happy occasion.

New Face In Town

Have you seen this young lady? Her name is Ebony's Mist Monday. She is the three week old filly of Ebony Mist who won the state 4-H Walking Horse Championship in 1971. Misty and Melody are owned by Debby Lamb and all visitors are welcome to step by and see them at Valley Green Farm on Stephenson Mt Rd. in Verona.

Boone County 4-H Campers

Construction Expected To Begin Soon

The City of Walton held a "special" meeting on July 17, 1974, at the City Building in Walton, Kentucky. This meeting was called in order to sign the contracts with Beckman and Sweitzer Construction Incorporated, who are the contractors for the Sewer Project in the City of Walton.

Vacation Bible School At Sherman Full Gospel

Sherman Full Gospel Assembly announces Vacation Bible School July 29 thru August 3.

Classes begin each evening at 6:30 and continue until 9:00 for ages 3 through 16 years.

Commencement will be held on Sunday evening, August 5th at 7:30, everyone is welcome.

Boone Receives Federal Funds

Under a grant signed here today by Gov. Wendell H. Ford, Boone County will receive $324 in federal funds to cover expenses paid by the county's juvenile court judge while he attended a conference on Juvenile Justice held earlier this year.

An additional $108 in local matching money will be provided by the Boone County Fiscal Court.

The grant was one of a larger package of grants totaling slightly over $1.3 million in state-federal money which earlier had been approved by the Kentucky Crime Commission at its May 20 meeting. The grants were made under provisions of the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

According to a crime commission spokesman, the grant will be used to reimburse Mike Collins, juvenile court judge for Boone County, for costs borne during a conference on Juvenile Justice which was held last January in New Orleans, La.

The conference which was sponsored by the National District Attorneys' Association, featured seminars in child abuse, sentencing and delinquency procedure and violence in the schools.

Florence Deposit Bank Hits $20 Million Mark

The Florence Deposit Bank, from a statement of condition as of June 28, 1974, now has resources amounting to $20,640,070.77 according to its president, Wm. P. McElroy and the Board of Directors. This is the first time in the history of Boone County that a bank has surpassed the $20 million dollar mark.

The bank has now completed installation of its express service stations, which now have six stations in operation at peak banking hours in addition to the main office. All are easily accessible from either Dixie Highway or Main Street in Florence with entrances and exits on both Youell and Banklick Streets.

Missionary Group Meets In Grant Park

The Walton First Baptist Day Women's Missionary group enjoyed their July meeting at Grant County Park on Wednesday.

The highlights of the mission study was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Sheffield and a Bible study by Mrs. Margaret Wilson.

A business meeting was held and personal service reports were given by each member.

Those present were Mary Reitor, Phyllis Kigore and children, Elizabeth Sheffield, Geraldine Flynn, Wyllma Winborne, Leona Jump, Lucietta Neumelster, Larretta Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson.

A covered dish dinner was served at the noon hour.

Gene Snyder Visits Walton Picnic

Congressman Gene Snyder

Beginning much as he did when the Fourth District was reconstituted in 1965, Congressman M. Gene Snyder began his "get-with-the-people" campaign at the Walton Firemen's Picnic on July 13. The chief difference was that back then he came virtually unknown to the people of Walton; today he comes not as a stranger but with an almost total recognition factor.

Now as then Snyder enjoys campaigning, and he becomes completely absorbed with the people, their thoughts, and their problems.

"It has always been a top-flight priority with me to understand the problems and concerns of the people of the district I represent, and help wherever and whenever I possibly can," Snyder noted. "Of course, back in 1968 people just had to take my word for it. By now, whether they agree with my political philosophy or not, they know I'll stand up for them and do what I can for them. This was what I believed when I first ran for Congress, and it's certainly been indicated to me that the good people of the Fourth District realize I've stuck to my pledge."

Snyder found himself immediately at home among the friendly Walton crowd. Although his Congressional duties will be extremely heavy in the forthcoming months, he still plans to get to as many Fourth District functions as he can. "The people of the Fourth District are the greatest people in the world," Gene says. "They're great to be with, and great to work for. I am confident that although the campaign trail will be rough this year—they'll return me to Washington to represent them."

Walton Volunteers Express Their

Appreciation and Thanks

Members of the Walton Volunteer Fire Department and Life Squad wish to express their appreciation for the support given the department at the annual picnic.

Without the support of those loyal friends who make donations of gifts to be awarded, food and supplies, the ones who worked in the booths, and especially to the many who came to spend some money and enjoy the evening— "Thanks to You All."

Keen-Age Group Makes Trip To Lexington, Ky.

On Monday, July 15, the Walton Keen-Age group went by car to the Fayette Mall in Lexington, Kentucky, where a delicious lunch was enjoyed by all in the cafeteria there. After much window shopping and some serious shopping, as everything seemed to be "on sale" in each shop, the group drove on over to the Red Barn for more looking and buying. A delightful day was enjoyed by the following—Mrs. Jesse Hoffman; Rev. and Mrs. Bob Sheffield; Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Acres; Mrs. Fanny Adams; Mrs. Louise Gailen; George Bickers; Mrs. Lucita Neumelster; Mrs. Cleo Velland; Mrs. Coleen Shields; Vel Shields; Mrs. Mabel Maddox; Mrs. Clara Presser; Mrs. Leona Jump; Mrs. Lela Wesson; Bruce Kippeland; Mrs. Ledia Fleener; and Mrs. Geoyelle Flynn.

Plans are being made for a historical tour of the restored area of Madison, Indiana for the next meeting on August 19.

All Saints Festival Is Sunday, August 4th

All Saints Festival, Walton, Ky., will be held Sunday, August 4th on the church grounds, Needmore Street.

Midway College Sets Fall Registration

Dr. Merle S. Clemons, Academic Dean, Midway College has announced that Sunday August 25, has been set as the college's annual Registration Day. Students and their families will begin arriving for formal registration by 8:30 a.m. and will receive their room assignments and settle their fees prior to the close of registration at 4:30. Midway College, an independent college for women, has processed applications to date from nearly every Kentucky county, from three other states and from nine foreign nations.

Scholarship funds for Midway applicants are still available, according to the college's president, Dr. Albert N. Cox, and are expected to remain available thru September 10, 1974. Historically, Midway has charged each student individually according to family income. This practice continues for 1974 with the continuation of special reduced fees for commuting students enrolled in any of the college's major curricular areas. New courses to be offered for the fall, 1974.

THINK ABOUT US FOR

We've been trying for quite awhile to make the point that ours is a multiple-line agency offering a wide scope of coverages in addition to Automobile Insurance.

Maybe it's time, then, to remind you that we do provide Automobile protection plans, for both private passenger cars and commercial vehicles. In fact, you could say we're specialists in this field. We can furnish you with the Auto coverages you need plus the planning and claims services which are as important as the policy itself.

When it comes to Automobile Insurance, think about us. We'll be pleased to talk things over, so just give us a call or mail the handy coupon.

PRESSING ON TOWARD THE GOD!

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

(Philippians 3:4-16)
While preaching one day to the convicts in the penitentiary of a certain state, a minister saw in the audience a man whose face seemed familiar. At the close of the sermon he went to the convict's cell. "I remember you very well, sir," said the prisoner. "We were boys in the same neighborhood; we went to the same school sat beside each other on the same bench, and then my prospects were as bright as yours. But at the age of fourteen, you make choice of the service of God and became a Christian. I refused to come to Christ, but made choice of the world and sin. And now you are a happy and honored minister of the Gospel, while I am a wretched outcast."

The apostle Paul was used of God to change the course of history. But he became what he was because he chose to follow God's plan for his life. Even in his early life he was concerned about his relationship to God and concerning that relationship he had confidence.

CONFIDENCE

In New Testament times there were those who put great stock in ceremonial religious practices. This was especially true of circumcision. Paul reminds his readers, and us, that he had sufficient reason for confidence in the flesh. He had everything going for him in matters pertaining to human achievement. He was circumcised according to the law when he was eight days old. He was a Hebrew of the Hebrews. He was zealous for the law and considered blameless.

These boasts translated into modern-day thought, would be something like this: "I received baptism as a youth at the hands of the church. I was enrolled as a member in good standing in the church. My parents and grandparents have long been leaders of the church or synagogue. I go to the religious services every Sunday morning and Sunday night. I tithe my income. I pay my debts. On and on the list could go. These things become the basis of assurance of one's relationship to God.

reading we face a contrast.

CONTRAST

Then Paul met Christ. There came a complete about face in Paul's thinking, in his attitude and in his actions. He now realized that all of the things he had counted "gain" had really resulted in "loss". These outward observances had caused him to miss the true righteousness which God through Christ was offering to the world.

Paul now counted all of these things as "refuse" when compared to the glorious "privilege of knowing Christ. The word "refuse" when compared to the "street-sweepings." Things that would be thrown out to the dogs had nearly caused Paul to miss the soundless light which Christ had for him!

You will notice that Paul is not speaking of his former "wickedness" but of his former "goodness" which he counts as loss. You see, Paul had a righteousness but it was his own. It was a man-made righteousness. At his meeting with righteousness and received the righteousness of God. What a contrast! A righteousness which is of the law. That is, a righteousness which is obtained by keeping the law. A righteousness which comes as man responds in faith to God's offer in Christ is the other righteousness.

Paul came to see that there was a difference as great as eternity between "his own righteousness" and "the righteousness of God." This righteousness which comes from God brings with it a knowledge of Christ. Paul wanted to "know Christ", and the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings. To achieve this Paul knew it would require a wholehearted concentration.

CARD OF THANKS—

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors, ministers and my family for their cards, visits and prayers during my stay in the hospital and at home; especially Rev. Yates for his many visits, consoling words and prayers.

Also thanks to my church for a pretty planter of flowers.

May God bless each and every one for being so kind.

Grandpa, why don't you get a hearing aid?
Don't need one Sonny, I hear more now than I can understand.

Etiquette is saying "No thank you, I've had enough ice cream," when you really want more.

"How's your grandfather?"
"He's in his second childhood and back on the bottle."

Mother: "Why didn't you brush your teeth?"
Junior: "The battery's dead."

"And now gentlemen," continued the congressman, "I wish to fix your memory."
"Good grief," was the retort of his colleague, "why haven't we thought of that before?"

LIFE IS FULL OF QUESTIONS

One of the most common we spell with just three letters, W-H-Y.

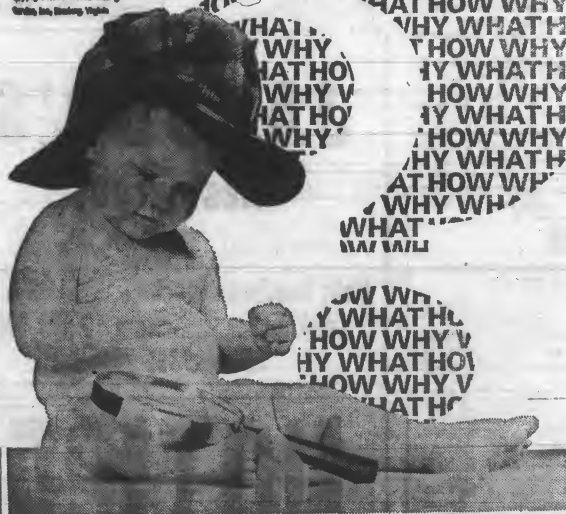

As children we want to know the reason for everything. Why is snow cold, or sugar sweet? We grow into adolescence and the question is usually linked with restrictions: Why can't I? In maturity there are more and greater problems to solve, troubles and disappointments to overcome. And still we ask the age-old question, "Why?"

The Church knows our questions and our problems and invites us to come, bringing them with us.

In the Church we find new friends. Many of them have known sorrows and disappointments and through their faith have found courage. They will inspire us to try again.

Still more important we can learn to know the Christ. In His Divine wisdom He holds the answers to life's questions. In His love He invites all who need His help.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

JULY 25—Don't plan any new projects today. The conjunction between the Moon and Uranus in the early morning hours incline one to be extravagant or go to excess, then when the Moon squares the Sun in the evening hours you will be sorry for your action. The Moon goes into the water sign Scorpio at 4:19 p.m. so the fishing will be good this evening.

JULY 26—All good aspects today, you will awake with a smile and be full of ambition. If you want your hair to grow back fast, get it cut today. If you are taking treatments to stimulate hair growth, have the treatments today or tomorrow. Also a good time to trim hedges if you want a quick heavy growth. And don't forget the fish are still biting.

JULY 27—The morning hours would be a good time to take care of any legal matters, sign papers or contracts. The entire day will be good for any kind of sports, baseball, tennis, fishing or boating. The evening would be a good time for a first date or take a new friend out if you want to make a lasting impression. Be very careful if you are driving at midnight as the Moon and Mars will be forming a square and someone may be driving recklessly.

JULY 28—The moon enters Sagittarius in the early morning hours and with good aspects to the Sun and Pluto you will have a harmonious day. You will enjoy the church service, especially the friendly gossip afterwards. If you will invite some friends over for a cookout in the afternoon, you will learn all the latest news and have a relaxed, enjoyable day.

JULY 30—This is the right day for having teeth pulled if you have any aching. If you think you need glasses, now is a good time for an eye test. If you want a good fit in shoes, try them today. Also a good time to buy any other clothing if you are usually hard to fit.

JULY 30—During the morning hours you can finish anything you did not get done yesterday. The Moon goes in to Capricorn at noon, a cardinal earth sign so the afternoon would be a good time for home baking or any other household chores. The Moon will trine Mars in the afternoon so anything you do will turn out right.

JULY 31—Don't expect too much from your partner or any older person during the morning hours as the Moon is making an opposition to Venus and Saturn. The afternoon will be more congenial and maybe you can get some work done in the garden. It will probably be the last chance to plant above ground crops that can be harvested before frost. It is possible some leafy vegetables might do good.

Babe Ruth Night
More than 500 orphans will be the guests at the Cincinnati Reds and the Exchange Clubs of Greater Cincinnati when the Reds close out the current home stand against the corging Houston Astros on Babe Ruth Night, Wednesday, July 31.

This year's 7:00 p.m. contest with the Astros marks the sixth consecutive year that the Reds and the Exchange Clubs have combined their efforts to bring the thrills of major league baseball to hundreds of orphans in the Greater Cincinnati area.

The event, which is named after the famous Bambino, himself the product of a Baltimore orphanage, has grown steadily in participation since its inception in 1970.

STAFFORDSBURG

Sunday, July 14th, the Armstrong Reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Armstrong on Hempling Road. Those who attended from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Conner of Dan Buren, Ind. Many of those there had not seen them for several years.

Sorry to hear Lena Preuttl had one of her legs amputated just below the knee.

Naomi Wolf and father returned from a fishing trip to Canada, seems that they made a good catch. They entertained Rev. Osborne with a fish fry Tuesday evening.

The good rain early Friday morning was most welcome as the area around here was in bad need of rain. The showers have been going around us.

BEAVER LICK NEWS

The Beaver Lick Bible School went over with a big bang, there was an average of 68 attend. We thank God for many nice young people, the teachers and cook who took so much interest in our children because they will be the fine young men and women of our country of tomorrow and the future.

Also the Saturday night singing service was a great success. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rosenstiel had as their guests over the weekend, Mrs. Ada Noble, Mrs. Villa Salles of Breathitt County; and Mrs. Louise H. Cope of Memphis, Michigan.

Mr. Rosenstiel was entertained by his son Ernest and grandson Jeffery with a nice chicken dinner and on the following Sunday by another son, Charles, for his 80th birthday. Shirley Stephenson, one of the granddaughters, baked the birthday cake. He had calls and cards to wish him a happy 80th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Rhodes are just about ready to move into their new home on Cleek Lane. We all wish them much happiness. Also, Carl Alexander is getting a nice start on his new home between Beaver Lick and Cleek Lane on U.S. 42, which looks like is going to be a beautiful one, too.

Ethel Black is much improved, able to be up and about again. Thank God, He has healed her to where she can be home and doing better.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my very sincere thanks to friends and relatives for the cards and visits which I received while in the hospital. They were deeply appreciated.

—Again, Thanks,
MILDRED VEST

Diabetes Research Fund

Diabetes Research Fund, Inc., Greater Cincinnati Chapter, announces the establishment of a Remembrance Fund to be used on all occasions. Contributions made to this fund will be acknowledged by card both to donor and recipient. All donations will be transferred directly to Diabetes Research grants where important strides are being made in this field.

Mrs. Ellen Wittow, President of Diabetes Research Fund here said, "Currently, medical science is on the verge of several possible breakthroughs. Contributions made for research will help in the struggle to halt this tragedy of shortened lives and debilitating health problems. Our goal is 'Research Today for Cure Tomorrow'."

At least five million American children and adults have diabetes. It is the 5th leading cause of death, and the leading cause of all blindness.

In juvenile diabetes, kidney failure is the major cause of death, with life expectancy reduced by at least a third.

Anyone interested in additional information, or making a contribution, may call or write Diabetes Research Fund, Inc., 723 Red Bud Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio 45229.

Tenth Anniversary

It only happens once in a lifetime—a tenth anniversary—and the pink ladies at Covington's Booth Memorial Hospital are going to mark the event.

It will be ten years since the gift shop was established and a reception and summer clearance sale will be held in the main corridors. It is set for Friday, August 2.

Mrs. Paul Chaney, chairman of the special event, also reports a reception is planned with cake and refreshments.

Mrs. Charles Norris, Taylor Mill, is president of the sponsoring group, the Women's Auxiliary and the anniversary committee is composed of Mrs. Raymond Wacker, Ft. Mitchell; Mrs. Forrest Bevis, Covington, and Mrs. James Riffe, Ft. Mitchell.

Funds will go toward retiring the $30,000 pledge for the Isthmian scanner and scholarships for the Booth School of "Practical Nursing Education."

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank my many friends, neighbors and relatives of Florence and Walton and, surrounding community for their kind remembrance while in the hospital.

A special thanks to Bros. Sheffield and Hattie of Walton Baptist Church and Bro. Hodge of Florence Baptist Church for their visits, prayers and concern for me.

—Sincerely,
LACY THORNTON

Tips on job hunting.

Here are a few tips on getting a job after graduation. Upon leaving school, be sure to seek an employer who can meet the following conditions:

—You should receive at least $326 per month spending money after regular monthly expenses and deductions have been paid. Request regular promotions with increases in pay for promotions and for length of employment. And, you should receive your first promotion, and pay raise to $363 after four months, if you qualify.

—Earn 30 days paid vacation per year starting with your first year, if you're newly married (or about to be) your prospective company should agree to pay the doctor and hospital bills (less $3.50 per day) for any children you have while working for them.

—You should be able to continue your education with the company paying 75 percent of the cost. If you are selected for college, your tuition should be paid and your normal salary continued.

—Ask your prospective employer for a clothing allowance of some $300 for initial outfitting for your job and at least $4.50 per month to maintain or replace worn-out clothing. At the same time, request a cost of living allowance and quarters allowance for your wife and family. This should be in the form of $105 to $200 per month added to your regular salary.

—In many locations where you would be expected to work (if you travel) your new employer should be expected to provide swimming pools, tennis courts, bowling alleys, boats, fishing gear, golf courses, movie theaters, libraries and craft or hobby shops including photo labs, depending upon the geographic location. All this for your leisure use.

—The employer should also provide unlimited sick leave with full pay for the entire sick period. Any medical or dental care for yourself should be free, with additional free medical care for your wife and children.

—The prospective company you wish to work for should provide you with a grocery, department and variety store plus laundries, service stations, auto repair and restaurants which reduce your cost of purchase or expense.

—Make sure the company's retirement clause states you may retire after 20 years active service with them at 50 percent pay and 75 percent at 30 years active service, plus continued free medical care for yourself and dependents.

—You should be able to relocate at regular intervals, travel in the United States or the free world at the company's expense subject to your job assignment. If you are married, you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your permanent move is at the company's request.

—After all this, inform your prospective employer that you want a bonus ranging up to $10,000 in cash after four years with him to stay another six years. This is available in some Navy career fields, if you qualified in one of these selected areas of expertise.

—And then don't forget to let this employer know that you are not experienced in the work but would like to be sent to school at full pay and receive all the company benefits right from the start and through school.

—Now, if your prospective employer can't meet all or most of the requirements you have outlined to him, go see your local Navy Recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer you everything you have asked for above!

— ORDINANCE NO. 1974-27 —

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF ALTA VISTA DRIVE, IN THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, BY THE WIDENING OF EACH LANE OF THE EXISTING PAVING AT THE MEDIANS BY EIGHTEEN INCHES AND BY RESURFACING THE ENTIRE STREET FROM ITS INTERSECTION WITH EXISTING PAVING ON DIXIE HIGHWAY S 58-15 W 204 FEET AND S 42-51 W 1044 FEET WITH THREE INCHES OF BITUMINOUS PAVING, SAID IMPROVEMENT ALSO TO CONSIST OF GUTTERS AND ALL NECESSARY CURBS AND SUPPORTING FACILITIES; DECLARING SAID IMPROVEMENT TO BE A "STAGE" IMPROVEMENT; PROVIDING FOR THE ADVERTISEMENT OF BIDS FOR SAID PROJECT AND FOR THE ASSESSMENT OF SAID COSTS OF SAID IMPROVEMENT AGAINST THE PROPERTY FRONTING AND/OR ABUTTING SAID IMPROVEMENT.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, deems it necessary that the said Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton, Kentucky, be improved by the construction and resurfacing of said street pursuant to this Ordinance, complete with curbs, gutters and all necessary supporting facilities from Alta Vista Drive's intersection with the existing paving on Dixie Highway S 58-15 W 204 feet and S 42-51 W 1044 feet, all being in the City of Walton, Kentucky, and

WHEREAS, said improvement is deemed to be necessary for the general health and welfare of the citizens of the City of Walton and in the best interest of the City and its citizens;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

SECTION I
That it hereby orders and requires construction and improvement of Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton Boone County, Kentucky, from its intersection with existing paving on Dixie Highway (US 25) S 58-15 W 204 feet and thence S 42-51 W 1044 feet by revising the approach to the median, and by widening each lane of the existing paving at the medians eighteen (18) inches and by resurfacing the entire street with three (3) inches of bituminous paving. Further, it hereby orders and requires the addition of concrete curbs, gutters, and all necessary supporting facilities. Construction and improvement areas are those set out in the attached drawing which is hereby declared to be a part of this ordinance and is incorporated herein as if the same were herein after set forth.

SECTION II
Said improvement shall be made in accordance with the plans, grades and specifications prepared by the City Engineer; and these said plans, grades and specifications are hereby approved by this Council and all of the said plans, grades and specifications for the improvement herein ordered are hereby adopted by this Council as the plans and grades and specifications for the improvement ordinance as if fully set out herein. Said plans, grades and specifications are available to bidders through the City Clerk, Main Street, Walton, Kentucky.

SECTION III
Said improvement is hereby declared to be a "stage" improvement and installation of sidewalks, storm sewer drains, and sewer improvements, and additional improvements deemed necessary by the City Council of the City of Walton will be required for the improvement to be complete.

SECTION IV
The City Council hereby declares said improvement to be a necessity and the materials provided for in said plans and specifications shall be the purchase thereof and the City Clerk is hereby ordered to advertise for sealed proposals for the performing of said work and the furnishing of said materials by the insertion of an advertisement in the Walton Advertiser, Walton, Kentucky, once week for two (2) consecutive weeks prior to the date set for the opening of said sealed proposals. Said advertisement will require the prospective for which they will furnish said material and said work according to said plans and specifications. Said proposals shall be accompanied by certified check or a bid bond in the amount of five percent (5) of the bid and sealed proposals or bids shall be opened and read before the Council at its regular meeting on the thirteenth day of August, 1974, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P.M. Boone County time. Said City Clerk hereby specifically reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The contractor whose bid is accepted shall enter into a written contract with the City of Walton, Kentucky, and execute a bond with surety acceptable to the Council in the sum equal to one hundred percent (100) of the bid. Said bond shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of said contract. The contractor shall complete said work within ninety (90) days of the date said bid is accepted and the contract entered into by the said Council; provided, however, that said time may be extended for a reasonable period of time in the discretion of the Council, if the contractor is prevented from completing said work in time, without any fault of his part.

All of said work to be done under direction of the City Council and the City Engineer. The Engineer of the City of Walton, Kentucky, shall be the referee in all decisions pertaining to the completion of the improvement herein ordered and his decision shall be final whenever the compliance with the plans, estimates and specifications are involved, but the City Council may reject said work if it is not done in a workmanlike manner and to its satisfaction. The City Engineer is hereby required to report to the Council when said improvement is ready for acceptance and he shall prepare a full and complete "certificate of apportionment" showing the total cost of the improvement is ready for acceptance and he shall prepare a full and complete "certificate of apportionment" showing the total cost of the improvement, the number of assessable units of benefited property, according to the number of lot abutting on said improvement, the cost per assessed unit, the names of the owners of benefited property, according to the number of assessable units owned by each person. Said "certificate of apportionment" shall be delivered in duplicate by the City Clerk to the Council by a copy thereof transmitted by the City Clerk to the Council and the City Attorney.

The Council, upon receipt of the "certificate of apportionment" shall delegate its public works committee to inspect the work and report to the Council as to whether same be accepted. The minutes shall be a time and place at which it will inspect the work and the City Clerk shall then cause to be published in one (1) issue of the Walton Advertiser, a newspaper of general circulation in this City, a notice stating the time and place so fixed for inspection of said work. The property owners concerned, or their agents or representatives may appear and be heard before the committee as to whether the improvement has been made in accordance with the ordinance and the contract. When the committee is satisfied that the work should be accepted, it shall issue a report to the City Council. If the committee is of the opinion that the work has not been done in accordance with the ordinance or the "certificate of apportionment" is incorrect, it may require the contractor to complete work in accordance with the contract or it may nullify the apportionment of costs to conform to the fact, or both.

SECTION V

It is hereby ordered that the entire cost of said improvement shall be ascertained, apportioned, and assessed equally on a front foot basis against the owners of all real estate fronting and/or abutting the herein above described street improvement. A statutory lien prior to all other liens is hereby created on all lots, parts of lots, or parcels of land fronting and/or abutting on said improvement to secure the payment of said assessment.

If, and in the event any state or federal funding can be obtained to aid in the financing of said project, in that event, the respective costs to be benefited abutting property owners will be proportionately reduced.

The payment of said improvement tax or assessment is to be made in cash within thirty days after the adoption and publication of said levy and apportionment ordinance for said improvement. Any property owner not paying same within thirty (30) days after the acceptance of said improvement and the adopting and the publication of the levy and assessment will have added to his assessment a penalty of ten (10) percent of the amount of said improvement tax or assessment in addition thereto, said tax or assessment shall bear interest at the rate of six percent (6) per annum from the original due date thereof until paid.

SECTION VI

That if any section, paragraph or clause of this ordinance be held by a proper court to be invalid, such invalidity shall not effect the remaining sections, paragraphs or clauses, it being hereby expressly declared that the remaining sections, paragraphs or clauses of this ordinance would have been passed despite such invalidity.

SECTION VII

That all ordinances, resolutions or parts thereof in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed and this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, adoption and publication as required by law.

Annual Boat Cruise

The 1974 Northern Kentucky
Mental Health Association Volunteers will sponsor their second Annual Boat Cruise on Friday,
August 2 aboard the Mark Twain Excursion Boat, departing from the dock at the foot of Greenup Street, Covington, Ky. Boarding time is at 7:00 P.M.

The theme for this year's cruise relates to the Roaring 20's and the Gatsby era—a true romantic adventure. Those who attend are encouraged to dress in costumes of the era.

The evening will include a buffet dinner and dancing, as the boat cruises up river toward old Ceney Island. Special events include a Charleston Contest, stroling minstrels and silent movies on the upper deck, as well as a sing-a-long of nostalgic tunes.

Clairemen and co-chairmen of committees for the cruise are:
Decorations, Mrs. Arnold Brinker
Mrs. Elmer Muth; Menu, Mrs.
C. J. Hoppenjans; Reservations and Tickets, Mrs. John Low, Mrs.
Howard Stephens Special Events and Music, Mrs. Ronald Nieba-ber, Mrs. Leslie Berg; Raffle and Vocational Education Building Not Completed

Southern Kenton County high school students planning to take vocational educational courses at the new Kenton County vocational school, Edgewood, will have to wait longer.

Supt. Don Davis has been told by Robert Ehmet Hayes, architect, that the facility can not be completed before February, 1975, a month later than originally planned.

Bad spring weather delayed the earth moving and the strike of construction workers contributed to the delay, he said.

Currently, he is awaiting the end of the strike of sheet metal workers so the metal roof deck can be installed.

ART EXHIBIT

All area artist are invited to participate in the Kenton County Fair Art Contest and Show at the Fair Grounds, Taylor Mill and Harris Road.

Entries will be accepted at the Fair Grounds 9:00 A.M. to 3:00 P.M. August 14 and will be judged August 15.

Best of Show will be awarded $30.00.

The Best of Students (up to 10th Grade) will receive $5.00 in each class (Oil, Water Color and Drawing).

First, Second and Third place prizes and ribbons will be awarded in each class. Only one (1) entry in each class is permitted. There is a $1.00 entry fee for each adult. No copy work or paint by number will be accepted. Entries must be ready to hang either mounted, matted, or framed.

Name and address of artist and title of picture must be listed and attached to the back of each entry. Entries must be on display until August 17 and can be picked up that date.

After the August 6th game, a meeting will be held at the home of Rose Rayburne to discuss plans for the tournament games and conclusion of the season for the Women's Area Church Softball League.

P. C. A. Meets With Area Realtors

First Kentucky Production Credit Association met with area realtors at Ramada Inn, Florence, last week. Vice President Osborne Stivers was the program speaker.

Steve Fisk, Manager of the Walton P.C.A. office reported that the main purpose of the meeting was to enlighten realtors about PCA's lending policy and funding. Many other topics were also discussed.

On hand for the meeting were Best Realty; Charles Braum representing R. P. Coleman Realty; Ray Gaines Realty; Valle V. Hill; Tom Hodge; Mader Realty; Spillman's Real Estate; and Col. Cecil Wayman and Associates.

Mr. Fisk reported 19 persons in attendance.

After the meal, the invocation and welcome was given by Mr. Fisk. Mr. Stivers began the program with the history of PCA and the Farm Credit System.

He noted that PCA's all across the United States and the United States territory were completely owned by the farmers who borrow from the PCA's.

Mr. Stivers stated that PCA's loan policy was according to the Farm Credit Act of 1971, policy established by the Federal Farm Credit District Board and policy established by the First Kentucky PCA Board of Directors. These directors are elected by the borrowing membership.

While discussing the supply and availability of funds, Mr. Stivers stated that the Farm Credit System was second only to the U.S. Treasury in amount of funds from the money market. The 12 Federal Intermediate Credit Banks—banks owned by the PCA's—money needs for July were over $1,254,000,000. The Federal Land Bank and Banks for Cooperatives also had money needs for July.

In conclusion, Mr. Stivers said that there was concern about funding but that PCA could now and in the future, provide all funds needed by farmers and farm families on a short and intermediate term basis.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We, the Kenton and Community Volunteer Fire Department, Kenton, Kentucky, are sponsoring "KEITH KISER DAY" on Tuesday, August 20, 1974 and are asking your help in making it a success. It will be held at the Kenton Fire House, Kenton, Kentucky, from 3:00 P.M. until 9:00 P.M. It is being held for the purpose of making donations of blood to help replace blood used for Keith who has had hemophilia since birth.

Keith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Kiser (nee Mary Fern Wolf) of Kenton Road, Alexandria, Ky.

He is now 11 years old and is a fifth grader at Grant's Lick Elementary School.

Hemophilia is an abnormal tendency to bleed and hemorrhage can take place as a result of a slight injury. Keith now owes the Blood Bank over 200 pints of blood.

The Administrators of the Blood Bank at Children's Hospital where Keith receives his treatment, have made it possible for the Blood mobile to be in Kenton so we can make our donations here rather than go all the way to the Medical Center in Cincinnati.

However, they have stipulated that we must guarantee at least 150 donors before they will come. Therefore, it is important that those who plan to participate, phone Sandy Jackson, 356-7232; Debbie Jackson, 35-7844 or Carol Reimer, 356-7085. We would appreciate it if you could call by August 10, 1974.

Thank you so much for your cooperation and consideration in this matter.

 So live that when thy summons comes to join the innumerable caravan which moves to the mysterious realm where each shall take his chamber in the silent hall of death, Chained to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an infaltering trust, approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Prayer For A Threatened Church

(COLOSSIANS 1:1-14)

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

W. M. Paxton said, "Dees go booming through the world louder than cannons. Thoughts are mightier than armies. Principles have achieved more victories than horsemen or chariots."

It was so with the church in Colosse. An erroneous idea was making its way into the young church there in the Lycus Valley. This idea was to grow and increase into a powerful and destructive doctrine known as "gnosticism." The word comes from the Greek word gnosis which means knowledge. From this word we get our word "agnostic" which means one who says we cannot know. That is there may be a God but one cannot know that there is. The Gnostics were those who claimed special knowledge about God. They taught the way to God was through this special knowledge. This meant that only the few who could attain this special knowledge would be saved. Paul wrote to refute this erroneous doctrine.

THE RECIPIENTS

The letter begins with the writer identifying himself. He is Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God. Paul had never been established by Epaphras founder of this church. The work in the Lycus Valley had probably been established by Epaphras (verse 7). Epaphras had probably been won to Christ by Paul when Paul was in Ephesus.

It is necessary for Paul to not only establish his identity but also his authority. Those receiving the letter would be impressed with such credentials as he mentions. The recipients of the letter are "saints and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse."

"Saints" are not super or sinless Christians. They are people who have been saved and set apart to the service of the Lord. They are "in Christ" but they are also "at Colosse." Christians must not forget that though they are in Christ they are also at some particular place in the world. Our Lord prayed (John 17) that His disciples not be taken out of the world but left in the world.

Those who are saved have God's smile upon them. This is the meaning of "grace." They also have God's peace in their souls as a result of God's grace at work in their hearts.

THE RESPONSE

According to verse 7, Epaphras had brought Paul word concerning the Christians at Colosse. Their faith was making it possible for them to live in union with Jesus Christ. Their love was being expressed to all of the people of God. The hope which was laid up for them in heaven was a guarantee that full salvation would be a reality one day.

The latter part of verse 5 gives the source of their information to which they had responded. It had been the truth of the gospel. Paul probably meant to contrast the truth of the gospel with the error of the gnostic teaching.

He reminds them in verse 6 that this gospel had come, not only to them but "in all of the world," resulting in fruitbearing.

Having spoken a good word concerning Epaphras, Paul goes on to share with them his request in prayer.

THE REQUEST

The gnostics were making much of knowledge. Paul prays that the Christians will be filled (as a cup to the overflowing) with the knowledge of His will. Knowledge is important. The knowledge of God's will for one's life is the highest knowledge there is.

WALTON ACTIVITIES

THE SECRET

In another moment he will be getting up and walking toward you, eager to tell the secret of his calmness and strength. Will you listen?

He has solved many problems, overcome much grief and temptation, been able to meet the conditions of every-day living, all because through the Church he has come in contact with the Source of all power. In the Church he has found companionship. Its worship services have brought faith, peace and serenity. Its activities have furnished an outlet for his creative abilities and energy. The Church has been a part of his life from boyhood. Through its various departments the needs of his life have been met. He has enjoyed the fellowship there and, looking back, he is able to trace his own growth.

Have you learned his secret? Wouldn't you like to know it?

What the Church has done for him it can do for you. If you are young, it will help meet your problems. If you are older, it will bring satisfaction and peace.

Federal Grant For Training Medical Personnel

A $2,296,530 Federal grant to the Bureau for Health Services, Department for Human Resources, will provide training for emergency medical personnel and move Kentucky closer to completion of communications network linking hospitals and ambulances within the state's Area Development Districts.

Within the next year, the Department's Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Program will establish these training programs.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for the flowers, cards, visits and phone calls. All the kindness and concern for me due to my accident will never be forgotten.

—LAURA WETHINGTON

—A pilot program for emergency room nurses, expected to train 300 by June of 1976.

—Seminars and workshops to train physicians in emergency medicine.

—A refresher course for graduates of the basic emergency medical technician (EMT) course.

—Advanced courses and regional workshops and seminars for EMTs.

To date, over 1,700 have graduated from the EMT course, which will continue to be offered several times each year, at sites located for the convenience of students.

Stanley Hammons, M.D., is interim Commissioner for Health Services. He points out that communications between ambulance and hospital are vitally important. "We can and must do more than provide good ambulance service. With the development of a statewide communications network, the EMT could receive instructions from hospital staff members, or could be told to take his patient to one hospital rather than another. Since he would have informed the hospital that he was coming in, and what the condition of his patient was, emergency room personnel would be prepared to provide the proper care. In some cases, this could be the difference between life or death."

At present, the Kentucky River and Cumberland Valley districts have communication networks in operation. Equipment is being installed now for the networks in the Green River, Fivco and Lake Cumberland districts, and equipment for the Purchase Region's network has been ordered. The Bureau for Health Services hopes to complete regional networks by next summer, using a portion of the new funds for purchasing and installing equipment.

A training course for communication dispatchers will be established. The Center for Comprehensive Health Systems Development in the Department for Human Resources worked with state and district health planning councils in preparing the plan and grant request. The plan spells out the needs to be met over the next four fiscal years (ending June 3, 1978), and the methods proposed for filling those needs.

Get Ready To Can

FREEZING I

Your freezer can be a bank of frozen assets with some wise planning. You can save energy, money, quality and nutritive value with home freezing of food as well as the convenience of a variety of foods.

Freezing is a safe method of food preservation—that is, bacteria, molds, and yeast; cannot grow or multiply at low temperatures, but they are not killed—either. However, all foods do not maintain the same quality when frozen. You should always refer to a good freezing manual when choosing which foods to freeze. Commercial processors have ways of freezing some foods that the homemaker cannot duplicate.

The initial cost of a freezer, operating costs, and packaging materials add up to a sizeable expenditure. That is why it is so important to plan wise use of your freezer space. A freezer should be operated from three-fourths full to near capacity by planning for seasonal foods, taking advantage of specials, and having room for prepared foods.

Another rule of good freezer management is to use frozen food within a reasonable time. Freezing manuals will always list recommended times for freezer storage. Although many frozen foods have been held at 0 degrees for extraordinarily long lengths of time, it is best to rotate foods, and some foods are at their best when used within relatively short periods.

It is important to select the foods at the right stage of maturity; the stage when they would best be eaten fresh. Some varieties freeze more successfully than others because they retain their color, flavor, and texture better. Your County Extension Agent for Home Economics can suggest the best varieties for your locality—best varieties for your locality.

Visit or call your local Extension Service for the latest information on home freezing. The Boone County Office is located in the Boone County Office building in the Renaker Annex in Burlington, and the phone number is 586-6101, extension 17. You will find both U.S.D.A. and University of Kentucky bulletins there.

NOTE TO CORRESPONDENTS AND ADVERTISERS: Please try to get your copy in to us by early Monday, or earlier if possible. We would appreciate your cooperation.

Willing Workers Class Meets With Mrs. Bedinger

By Miss Mary West

The Willing Workers Group of the Walton Christian Church met July 28, at the church and had lunch with the Senior Citizen's group.

Rev. and Mrs. Jack Russell, guests of Mrs. Walter Whitson, met with us and he expressed thanks on this occasion.

After lunch, we met for our business meeting at Mrs. Dan Bedinger's lovely home, as she had invited us since she was unable to attend the lunch at the church.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Walter Whitson. She also read for the devotional from Jeremiah, chapter five.

Rev. Russell, who is now retired, told us of his interim work at Central Christian Church in Lexington. He is assistant minister for the children at the two morning services each Sunday, at Central Christian Church in Lexington and also has charge of the radio broadcast work. He said he also makes visits to newsmen and in four months period he made 600 calls and has found the work very rewarding. He closed with a poem by R. Kipling—"God Give Us Men."

Those present besides hostess, Mrs. Bedinger, were: Mrs. Lillian Acree, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. John Gault, Mrs. Walter Whitson, Miss Rachel Acree, Miss Mary West, Mrs. Luke Hoyer, and Rev. and Mrs. Jack Russell, guests.

U.S. Equipment To Help Secret Police Terrorize Soviet People?

M. GENE SYNDER
U.S. Congressman

Fourth District—Kentucky

As a staunch defender of free enterprise, I feel government should assist in every way warranted, those enterprising citizens and firms which by their initiative, energy and willingness to risk investment, provide the jobs and incomes that make our economy strong and expansive.

The restriction of monopoly practices by government is necessary in order that competition may thrive. Competition is the chief assurance that the consumer will get quality products at the lowest possible prices. Hence antimonopoly restriction is a positive, not negative, government function.

The right to trade freely is of the utmost importance to business and commerce. Government restrictions should be at a minimum in this area in normal circumstances. But unusual times and circumstances may demand, for national security or national economy reasons, that some trade restrictions be imposed.

Older citizens remember the American scrap metal traded to a Japan on the march, came back to us as shells, bullets and bombs that killed our servicemen in World War II. Knowledgeable people have warned against the folly of shipping goods of any kind to the Soviet Union and the rest of the Communist Bloc, which could be used in the relentless campaign of the World Communist Movement to overrun the rest of the world.

Now a new trade development is in the works. If carried through, it would not directly affect the security of free nations, but it would impose more terror upon the already severely repressed people of the Communist-dominated countries by aiding the secret police to spy more thoroughly.

Recently it has come to light that the Soviet Union has invited American manufacturers of highly sophisticated lie detectors, night photography gear, bugging devices, voice-print analyzers and other surveillance and identification equipment to exhibit at a trade fair in Moscow next month.

No government license is required for our companies to take part in such exhibitions. However, the Commerce Department's Office of Export Administration would have to issue license to American companies that wished to make sales at the trade show and then ship their equipment to the Soviet buyers.

By now the repression of their own populations by all Communist dominated states is common knowledge. Only the most self-blinded persons claim that true freedom exists anywhere behind the Iron and Bamboo and Sugar Cane Curtains. Strangely, while the Soviet secret police are experts in spying, American technology in personal surveillance equipment is more advanced than the Soviet's own.

It seems the height of inconsistency for America, the land of the free and the home of the brave, to be in the position of furnishing the Communist secret police the technology to enable them more ruthlessly and efficiently to repress their own people.

To Play Football In East-West Game

Mike Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Collins of Florence, Kentucky, will be playing in the East-West All-star Game at Yates Creek on Saturday, August 3.

The game is scheduled at 7:00 o'clock p.m.

Mike was chosen to represent Boone County High School for this game.

The proceeds from the game will go into a fund for injured high school athletes.

Tips on job hunting.

Here are a few tips on getting a job after graduation. Upon leaving school, be sure to seek an employer who can meet the following conditions:

—You should receive at least $326 per month spending money after regular monthly expenses and deductions have been paid. Request regular promotions with increases in pay for promotions and for length of employment. And, you should receive your first promotion, and pay raise to $363 after four months, if you qualify.

—Earn 30 days paid vacation per year starting with your first year, if you're newly married (or about to be) your prospective company should agree to pay the doctor and hospital bills (less $3.50 per day) for any children you have while working for them.

—You should be able to continue your education with the company paying 75 percent of the cost. If you are selected for college, your tuition should be paid and your normal salary continued.

—Ask your prospective employer for a clothing allowance of some $300 for initial outfitting for your job and at least $4.50 per month to maintain or replace worn-out clothing. At the same time, request a cost of living allowance and quarters allowance for your wife and family. This should be in the form of $105 to $200 per month added to your regular salary.

—In many locations where you would be expected to work (if you travel) your new employer should be expected to provide swimming pools, tennis courts, bowling alleys, boats, fishing gear, golf courses, movie theaters, libraries and craft or hobby shops including photo labs, depending upon the geographic location. All this for your leisure use.

—The employer should also provide unlimited sick leave with full pay for the entire sick period. Any medical or dental care for yourself should be free, with additional free medical care for your wife and children.

—The prospective company you wish to work for should provide you with a grocery, department and variety store plus laundries, service stations, auto repair and restaurants which reduce your cost of purchase or expense.

—Make sure the company's retirement clause states you may retire after 20 years active service with them at 50 percent pay and 75 percent at 30 years active service, plus continued free medical care for yourself and dependents.

—You should be able to relocate at regular intervals, travel in the United States or the free world at the company's expense subject to your job assignment. If you are married, you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your permanent move is at the company's request.

—After all this, inform your prospective employer that you want a bonus ranging up to $10,000 in cash after four years with him to stay another six years. This is available in some Navy career fields, if you qualified in one of these selected areas of expertise.

—And then don't forget to let this employer know that you are not experienced in the work but would like to be sent to school at full pay and receive all the company benefits right from the start and through school.

—Now, if your prospective employer can't meet all or most of the requirements you have outlined to him, go see your local Navy Recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer you everything you have asked for above!

Scottish Rite Family Picnic July 20

By Lyle L. Willis
Secretary-Reporter
Corbin, Kentucky 46701

Among the many activities of the Scottish Rite is the Annual Family Picnic sponsored by the Corbin Scottish Rite Club, and, on Saturday, July 20, at 6:30 p.m., at the Levi Jackson State Park, the Members of the Scottish Rite Bodies, with their families, along with other members of the Masonic Fraternity were made welcome at the Shelter House there, with the meeting called to order by Invocation by Albert Weaver, a former Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge.

Following the supper, official welcome with introduction of officers of Consistory and distinguished guests was given to several including Illustrious W. R. Ellis 330, Chairman, Sovereign Grand Inspector General Advisory Conference; Illustrious Charles L. Simpson 330, Venerable Master Delta Lodge of Perfection; Illustrious Ben Beers 330, President of Scottish Rite Guards; Charles L. Cox 320, K.C.C.H., Chairman of Sick-Visitation Committee; William H. Stephens 320, K.C.C.H., Assistant in Robing Room; Illustrious Albert W. Weaver 330, Senior Warden Delta Lodge of Perfection; Rev. John S. Chambers 320, Mrs. Marjorie K. Chambers; John L. Crawford 320, and Vice President of the Club.

A short address was made by Representative Ellis in behalf of all representing the Indra Soudist Temple, advising on the growth in membership in Covington, leading the state in membership over all other Temples in 1973, and, that the building of the new temple is debt free, with every convenience for Candidates for Indra. He referred to the contributions of Candidates to the Temple made by members of the Corbin Club, and, of the real Kentucky Hospitality demonstrated at each family picnic, stating that next year the Temple would be better prepared to bring more Scottish Rites with their families by chartered buses.

A short speech was given by Dr. Chambers, former pastor of the Christian Church of Corbin, and, he combined in a striking manner humor, with eloquence with logic, in telling of Degrees with Vows in taking Scottish Rite many years ago, with the present Secretary of the Club, at the Old Temple in Covington. He made mention of the past and of the present to the busy scenes of life in the Corbin area, and the temples of hope with memory emblematic of the Fraternity of the Scottish Rite Masonry.

Other recognizing included Den Ramsey 320, operator of a restaurant from which was furnished ham and chicken; Chola Pierce; Claude Skinner 320; The Skinner 320, for arriving early to reserve the shelter house at the Park; all of the ladies for the different kinds of food each brought; for Ham Ramsey 320, for the use of his truck with his services; for Lacey Cross 300, for his services with bread; for H. B. Tuggle 300, for delivering assorted drinks of Pepsi Cola Bottling Works; for the notable services of the Gospel Crusaders for appearing early giving harmonies with their singers and musicians who are, as registered in for the Singers, Wayne Bryant, tenor, of Corbin; Larry Bryant, lead, Gaudette;

Margaret Partian, alto, Williamsburg; Robert Partian, bass, Williamsburg; Koury Landrum, baritone, Barboursville; and the musicians. Orders were turned in by a few for Scottish Rite Shirts. Several names were added to the Membership of the Club including Cecil Corum, Harry T. Ketron, Don Young, and W. H. Stephens.

Registration showed there were Scottish Rites and their families from London, Lexington, Corbin, Covington, Cincinnati, Alexandria, Burlington, Erlanger, Norwood, Independence, Florence, Woodbine, Manchester, Garrard, Gray, Park Hills, with these counties represented—Walley, Knox, Laurel, Clay, Fayette, Kenton, Campbell, Boone, Grant, Harrison, Scott, Madison, Rockcastle, and Carroll. Benediction was given by Albert W. Weaver, Burlington.

Last year we brought you almost two billion dollars worth of textiles.
You've got a lot riding on us.

We shipped a lot of textiles in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for textiles shipped amounted to $1,897,216,000. And a good portion of this was for clothing.

Economy is the biggest reason textile companies and so many others choose rail. Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail each year. The average cost per ton-mile by truck is five times as much as by rail. Air shipping is fifteen times the price. And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

When you put all this together with the reliability of rail shipping you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

CAPRI RESTAURANT

Serving Fine Foods for 8 Years

There is a good reason for the Capri Restaurant located at US-42 and I-75 in Florence being so popular. The short orders served here have real "pulling power" and draw lovers of fine food for many tables around. It's better than eating at home.

Here you will find a friendly atmosphere. Your orders will receive prompt attention and everything served you will be of the best quality. It isn't often that we can find a restaurant serving such fair prices. Try them for real service and good food, and we are sure you will tell your friends about them.

The owner is proud of his establishment and has good reason to be.

Stop hunting for that good place to eat while you are in town. Stop here and you'll have found it.

The organizers of this 1974 Review unhesitatingly give our full endorsement to the Capri Restaurant.

SHEPHERD REALTY

Harold Shepherd — Broker

Whether you are interested in real estate for an investment, business or a home, every transaction should be fully investigated by someone with experience enough to insure you that both parties receive dollar for dollar value.

For the best interest of any readers contemplating selling or buying, we honestly believe that the wisest preliminary step would be to consult with Shepherd Realty, located at 4025 Dixie Hwy, in Elmore, phone 342-7437.

Shepherd Realty can be relied upon for astute judgment as to values of types of property for miles around. At the same time they have established a reputation for fast action on buying or selling and completing transactions.

It's with pleasure that the staff of this Review are able to unhesitatingly bring Shepherd Realty to the attention of our friends in this 1974 Review.

SCOTTISH INNS OF AMERICA

One of the essential features of our present day is the modern motel and no where do you find a better example of the modern motel meeting the needs than the Scottish Inns of America at the I-75 and Ky-18 Interchange (Burlington Pike Exit) in Florence. Phone 371-3900 for reservations.

This is one of the best motels, and you may secure any kind of a room for any accommodation you may desire. You will find the rates reasonable and rooms that meet with your approval. They are tastefully decorated as well as comfortably furnished and well ventilated. The manager has had a wide experience in business and realizes that to be successful a motel must be equally attractive to travelers, the salesman, the farmers in the area or in fact anyone requiring its services. They are thoroughly familiar with every phase of the motel business, and maintain an up-to-date establishment all the way through. The next time you are in the area, visit the Scottish Inns of America.

The writers of this 1974 Review give this motel extended mention to the people of this area.

BUCK LUCAS SANITATION

Buck Lucas — Owner

Serving this area with a much needed service, this reliable firm is fully equipped to do most jobs in one trip, thus eliminating the high cost of return trips.

This firm employs only thoroughly trained men who will be able to get the job done quickly. They also do electric rooster service for clogged sewers, sinks, showers & all drains.

Home owners in this area have found they can save money by having their cesspools and septic tanks pumped by this reputable company.

The authors of this 1974 Review commend this fine firm for their efforts to provide this section with the best sanitary service obtainable and recommend our readers call Buck Lucas Sanitation for free estimates when in need of their services.

BURNS BROS. TRUCK PLAZA

Located at I-75 & Ky. 18 (Burlington Pike) in Florence phone 371-7166 the Burns Bros. Truck Plaza is recognized by truckers, travelers, and the local people as one of the best places to go any time of the day or night for honest-to-goodness fine food at reasonable prices.

The management of this truck stop and cafe has made it a point over the period of their ownership to run their business in the friendliest manner. The fact that they have made their business well-known by people all over the country is evidenced by the growing number of regular customers that frequent their place.

One can be sure of getting a delicious meal, when it is noted the number of truckers from everywhere in the United States that stop here regularly to have their units fueled and to have a bite to eat.

The compilers of this 1974 Review are pleased to have this opportunity to give our wholehearted commendation to the management of Burns Bros. Truck Plaza and suggest to all our readers, truckers, and travelers, that they make it a point to enjoy their friendly service, name brand gas and oil, and delicious food any time 24 hours a day.

WORLD OF GOLF

Watch For Opening of Victorian Billiard Hall &

St. Andrew Pub Tap Room

Don Lauterwasser — Manager

"Let's play miniature golf." Here is a phrase that is becoming increasingly popular today.

World of Golf (Miniature golf course and driving range) is located at 175 at Burlington Pike in Florence (telephone 371-5235).

They feature a full 18 hole miniature golf course that is a challenge to even the most proficient golf fan. The course is well lighted for night play and the holes are well landscaped with challenging obstacles. A visit to World of Golf makes for a pleasant evening at nominal cost for the entire family.

While the kids and mom are on the miniature course, dad can sharpen his iron shots on their excellent driving range. The range is well lighted and marked which enables you to gauge the true effectiveness of your shots. Get your swing in the groove and your timing perfected at World Of Golf and watch your scores go down. Then take a tour around their well lighted 9 hole par 31 course a real challenge. They are open from dawn till the last golfer comes in.

WERT MUSIC CO.

James and Insigne Wert — Owners

The Wert Music Co. is located at 3223 Dixie Highway in Erlanger phone 331-7751. This fine firm is equipped to serve in all your music needs.

Wert Music Co. is an up-to-date store known throughout our section as the place to purchase or rent musical instruments.

Wert Music Co. also features a fine staff of instructors providing music lessons on a full variety of musical instrument including the woodwinds, drums, brass, guitar, etc., and are the only dealers in the greater Cincinnati area for the famous Hohner and Tama guitars.

Good music is the painted picture to the ear. We should all be interested in music and give our children a chance to learn and appreciate this art.

Remember, for musical instruments of all kinds; band, orchestral, guitars and amplifiers, plus sheet music, this fine store can supply your needs. They are noted throughout this section for their reasonable prices and fair dealings. Stop in the next time you are in town and select an instrument for yourself or your child, and enjoy life much more.

In making this 1974 Review the writers are pleased to suggest that our readers stop here for their musical needs.

THE DRAWBRIDGE ROWNTOWNER MOTOR INN

John D. DiGirolamo — Manager

The Drawbridge Rowntowner Motor Inn is located at I-75 and Buttermilk Pike in Ft. Mitchell, phone 341-2800 for reservations.

One of the things that has made America strong is the ability of her businessmen to meet ever changing conditions and the needs of the demanding public. The motel industry, for example, is recognized today as a vital and necessary part of our American economy.

We wish to direct our readers attention to this motel which has ample accommodations to please even the most discriminating guest. Here you'll find individual room temperature control, carpeted rooms, telephones in the rooms, TV, indoor and outdoor swimming pool, just to mention a few—and all of this with reasonable rates. In addition, the Drawbridge Rowntowner Motor Inn features a 24 hour coffee shop as well as the Crossbow Tavern which features nightly entertainment and dancing. Consequently, many travelers prefer to travel extra miles in order to stay here and thus assure themselves of a good night's rest in comfortable surroundings.

The reviewers of this 1974 Review recommend the people from our area stop at the Drawbridge Rowntowner Motor Inn the next time they are in town and commend the management upon the excellence of their service.

THE FAMILY MOTOR INN

Whether you are in town for business or pleasure, plan to enjoy the comfort of being made to feel at home with service that cannot be excelled. Visit the Family Motor Inn at I-75 and Laidson Rd. Interchange in Erlanger.

Along with offering some of the most comfortable and beautiful rooms in the area, this Motel has a cheery coffee shop and luxurious dining room with gourmet foods to tempt anyone's appetite. Whether it's breakfast or dinner, you'll enjoy the atmosphere along with the friendly, courteous, and fast service.

After dinner, enjoy your favorite cocktail in the exciting, area wide, popular lounge where the "cubicle of the day" will disappear among the friendly company and enjoyable entertainment.

It does sound exciting doesn't it? Then why not take the weekend off, away from the hurly-burly, and let you and your wife relax for a change. Simply phone 342-7111 for reservations for a weekend of relaxation and comfort. Remember that number when you have guests coming in town.

This 1974 Review and its authors are pleased to suggest the Family Motor Inn to our readers.

F. H. (Frank) Wood Plumbing & Heating

Commercial Plumbing & Heating

F. H. (Frank) Wood Plumbing and Heating, located at 15 Commonwealth Avenue in Erlanger, phone 341-7887, knows the plumbing and heating business thoroughly. He doesn't "guess" at your problem—he "knows" the answers. He understands all phases of this work and keeps up with the latest equipment and maintenance problems. He stands behind his work and will do a job in the shortest time possible. He understands that when you have a plumbing or heating problem, you need someone immediately and cannot wait to have it taken care of.

He offers you the best in plumbing and heating fixtures and installation, for commercial. Repair jobs are given prompt attention at a fair price.

You will find him courteous and efficient. If you want to do business with someone you can trust, be sure to call F. H. (Frank) Wood Plumbing & Heating first.

The reviewers of this 1974 Review find it doubtful that you could find a more competent contractor. Call 341-7887, you'll be glad you did.

HOWARD JOHNSON'S

Robert Patuto — Director of Operations

Motels have become a favorite type of accommodation for travelers. They are your modern drive-in hotel. Howard Johnson's Cincinnati Airport is located at the junction of I-75 and Donaldson Highway in Erlanger, phone 342-7800. Here you will find clean, comfortable rooms. Every effort is made to make your visit pleasant. When you find a place that is comfortable and you have enjoyment throughout and can accommodate one person or a group. You will be surprised at the reasonable rates offered by them.

In this 1974 Review, we the reviewers, highly recommend to all our readers Howard Johnson's as your home away from home in this area.

Also, your out-of-town guests will appreciate reservations made for them here.

throughout and can accommodate one person or a group. You will be surprised at the reasonable rates offered by them.

In this 1974 Review, we the reviewers, highly recommend to all our readers Howard Johnson's as your home away from home in this area.

Also, your out-of-town guests will appreciate reservations made for them here.

B & J OFFICE SUPPLY

B & J Office Supply located at 2420 Grace Ave. next to Rowntowner in Ft. Mitchell, phone 331-3227 features a complete line of office furniture and equipment.

ROBERTSON'S RESTAURANT

Jesse and Fay Murray — Owners

Robertson's Restaurant is located at 2216 Dixie Highway in the Expressway Plaza in Ft. Mitchell and is one of the leading dining places to be found in this section. Their patrons consist not only of local people but from the entire tri-state territory for miles around.

Robertson's Restaurant is well known as the favorite dining establishment for many who find that it is both economical and time saving to dine out. When here you will find a variety of tempting dishes listed on the menu. Another reason for the steady growth in the volume of business this restaurant is doing is the excellent service that has always been featured here. They welcome everyone and make him feel right at home.

The management of this modern restaurant has had extensive experience in restaurant management and invites everyone to dine with him regularly.

In addition to their fine restaurant, the management has incorporated a party room on the lower level. It is open for private parties of all kinds; just call 331-3232 for information and reservations.

In this 1974 Review we the authors, feel it is our duty to recommend this outstanding restaurant to our readers. Regular diners for the working men and women are specialties of this restaurant.

FLORENCE DEPOSIT BANK

In reviewing the various leaders of this trade area, we are proud to include the Florence Deposit Bank, located at 7000 Dixie Hwy. in Florence, phone 371-0554, with new drive-in facilities.

Through this bank, which insures all deposits through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, many people have found their desired method of saving. You, too, can enjoy the security of knowing that you have planned for tomorrow with a savings account at Florence Deposit Bank.

A checking account with them is really a streamlined service. It can relieve you of the trouble and other of paying bills afoot, and gives you an automatic receipt on all purchases.

Through the sound judgment and seasoned professional ability of this institution's officers and directors, you can realize no better bank to deal with. Florence Deposit Bank invites you to visit them and will be happy to explain to you their many services. Remember, your banker is one of the best friends you can have.

We, the writers of this 1974 Review wish to direct the attention of our readers to the fine reputation Florence Deposit Bank enjoys.

O'BRYAN KITCHENS

Joe O'Bryan — Owner

This cabinet shop is located at 3420 Dixie Hwy. (5 doors North of Commonwealth Ave) in Erlanger, phone 331-5456. Be sure to call them for all types of cabinet work if you want the highest type workmanship. For vanities, cultured marble tops, formica tops, range hoods, call 331-5456, they also feature Kitchen-aid appliances.

A completely equipped cabinet shop and the ability to handle all types of cabinet work is very important to builders and home owners. In this section, there is no cabinet shop that has met with more success since they opened this reliable firm. You can be assured that your measurements will be strictly adhered to and specifications will be followed to the letter. Only the best grade of materials go into the cabinet work here.

This 1974 Review and its authors consider it a pleasure to recommend O'Bryan Kitchens for precise workmanship and fair business policies in the cabinet field. Call 331-5456 for free estimates today.

CATTLEMAN'S STEAKHOUSE

Long Horn Saloon

Fine food and drink are favorite topics of conversation, for they speak a universal language, but at the Cattleman's Steak House in Ft. Mitchell at I-75 and Buttermilk Pike, phone 331-8133 food and drink are more enjoyable really. Once you have stepped through the doors and entered the World of the Cattle Baron, you will understand why this outstanding establishment has become a favorite gathering place for particular people who know and appreciate the best.

This is one of the finest new restaurants in this area and they feature broiled steaks and the best prime rib in the Cincinnati area.

While there, visit the Long Horn Saloon for an evening of drinks and entertainment. They feature UpTown-Country-Western music all night long and no minimum five nights a week. Your host is Glenn Canyon, the popular recording artist and the American Canyon. Stop in for good listening and dancing.

The edition of this 1974 Review heartily recommends the Cattleman's Steak House and Long Horn Saloon to our readers. Remember, if you appreciate outstanding service and really good food and drink served at the peak of perfection, we suggest you drop in soon and enjoy hospitality at its best.

MITCHELL MARKET

This well-liked market is located at 3300 Crescent in Erlanger, phone 341-8300. This is the store to come if you are interested in keeping that grocery bill within range. They sell on a close margin of profit and give you the advantage of lower prices. Folks from this section have found the values to be as great here as any place in town. You surely can't go wrong by trading at this store.

It is a great help to know you can stop at one store and buy most all the food and household items that you need. It is no small problem to keep shelves stocked with desirable food, but this grocery has done a marvelous job in the past and will continue with their progressive business policy.

We, the authors, are happy to recommend this prominent supermarket in this 1974 Review and suggest you drop in and select some of their bargains. You'll enjoy their friendly service.

FLORENCE NURSERY

Landscape Company

Thomas O'Daniel — Owner

The Florence Nursery, located at 7501 U.S. Highway 42 in Florence, phone 371-5999 offers a complete selection of all types of plants, shrubs, flowers, and tree stock that you can choose from.

Home owners should take advantage of the services offered by this reliable firm. Without shrubbery and flowers, any home looks plain. Not only does landscaping help to beautify a home, but it increases its value as well. When you select shrubbery or trees for your yard, it is as permanent as the home itself.

Florence Nursery specializes in commercial seeding with their hydro-seeding equipment.

Florence Nursery has had many years of experience in this field and they are experts. They are always willing to discuss plans and advise you on any job. You will find their sales help friendly and their price right.

We, the writers of this 1974 Review, suggest you make this well thought nursery your headquarters for all your landscaping stock.

Dino in a pleasant atmosphere at LaRosa's in K-Mart Plaza at 3005 Dixie Highway in Edgewood, phone 331-6880 for carry-out service. LaRosa's is famous for their Italian dinners. Also on the menu at this fine restaurant, are several favorite American dishes.

The Italians have been famous for centuries for their fine foods.

SKILCRAFT SHEET METAL INC.

Skilcraft Sheet Metal Inc. takes personal pride in the work they do and are avid backers of community wide functions. Skilcraft Sheet Metal Inc. support all community projects and knothole functions.

They would like to continue to serve the area people with the quality service and products that they have in the past. However, shortages created by material needed are preventing them from doing so. We wish to thank our past customers for their patronage and invite new accounts. If you wish, we would like for you, our friends, to inform your local, state and national representatives of our situation, as we have.

We hope to continue in the future to serve you and the community as in the past. Once shortages are past we invite the new people and our friends in the area to continue to rely on us for quality commercial sheet metal products.

Once this is accomplished, we feel that employment will again go up in the area, our county, state and country will again flourish.

UNITED REMODELING CO., INC.

If you want your home remodeled and modernized, or need alterations or additions of any kind, it is always to your advantage to call upon a reliable contractor with enough experience to do the work correctly and reasonably. They can also help you to arrange for financing.

They are widely known as contractors of high repute. The many jobs they have completed for miles around are a testimony of their ability.

United Remodeling makes no charge for going over any plans you have in mind and making an estimate. This is a friendly service that in no way obligates you.

Before you proceed on the plans you may have in mind, this 1974 Review and its compilers suggest it would be to your advantage to consult United Remodeling first. They are located at 515 Madison Ave. in Covington, call 261-6540 for any information, and 581-0650 for 24 hour service.

FLORENCE DRIVE-IN THEATER

The Florence Drive-In Theater is located at 6806 Dixie Highway in Florence, phone 371-8500 for the feature schedule.

Many of the rural communities offer very little in the way of high grade entertainment, but we have the advantage of being within easy driving distance of every movie that this drive-in has to offer. Since many of our readers make frequent shopping trips to town, suggest you stay for an evening of enjoyment by going to this drive-in.

The motion picture producers are now offering greater-hits than ever before and they have contracted for the more outstanding successes of the screen. It is the theatre where "Movies are better than ever."

The management of this theater has booked honest-to-goodness attractions that will please the old and young alike. Stories with human interest, more real life, comedy and more all-around pleasure and entertainment.

We, the compilers of this 1974 Review highly recommend the Florence Drive-In Theater as the home of the "Big Pictures."

INTERSTATE LODGE

Robert Patuto — Director of Operations

Good motels are indispensable to the progress and development of a growing community. The Interstate Lodge located at the junction of I-75 and Buttermilk Pike in Fort Mitchell, phone 331-6100 has accommodated a great many tourists and business men in a manner that assures them of the continued patronage and good will of the traveling public.

The management here has maintained an ideal service which is thoroughly exemplified by the manner in which every employee attends to his or her duties.

Nothing is taken for granted, nothing is forgotten. Hospitality and service are always their first and last consideration.

Much of the credit for the splendid reputation of this motel is due to the executive ability of the management, whose untiring efforts, foresightfulness and careful attention to detail, has maintained a standard of hospitality and service which would be difficult to surpass.

It is a pleasure for the editors of this 1974 Review to recommend the Interstate Lodge and its friendly manager.

MARCO CONSTRUCTION

If you want your home or business remodeled and modernized, or need alterations or additions of any kind, it is always to your advantage to call upon a reliable contractor with enough experience to do the work correctly and reasonably.

They are widely known as building contractors of high repute. The many jobs they have completed for miles around are a testimony of their ability. They also do plumbing and electrical work.

Marco Construction makes no charge for going over any plans you have in mind and making an estimate. This is a friendly service that in no way obligates you.

Before you proceed on the plans you may have in mind, this 1974 Review and its compilers suggest it would be to your advantage to consult Marco Construction first, call 371-8167 for any information.

Wichard's Sunoco Ser. & Airport Parking

Calvin Wichard — Owner

Wichard's Sunoco Service & Airport Parking located at 658 Donaldson Hwy. in Erlanger, phone 371-4691, is the place to take your car to make sure you are getting the best in service.

We all like to feel certain we are giving our automobile the best of care. The next time you're in the area drive your car to this service station for complete servicing while you shop. The attendants at this station know their business from A to Z. They feature Sunoco products that have proved their excellence for your automobile. You can expect good mileage and top performance only by giving your car the best. The next time you are in the area, stop at the Wichard's Sunoco Service & Airport Parking.

In making this 1974 Review, we the organizers, point with particular commendation to this fine service station.

If you are planning a trip leave your car here and they will drop you off at the airport and pick you up on your return flight.

LAROSA'S

Fine Italian Food and Drink

Pasta made from flour and water, is the basic food throughout Italy. Pasta includes spaghetti, macaroni, ravioli, lasagna and more.

Pizza is another popular Italian dish that is featured here. If you are in the mood for something different and tasty, try the fine Italian cuisine in this restaurant.

You'll be greeted with Old World warmth and personal service.

For authentic-Italian food and authentic Italian decor, you will find that this restaurant is the place to go. Call them to make reservations for a party.

The edition of the Review and its researchers suggest you visit LaRosa's for a unique and pleasant dining experience.

FHA's Search for Leadership was the theme as 243 Future Homemakers of America from throughout the state attended the Leadership Training Conference in Hardinsburg, Kentucky, during the week of July 30-August 1.

Many interesting activities were planned for the regional and state officers as they learned of their duties. The group determined goals for the Kentucky Association of FFA for 1974-75, and made plans for carrying them out.

Attending from Kenton County and representing Region 7 were Margaret Collett reporter, and Daine Jump, treasurer and their advisor, Mrs. Seary.

The three-day program included sessions on leadership and responsibilities as well as many recreational activities. Some of the highlights of the week included: Miss Bertha King, Education Program Specialist, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D. C., who spoke on "Making FFA An Integral part of Home Economics"; and Mrs. Lynn Hiett, Division County Vocational-Technical School who spoke on "Qualities of A Leader."

The Leadership Conference was reported to be an educational and enjoyable experience.

The Kentucky Association of FFA is sponsored by the Home Economics Unit of the Bureau of Vocational Education, State Department of Education, with Mrs. Agnes Foster serving as State Advisor.

Thomas W. Farwell Airman Of Month

Airman Thomas W. Farwell is nominated for the Airman of the Month award for July 1974 in recognition of his outstanding accomplishments as the Administrative Specialist, Quality Assurance-Standardization Branch of the 3007th Aviation Depot Squadron.

Airman Farwell entered the United States Air Force in Aug. 1973. After completion of basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, he received technical training as a 70230 Administrative Specialist at Keesler AFB, Mississippi. He has been assigned duties at Barksdale AFB for the past six months.

As the only Administrative Specialist assigned to the QA Branch, Ann Farwell performs many varied tasks. He is responsible for performing all administrative typing and filing in support of the QA function. He performs all assigned duties in an outstanding, highly professional manner.

The outstanding manner in which he performs his duties was attested to during a recent higher headquarters inspection of the QA Branch. These highly qualified and experienced inspectors were very complimentary of the files and reports administered by Airman Farwell.

In recognition of his proven clerical ability and job performance, Airman Farwell was selected as the Squadron Airman of the Month for July 74, and is therefore submit him for selection as the Barksdale AFB "Airman of the Month."

Signed, James M. Cunningham, Lt Col, USAF Commander

Prepare For Fair

Kenton County 4-H'ers from four clubs spent last Thursday painting and preparing the 4-H exhibit building for the Kenton County Fair which begins August 13. The workers were Connie Weymeyer, Joyce Weymeyer and Susan Weymeyer from Green Road Special; Jay Helman from Whites Tower; Sharon Crawford, Becky Crawford, Jackie Crawford, Jeff Heeger, Matt Heeger, Julie Heeger and Joe Schmiede from Trailblazers and Cathy Campbell, Connie Bentley and Carrie Poe from Clover Leaf.

Mary Helmann of Whites Tower and Diana Schneider, 4-H Agent supervised the painting of exhibit benches. Judy Heeger of Trailblazers, Betty Weymeyer of Green Road Special and other leaders helped with transportation to and from the fairgrounds.

Harold Schneider from Boone County and Darwin Foley, Agriculture Agent supervised the construction of the display area. A delicious lunch was served by Sheryl Steinmetz and Alice Schneider. This year's fairgoers will see a bigger and brighter display of 4-H exhibits thanks to the hard work of these people.

Jack Reno

WUBE All-Stars 23-13 Over Council

The Walton City Council was mauled last Thursday night by the WUBE All-Stars by a score of 23 to 13.

Those playing for the all-stars were: Jack Reno, 1b; Paul O'Brien, cf; Bob Robert, rf; Tom Brandt, cf; John Wayland, 2b; Gig Franklin, cf; Frank Sanders, p; Wayne Lewis, 3b; Dave Landers, short stop.

The first inning saw the all-stars knocking 10 big ones.

Trying to match their opponents, the City Council team followed at the half-way mark to leave the score 10 to 5 in the all-stars' favor, at the bottom of the first. Randy Lawrence came to bat and was the first man on as he popped a single. "Butch" Kent followed with another single and then Big Dave Peebles let fly to knock the ball for a 3 base hit. Danny Ryan and Greg Turner, both touched the plate for runs batted in.

Those playing for the Walton team were: Dave Peebles, Butch Kent, Randy Lawrence, Danny Ryan, Greg Turner, John Heinz, Preston Hodges, Dave Meakin, Dr. W. M. Waller, Preston Art, Roscoe Denny and Jack Norris.

The umpire was Jim King. I think a good time was had by everyone, with lots of fumbles and laughs. Once in a while (to everyone's amazement) a pretty good bit of ball playing.

The City Council wants to thank WUBE for their good sportsmanship, time and effort; also all who came out to make the event worthwhile.

The benefit ball game was held for Melvin Collins who had been in the hospital recently. The donation estimate was around $500.

Private Sexton Completes Training

Private Raymond J. Sexton, 22 son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Sexton, Route 1, Verona, Ky., completed the seven-week Basic Field Artillery (Cannonner) Course at the U. S. Army Field Artillery Training Center, Ft. Sill, Okla.

During the course, he learned the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman. He also received instruction in handling ammunition, setting fuses and preparing charges, communications and maintenance.

Pvt. Sexton's wife, Brenda Kay lives at 823 Linaburg Rd., Hebron, Ky.

Private John E. Sexton, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Sexton, Rt. 1, Verona, Ky., completed the seven-week Basic Field Artillery (Cannonner) course at the U. S. Army Field Artillery Training Center, Ft. Sill, Okla.

During the course, he learned the duties of a howitzer or gun crewman. He also received instruction in handling ammunition setting fuses and preparing charges, communications and maintenance.

Kentucky State

Fair Is August 15-24

by Wendell P. Butler

The Kentucky State Fair is considered a major "spotlight" for Kentucky's agricultural products and this year's edition August 15-24 will offer some new attractions.

For the past several years the Kentucky Ham Breakfast has served as a special treat for those who enjoy this delicious Kentucky farm product. This is not to say that the many displays and exhibits of products, plus the different livestock shows, are not a joy and pleasure to see and observe. But the ham breakfast, with its record-setting auction, has drawn national and international attention to Kentucky, the State Fair and Kentucky agriculture.

This year fairgoers will have the opportunity of participating in two new "eating" affairs. On the evening of the opening day, Thursday, August 15, a "Dinner and Cheese Auction" will be held. Tickets are available from the Dairy Products Association and its members.

The purpose of the dinner is to salute and promote Kentucky's outstanding dairy and dairy products industry. The champion cheese from the dairy products show will be sold with proceeds going to some worthy charity.

On Sunday, August 18, the Kentucky Livestock Improvement Association and the Sheep and Wool Producers will sponsor a lamb barbecue. This event is likewise a promotional event designed to focus attention upon the State that produces some of the best lamb to be found anywhere.

The lamb dinner will take place following the Ladies Lead Class, a colorful event that has been added at the State Fair. And, speaking of colorful and exciting events, yet another one has been added—a fleece and flax guild demonstration. This event will be held the first four days of the Fair and will show the art of carding, spinning, weaving and dyeing of wool with natural colors.

Additional publicity will be forthcoming on all of these events, which I see as adding another touch of interest and excitement to what is always quite a family event.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

August 8 — With the moon forming Atrine to the Sun early this morning you will enjoy a good breakfast and be ready for a pleasant day. If you are farming this is supposed to be a good time to harvest grain or dig potatoes, also a good time to cut weeds and they won't grow back too fast. Write a letter after lunch and it will be well received. Don't plan any social activities for the evening and you won't be disappointed.

August 9 — The Moon enters Taurus at mid-morning so this would be a good time to have teeth filled or have plate impressions made. Also a good time to do any painting or set fence posts. If you don't want your hair to grow back too fast get it cut today or tomorrow but don't tell your barber where you learned this secret.

August 10 — The Moon forming a square to mercury early this morning will probably cause you to wake up with muddled thoughts.

Just drink an extra cup of coffee and the cobwebs will soon clear away, this would be an excellent day for you ladies to get a permanent wave. The moon in a fixed sign will make it stay in a long time and it will look nice. The Moon forming a square to the Sun this evening will make the fish bite.

August 11 — The beginning of a beautiful Sunday all harmonious aspects today and the Moon enters the mutable air sign gemini this evening. The minister will be in rare form again this sabbath and you can look forward to a good sermon well delivered. The music and singing will have real harmony. The afternoon will be a safe time to travel and you will be welcomed wherever you visit.

August 12 — Think nothing of the bad dream you had about the time you woke up. That was caused by the bad vibration of the moon being in opposition to Neptune the planet of delusion. Be careful of your driving this morning, the Moon forming a square to Mars tends to make people reckless and irritable. A good day to cut hay weather permitting. It should cure in a hurry.

August 13 — All good aspects today and we deserve them after yesterday, you can expect something out of the ordinary, but pleasant about noon. This is a good day for home canning or freezing also a good time to write any letters you have been putting off. If you have any contracts to sign or legal matters to take care of any time today would be a good time. The moon goes into Cancer this evening so the fish should be biting.

August 14 — Still a good time for canning or freezing vegetables or fruit, also a good day for house cleaning. If you have any outstanding debts, this is a good day to collect, also a safe day for traveling. If you have been planning on buying a pet, today is an ideal time. With the Moon in the water sign Cancer, the fish should bite.

Mrs. R. C. Summey of Phoenix, Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn and sons, Kevin and Timothy, were Monday evening dinner guests of Mrs. Summey's cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. Judy Summey of Phoenix, Ariz., were Tuesday luncheon guests of Miss Marie Armstrong and Mrs. Hazel Pickett, 13 East 19th, Covington, Ky.

Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. Judy Summey of Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. Hazel Pickett, Miss Marie Armstrong of Covington, motored to Richmond, Ind., to spend the day with Mrs. Flynn's cousin and husband Mr. and Mrs. Walt Kepping.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn and Mrs. Judy Summey were Wednesday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn and family.

Mr. James Dudgeon spent from July 28th to 28th in Charlotte, N. C. with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fulton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dudgeon and son, James, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Maher spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miskell of Norwood, Ohio.

Mrs. Hugh Fulton was visiting Mrs. Dan Bendering, Thursday. Mr. Everett Bickers is a patient at Veterans Hospital in Cincinnati and Mrs. Bickers still remains quite ill at home.

Staffordsburg

Mrs. Dawson Ballinger

Georgia and Helen Richardson, Dawson and Albert Ballinger visited with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Richardson last Sunday afternoon.

Howard Noel was up from Owenton last Wednesday, calling on old friends.

Mr. Young and family recently moved in their new home on Kenton and Decoursey Road. Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Heath have returned home after visiting their son, Doug and family of Richmond, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barnett spent a few days with their son, Howard and family of Lexington.

The Choir of Staffordsburg Church is sponsoring a social this Saturday, August 10th, ice cream, cake, sandwiches, and soft drinks will be served. It will be in the church basement, so you all come, rain or shine.

Thanatopsis

So live that when thy summons comes to join the innumerable caravan which moves to the mysterious realm where each shall take his chamber in the silent hall of death,
 Chained to the dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an infatigating trust, approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Marriage entitles women to the protection of strong men who steady the stepladder for them, while they paint the kitchen ceiling.

"If there is anything you want," the landlady told the new tenant; "Just let me know, and I'll show you how to get along without it."

Wife to husband: "I scratched the front fender a little, dear. If you want to look at it, it's in the back seat."

"100" Celebration

From left, Professor Earl Clark, the Rev. Ralph Duncan, and Evangelist Jesse James Buell of the Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky., are shown as they reached the 100th mark in distribution of weekly religious radio broadcasts and newspaper features. Professor Clark's "Sunday School Lesson," both a newspaper feature and radio broadcast, is published in 100 newspapers and is broadcast on 20 radio stations. "Clear Creek Country" has Rev. Duncan, the "Clear Creek Parson" as host, features top country gospel music, and is heard on 28 stations. "Clear Creek Chimes" with Evangelist Buell as the "Clear Creek Chaplain" is heard on 52 stations in 15 states and 1 foreign country. The Pineville, Ky., theological school for adults is the only known weekly syndicates religious radio programs and a newspaper feature. WSKT, Knoxville Tennessee, became the 100th radio station to broadcast a Clear Creek program and The Florissant Valley Reporter, Florissant, Missouri, was the 100th newspaper to schedule the Sunday School Lesson commentary.

Boating Safety

The state transportation department's Division of Water Enforcement cautions all boaters to be especially careful when driving their boats at night.

"Night" boating is especially highly ill-advised," said Water Enforcement Administrator Doug Shoulters.

"We don't even allow our water enforcement officers to go out on the water alone at night because so many more emergencies occur at night which it would be difficult for one person to handle."

Shoulters advises boaters who are on the water at night to travel at "less than normal daylight speeds in order to avoid debris and obstructions which may be in the water -- and are not readily visible at night."

Shoulters said that adherence to the following Kentucky laws which apply to night one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise boating will considerably reduce the chances of an accident when boating at night.

— A combination light is required to be in operation in the bow of your boat when fishing at night. The combination light shows red to the port (left) side and green on the starboard (right) side. This enables vessels to determine each others directions.

— A bright white light is required in the stern of every motorboat which is visible at night in all directions for a distance of one mile.

— Still fishermen are required to carry a bright light or lantern on board which makes other vessels aware of their location.

— Non-mechanically powered vessels (such as canoes, rowboats and kayaks) are also required to have a bright light or lantern on board which can be seen in all directions.

DEATH

Sara Gaines Edwards knew the proud feeling that came from being a member of a pioneer family. She was a descendant of a family who settled in Boone Co. in 1789.

She attended Walton High School and married A. Ralph Edwards of Walton in 1909 at the age of 16.

He was a longtime insurance agent in Walton.

Mrs. Edwards died last Friday in a Louisville nursing home at the age of 80.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Gaines.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. John M. Simms, Louisville; a son, Ralph G., Kansas City, Missouri; a sister, Mrs. Sidney T. Wyatt of Erlanger; a brother, Alan H. Gaines; and three granddaughters.

Services were conducted Monday morning at Chambers and Grubbs Funeral Home with Rev. Robert Yates officiating. Burial was in Richmond Cemetery.

Breathless Nights

Counting sheep cures some kinds of insomnia. But sleepless nights can also be caused by unrecognized breathing problems.

A also researcher at Stanford University, Dr. William C. Dement, said results of his three-year study of 300 patients indicated that as many as one in ten patients with sleep disorders may be suffering from undetected respiratory abnormalities. According to Dr. Dement, difficulty in breathing among sleep-disturbed patients was accidentally discovered less than two years ago by a colleague who noticed that some insomnia patients seemed to have stopped breathing before waking abruptly.

As a result, Dr. Dement began to monitor respiratory measures during sleep in a variety of patients with insomnia. In one tenth of his sample, which happened to be all-male, he found this pattern shortly after the person falls asleep, his diaphragm stops moving; then after 15 seconds to three minutes of breathing problems, he wakes up, breathes deeply, and falls asleep again. "This cycle repeats itself hundreds of times during the night."

To find out more about breathing problems, contact your Kentucky Lung Association. It's a matter of life and breath.

What Is Hemophilia?

Hemophilia is an inherited condition of the blood in which a vital clotting factor or its activity is lacking. The lack of an essential clotting factor or its activity in hemophilia results in abnormally delayed clotting of the blood and resultant hemorrhages. Individuals with hemophilia are sometimes referred to as bleeders. This condition varies in each individual as to the severity of the bleeding tendency. In some families, it is severe and there are frequent attacks of bleeding which require medical attention.

In other cases, it is less severe and the bleeder experiences only occasional episodes.

The type and severity remains constant throughout the individual's life, neither improving or worsening.

NORMAL LIFE

An individual with hemophilia is basically a normal human being with potentially the same needs and problems as everyone else. As a newborn and all his life, the bleeder may bruise excessively as the result of a minimal and no unusual accident or "bump". Because the blood does not clot normally, he may continue to bleed for a considerably longer time than normal when he gets hurt.

When there is internal bleeding in to a joint, the affected area becomes painful, swollen, and feels quite warm. The child "favors" the arm or leg and generally is in intense pain.

It is true, the bleeder needs to take precautions not to involve himself in an activity overly dangerous to himself, but he must also participate in normal everyday activities as much as possible.

Under present medical care, the person with hemophilia is much more likely to live his normal life than was true less than a generation ago.

Although there is no cure for hemophilia, there are effective methods of treatment when bleeding occurs, and proper management holds out real hope that each bleeder can anticipate a normal life span in all aspects. Not too many years ago, the diagnosis of hemophilia automatically was equated with early death of the child, after spending most of his life as an invalid.

TREATMENT

The number one treatment of hemophilia remains as in the past—transfusions of plasma products to control the bleeding. Sometimes in minor bleeding, the use of ace bandages or pressure, and ice packs to the affected area is the treatment needed.

RESEARCH

Various drug companies and research centers are doing research to enable production of artificial plasma-like products. By and large, no product superior to human plasma has been evolved.

SHARING

Hemophiliacs who must rely upon plasma to sustain their life are dependent upon the individuals who elect to share a small part of their own blood by becoming blood donors. When the blood bank processes the blood drawn from each donor, they may separate the blood parts into various components and thus get double or more use from one donor's contribution. Sometimes these components are frozen until needed.

DEMAND-SUPPLY

The more units of plasma on hand, the less critical the bleeding episode. It has happened more than once, that a bleeder in need of plasma has had to wait hours, and sometimes a day or longer until a special plea brings blood donors.

Transfusions are the bleeders' means of continuing life. An ordinary person might use 13 units of blood or plasma in his lifetime. Depending on the seriousness, the person with hemophilia may need 3 to 12 units at a time.

(As a precaution, all hemophiliacs should wear a medical alert bracelet or tag.)

Ky. Fair Is Great Entertainment

Louisville Ky.—Looking at the list it's easy to see how the 1974 Kentucky State Fair rates as the biggest entertainment fair package ever put together.

Paid acts recently signed include Mel Tillis, The Kentucky Colonizers, Sami Jo, Olivia Newton John, Ray Stevens, Lester Flatt, The Osborne Brothers, Mac Wiseman, Cappy's Hat Band, Bruce Pandolf and Bru'n Arbor.

Free attractions as yet unnamed, include David Hoy, the U.S. Air Force Logistics Command Band, Popejoy Trading Company and the Pantomime University Band.

This year the State Fair runs from August 15 through August 24.

Opening day will offer a triple helping of talent Singer-comedian Mel Tillis and The Statlers will headline the bill and will be joined by The Mike Curb Congregation and Sami Jo. Tillis, the man who turned an embarrassing stut into a comic act sings in the country and pop styles, including nearly 1,000 songs, including a hit "Detroit City" and "Rhubarb, Don't Take Your Love To Town." The Mike Curb Congregation is a collection of today's clean-cut young people who sing pop, country and easy listening tunes, including their biggest song "It's a Small, Small World."

Singer-composer Ray Stevens will appear the following night, Friday, August 16, with his latest put out: a lot of madcap tunes, "Gitaran" and "Ahab the Arab" but has also shown a different "streak" of his personality with songs like "Everything is Beautiful." Australian singer Olivia Newton-John's popularity grows with each new record; so far with "If Not For You," "Banks of the Ohio," "If You Love Me Let Me Know" and "Let Me Be There." On Monday, August 19, several up bluegrass talents will present a Bluegrass Celebration. Improbable singer and guitarist Lester Flatt will lead the celebration with the Nashville Grass. Sonny and Bobby Osborne began their careers over 20 years ago in Ohio and have since taken their banjo and mandolin skills all over the world. Mac Wiseman grew up singing and strumming pure bluegrass and helped form the Country Music Association long the way. Cappy's Hat Band, a musical foursome will round out the bill.

Boots Randolph, a name synonymous with saxophone, will take the stage Wednesday, August 21, with Brush Arbor Randolph has been making a name for himself as a blues and country singer. He was hit in '58. Brush Arbor has been together only a couple of years but the country-western sextet has already appeared on TV's "Deen Martin presents Music Country" and at numerous concerts.

Additional free entertainment at this year's Fair will include David Hoy, a nationally known psychic who deals in extrasensory perception (ESP) and forecasting the future. He's done everything from predicting a bridge collapse to finding misplaced false teeth. Hoy will lecture and demonstrate his unusual ability Saturday, August 24.

The U.S. Air Force Logistics Command Band will be on hand to perform opening day. Popejoy Trading Company will supply the bluegrass sound twice a day during the Fair. P.U. Band, a pantomime group will give one performance on opening day, August 15.

Paid attractions previously signed for the 1974 Kentucky State Fair include Rare Earth, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Tommy Steiner's Rodeo, Death Riders, Mac Davis, O.B. McClendon, Poe Wee King, and Charlie Rich.

Free entertainment at the fair include M&M Circus Intertenale, Joe Frisco Petting Zoo, DJohns, Chiffons, Silverbird, That Old Gang of Mine, and Toby Mellett. Mari onette's Jack Tolliver and the Schaffner Players Tent Show.

Reds Pass 1,000,000

For the 13th consecutive year and ninth time in club history the Cincinnati Reds have passed the million mark in home paid attendance.

The Reds became the second team in baseball to hit seven figures this year when a crowd of 46,016 Sunday pushed the season total to 1,040,822. The Los Angeles Dodgers are the other club to already eclipse the million barrier.

CHRIST ABOVE ALL - Colossians 1:15-27

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

Daniel Webster said of Christ these things: "I believe Jesus Christ to be the Son of God. The miracles which He wrought establish, in my mind, His personal authority, and render it proper for me to believe whatever He asserts. I believe, therefore, all His declarations as well when He declares himself to be the Son of God, as when He declares any other proposition. And I believe that there is no other way of salvation than through the merits of His atonement."

According to the Scriptures (Philippians 2:6-11) Jesus Christ was with the Father in the beginning and was equal with God. But Jesus did not consider this equality a thing to hold on to and so He laid aside His riches and humbled Himself. His obedience led Him all of the way to death on the Cross. Then God exalted Him and gave Him a name above every name. In the mind and heart of God the Father, Jesus was declared supreme.

What Jesus did will forever declare Him above all others. Consider His mission of revelation. We can know what Jesus was like. Jesus came to show us what God was like. He came to reveal the heavenly Father. Paul declares Jesus to be the "image of the invisible God." No one but Jesus has ever seen God. But we can know what God is like because we can know what Jesus was like.

Jesus is the firstborn of every creature. This does not mean that Jesus was born or created first and then others followed. This is another way of declaring Him to be before all creation. He is the Son of eternal being. All things were created by Him. This means that Christ was God's Agent in creation.

Not only was Christ in existence before all things, but by Him all things "consist." The word "consist" means "to hold together." Christ is the Agent of preservation. What is the principle of coherence in the universe? What is it that holds creation together? The Bible answer is that it is Jesus Christ. The Bible has not been disproved in this.

Christ is the head of the body (the church). The church need never lose her direction. She needs only to follow the directions and instructions of her head. This would further mean that Christ as Head of the Church shares the life of the church. The church shares His life. Let the church recognize the Lordship of Jesus Christ. May this become a reality in the life of every member of the church.

Verse 19 declares that it was the pleasure of the Father that in Jesus all "fulness" should dwell. The word "fulness" means "completion" or "satisfaction." Paul is saying that in Christ the completeness of deity dwells.

Jesus is supreme because of His work of Redemption. Paul could not think and speak long of Christ without giving expression to His central mission. Christ is above all because He alone secured for us God's peace. This He did by the blood of His Cross. He took the blood of God's Son to redeem us from the slavery of sin. Because in Jesus the fullness of God dwelt He could be the agent of atonement. Every-thing Paul said in this verse is full of meaning. Our redemption was accomplished "by the blood of his cross." This death on a cross means the death of one under a curse (see Galatians 3:13). Christ accepted the curse which was due to us. Now sinful men may enter a position of relationship and of fellowship with God!

This leads us to another part of His work, that of reconciliation.

Paul reminds his readers that may turn to their own experience to learn what was involved in Christ's mission of reconciliation. Before Christ's reconciling work in their lives they had been estranged from God. They had even been hostile to God. This estrangement had affected their most being. They were enemies in their minds by wicked works. But through and by the death of Christ they had been reconciled to God. Christ died that He might present them, holy (separated from sin) and unblemished (spotless) and unrepentant (no accusation may be laid against them) in the sight of God.

This ought to spur them on to greater involvement in the ministry of reconciliation through His body, the church. Christ seeks now the reconciliation of all men to God. He has committed this ministry to His people, through the church.

PUPPIES DON'T SIT ON FENCES

But people sit on fences. And faithful puppies never question.

Our children, trusting the love and wisdom of their parents, respect even our indecision.

But the moral and religious growth of every child is deeply influenced by his parents' commitment of their own lives to God.

We have outlived the day when fathers and mothers sent their children to Sunday School without accepting their own rightful responsibilities and opportunities in the religious community.

Juvenile delinquency is the aftermath of fence-sitting. The Church is for the family. Religious instruction and inspiration are foundations of the home. Thus-growing or mature—gain direction only with commitment.

Join the FAMILIES who worship and grow together in church.

—WE BUILD YEAR ROUND—

The surprise May 30 flash flood resulted from a four-hour cloud-burst which hit only one isolated area of Bell County with Clear Creek's campus in the center of the violent rainstorm.

The school's administration building, roadways, water mains, and two student apartments were damaged during the flood. The Rev. D. M. Aldridge, veteran president of the Kentucky theological school for adults said, "We are almost overwhelmed by the generous gifts of friends from across the land. The local Newtown Baptist Church was the first to come to our aid, and friends from as far as Oregon and Texas have been joined by several hundred others, whose gifts have ranged from $1.00 to $3,000, to make the flood damage receipts among the largest ever received by the school for a particular project."

Water and mud damage to buildings and water mains on the campus have been repaired and a general clean-up has been completed.

The Clear Creek Baptist School, a theological school which trains adults for full-time Christian service, is owned and operated by the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

Pause And Reflect Gene Snyder Tells Constituents

Speaking at the opening ceremonies of the 125th anniversary of the Campbell County community of Dayton, Congressman Gene Snyder congratulated them upon the historic occasion and reminded them that the country soon would be celebrating its 200th birthday. "These are troubled times," the Congressman said, "but I think it is also a good time to reflect and count our blessings. We do have an abundance of good living that no other nation on earth can approach."

"As I look across the Ohio River, I see bridges and buildings being built. It was not too many years ago that Cincinnati was being burned and looted. So were Los Angeles, Newark, Detroit and many other cities. You don't see that today."

"And you are not seeing our young men being sent to fight in foreign wars; they are not even being drafted. We are at peace and I think we can be thankful for it. I believe we can look forward to our nation's Bicentennial with hope and optimism, Congressman Snyder said."

He followed his remarks with a handshaking tour in Dayton. His schedule has been busy. The week before he spent a considerable amount of time at festivities at La Grange in Oklahoma County.

This past weekend, in addition to the Dayton 125th celebration, he dropped in to wish Senator Marlow Cook his best at the Senator's birthday party.

Saturday saw him at a reception at the condominium complex, in Jefferson County—Glenview East; followed by attendance at a luncheon at Big Springs Country Club, as guest of Bob and Charlotte Campbell.

With County Fair time approaching, Snyder will spend as much time as possible at each of them.

Mr. Snyder plans to attend the Boone County Fair on August 9.

FREEZING II

Freezing requires an investment of time and money. To protect your investment, choose quality packaging materials. Freezer burn (drying) often is the culprit for a loss in quality of frozen food. Proper packaging materials and good techniques in packaging foods will insure good results.

The criteria for a container are easy to seal, waterproof against leakage, durable, and must not become brittle or cracked at low temperature. Most glass, metal, rigid plastic containers, bags, wrapping materials and waxed cartons made especially for freezing are satisfactory moisture-vapor-resistant products.

Non-acceptable packaging materials for frozen storage include ordinary waxed paper, thin wrapping foil and plastic bags, and paper cartons from cottage cheese, ice cream and milk. Flat-sided or rigid containers stack well and permit best utilization of freezer space.

Care in sealing is as important as using the right container. Extra care should be taken to make sure that lids are on securely. Lids of older containers sometimes warp so re-inforce the seal with a strip of freezing tape. Press out all air from packages and bags before sealing.

Remember that foods expand when frozen; therefore, never fill containers too full. Rigid containers will usually mark a "fill to here" line; on others, allow room for expansion.

Label each package with the name of the contents and date. Keep an inventory of what you put in and take out of the freezer. Check the freezer contents at least once a year when you clean and defrost to make sure food doesn't become misplaced.

Freeze foods as soon as they

are packed. Place packages against the coldest pipes or walls and leave a little air space for rapid freezing. Don't overload your freezer with more food than will freeze in 24 hours. A general guide for determining this amount is 2-3 pounds per cubic foot of freezer space. This is why it is advisable to have large amounts of meat frozen at the locker before putting in the home freezer.

The last reminder is to keep your freezer set at 0 degrees F. or colder. You can check the temperature by keeping a thermometer in the freezer. The colder the temperature, the longer the time the food will hold satisfactorily.

For further information contact your local County Extension Of-fire. The Boone County office is located in the Renaker Annex, Burlington, and the phone number is 586-6101, extension 17.

Friday Robbery Nets $447; Four Persons Are Held

FOUR PERSONS ARE BEING HELD IN BURLINGTON AND FLORENCE JAILS, ACCORDING TO WALTON POLICE CHIEF MEVIN COLLINS, AFTER THE FRIDAY NIGHT ROBBERY OF THE UNION 76 SERVICE STATION AT .75 AND KY. 16, WALTON.

According to Chief Collins, they pulled into the Union 76 Station in a green Maverick bearing Ohio license plates. While the attendant, Terry Webster, was outside, one of the women went inside and allegedly took out of the cash register approximately $447.00.

Due to the quickness of the Walton Police and the Kentucky State Police, they were apprehended in just a matter of minutes on I-75 at Corinth, Kentucky.

They are being held at $3,500 bond each.

Those being held are Joseph S. Maynes, Roger Maynes, Sharon Maynes and Jill A. Hammoms.

One of the women was said to have been carrying a concealed weapon.

Republican Picnic Sunday Aug. 25

The Boone County Republican Club will hold its Annual Family Basket Picnic, Sunday, August 25, 1974 at Mid-Valley Pipeline Co. Grounds, Hebron-Limburg Rd.

Co-chairmen Andrew Skerbeck and Irvin Drinkingsburg have announced that the fun begins at 2 p.m.

Don Brown, Republican Boone County Chairman and Clyde Middleton, State Senator, will have charge of the program, which will be announced later, following this. Mrs. John Sehrmann and her food committee will serve the usual Boone County bountiful Kentucky repast.

Come, bring your friends, and your special Kentucky food!

Free Glaucoma Testing Program

The Northern Kentucky Lions Clubs in conjunction with the Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness are sponsoring a FREE Glaucoma Testing Program on the following dates at the locations indicated:

Boone County—Boone County High School—August 22nd, 1974 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Campbell County—St. Therese Church, Alexandria Pike, Southgate, August 29th, 1974 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Kenton Co.—Covington Catholic High School—Sept. 5th, 1974, 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

One out of every eight blind persons in the U.S. lost his vision from glaucoma, an eye disease occurring most often among the population age 35 and older, with a tendency to run in families. The Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness points out that, this statistic is needlessly high, for although glaucoma cannot be cured it can be controlled—and slight saved—if diagnosed and treated in its early stages.

Baseball Campout

The National Campers and Hikers Association, (Northern Kentucky Chapter) will combine Cincinnati Reds baseball and a campout next weekend (Aug. 16-17-18).

Approximately 600 members of the NCHA will be on hand at Riverfront Stadium for the Reds' Saturday night game (7 p.m.) against the New York Mets.

Special buses will transport the campers from their campsite at the Alexandria Fair Grounds in Alexandria, Ky., about 10 miles south of the Stadium.

The Northern Kentucky chapter of the NCHA plans to make this an annual event, patterned after the Baseball Weekend that the NCHA has each year with the Minnesota Twins.

The campout has become so popular that upwards of 6,000 people now attend.

GOSPEL SING AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

The Church of Christ at Nicholson is holding a "Gospel Sing" on August 16th at 7 p.m. The Gospel Reporters will be appearing. Everyone is welcome.

Air Force Technical Sergeant George T. Bedell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Saxton of Route One is an administrative technician with the 1988th Communications Squadron.

Previously assigned at Offutt AFB, Nebraska, the sergeant is a 1958 graduate of Simon Kenton High School, Independence.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fisk of R-1, Morning View.

Walton Granted $549,725 For Sewers

Walton was granted an additional $549,725 in Washington Tuesday for construction of its sewage treatment plant. Senator Marlow Cook and Fourth District Congressman M. G. "Gene" Snyder reported.

Cook and Snyder said the increase from the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency brings the total federal support for the project to $889,845.

The project involves construction of a new collection system consisting of a pump station and extended aeration treatment plant with facilities for chlorination.

Martin Chosen For Who's Who

Who's Who Among American High School Students honors Alvin Martin, a senior at Walton-Verona High, was recently notified that he is to be featured in the Eighth Annual Edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the books. Less than 3 percent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

Alvin is the son of Jackie Martin of Verona, Ky. He is active in Band, Beta Club, Yearbook and has also won I Dare You Award, Good Citizenship Award from the DAR, Perfect Attendance Award, Health and P.E. Award, International Relations Award and the Margarette Magelheim Award.

In addition to having his biography published in the book, Alvin will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers."

Alvin plans to attend Thomas More College and major in Biology after graduating in May, '74.

Campaign For Christ Aug. 18-24 In Cin., O.

Many local churches are participating in the "Campaign For Christ" at the Cincinnati Convention Center, August 18-24 at 7:30 p.m.

Landon Saunders will be the principal speaker, assisted by local and out-of-town youth.

The campaign is sponsored by Churches of Christ of Greater Cincinnati.

Subjects of discussion include—Sunday, "God"; Monday, "Jesus"; Tuesday, "Faith"; Wednesday, "Church"; Thursday, "New Birth"; Friday, "New Life"; Saturday, "New Hope";

No collections will be taken. Free nursery service for children under two is provided.

You are invited to attend.

Jeffery L. Clark, 18, son of Mr. Edith Tuttle, Greenleaf Estate Trailer Court, Highway 36, near Florence, Kentucky, was promoted to Army Private First Class at Ft. Hood, Texas, where he is serving with the Second Armored Division.

Pvt. Clark is a cannoner in Battery T, First Battalion of the division's Third Field Artillery.

Pre-School Registration

Registration of the new students to Walton-Verona High School will be held Tuesday, August 20, between 9 a.m. and 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the high school.

Registration applies only to the students who reside in the Walton-Verona School District, and who were not enrolled in the Walton-Verona School System last year.

"OPEN HOUSE" AT SWITCHING CENTER

Cincinnati Bell's new Burlington Switching Center, Bullittsville Rd., will be opened for public inspection from 8 to 9 p.m., Tuesday, August 20, 1974.

The new office, which handles telephone calls for residents of Burlington and Hebron was placed into service on June 23, 1974.

The modern one-story switching center is filled with the latest in communications switching equipment.

Tour Guides will be available to conduct visitors through the building. Experts in the various activities inside the building will explain in detail what happens to your telephone calls.

Outside the building, in the parking lot, Cincinnati Bell will have on display much of the heavy equipment the company uses to install telephones, make repairs in telephone cables and to place telephone poles.

The new Burlington office replaces two smaller switching offices—one in Burlington and one in Hebron—which were too small to handle the growing need for telephone communications in the twin communities.

Refreshments will be served following the tour.

Simon Kenton PTA Honors Randall Wagner

Mr. Randall Wagner, Independence was recently recognized and honored by the Simon Kenton PTA. A plaque was presented by Mrs. Malcolm Fletcher, Citizenship Chairman for outstanding contributions to our schools, our PTA's, our community and in particular for dedicated effort in the cancer crusade. Mrs. Wagner was presented a small gold mouse as a small token for the work she helped to accomplish in "Send A Mouse To College" cancer crusade.

M. GENE SNYDER ATTENDS BOONE CO. FAIR

It is interesting to follow Congressman Gene Snyder around at a County Fair. Obviously, he enjoys it. But rather than have to step up to a fair visitor and identify himself, usually the people come up to see him. Farmer, tradesman, businessman, union man, housewife, politician or public official, families, the young and old; they are all there.

Sometimes it's just a quick recognizing smile or handshake. Often times there's something to talk about, a personal situation, or a letter for a recent letter or some other Congressional office service.

Surprisingly, despite the recent headline national events, there was little talk of that. Primarily people were concerned with their own personal or area problems, or just appreciated the opportunity to say "Hello" to their Congressman again.

When Snyder first went to Washington, he made a point that his first duty was to the people he served. Evidence that he has carried out his pledge is apparent in the warm smiles and handshakes he gets as he makes the rounds of the County Fair.

Both he and his wife, Pat, attended the Boone County Fair Friday evening (where his jumping frog made a bold attempt to come in somewhere ahead of last place).

Saturday, they attended the County Fair in Oldham County.

Bob Purkey In Reds' Hall Of Fame

Bob Purkey, who helped pitch the Cincinnati Reds to the 1961 National League Championship, has been elected as the 38th member of the Reds' Hall of Fame.

Purkey won 103 games during his seven seasons with the Reds. He was inducted into the Hall on Monday night when the Reds played the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Smoky Burgess came in a close second, followed by Cy Seymour and Jerry Lynch.

Purkey's best year was in 1962 when his record was 23-5.

Engagement

Miss Karen Gail Alexander

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alexander of Walton proudly announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Gail, to Mr. Gary Love, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfrede Love, Richwood.

Miss Alexander is a 1973 graduate of Boone County High School and is presently employed at the Provident Bank in Cincinnati.

Mr. Love is a 1969 Graduate of Boone County High and is presently employed at TWA.

The wedding will take place August 31, 1974, 7:30 p.m., at the Lakeside Presbyterian Church, Lakeside Park, Kentucky.

The public is invited.

Piner Homecoming Sunday, August 18

Piner Baptist Church Home Coming will be held on Sunday, August 18, 1974. There will be "dinner-on-the-grounds" at 1:00 p.m. A Gospel singing will start at 2:00 p.m. featuring The Gospel Recorders and The Robinson Family. There will be other special as well. The public is most cordially invited and a special invitation is given to all former members of the Piner Baptist Church.

Dunking Booth At Kenton County Fair

The Piner-Fiskburg Fire Department and Life Squad will have the "Dunking Booth" at the Kenton County Fair again this year. They will be helped by the Navy Recruiters to join the fun and help the fire department, see that your friends and enemies get dunked.

The Ladies Auxiliary will have a handicraft booth at the fair. A handmade, early American quilt will be given away with all proceeds going to the life squad.

6,500 4-H Members Take Part In Ky. State Fair Events

Some 6,500 4-H young people are expected to take part in Kentucky State Fair events, sending examples of their project work to be judged or going to Louisville themselves to participate in the special 4-H activities scheduled Aug. 10-24 in connection with the Fair.

State "Finals" in several 4-H demonstration and judging contests are held at the Fair each year, with state champions in these activities selected from among top winners from each Extension Area. Most of these 4-H events are divided into junior and senior divisions, giving young members (those 9-13 years of age) a chance to compete against their own age group while older 4-H'ers (ages 14-19) take part in separate contests.

These 4-H events show how Fair goes the wide variety of activities available to 4-H members and the accomplishments of the 4-H'ers taking part in these activities, according to state 4-H staff members with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service. All the events except the judging contests are open to the public.

All Saints Team Wins Season Title

55 CONSECUTIVE WINS

Last week in the Women's Area Churches Softball League, All Saints of the Eastern Division played New Bethel of the Western Division and won 30 to 19 to give them their 55th victory and no losses since the league was organized in 1971.

TOURNAMENT PLAY

The two loss and out tournament will begin tonight (August 15th) with the following competition:

At the Verona field at 6:30: Richmond-Union Presbyterian vs All Saints.

At the Walton field at 6:30: Piner Baptist vs Walton Baptist Number One; at 7:45, New Banklick Baptist vs New Bethel Baptist; and at 9:30 p.m. Walton Christian against Walton Baptist Number Two.

The remainder dates for the tourney are August 20, 22 and 27. In case of rain, alternate dates will be picked.

Presentation of the trophies will be made on the last evening of the tournament.

The league invites the public to join in the tournament play.

Variety Sale

The Morning View United Methodist Church is having a variety sale on June 27th at the home of Melanee and Lori Simpson. Susan Waymeyer led in the song fest.

On June 28th, Lori Simpson represented our area at the State Talk Meet. She received a blue ribbon.

On July 11th, the members held a campout at the Simpsons. There was no rain nor ghost stories and everyone managed to last the entire night.

July 17th, several members of the church visited Woodport Nursing Home. They visited with each person there, helping in any way possible. They also helped at the reception desk.

During the month of July, Mrs. Waymeyer held four knitting lessons at her home. Every member was urged to finish their knitting project and other projects so that they might be turned in for the pre-fair judging July 30th.

On July 31st, a short business meeting was held along with the knitting lesson. Joyce Waymeyer was told of the work that was done on her 4-H Secretary's Book which was to be entered in the Kenton County Fair.

Joyce and Connie Waymeyer plus Melanee Simpson attended a day camp in Covington where they served as counselors.

On July 30th members turned in their finished 4-H projects for the pre-fair judging. Champions were Gwen Clark, Knitting I; Lori Simpson, Home Furnishings; Joyce Waymeyer, Knitting IV; Connie Waymeyer, Knitting IV. Their projects will be sent to the State Fair and judged there.

On the 16th and 17th of August, Lori Simpson, Gwen Clark and Joyce Waymeyer will participate in the State Demonstrations. Gwen will also represent Kenton County at the State Variety Show.

The 4-H events at the Fair also illustrate two of the major differences between the modern 4-H program and the traditional idea of 4-H, the 4-H staff members point out. Although 4-H began as a program for rural youth, it now offers projects and activities to interest any young person, no matter where he or she lives. And 4-H participants at the Fair will be urban as well as rural youth from throughout the state.

Also, in the early days of 4-H, the center of attention was on the project or the products of the project, such as a prize-winning calf or dress. Today's 4-H program emphasizes development of the individual young person, providing an opportunity for growth in leadership, citizenship and knowledge through both projects and activities. This can be seen at the Fair in those events where the 4-H'ers themselves are judged rather than—or in addition to—finished products of their projects.

FREEDOM IN CHRIST—Colossians 2:13-23

Goethe said: "None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free." This is what our lesson is about. Even those who have experienced freedom in Christ still need to be reminded of that freedom. This is why Paul says in Galatians 5:1, "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."

The same writer, speaking to the Christians in Colossae reminds them of their pardon. THEIR PARDON They had been saved out of a pagan society. They had been in a state of spiritual death. Their sinful nature and their actual trespasses testified to deadness of their condition. All who have not been born again are in the same estranged position. Since the Colossians were Gentiles they were "uncircumcised" in their flesh. They had been total strangers to the covenant of promise, knowing nothing of forgiveness and reconciliation to God. But even in this condition, God had reached down in mercy and raised them out of spiritual death into a living union with Christ.

God who is rich in mercy had forgiven all their trespasses. They had been disobedient to the will of God but God had forgiven. This had been no act of "cheap grace" on God's part. There was a "hand-writing of ordinances against." This refers to a statement of debt signed by the debtor acknowledging his indebtedness. These legal ordinances were against us in that they stated the claims against us. Paul goes on to say that these ordinances were "contrary to us." This means that they not only stated the claims against us but also stood as our foe. The law of God not only states our guilt, it also cries out for the penalty due to such guilt.

But God wiped it all away, by blotting it out as one would erase an undesirable statement. Then Paul states further, "and took it out of the way, nailing it to the cross." Here are three tremendous truths. Men are sinners. God forgives sinners. He does it by the sacrifice of His Son on the Cross.

Verse 15 gloriously declares that God in Christ is victor. He has triumphed over all that represents evil. The Christian has victory in Jesus Christ, but only in Him. This leads us to the consideration of the Christian's position.

THEIR POSITION

Since the believer is in Christ, he must not allow anyone to enslave him in legalistic requirements. The believer is no longer in bondage to a set of rules. One's right relationship to God is the result of his position "in Christ" rather than conforming to legal demands. This does not mean that God has no laws to be obeyed. It does mean that the law as an instrument of condemnation has been dealt with. Christ has freed us from the penalty demanded by the law.

The things mentioned in verse 16 are a mere shadow of things to come. Let those of us who claim to know Christ get beyond the shadow. The reality of Christ. We are servants of Christ and not slaves to the things which point to Him!

There were false religions in Paul's day. There are false religions in our own day. There are those who hold out false hopes for a right relationship to God. Things that proceed from man such as false humility, worshiping angels, dwelling upon visions, and inflated with pride lead away from God.

The life of the believer comes from Christ. The believer becomes a part of the body of Christ. Christ supplies the nourishment and gives the increase of God. The growth and development of the Church and the individual Christian is in accordance with God's plan.

The remaining verses of this chapter is a warning of their peril.

THEIR PERIL

There were those who would subject the Colossian believers to a system of ritual observances. Does their salvation lie in such legalism or in their having died with Christ and living unto God? Salvation does not come by keeping external rules but by an inward spiritual change which Jesus called being born again. These outward regulations are appealing. But in reality, they lead to eternal slavery.

"If You Have Anything To Sell—Call Us"

Something wonderful happened yesterday.

I was walking in Grandma's garden, feeling a great sadness that she would never again walk there with me. Her favorite flower, the creamy-blossomed yucca, stood out delicately against the blue sky, breaking my heart with its loveliness. A yellow bee trembled over it a moment, then settled on a pearly petal. Bright-hued blossoms waved in the gentle breeze, pond ripples sparkled in the sun, and for one golden instant, I felt her presence. A prayer she'd taught me years ago came to my lips, "Grant me, God, eyes of the Spirit to see, the beauty of Your world, reflections of infinity."

I thought of how clearly Grandma had seen God's goodness. Her love of God and devotion to His Church had shone in everything she said and did.

Because of her devotion I too felt God's love all about me. I knew then and there that I would never be lonely again with the Church to sustain and guide me.

Freezing III

Frozen fruits and vegetables retain the color, flavor, and texture of fresh garden produce if handled properly. To insure quality, always use recommended procedures. Some of the basic steps to remember are in the following discussion.

1. Use only quality fresh products. Freezing retains quality, but does not improve it.
2. Prepare food under sanitary conditions.
3. Use approved packaging materials.

4. Work quickly and try to let only a few hours elapse from picking to freezer. Store in refrigerator if a delay is necessary.

5. Blanch or scald all vegetables. Cool quickly.

6. Use anti-darkening agents, such as ascorbic acid for certain fruits and vegetables to prevent discoloration.

7. Choose the method of freezing fruit according to the fruit you are using and the end use.

The importance of blanching need to be emphasized. The United States Department of Agriculture, all State Land Grant colleges such as the University of Kentucky and all manufacturers recommend to blanch or scald all vegetables except possibly green peppers.

This is an important step as the heating of vegetables slows or stops the action of enzymes. Up until the time vegetables are picked, enzymes help them grow and mature. After picking they cause loss of flavor and color. If vegetables are not heated long enough, the enzymes continue to be active even during the frozen storage period. The result is off-flavor, discoloration, or toughening (corn on the cob is a common example). Heating also wilts or softens vegetables and makes them easier to pack requiring less packaging space. Check a freezing manual for blanching time tables:

Fruits can be frozen in either of three ways; syrup-pack, dry sugar, or plain. The fruit itself and end use will determine which method you use. For example, berries freeze well with or without sugar. However, delicate fruits such as peaches, apricots, and nectarines need to be frozen in either a sugar syrup, their own juice, or water for dietetic purposes. You might like to freeze some berries unsweetened to use in salads and fruit cups or with sugar to use in desert.

For detailed information on freezing contact your local County Extension Office. The Boone County office is located in the Renaker Annex, Burlington, and the phone number is 586-6101, extension 17.

STAFFORDSBURG

Mrs. Dawson Ballinger

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rapp; Mr. and Mrs. Don Duff and children have been vacationing at Myrtle Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. William Binder and daughter, Peggy and husband, spent a week in Florida visiting relatives and friends.

Walker Maddox spent last Monday with Dawson Ballinger. Walker is not able to work anymore but still likes to get around and see what is going on in the farm.

Glenn Finnell and Bruce Rapp are spending a few days with Greg Finnell who has a job in West Virginia. They were room mates in college last year. "So thankful for the lovely rains we had which were so badly needed."

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

AUGUST 15—The Moon is still in the water sign, Cancer, so if you have any home canning to do, this would be a good day to put up fruits and vegetables. Your routine could be upset at noon as the Moon squares Uranus, if it does not go fishing as they will bite until dark.

AUGUST 16—The Moon moved into the fixed fire sign, Leo, last night so don't expect to catch any fish until the 22nd. Today is an ideal time for destroying noxious growths and weeds, also getting rid of plant pests. Dig potatoes and pick fruit today if you want it to keep well. If you have any personal problems, do some self analysis about 9 a.m. while the Moon is in Neptune and you may find a solution.

AUGUST 17—We have a new Moon today in the sign Leo at 12:25 p.m. local time and with all good aspects coming up this would be a good time to start a new project or advertise new ventures or remind the public of anything you have for sale, either merchandise or services. Do some shopping today for house furnishings or adornment and you will be well pleased with your selection. Get an eye test today if you want glasses to fit.

AUGUST 18—The Moon moved into the mutable Earth sign, Virgo last night and the aspects for this Sabbath don't give much promise. Maybe we had best just go to church and get what inspiration we can, just do a lot of resting and reading and be ready for a good week coming up. AUGUST 19—With the good aspect between Mars and Saturn early this morning, you should start the day full of ambition. The Moon will be in Virgo until dark, so if you need any teeth extracted try to see your dentist today and get it over with while the gums will heal nicely.

AUGUST 20—The start of a wonderful day, the Moon increasing in Libra with all good aspects so start the day with a kind deed and a friendly call. If you have any business calls to make, you will be well received any time today. The fish are not biting so plan on entertaining at home tonight and you will enjoy every moment.

AUGUST 21—A good day to collect any outstanding debts. You could do exceptionally well after lunch as the Moon conjuncts Uranus. Try the real hard one about 3 p.m. and get a pleasant surprise. A good day for home baking as yeast dough will rise well today. Do some house cleaning and be well pleased with your endeavor. Buy some new clothes if you want style and matching color.

Veteran News

Q—I'm a service disabled veteran who has $25,000 worth of Veterans Administration Mortgage Life Insurance on a specially adapted home. How long will this coverage last?

A—Until the mortgage has been paid off, the home is old, you reach age 70, or until your death.

Q—I was honorably discharged last month after three years of military duty, and am thinking of applying for a GI home loan from the Veterans Administration. What are some of its advantages?

A—Because VA guarantees 60 percent of loans up to maximum $12,500-downpayments are either small or not required and there usually is a long repayment period with no penalty for early prepayment. Also, VA appraises the house to determine reasonable value.

TWO-DAY DEER HUNT

A two-day firearms deer hunt will be held on the Higginson-Henry Wildlife Management Area (formerly part of Camp Breckinridge) in Union County, Kentucky on November 19-20, 1974. The hunt will be by special permit only issued by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Persons wishing to participate in this quota hunt should write to Area Manager, Higginson-Henry Wildlife Area, Route 5, Morganfield, Kentucky 42437 and request an application for a permit, enclosing a return addressed, stamped envelope.

All applications must be completed and returned to the above address so they arrive no later than noon on September 7, 1974. A drawing will be subsequently held at the Union County Court House to select 250 hunters who will be mailed permits to participate in the hunt.

Hunters successful in the drawing should receive their permits by September 21, 1974. Unsuccessful applicants will not be personally notified except upon request.

Successful Retirement Requires Planning

Have you made plans for your retirement? Successful retirement doesn't just happen; it must be planned for, notes Stephen Q. Allen, extension farm management specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"One's success and happiness during retirement depend to a great extent upon how well he prepares," says Allen. "Successful retirement requires considerable thought and effort."

Allen points out that most people today have jobs which have retirement regulations. In many jobs, retirement is required at age 65. Often, provisions are made so that an individual may retire voluntarily at an even earlier age.

Farmers and other self-employed people have more flexibility in deciding on the time of their retirement. The Social Security law provides the possibility for these people to retire anytime between the ages of 62 and 72.

"Many people in this situation work as long as they are able," Allen points out. "This usually does not lead to a happy retirement period."

Retirement benefits under the Social Security Program have continued to increase. However, these benefits are designed to cover only the bare living essentials, and no more.

"If one's income during his working life has been low, Social Security benefits will also be low," Allen explains. "This is true because benefits are based on average income over one's working life. Where income was low, Social Security benefits may not provide for even minimum living requirements. Other sources of income are important to retired people to supplement income received from Social Security."

Many farmers continue to do some farm work after retirement to provide extra income. According to the U. S. Census, there are almost 16,000 farms in Kentucky operated by partially retired farmers. These farmers receive only a small amount of farm income. Other farmers continue to operate larger farms after retirement and receive reduced Social Security benefits.

Most farmers own their own farms and have most debts paid off by the time they reach retirement. Such farmers may find that renting the farm to a family member or another farmer will provide the extra income needed during retirement years.

"Rental income, regardless of the amount, will not interfere with one's Social Security benefits when one does not participate materially in the operation or management of the farm," says Allen.

Some farmers may want to sell their farm upon retirement. The money received from the sale of a farm can be put into investments or savings to provide supplementary income. The principal from such savings can be used for living expenses if necessary.

"Making an installment sale of the farm is another possibility," says Allen. "This can provide income tax savings on capital gains. To qualify for this savings, the amount received in the year sale cannot exceed 30 percent of the selling price."

Other methods of providing retirement income may fit your situation better than those which have been suggested. There are many annuity plans, some of which have tax saving provisions. Your insurance agent or banker can provide you with information on such plans.

In planning for retirement, you should keep in mind that inflation will likely mean that more and more income will be required to live well in the future. "The escalator clause in Social Security benefit will not remove the gap," Allen predicts. "It has been estimated that Social Security will provide only about 60 percent of basic living costs. Other sources must provide the other 40 percent."

Bagworms

Bagworms are appearing on shrubs at this time of the year, mainly on evergreens. If not controlled they will defoliate the tree and even kill or seriously weaken it. At this time of the year it is usually too late to get good results from chemicals. Hand picking and destruction of the bags is the surest control method. Chemical controls are most effective if applied before July, preferably late in May when the eggs have just hatched. Some of the chemicals that may be used are Sevin and malathion.

Some administrations have developed voluntary "guidelines" which are based on what economists believe will not upset the economy. Jawboning has been another method of persuasion. Corporations and unions are verbally persuaded not to hike price and wage demands. Direct wage and price controls are a more severe form of income policy. During World War II and the Korean War, the U.S. had strict wage and price controls. More recently, the U. S. has had similar controls during Phase I through IV. Most opinion surveys reveal that consumers feel that recent wage and price controls were failures. There is considerable evidence that these controls were instituted to fight a demand inflation. Wage and price controls are only effective in fighting cost inflation. In other words, the government prescribed the wrong cure for the wrong disease.

Instituting controls to fight cost inflation is controversial. Some economists argue that the government should not tamper with a free enterprise economy. Others favor guidelines but oppose controls. Some argue that standards should be set, but allowance should be made for the free market to allocate scarce resources such as beef, fertilizer and so forth. In a free market, price serves as the allocator. As demand increases, profit increases and the manufacturer has an incentive to produce more. A decline in demand works in reverse. Price decreases, profit decreases, production is cut back. Still, other economists say that business and unions are so large that direct controls are required. This is a controversial position. Economists are likely to argue the point for a long time to come.

BLUEGRASS IS BEST FOR LOCAL LAWNS

Kentucky bluegrass is recommended for lawns in most of the state. When properly cared for it makes the most satisfactory lawn or general use.

Bluegrass forms an excellent sod and vegetatively propagates itself in the lawn by underground stems called "rhizomes." Several varieties of Kentucky bluegrass are available; each has one or more traits which make it a desirable turfgrass. Bluegrass varieties which perform well in one area of the United States may be a complete failure in other areas. The Kentucky variety is considered the best adapted for all of Kentucky, especially in situations of low maintenance (i.e., where the lawn will be fertilized only twice a year and no or little irrigation done during drought periods in mid-summer). Kentucky-grown bluegrass seed is also acceptable. Many other varieties of Kentucky bluegrass are available on the market, but experimental evidence as to their adaptability to Kentucky conditions is lacking. Some of the newer varieties that can be found on the market are Baron, Campus, Cougar, Delta, Fyking, Nugget, Pennstar, Sodco, Windsor, Vista and others. Many of these will produce higher quality lawns than Kentucky bluegrass, but higher maintenance must be provided to accomplish this.

A number of varieties and species of the fine leaf fescues are used in lawn seed mixtures because of their shade tolerance. They are usually designated as creeping red fescue, chowchong fescue, sheep fescue and hard fescue.

If shade is a problem now or will be later, fescue may be added to bluegrass seed and sown as a mixture. The red fescues are better adapted to shade drought lawn than is Kentucky bluegrass. These fescues have a fine, needle-like leaf blade which blends well in color with Kentucky bluegrass. The red fescues, however, should not be confused with the tall fescues, which are discussed later.

Both the fine and tall fescues are bunchgrasses and do not vegetatively propagate themselves in the lawn. Several varieties of creeping red fescue have been developed and Pennlawn is the most widely used. Billard is a hard fescue variety and has proven to be a good cultivar for mixture with bluegrass. When used in a mixture with Kentucky bluegrass seed the fine leaf fescue should compose approximately 50 per cent of the mixture by weight.

The tall fescues are coarse-leaved grasses which are commonly used for pastures. They also make a satisfactory lawn but because of their coarseness, they cannot be kept as neatly manicured as a bluegrass lawn. However, some homeowners are willing to sacrifice this in order to have the drought resistance and freedom from sod webworm damage which tall fescue possesses. Tall fescues are also used for lawn or play areas which will receive rough usage. The tall fescues should never be used in mixtures; and, when used, they should always be sown alone at relatively heavy rates. They should be mowed at least 2 inches high, using a sharp mower. Tall fescue varieties are Ky 31 and Kenwell.

Walton-Verona Old Fashion Worship Day Is Sunday

AT ALL SAINTS CHURCH GROUNDS

A local Old Fashion Day community worship is set for Sunday, August 25th, 7:00 p.m. on the ground at All Saints Church, Walton.

Guest speaker for this occasion will be John Roche, a member of the Kentucky Colonels Professional Basketball team.

Also featured will be a combined choir singing some of the "Old Fashion Gospel Songs." (Those who will be singing in the choir are asked to be present by 6:30.)

Everyone attending is asked to wear clothing typical of that attire worn by our forefathers and mothers as they drove horse and buggy to church.

It is also suggested that you bring your own lawn chair as the program will be outside on the ground. In case of rain, the program will be held in the high school gymnasium in Walton.

Call your friends and invite them to join you in this memorable occasion.

State Funds For Walton Streets

Governor Wendell H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Bill Paxton have announced the 1974-75 Municipal Aid Program for the City of Walton.

The program is based on an anticipated allotment of $3,140 for the coming fiscal year.

The program provides for curbing, gutter, blacktop resurfacing, and blacktop patching on various streets within the city limits.

Senior Citizens Meet

The Taylor Mill Area Senior Citizens met Tuesday, August 13, at ten o'clock. Coffee and rolls served to the group. Mrs. Hilda Griffith welcomed the group by remembering the birthday for the month. Mrs. Alma Yates gave the devotional reading from Luke 16: 10-17.

Mrs. Hilda Griffith introduced the speaker, Mr. Darwin Foley, Agriculture Agent of Kenton Co. He gave a very informative and enlightening program on "Changing Agriculture." He also told about Kenton Co. Development Method.

Mrs. Janet Harding explained the tour was to be made to Hawaii on October 17. Anyone wishing to go could contact her.

Those present were: Lillian Bridges, Margaret Stephenson, Flossie Newton, Stella Webster, Elma Taylor, Leontene Stephens, Ruby Armstrong, Kenneth Galloway, Orvan Douglas, Dorothy Ballinger, Georgia Rapp, Cleora Binder, Alice Dorman, Elizabeth Egger, Marion Hacker, Annie Bruce, Ruth Keck, Caroline Keck, Leslie Frazier, Chalmers Ballinger, Walter A. Wolf, John Bruce, Darwin Foley, Stella Loyd, Alma Yates, Hilda Griffith and Mr. Harding.

Expresses Thanks

The Piner-Fiskburg VFD wishes to express appreciation to everyone who made our dunking booth at the Kenton County Fair a big success.

The Oak Ridge VFD, as well as other volunteer fire departments and life squads helped greatly by getting "dunked", throwing balls, working in the booth and talking on the PA system, along with our own members.

A special thank you to Petty Officers First Class Bill Bartley and Jerry Waldrup, who got dunked every night and RMI Nathan Jenkins and ATC Keith Shook, all from the U.S. Navy Recruiting Command.

We appreciate our own member's participation and all those who contributed in any way. It was hard work but we all had a lot of fun.

They wish to remind folks that the up-coming event is only three weeks away! Costumes should be taken out and aired and the date marked on your calendar for a full day of family participation.

There will be contest for the children, fiddle-contest, watermelon eating contest, relays for our senior citizens, square dancing, wife callin' contest and many, many more events to appeal to all ages. (The Advertiser will list a schedule of events in next week's edition)

Last year's festivities were received with such enthusiasm that the City wants to make this an annual thing and — want it to be better each year! So let's all get together for a Day of Fellowship in the spirit of the good "Old Fashion" way in the city of Walton on September 7.

School Meals Cost Same In Kenton Co.

The Visalia Elementary School has been added to the breakfast program. Superintendent Don Davis reported following the meeting of the Kenton County Board of Education.

Last year, Piner and Bromley participated and will continue this year. Visalia was added at the request of the new principal, Paul Kreh.

The board, Davis said, also recommended that luncheon prices remain the same until at least the semester break in December. Grade schoolers will pay 45 cents while junior and senior high school students will pay 50 cents.

Mrs. Alberta Lanham, food service director, also revealed a new schedule for reduced-price lunches. Large families in the middle income group, she said, will be eligible for the lower costs, 10c.

Also reported by Mrs. Lanham was the decision of the U.S. Department of Agriculture not to provide any grain products this year. Other foodstuffs will be substituted, she said.

Cheerleaders Win

Awards At Camp Last Week Walton-Verona Varsity and Jr. Varsity Cheerleaders returned from the International Cheerleading Foundation's Cheerleading Camp last week and are ready for a great new school year in the new physical education facility.

The girls began their day at Eastern Kentucky University at 8:30 a.m. and finished at 9:30 p.m. They learned new cheers, chance and pom-pom routines.

They were also drilled in the basics of gymnastics and double stunts.

Out of over 60 squads of cheerleaders from several states, the Walton-Verona girls won 3 third and 2 second place awards in daily evaluation—a great showing.

You are invited to "come out" and help the cheerleaders. Support the Bearcats this year.

Receives Membership

Janet Lee Trapp, Walton, has been granted a junior membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announced Lloyd D. Miller, executive secretary.

This new junior membership entitles the member to register purebred Angus at regular membership rates and to the privileges of the Association until the age of 21. At that time junior members are eligible to convert to lifetime memberships in the Association.

There were 135 young people in the United States to receive Junior Memberships last month.

Wins First Place

In Gospel Singing Recently

The Gospel Reporters, Florence, Kentucky, came home as first place winners of the annual gospel singing contest held at Renfro Valley the first weekend in August. They competed with full-time groups from several states and were accepted as one of the finest gospel groups in the business with many standing ovations during their performances.

There were 26 states and some foreign countries represented at Renfro Valley.

The Gospel Reporters, as the first place group, received invitations to participate in gospel singing performances in most of the states represented.

VFW Chicken Soup

Prepared For August 25th

The Boone County Memorial Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 6099 and Ladies Auxiliary are having their annual Chicken Soup Cook-Out Sunday, August 25, at Camp Turnabout on Gunpowder Creek just off Highway 338.

The affair is given annually as a kick-off for the annual membership drive. It will be a day of fun and activities, and a good opportunity for members and friends to get acquainted plus the delicious chicken soup.

Host and hostess, Col. and Mrs. Robert F. Horton, will be on hand to welcome all members and prospective members.

Tops In Her Class

Miss Gina Lancaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lancaster of Walton and granddaughter of Mrs. Bertha Wallace, also of Walton, who was a 1974 graduate of Simon Kenton High School, ranked sixth in her class, out of 308 students. She also received an award as a member of distinction in the Society of Outstanding Americans High School Students, in recognition of her excellence in leadership, scholarship and civic contribution. She will be attending Eastern State College this fall.

Auxiliary Meets;

Plans For Activities

The Piner-Fiskburg, VFD Auxiliary met Monday, August 12, instead of Tuesday night, due to the fair. They had 10 members present, including Hazel Vickers, Eula LaPortette, Ruth Worthington, Melinda Chapman, Leatha Woods, Georgia Cornelius, Donna Williams, Georgia Roland, Audrey Ferguson, Faye Bray, and Carol Chapman.

Their order of business was to get ready for the fair, which was quite successful. They wish to thank all those who helped at the booth or donated items for sale.

Walton City Council Meeting

The Walton City Council held its regular monthly session, Aug. 13, 1974.

Those present were: Mayor Sam Gamble, Mr. Jack Norris, Mr. Hess Vest, Mr. Dave Peebles, Mr. Kyle Nicholson, Mr. Bryon Kent, Mr. Roscoe Denny, Ann Simpson, City Clerk, and attorney Will Zeverly.

Mr. John Fields, electrical inspector, was present for the ordinance of regulating the installation of electrical wiring.

Five ordinances and one resolution were read by attorney, Will Zeverly, and will appear in the Walton Advertiser.

Also present, was Mr. Tinappel, who is in charge of the installation of the water tower for cleaning, painting and repairing.

HOMECOMING AND REVIVAL

Carters Chapel United Methodist Church will have their homecoming on August 23, with dinner on the grounds after church Sunday morning. Revival will start August 26 at 7:30 each evening. Rev. Robert Pugh, who grew up in the community, will be coming back to hold services. Special music will be held each night through August 31.

Janado Restaurant Has New Management

Mrs. Dorothy Denny of Walton has announced the re-opening of Janado Restaurant, located on U.S. 25, south of Walton.

The grand opening will take place August 26th. Breakfast, lunches and dinners will be served from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. Everyone welcome.

State Fair Winners Listed

Winners listed for Kentucky horse featured at the three-day state 4-H Horse show were some 400 4-H'ers, ages 9 to 19, from throughout Kentucky and their 4-H project horses — the young people either own or have complete management of the horses they entered in the show. And, in all except drill team competition, the 4-H'ers and their horses won top honors in area 4-H eliminations to become eligible to show at the state level.

All-Star Game Casts Best Players

Recently, the Women's Area Churches Softball League had an All-Star game composed of players from the various churches in the league. This was the first All-Star game since we have been organized as a league in 1971.

The Women's Area Churches Softball League wishes to compliment all the players who made the All-Star teams.

From the Eastern Division: Pam Rettig, Darlene Ryan, Marilyn Hamilton, Kathy and Judy Kelly from All Saints Church; Nancy Adams, Annette Perkins, Layne and Dayna Cheesman from Walton Christian Church.

From the Western Division: Donna Ryan, Sandy Dixon, Rhonda Thomas and Karen Leek of New Bethel Baptist Church, Verona; Glenna Mann, Dorothy Warren, and Julia Glacken from Piner Baptist Church.

Sue Bair, Lee Ann Haubner, Donna Kidwell and Cheryl McClain from New Banklick Baptist Church; Sherry Collins, Kay Hensdale, Karen Alexander and Janet Rose from Richmond Union Presbyterian Church. The team was managed by Gene Dixon and coached by Mike Schader and Gary Love. A job was well done by all participants.

The conclusion of the tournament and presentation of the trophies will be on Tuesday evening, August 27th at Walton's ballfield. We invite the public to join us for this gala event.

Republican Picnic Sunday At Mid-Valley Pipe Line Grounds Near Burlington

The Boone County Republican Club Picnic, Sunday, Aug. 25, at 2:00 P.M. at the Mid-Valley Pipe Line Grounds, Hebron-Linburg Road, will be honored by the attendance of Senator Markow Cook, Congressman Gene Snyder, State Senator Clyde Middleton, Kentucky State Republican Chairman Charles Coy, 4th District Chairman Jim Rankin, 4th District Chairwoman Mrs. Annalee Terrante, and many local 4th District and surrounding Districts guests.

All interested people are invited to enjoy the Family Basket Picnic.

W-V School Term Begins Tuesday, August 27

The Walton-Verona Schools will open the 1974-75 year with a half day of school on Tuesday, August 27. Meals will be served in both schools beginning Wednesday, August 28.

Vocational School students will leave the high school at 7:30 a.m. for the bus ride to the Boone County Vocational School and the Northern Kentucky Vocational School, starting August 28th.

Sentenced To 3-Year Term

Allen Riggs, age 19, Walton, pleaded guilty August 16th to the charge of breaking and entering at the Gary Johnson home on High Street, August 2, 1974. He was convicted to a 3-year prison sentence.

Team Concludes Play; Thanks Local Sponsor

The following boys were the Dairy Delite Class "D" Team, want to say thanks to their sponsor, Kenneth Dixon, for sponsoring their team this year, and everyone else that helped make it a good year—Kelly Osborne, Greg Franklin, Dean McMillan, Greg Ores, Mark Roland, Shawn Dixon, Shawn Records, Todd Brock, Brian Kelley, Ted Steward, Kevin Gallagher, David Michaels, Jeffery Leake, Wallace Ingram, and Clark Hobbs.

Also, Jay Dixon, their manager, was to say a big thanks to the boys for their present they got him, and for really playing ball and having a good time, good luck in the future.

Walton Business Closes

We are sorry to hear of the Forget-Me-Not Shoppe going out of business, which was owned by Mrs. Nellie Egan and the late Mr. Ed. Egan, who everyone in Walton was familiar with. This business was/was while we had it and a convenience to Walton. We wish Mrs. Egan good luck.

So live that when thy summons comes to join the innumerable caravan which moves to the mysterious realm where each shall take his chamber in the silent hall of death, Chained to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an infaltering trust, approach thy grave like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

GETTING ALONG WITH OTHERS

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

Getting along with others. Erskine Mason has challenged us with this thought: "God has so constituted our nature that we cannot be happy unless we are, or think we are, the means of good to others. We can scarcely conceive of greater wretchedness than must be felt by him who knows he is wholly useless in the world."

Our lesson for today helps us to know better how to live with others. Our relationship to God through Christ brings to us the obligation to a right relationship with our fellow man. How shall the Christian conduct himself toward his fellow Christians? What shall be his conduct within the Christian fellowship?

WITHIN THE CHURCH

Those who have been saved by God's grace are God's chosen ones. They are holy and beloved. This means that they have been separated from the world's way of life and have been made the objects of God's love. This does not mean that only believers are loved by God. God loves the world but those who trust Him are His "beloved." This ought to deepen the motive of the Christian for love and right treatment of his brother in Christ. I John 4:11 says, "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another."

In chapter 3:11 the Christians were given a list of things to put to death in their lives. In verses 12-17 they are told what to put on. These things ought to characterize the life of the believer. He should be compassionate, kind, humble, meek, and patient. He ought to bear with others and exercise unlimited forgiveness.

Christ has forgiven them, now they should forgive one another. Above all they are to love one another. This is like a piece of clothing that holds all of the other pieces together. If there is no love nothing else makes sense.

The peace of Christ is to act as an umpire in their hearts. There are inner contests, inner conflicts, inner attitudes in which love and hate strive for the upper hand. The peace of Christ must be the factor which governs.

They are to be thankful. They are to make the wealth of the Word of Christ to be in their hearts. This is especially so as they teach and admonish one another in all wisdom and gratitude. "Psalms" refers to the Old Testament psalms. "Hymns" probably means Christian hymns. "Spiritual songs" would be a more general term for all expressions of praise. Whatever they did or said was to be "in the name of the Lord." This means to speak and act as those who belong to the Lord, as those who bear His name.

The passage in 3:18-4:1 call for right conduct in domestic relationships.

IN DOMESTIC RELATIONS

Two things should be pointed out in this paragraph of instruction. First, Paul has in mind the atmosphere of "in the Lord." The relationship of wife and husband, parent and child, master and servant is to be considered from the standpoint of this basic relationship to Jesus Christ.

Second, is the fact that these responsibilities are reciprocal. When he instructs the wife to be submissive to the husband, he instructs the husband to love the wife and not be bitter against her. Children are to obey their parents in all things but parents are to use good sense in dealing with the children. Some parents are so unreasonable in their demands for unquestioning obedience that the child has his spirit broken. He decides that it is useless to try to please his parents.

Verses 22 through chapter 4 and verse 1 deal with the relationship between master and servant. Paul laid down a principle which is wholly valid in our day. What is to be the conduct of the employee and employer? These verses should be studied carefully and obeyed by all concerned. Let the worker give an honest day's work for his agreed-upon pay. Let the employer treat his workers in a manner acceptable to God.

Finally, Paul instructs the Christian concerning his conduct toward the non-Christian.

Toward the Non-Christian The conduct of the Christian to those outside the Christian faith must always be governed by wisdom. Christ will supply this wisdom but the Christian must be concerned for it.

THINK ABOUT US FOR

We've been trying for quite awhile to make the point that ours is a multiple-line agency offering a wide scope of coverages in addition to Automobile Insurance.

Maybe it's time, then, to remind you that we do provide Automobile protection plans for both private passenger cars and commercial vehicles. In fact, you could say we're specialists in this field. We can furnish you with the Auto coverages you need plus the planning and claims services which are as important as the policy itself.

When it comes to Automobile Insurance, think about us. We'll be pleased to talk things over, so just give us a call or mail the handy coupon.

EASIER WITHOUT THE NET

Why do we enjoy games that make it harder on us? We equip our tennis courts with nets. We line our golf courses with narrow fairways and dot them with sand traps. On a chess board we grant wide movement to only one piece, the queen. In football a team has but four downs to gain the required yardage.

This is because man at his best is innately honest. He demands that his every skill meet reasonable tests. He's convinced there is no satisfaction—no "fun"—without challenges.

Man's religious awareness, which inspires our weekly worship, continually cultivates that innate honesty. Our Christian faith prompts us to develop divine resources of character and commitment. Far more than any game, LIFE tests strength and weakness, rewards achievement not failure.

ORDINANCE NO. 1974-36

AN ORDINANCE DIRECTING AND REQUIRING PROPERTY OWNERS, OWNING PROPERTY WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF THE CITY LIMITS OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY, TO KEEP SAID PROPERTY FREE AND CLEAR OF ALL TALL GRASS, WEEDS, DEBRIS, AND JUNK, AND PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THIS ORDINANCE.

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the members of the City Council, that property owners within the City Limits of the City of Walton, Kentucky, have created a nuisance by permitting tall grass and weeds to grow on their property, and to cause or allow junk automobiles, and other junk and debris to accumulate on said property, and

WHEREAS, this practice endangers the health, life, and enjoyment of property owned by abutting property owners and the public in general;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

SECTION I

No person shall cause or allow junk, wrecked, or non-operative automobiles, vehicles, machinery, other similar scrap or salvage material, or debris to accumulate on property owned or possessed by said person, or in which said person has an interest, within the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky. Any such accumulation is hereby declared to be a public nuisance. For the purpose of this Section of this Ordinance, an accumulation means five or more parts or pieces of junked, wrecked, non-operative automobiles, vehicles, machinery, other similar scrapped or salvage, or debris.

SECTION II

No person shall cause or allow tall grass or weeds or other growth to remain on property owned or possessed by said person, or in which said person has an interest within the City Limits of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky. For the purpose of this Section of this Ordinance grass, weeds, and other growth shall be cut at least three times, at regular intervals, during the growing season. Proof of said regular cutting shall be a defense to this Section of this Ordinance. A violation of this Section of this Ordinance is hereby declared to be a public nuisance.

SECTION III

Any person violating the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of not less than $10.00 (ten dollars) nor more than $100.00 (one hundred dollars) and the costs of prosecution.

SECTION IV

If the owner or possessor of any property located within the City Limits of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, fails to keep grass, weeds, and other growth cut on said property pursuant to the terms of this Ordinance, the City, two weeks after notice to said owner or possessor by certified mail, is authorized to mow and cut same at the owners and/or possessor's expense.

SECTION V

All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict with this Ordinance, are to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect when passed and published as required by law.

Passed this 13th day of August, 1974.

ORDINANCE NO. 1974-38

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO A SALARY SUPPLEMENT FOR POLICE OFFICERS IN THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton has heretofore passed Ordinances No. 1973-1 relating to Chapter 15 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, and

WHEREAS, said new sections of said Chapter enable local units of government to participate in a state provided monetary incentive program and a training and educational program for local law enforcement officers, and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton recognizes the need to upgrade its law enforcement capabilities through participation in said training, education and salary incentive program; and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton believes that by participating in such a program it will be better able to attract competent, highly qualified young people, to the field of law enforcement and to retain qualified and experienced officers for the purpose of providing maximum protection and safety to the citizens of and the visitors to this City;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky as follows:

SECTION I

The City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, hereby declares as its intention to participate in the law enforcement foundation program as established by KRS 15.410 to 15.510.

Each officer of the City of Walton Police Department shall be paid from City funds an annual salary of at least $4,350.00 based on a standard work year of 2,080 hours beginning no later than July 1, 1973.

SECTION II

(a) Each officer employed on or after July 1, 1973, shall have as a minimum educational attainment a high school degree, or its equivalent as determined by the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council.

(b) Each officer employed on or after July 1, 1973, shall within one year of date of employment complete a basic training course of at least 400 hours duration appropriate to his rank and responsibility at a school certified or recognized by the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council.

SECTION III

(a) Each officer, whether originally employed before or after July 1, 1972, shall successfully complete each year an in-service training course of 40 hours duration at a school certified or recognized by the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council.

(b) Each officer shall receive in each calendar year five days time off with pay for the purpose of taking the required in-service training.

SECTION IV

No officer shall have his base salary reduced or be denied a normal salary increase to which he is otherwise entitled because of salary incentive payments provided by the Kentucky Crime Commission under KRS 15.410 to 15.510.

SECTION V

The Police Department of the City of Walton and each officer thereof shall comply with all provisions of law applicable to local police, including the transmission of data from the Bureau of Criminal Information and Statistics as required by KRS 17.150.

SECTION VI

The Chief of the Police Department of the City of Walton shall prepare or cause to be prepared such quarterly and other reports as may be reasonably required by the Kentucky Crime Commission to facilitate administration of the funds and further the purposes of KRS 15.410 through 15.510.

SECTION VII

The police department of the City of Walton and each officer thereof shall further comply with all reasonable rules and regulations, appropriate to the size and location of the local police department, issued by the Kentucky Crime Commission to facilitate administration of the funds and further the purposes of KRS 15.410 to 15.510.

SECTION VIII

The City Clerk-Treasurer of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, shall deposit in an appropriate account which can be identified separately from all other sources, all monies received under 15.410 to 15.510.

(b) Further upon receipt of any monies under KRS 15.410 to 15.510 the City Clerk-Treasurer shall pay to each police officer the full amount received on behalf of that officer, giving to each officer a check stub or receipt on which the gross amount of monies paid to him under KRS 15.410 to 15.510 is included and identified.

(c) All financial records relating to monies received under KRS 15.410 to 15.510 shall be retained for a period of three years and until the completion of an audit approved by the Kentucky Crime Commission and the United States Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

SECTION IX

All Ordinances, Resolutions and Orders, or parts thereof in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed.

SECTION XI

This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect when passed and published as required by law.
Passed this 13th day of August, 1974.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

August 22, 1974

The Moon went into the water sign Scorpio early this morning so we can plan on some good fishing the next couple of days. Plant your grass seed today or tomorrow and watch it grow in a hurry. Get a Haircut today or tomorrow and it will grow back in a hurry and it might thicken up and cover some bare spots. An excellent time to buy or sell property or personal possessions.

August 23rd

The Moon makes a good aspect to Mars early this morning so you will be full of ambition at the start of the day. Now is the time to apply for a new position or check on a promotion. If you are a salesman see your clients early and when you get all that done get your fishing gear ready as the fish are still biting.

August 24th

The Moon goes in to the fire sign Sagittarius at 7 A.M. and then squares the Sun at nine so don't expect too much this morning just take it easy until noon then plan on some sports such as tennis baseball or golf don't bother to fish as they won't bite when the Moon is in a fire sign. Be ready for some tall tales this evening when the Moon conjuncts Neptune the planet of illusion.

August 25th

The Moon makes a nice trine to Venus at 8 A.M. so get your generous side in your church envelope and seal it while the lunar aspects are working on your better nature and don't try to renege at 11 A.M. when the Moon squares Jupiter. Make this another quiet Sabbath and be very careful if you have to drive between 6 and 8 P.M.

August 26th

This is a good day for health appointments see your Doctor for aches and pains. Get your eyes checked for glasses or get teeth pulled if they are too far gone to save. If all you ladies are in good health this is an ideal time for house cleaning or sewing also you will be well pleased with any new clothing you buy today.

August 27th

The Moon went in to the earth sign Capricorn last night so today or tomorrow would be an excellent time to do some home baking yeast dough would rise well and the rolls would turn out nice. This is also an excellent time for making economical food purchases and you might get a bargain in an appliance the evening will be very pleasant as the Moon makes good aspects to Mercury and Jupiter.

August 28th

You will have good powers of perception this morning and plenty of energy with good aspects to

Saturn and Mars. Buy shoes this morning if you want a good fit and a nice style. Don't forget to do some home baking if you didn't get it done yesterday. The Moon squares Uranus at 8 P.M. so don't worry about the nervous tension and don't start any arguments you will feel better by bedtime

ORDINANCE NO. 1974—39

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ADVERTISEMENT OF BIDS FOR THE ALTA VISTA DRIVE IMPROVEMENT ORDINANCE, PREVIOUSLY PASSED.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton is hereby passed Resolutions and Ordinance No. 1974-27, providing for the improvement of Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton, Kentucky, and WHEREAS, said advertisement for bids has not been accomplished, and

WHEREAS, it is the intent of the City Council of the City of Walton to proceed forward with said project;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

SECTION I

That it hereby incorporates by reference herein Ordinance No. 1974-27, as if the same were hereinafter set forth.

SECTION II

That the City Clerk is hereby ordered to advertise for sealed proposals for the performing of said work pursuant to Ordinance No. 1974-27 and the furnishing of materials for said project by the insertion of an advertisement in the "Walton Advertiser," Walton, Kentucky, once a week for two consecutive weeks prior to the date set for the opening of said sealed proposals. Said advertisement will require the prospective bidder to state the amount for which they will furnish said material and said work according to said plans and specifications. Said proposals shall be accompanied by certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the bid and sealed proposals or bids shall be opened and read before the Council at its regular meeting on the tenth day of September, 1974, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P.M. Boone County time at the City Building, Walton, Kentucky. Said City hereby reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The Contractor whose bid is accepted shall enter into a written contract with the City of Walton, Kentucky, and execute a bond with surety acceptable to the Council in the sum equal to one hundred percent of the bid. Said bond shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of said contract. The contractor shall complete said work within ninety days of the date said bid is accepted and the contract entered into by said Council; provided however, that said time may be extended for a reasonable period of time in the discretion of the Council, if the contractor is prevented from completing said work in time, without any fault of his part.

The plans, grades and specifications for the project set forth in Ordinance No. 1974-27 are available to bidders from the City Clerk, Main Street, Walton, Kentucky.

SECTION III

This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after passage, adoption and publication as required by law.

RESOLUTION NO. 1974—32

WHEREAS, The City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, deems the construction of a Sanitary Sewer Treatment Facility a necessity for the general welfare of the citizens of the City of Walton, and

WHEREAS, said facility is deemed a necessity for the orderly growth and expansion of the City of Walton, and

WHEREAS, bids for said facility have been received and accepted, and the construction contracts pertaining thereto have been forwarded to the Farmers Home Administration for review and countersignature, and

WHEREAS, the said Farmers Home Administration having instituted a preliminary review of said contracts, cost estimates, engineering plans and specifications, and the manner of repayment of a loan to the City of Walton, in the amount of $822,000.00, and the said Farmers Home Administration, having deemed the monthly rate as specified in its original letter of conditions, previously issued to the City of Walton, to be insufficient to assure the orderly retirement of the City of Walton of the said loan which will be due to Farmers Home Administration and the repayable grant to the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority and to amortize the indebtedness created by virtue of construction of a sanitary sewer treatment facility for the City of Walton, and

WHEREAS, Farmers Home Administration has determined that a minimum rate the approximate amount of $16.73 for five hundred twenty-five (525) customers must be established in order to assure the efficient operation and orderly retirement of indebtedness created by said facility, and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, recognizes that said minimum rate exceeds adjacent community sewer rates, and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, deems it a necessity to construct said facility, and deems that through efficient operation, increased users and the attraction of new residents to the community by virtue of the installation of the said facility a more economical revised sewer rate can be implemented.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY:

1. That the sanitary sewer treatment facility is hereby declared to be a necessity to the future of the community to promote the general welfare of its residents, and in order to attract new residents to the community.

2. That by the execution hereof, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, hereby expressly declares its intention to enact required legislation to insure that the necessary reserves and contingencies are assured to the Farmers Home Administration to adequately protect Farmers Home Administration loan to the City of Walton, Kentucky, in the amount of $822,000., whether by an increased monthly minimum bill, by the implementation of a surcharge attached to the monthly sewer bill, by the establishment of a flat fee per thousand gallons of water consumption as a sewer charge, or other method to insure the orderly debt retirement of the facility.

3. That the project engineers, Krel Zeph Freitag and Associates and the Project Counsel, John A. Hartman are authorized and directed to review alternative proposals and to submit a report to the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, immediately, to determine the most feasible method to accomplish the purposes herein set forth.

4. That a copy of this resolution be immediately delivered to the Farmers Home Administration as a declaration of intention on the part of the City of Walton to comply with said Farmers Home Administration's directives related to a monthly sewer minimum.

PASSED AND APPROVED BY A VOTE OF 4 MEMBERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY, this 30th day of July, 1974.

Delta Queen Summer Cruise

The Steamboat Delta Queen is providing an opportunity to top off the happy days of summer just the way the summer season should end, with a leisurely, Labor Day evening cruise on the Ohio River.

A special evening cruise has been scheduled for Monday, Sept. 2. The boat will embark from Cincinnati's public landing at the foot of Broadway at 6:30 P.M., cruise the Ohio River at approximately 8 miles per hour, and return at 10:00 P.M.

turn at 10:00 P.M.

During this special cruise, a steamboat buffet dinner will be served in the Orleans Room and of course the banjos will be strummin' and there will be plenty of Dixieland music by the Delta Queen's Riverboat Ramblers.

The boat will pull away from the foot of Broadway to the happy summer sounds of the Delta Queen's calliope.

The fare, including buffet and entertainment, is $25.00 per person.

son. For further information, call The Delta Queen Steamboat Co., Reservations Dept., at (613) 623-1445.

Old Fashion Day Parade Promises Great Showings

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN TO A PARADE?

Even if you have, you'll never see another one like the "Old Fashion Day" Parade. It will begin at 11:00 A.M., September 7, 1974. The unadorned chairman, Travis Dunn, called a meeting to get plans underway.

The parade will originate at Edwards Avenue, proceeding along Main Street, turn left at Beaver Grade Road, circle around to High School Court and return to the heart of downtown Walton.

ANY PERSON, CLUB, GROUP WISHING TO PARTICIPATE IN THE PARADE SHOULD CALL ANY ONE OF THE FOLLOWING NUMBERS — 485-4850, 485-4339, 485-4261 OR 485-4362.

All participants in the parade will receive a ribbon to remember the occasion by.

Motor vehicles in the parade, will line up starting in front of Dunn's Gulf Station, 128 South Main Street, and all horses and horse-drawn vehicles will unload at Boone Lake ballfield on Edwards Avenue.

If you have any questions, call one of the numbers listed above. More later. Have a good day, 'Ole Timers!

Full Of Entertainment

The "Old Fashioned Day" which is coming soon will be full of entertainment.

Just to name a few of which will be entertaining—The Rebel Brigade Barber Shop Quartet of Covington, Kentucky; The Gospel Express from Walton; and the Lawson Family Gospel Singers.

Bring your lawn chairs and join in on the festivities which will be held uptown at 1:30 p.m. The full program will be announced next week.

Plan now to attend all day.

KEEN AGE GROUP TOURS MADISON, INDIANA

On Monday, August 19, Mary Acree, Fanny Adams, Clara Presser, Faye Conner, Cleo Vallingdham, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Sheffield, Lucita Neumister, Lela Wasson, Tressa Baker, Clarence Banforth, Alice Mae Williams, Mabel Maddox, and Gaynelle Flynn all had a delightful day touring The Lanier Home, a State Memorial, The Shrewsbury House, and the Judge Jeremiah Sullivan House. All were furnished with period furniture at Madison, Ind. This Keen-Age group has made several short tours this summer.

For the September meeting on the 16th, they plan a trip to Nashville, Brown County, Indiana. The regular meeting date is the third Monday of each month. This group is made up of retired persons in the Walton area. They welcome all interested persons. For transportation or information, feel free to call Brother Bob Sheffield at the Walton First Baptist Church.

Walton Youth Dies In Wreck

CONNIE JO CARLISLE
Senior Class Photo

An evening of fun and fellowship turned into a tragic scene for several Walton youth last Friday while having a picnic on a farm on Brown Road.

It was reported that they ran out of ice and Connie Carlisle and Tony Westinghouse were returning to Walton to purchase some more.

As they entered Ky. 14 from Brown Road, Connie apparently lost control of the pickup truck she was driving, causing it to slide into a ditch and turn upside down.

The driver's head was forced out the door window opening and was pinned beneath the cab. Boone County Coroner, Don Slith, ruled that she died instantly of a fractured skull.

Westinghouse was not hurt in the accident. A local physician was one of the first to the scene but was unable to be of assistance to Miss Carlisle. The Walton Life Squad removed the body to the Chambers and Grubbs Funeral Home in Walton.

Connie Jo, 18, was a graduate of Walton-Verona High School class of 1973-74. She was president of the Senior class and was an active participant in school sports and programs. She was a cheerleader for the basketball team and was a member of the girls' basketball team.

During her 12 years in Walton-Verona Schools she was the recipient of many awards and honors.

She was a student loved and admired by teachers and fellow classmates.

Connie had enrolled in Georgetown College and would have been a Freshman. Her sister, Christy, is a Junior at that college.

Miss Carlisle was a member of the Walton United Methodist and enjoyed singing in the choir and working in Bible School.

Memorial services were conducted Monday afternoon at the funeral home by her pastor, Rev. Robert Yates. Several members of her graduating class served as casket bearers.

Burial was in Walton Cemetery. Survivors are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Olen Carlisle; a sister, Christy Lynn; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Carlisle, Walton; her maternal grandparents, Mrs. Elsie Maloney, Florence and Charles Maloney of Winchester; and a multitude of friends.

WINNER OF QUILT

Janice Grubbs, Independence, was winner of a handmade quilt given by the Piner-Piskburg VFD at the Kenton County Fair.

APPOINTED KY. COLONEL

Allen D. Rust was appointed a Kentucky Colonel last week by Governor Wendell Ford and was very pleased as Kentucky has been his home all his life and Walton for 25 years.

Three Enlist And Serve Military Units

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Serton received the following article on their sons now serving with the U. S. Army.

"We've always liked working together." "We" is Pvt. Raymond J. Serton and his brother, Pfc. John E. Serton.

The two Sertons, from Verona, Ky., are assigned to Service Battery, 3rd Battalion, 18th Field Artillery.

John, 26, and Ray, 22, enlisted in the Army in February along with their younger brother, James G. Serton.

After completing basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C., "Jim" went to Ft. Knox, Ky., and we came to Ft. Sill's Field Artillery School," related John.

"We didn't come in on the buddy plan," said the older Serton. "We have just been lucky to be sent the same places. When our 16-month guaranteed assignment at Ft. Sill is up, we probably will be sent to two different units."

The brothers recalled confusion from three Sertons in the same unit at Ft. Jackson.

"Out Drill sergeant finally solved the identification problem by calling Jim, 'Little Serton,' Ray, 'Middle Serton' and me, 'Old Man Serton,'" laughed John. "He even put us on the duty rosters that way."

John had been assigned to Ft. Sill before during his first tour in the Army, between 1968 and 1970.

First Defeat In 58 Games

All Saints had their first loss out of 58 consecutive games last week against Walton Christian Church in a tourney play of the Women's Area Churches Softball League.

For the Christians, Fannie Thorpe started the inning with a home run. Scoring was done in the first, fourth and fifth innings of five runs. All Saints did manage to score 1 run in the bottom of the fourth inning. A very good victory for the Christian Church Women's Softball Team.

The league wishes to thank Preston Art of Boone Co. Drugs for displaying our trophies in his window showcase for the past two weeks.

Those churches representing the Women's Area Churches Softball League for this season were—Walton Christian, Walton First Baptist, Zion Baptist, All Saints, Richmond-Union Presbyterian, New Bethel Baptist, New Basilek Baptist and Piner Baptist Churches.

Weekend Softball Play At Verona Field

This year there are 12 teams in the open softball tournament from surrounding areas. Teams are: F&C from Florence; Grant County; Sugar Creek; Verona; Vics; Maple Tree; Nu-Maid; Walton Legion; The Rookies; Swedlo; Chuck's Market and Linda's Beauty Shop.

The tourney will start Saturday morning at 9:00. The games will continue all day Saturday. That night there will be an evening of activity for all to enjoy with delicious fish, barbecue chicken, homemade pies, etc., sponsored by the Verona Auxiliary.

Paul Ryan and band will be on hand to furnish music for all to enjoy. Sunday games start at 1:00, and continue until dark.

Bright and early Monday morning (9) activities will begin to decide the winners. Several trophies will be awarded. Hope you can go out to the Verona ball park to support your team and have a great time. Proceeds will go to light the field.

Woods-Mee Wedding
Miss Marsha Lynn Woods and Mr. Donald W. Mee were united in marriage August 24th at the First Baptist Church in Grant County.

Miss Woods is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Woods of Petersburg, Kentucky.

Mr. Mee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mee of Walton.

Dan Albers In Who's Who

Dan Albers, a Senior at Walton Verona, has been selected to have his biography published in Who's Who among high school students for his athletic achievements.

He played knothole from D to A league and A league for Walton Lions. He has played three years at Walton High School and plans to play his Senior year.

He was selected "All Tournament" team and "All Boone Co." High School All-Star team. The Walton team was 32nd District Champions and runners up in 8th region.

Dan played summer ball for Midland Cardinals in Cincinnati. The team won their District Championship at Huntington West Va. He was selected the best 16-year-old pitcher in the district. He pitched a shutout 1-0 against a team who had not been beaten for 83 games.

The win entitled the Midland Cardinals to compete in the Mickey Mantle World Series at Sherman, Texas against seven other teams from throughout the U.S.

At Sherman, Texas, Midland came out third best the eighth, where Dan beat South Pasadena, California 11 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albers and family accompanied him to Texas and spent a very memorable week.

Dan Albers is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Code of Alta Vista, Walton.

Turkey Shoot Sept. 15
The Walton Lions Club will hold a Turkey Shoot at Barrel Lake on September 15th starting at 11:00 A.M. Everyone is welcome.

Walton-Verona School Free Lunch Program Assists Children Of Low Income Families

Walton-Verona Schools announces its policy for free meals, free milk and reduced-price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served in schools under the National School Lunch Program and/or School Breakfast and/or Special Milk Program. Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

FAMILY-SIZE AND INCOME SCALE FOR FREE MEALS, FREE MILK AND REDUCED PRICE MEALS
Effective July 1, 1974
Family Size	Free Meals and Free Milk if income does not exceed	Reduced-Price Meals if income is from
1	$ 2,910	$ 2,911—$ 4,080
2	3,830	3,831— 5,360
3	4,740	4,741— 6,830
4	5,640	5,641— 7,900
5	6,480	6,481— 9,070
6	7,310	7,311—10,240
7	8,060	8,061—11,290
8	8,810	8,811—12,340
9	9,510	9,511—13,320
10	10,190	10,191—14,260
11	10,860	10,861—15,200
12	11,530	11,531—16,140
Each additional family member	$ 670	$ 940

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels are eligible for free meals, free milk or reduced-price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with hardship conditions due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents. Additional forms are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits regardless of family income. If a family has foster children living with them and wish to apply for such meals and milk for them, they should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his or her race, sex, color, or national origin.

Under the provision of the policy the school principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he or she may make a request either orally or in writing to Superintendent John Grubbs whose address is Box 86, Walton, Kentucky 40384, for a hearing to appeal the decision.

The hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the Superintendent where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

Lorraine Riley has returned home after a week vacation with her son, Winford and family of Tampa, Florida.

Another one of our neighbors and friend passed away last Thursday. Earl Hanna came to this neighborhood when he was 21 and died at the age of 91.

We extend our sympathy to Mary Riley in the death of her husband, Gordon. He has run a grocery at Independence for several years.

Before I could finish this article, I had a call that Mable Lorena Martin had passed away. She too, was one of our local people and had been seriously ill for sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. George Finnell Jr. went to Indiana State Fair last Thursday.

GOD'S PURPOSE FOR MAN — Genesis 1

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

(Gen. 1:26-31; 2:15-17 3:22-24)
John Jay made this statement concerning God: "In all his dispensations God is at work for our good. . . In prosperity he tries our gratitude; in mediocrity, our contentment in misfortune, our submission; in darkness, our faith under temptation, our steadfastness, and at all times, our obedience and trust in him."
God made man and provided abundantly for him. Chapters 1-3 of Genesis tell the story of how man took matters into his own hands. Genesis 1:1-25 is the account of God's creative activity. The writer is not so much concerned about how God created the universe as he is with the who and the why.

In Genesis chapter 1 verses 26-31 we are told of the creation of man.

The Creation Of Man
The "let us" in verse 26 probably refers to what was commonly called "plural of majesty." The writer was not referring to a plurality of Gods. There was only one God. He was not suggesting a heavenly council because the angels are servants of God and not advisors. Some have thought this to be a reference to the Trinity. The Trinity did exist in the beginning but it was left to New Testament times to present this concept of God.

The words "our image" is still more difficult to understand. This does not refer to the physical likeness. God is Spirit. It must be a moral likeness. God can make decisions. So can man. God has made man capable of choosing right and wrong.

God let man have dominion over all other creation. This does not mean that man has the right to abuse or destroy other creatures. Man should work with his environment in the same way God would work with it.

God not only created man in his own image, but he blessed them and gave them work to do. Man and woman were to find fulfillment in one another and in their God-given task. When man seeks to avoid having to make his own way in life he is cheating himself.

According to verse 29 man's diet was vegetables and fruit. It was not until after the flood that meat was made a part of man's food. God saw everything that he had made as being good. God made a good world. He saw his act of creation of man and woman as very good. Man often corrupts what was made good by a loving heavenly Father.

Having made man and woman, God placed them in a garden and gave them commands.

The Commandment of God.
Man was to dress and keep the garden where God put him. Man needed something to do. Work is the plan of God for man. God also commanded Adam and Eve concerning the fruit of the trees in the garden. They could eat freely of every tree except the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. They were not to eat of this tree. If they did eat of it they would die. The original language says "proceed to die."

What is the lesson here? Did God put the forbidden tree there to test them? This is very doubtful. No parent would do his child this way. It is very likely that later on God would have allowed them to eat of this tree. God does not want to keep man from knowledge. The real problem comes when man seeks knowledge apart from faith in God. What happens when a child learns to do some thing harmful to himself before he learns obedience to his parents? God knew that man was not ready for the knowledge he would get from eating of that tree.

It should be pointed out here that the sex act was not the sin of Adam and Eve in the garden. This has often been suggested.

You will notice that Eve was alone when she fell into sin.

Adam and Eve distrusted and disobeyed God, but, not without serious consequences.

The Consequences of Sin
Eve and Adam ate the forbidden fruit. They were still alive. Was the serpent right? You will notice that God did not say, "If you eat this I will kill you." No. He said, "In the day you eat of it you will surely die." The seed of death is in the forbidden fruit. There will be a day of judgment and eternal punishment, but remember this, sin carries its own penalty. That penalty is death.

They were driven from the Garden but God's Cherubim were placed there to keep (guard) the way to the tree of life. God is not keeping man from the tree of life but he is guarding the way. Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life. No man come thence to the Father except by me."

How embarrassing to recognize a person's face but be unable to recall his name! It happens to most of us occasionally.

God always knows us. His eye is always open to see us. His ear is always open to hear us. We can enjoy His acquaintance daily.

We can enjoy the Presence of God in a special way when we attend church. When we turn our attention fully upon Him, when we elevate our thinking to those matters which hold eternal value, God speaks in the warmest of tones.

Yes, God knows us. He calls us by name. He never forgets.

THINK ABOUT US FOR

AUTO INSURANCE

We've been trying for quite awhile to make the point that ours is a multiple-line agency offering a wide scope of coverages in addition to Automobile Insurance.

Maybe it's time, then, to remind you that we do provide Automobile protection plans, for both private passenger cars and commercial vehicles. In fact, you could say we're specialists in this field. We can furnish you with the Auto coverage you need plus the planning and claims services which are as important as the policy itself.

When it comes to Automobile insurance, think about us. We'll be pleased to talk things over, so just give us a call or mail the handy coupon.

FRONTIER DRESS EMPHASIZED USEFULNESS

Just a few hundred miles from a colonial world dressed in brocades, hoop skirts, waist coats, powdered wigs, corsets and ruffles, the early Kentucky pioneers went about their business of taming the wilderness in leather shirts and linsey-woolsey.

Clothing can be fashionable or plain, decorative or utilitarian, but to Kentucky's first settlers some 200 years ago, it was primarily designed for usefulness and was made of whatever was available, usually homespun cloth and animal skins.

Men's wear on the frontier was a classic example of clothing shaped by the environment. Designed to give as much protection and freedom of movement as possible, it was primarily an adaptation of Indian dress.

The main garment was the hunting shirt or "wampus," a loose tunic slipped over the head with the neck opening often laced together with buckskin thongs.

The shirt, which was usually cut to just above the knees, had a broad cape or collar and close fitting sleeves. The seams of the sleeves and the bottom edges of the shirt were often decorated with leather fringes or fur. These decorations were usually fairly short, again to facilitate movement.

The shirt was belted and tied in the back. Mittens, bullet bag, food, tomahawk, knife and other items may have been hung from the belt, all within easy reach, leaving both arms and hands free.

The hunting shirt was probably made from linsey, a rough homespun linen, or from carefully tanned buckskin. The linsey shirts were often dyed blue and sewn with a yellow fringe. A leather shirt of white elkskin was considered the height of fashion on the frontier.

Men's leggings were again copies of those worn by the Indians. They were made of leather, often fringed, and were tied below the knee so that they would not hamper the wearer's movement. For footwear, Indian moccasins were usually worn.

Two types of men's headgear were popular. A close-fitting cap of coonskin, fox, bear or squirrel was worn in the dense forest. In open country a flapping felt hat, decorated with wampum or the skin of a small animal, was worn.

The frontier woman's dress copied the basic style of the popular colonial gown of the period. However, the frontier costume lacked the hoops, fine fabrics, laces and trains of the ladies of the East.

Necklines were usually fairly deep and skirts, full cut but not wasteful of scarce fabric, fell in fairly straight folds to the ankles.

Frontier skirts were shorter than those worn in settled areas because of the more active life on the frontier. Sleeves were usually elbow length and slit at the bottom seam to allow freedom of movement.

Women seldom wore hats; in bad weather a hood or shawl protected the head. The women went barefoot in summer, but wore moccasins or square-toed shoes in cold weather. For accessories, a few strings of bead or a ribbon or two were luxuries.

The pioneer women usually had one good dress and one good petticoat. She used the natural dyes of berries, roots, and herbs to color her homespun fabrics, so her clothing was rather drab compared to modern day standards. Blues, purple and berry red are some of these natural colors. Striped fabrics and pastels could be had only by the wealthy and a small floral print was a luxury suitable for a wedding dress.

A few of the more wealthy and "refined" settlers to Kentucky attempted to keep up with the style of the Eastern colonies where the fashion was dictated by the dress of England and France. They had to import the silks, brocades, velvets and laces to try to copy these styles.

These fashions and fabrics were quite unsuited for most of Kentucky frontier life, however, where the work was hard, the materials scarce and the time even shorter. As a result, most of the pioneers made do with what was at hand—furs, leather, homespun cloth and scraps of fabric sewn together.

Veteran News

Q—As a widow of a serviceman killed during military service in Vietnam, am I entitled to education assistance from the Veterans Administration to attend a university in Paris?

A—Yes. Under a law enacted in October 1972, wives, widows, and children of veterans whose deaths were service-connected are allowed to study at approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

Q—My state has no burial place for veterans in its national cemetery. In such cases, will the Veterans Administration pay anything toward the cost of a burial plot in a private cemetery?

A—Yes. In addition to the basic burial allowance of up to $250, payments of up to $150 in plot and interment costs are authorized for eligible veterans not buried in national cemeteries.

Q—Is the Veterans Administration hiring its share of Vietnam veterans?

A—Yes. The agency is setting an example in the hiring of Vietnam veterans and minority citizens. Some 20,000, more than 10 percent of VA's employees, are Vietnam veterans.

Q—How do I go about getting the $150 annual clothing allowance the Veterans Administration pays certain disabled veterans?

A—All you need do is apply to the nearest VA office if you wear a prosthetic or orthopedic device for a service-connected disability which tends to wear out or tear your clothing.

"WE'RE ON THE ENERGY TEAM!"

"I'm conserving energy in the home."

Housewives throughout America are helping use the nation's energy supplies wisely by using appliances more efficiently...cooking more efficiently...turning off unnecessary lights. People at home, along with conscientious motorists and other savers, are making available energy go further than last year.

"I'm drilling more oil wells."

Based on the early months, about 9% more oil and gas wells already have been completed this year than last. And about 25% more oil rigs are active. In a couple of years, oil companies will be able to refine a lot more products. But demand continues to grow. There's still a big job to do—let's keep working together.

Set it for saving; then leave it!

It wastes money and energy when a thermostat is turned up and down, because the system is forced to readjust to new settings.

Your home will reach the temperature you want just as quickly by setting the thermostat at the wanted temperatures as it will by setting it higher.

Since every degree of temperature above 70 adds about 3% to your heating bill, you can save almost 10% by setting your thermostat at 72 rather than 75. At 68 degrees you can save even more.

Electricity is too good to waste!

New Faculty Member
Jack Grosse, Dean of the Salmon P. Chase College of Law of Northern Kentucky State College, has announced the addition of Jack Sherman, Jr. to the faculty of the law college.

Sherman, a native of Cincinnati, will join the faculty this fall as Assistant Professor of Law. He received his law degree from the Salmon P. Chase College of Law in 1968. His Bachelor of Science in Education degree was earned from Ohio State University in 1961.

Sherman has served as Assistant City Prosecutor for the City of Cincinnati (1968-1970), Assistant Attorney General of the State of Ohio (1970-1971), and Director of the Model Cities Law Office (1972-1974).

Mental Health Training Program
A free Mental Health Training Program is being offered to Northern Kentucky citizens interested in volunteering their time and talents. Sponsored by the Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association, 481 Garrard St., Covington, Ky., the program will begin on Tuesday, September 24.

The 40 hour course, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, will give the participant information on:

- 1) skills and techniques toward being an effective Mental Health Volunteer
- 2) mental health service agencies serving N. Kentucky
- 3) education on normal and abnormal behavior

The course will be presented by Mental Health professionals from the local and state. Special informative field trips will also be part of the training.

Applications and more complete details can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Cathy Mains, Executive Director of the Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association at 431-1077.

Bicycle Safety Lane

The Greater Cincinnati Bicycle Safety Lane will again appear in the Ludlow area on Thursday, August 29, at Ludlow High School from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

The area-wide safety program, now in its seventeenth year, is sponsored by The Coca-Cola Bottling Works Company. The Ludlow tests will be under the direction of members of the Ludlow Police Department.

The summer of '74 boasts the greatest state of inspections in the 17-year history of the program. Renewed interest in bicycling has brought over seven thousand participants to the lane in Hamilton County alone.

Besides the mechanical inspection of brakes and wheel alignment, nine other items comprise the bicycle safety checklist. Safety features including lights, reflectors, fenders, chain guards, horns and carrying devices are inspected. Each participant also receives a brief verbal test of bike riding safety habits before receiving his registration, reflector sticker and bicycle safety pamphlet.

The Coca-Cola Bottling Works Company provides the safety lane operator and inspection equipment. The tests are free and voluntary and every participant will receive an ice-cold bottle of Coca-Cola.

Boys and girls who have a complete knowledge of bicycle safety and own outstandingly safe bikes will be awarded cartons of Coke.

Schools Lead Parade

A recent $5 million survey, reported in the "Wall Street Journal," shows that U.S. public schools are "clearly at the head of the international parade" and that those critics taking potshots at American teachers and schools are ill-informed. The study was directed by a professor at the University of Stockholm who concludes that both the conservative and radical critics who overanalyze and under-value education in the U.S. are on the wrong track. Schools participate in

Solar Energy Experiment

National Science Foundation recently allotted $2.3 million to an experimental program whereby four schools were outfitted with equipment that collects heat from the sun's rays, stores it, and then uses it when needed. All four experiments were designed to heat part of a school or supply part of the energy for a whole school and while the experiments were successful, the cost of harnessing the sun's energy is still prohibitive.

Vets, Check Timetable

Veterans recently separated from military service should check the timetable on certain veteran benefits, the Veterans Administration advises.

Military separations have slowed from a peak of 85,000 monthly to a current rate of 50,000, but the timetable remains important to the individual veteran.

For example, he must apply to his former employer within 90 days of his separation date.

120 days to convert, without physical examination, Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to Veterans Group Life Insurance. He has up to one year to convert, if he is totally disabled at separation and the condition does not change.

Has 10 years to apply for and use VA educational assistance benefits, which expire after that deadline.

ORDINANCE NO. 1974-33

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE INSTALLATION OF ELECTRICAL WIRING, DEVICES, APPLIANCES, FIXTURES AND EQUIPMENT, AND THE INSPECTION THEREOF; DESIGNATING ELECTRIC INSPECTION BUREAU, INCORPORATED AS THE OFFICIAL INSPECTOR FOR THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY; PRESCRIBING THE AUTHORITY AND DUTIES OF THE ELECTRICAL INSPECTOR; PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THIS ORDINANCE.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I

All electrical wiring within the boundaries of the City of Walton, Kentucky, shall, when installed for the purpose of being connected to a source of electrical energy, be sufficiently insulated, and supported and protected to be reasonably free from hazards to life and property caused by overloading, short-circuiting and improper protection or insulation of electrical equipment. All electrical wiring shall be in full compliance with the National Electric Code and the National Electrical Safety Code, as provided by the American Standards Association and the Standards of Safety as adopted and approved by the Department of Insurance, Division of Fire Protection and Rates, Commonwealth of Kentucky, which standards of safety have heretofore been adopted or are now adopted by the City Council of the City of Walton for the city of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky. Failure to comply with the aforesaid standards shall be prima facie evidence of the violation of this Ordinance. These standards set out above are incorporated by reference herein as if the same were hereinafter set forth.

SECTION II

The Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, a duly recognized electrical inspection bureau, operating within the State of Kentucky, be and is hereby designated and authorized to make the necessary inspection, in order to ascertain whether or not the provisions of this Ordinance are being fully complied with.

The Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, shall have the right to charge a reasonable fee, which shall be full and complete compensation for services rendered by it in making of said inspection, which fee shall also include the rendering of a written report. Said fee shall be paid by the contractor or person or persons performing or installing said electrical wiring of equipment, and no part thereof shall be paid by the City of Walton. The fees to be charged and paid for the inspection and the issuing of the certificate of approval, hereinafter provided for, shall be in accordance with recognized scale of fees charged for similar work and inspections by said Electrical Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, and shall not be in excess thereof.

The designation of said Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, as the official inspector under this Ordinance is subject to withdrawal and cancellation at any time by the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky.

SECTION III

It shall be the duty of the person, firm or corporation installing the electrical wiring or equipment, or repairing or rearranging same, to notify the Electric Inspection Bureau prior to the time said work is to commence and also when the work is ready for inspection, and it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to conceal any such electrical wiring or installation until after same has been reported to the Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, and has been inspected and approved by said bureau. The said Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, shall furnish and make forms or blanks for the aforesaid purpose.

SECTION IV

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, including any electric light or power company to connect with or furnish current to any electrical installation within the corporate limits of the City of Walton until after such electrical installation shall have been inspected and approved by said Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, and a certificate of approval issued by it.

SECTION V

Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be fined not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00, plus costs of court, for each offense, and each day that said person, firm or corporation violates this Ordinance, or any provision thereof, and each day that any prohibited condition is allowed to continue as a result of the work performed or failed to be performed by any person, firm or corporation, shall constitute a distinct and separate offense.

SECTION VI

This Ordinance shall not be construed to relieve from or lessen the responsibility or liability of any person, firm or corporation owning, operating, controlling, maintaining or installing any electrical wiring, devices, appliances or equipment for damage to person or property caused by any defect or failure therein; nor shall the City of Walton be held as assuming any such liability or responsibility be reason of the inspection authorized herein, or the certificate of approval issued as herein provided.

SECTION VII

The provisions of this Ordinance are severable. If any provision, section, paragraph, sentence or part thereof, or the application thereof to any person, firm or corporation shall be held unconstitutional or invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect or impair the remainder of this Ordinance, it being the legislative intent to ordain and enact each provision, section, paragraph, sentence and part thereof, separately and independently of each other.

SECTION VIII

The Mayor is hereby authorized to enter into an agreement with the Electric Inspection Bureau, Incorporated, carrying out the terms and conditions of this Ordinance.

SECTION IX

All ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith and in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed.

SECTION X

This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect when passed, published as required by law.

Passed this 13th day of August, 1974.

ORDINANCE NO. 1974-34

AN ORDINANCE RETAINING AND EMPLOYING JOHN M. TAYLOR ON A PROBATIONARY BASIS AS WATER SUPERINTENDENT OF THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, the office of Water Superintendent has been recently vacated by the resignation of the past Water Superintendent, and WHEREAS, the City is in need of a Water Superintendent and believes the said John M. Taylor to be a qualified individual;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky as follows:

That John M. Taylor is hereby retained and hired as Water Superintendent, effective immediately, on a probationary basis up to and until January 1, 1975.

SECTION II

That for said services John M. Taylor will receive the sum of $833.00 per month.

SECTION III

That the duties and job description of said job are contained in a separate document titled "General Duties and Guidelines for Water Superintendent", said document being incorporated by reference herein as if the same were hereinafter set forth.

SECTION IV

The duties referred to above are in no means intended to be a complete and thorough description of said position, and additional duties and requirements may be added by the City Council from time to time as the position and requirements dictate.

SECTION V

This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect when passed and published as required by law.

Passed this 13th day of August, 1974.

NOTICE

East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Inc. (Formerly East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation Draft Environmental Impact Statement Notice is hereby given that East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Inc. has been informed that the Rural Electrification Administration intends to prepare a Draft Environmental Impact Statement in accordance with Section 102 (2) (C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 in connection with an anticipated request for a combination of a loan guarantee and insured loan funds for East Kentucky Power Cooperative, P. O. Box 707, Winchester, Kentucky 40391, which will provide for the installation of new generation facilities and related transmission lines and terminal facilities.

The proposed generating facilities consist of one coal fired unit of approximately 500 MW. A proposed location for the unit is the site of the existing Charleston Bottoms Station, which is located approximately 4 miles northwest of Maysville, Kentucky, on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River in Mason County.

Transmission facilities for movement of bulk power from these units into the existing transmission grid will be required. The location and degree of transmission facilities is under study however, if the plant should be located at the above site, one tentative line consists of approximately 38 miles of 345,000 volt transmission line originating at the proposed site in Mason County and extending in a westerly direction through parts of Mason County and Robertson County, and terminating in Harrison County at an existing substation which would be expanded. This transmission line would require acquisition of rights-of-way along its route.

Another tentative line consists of approximately 30 miles of 345,000 volt transmission line originating at an existing substation in Harrison County and extending in a southerly direction through parts of Harrison County, Bourbon County, and terminating in Fayette County at an existing substation which would be expanded. This transmission line would require acquisition of rights-of-way.

Another tentative line consists of approximately 70 miles of 345,000 volt transmission line originating at the proposed site in Mason County and extending in a westerly direction through parts of Mason County, Bracken County, Pendleton County, Kenton County, Grant County, Boone County, and Gallatin County, and terminating in Carroll County at an existing substation, which would be expanded, adjacent to an existing generating plant. ORDINANCE NO. 1974-39

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ADVERTISEMENT OF BIDS FOR THE ALTA VISTA DRIVE IMPROVEMENT ORDINANCE, PREVIOUSLY PASSED.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton is hereto passed Resolutions and Ordinance No. 1974-27, providing for the improvement of Alta Vista Drive in the City of Walton, Kentucky, and WHEREAS, said advertisement for bids has not been accomplished, and

WHEREAS, it is the intent of the City Council of the City of Walton to proceed forward with said project;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

SECTION I

That it hereby incorporates by reference herein Ordinance No. 1974-27, as if the same were hereinafter set forth.

SECTION II

That the City Clerk is hereby ordered to advertise for sealed proposals for the performing of said work pursuant to Ordinance No. 1974-27 and the furnishing of materials for said project by the insertion of an advertisement in the "Walton Advertiser," Walton, Kentucky, once a week for two consecutive weeks prior to the date set for the opening of said sealed proposals. Said advertisement will require the prospective bidder to state the amount for which they will furnish said material and said work according to said plans and specifications. Said proposals shall be accompanied by certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the bid and sealed proposals or bids shall be opened and read before the Council at its regular meeting on the tenth day of September, 1974, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P.M. Boone County time at the City Building, Walton, Kentucky. Said City hereby reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The Contractor whose bid is accepted shall enter into a written contract with the City of Walton, Kentucky, and execute a bond with surety acceptable to the Council in the sum equal to one hundred percent of the bid. Said bond shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of said contract. The contractor shall complete said work within ninety days of the date said bid is accepted and the contract entered into by said Council; provided however, that said time may be extended for a reasonable period of time in the discretion of the Council, if the contractor is prevented from completing said work in time, without any fault of his part.

The plans, grades and specifications for the project set forth in Ordinance No. 1974-27 are available to bidders from the City Clerk, Main Street, Walton, Kentucky.

SECTION III

This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after passage, adoption and publication as required by law.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 15th day of August, 1974.

A good aspect to Uranus this morning will start this Saturday night. If you are selling any property or personal possessions today you will be well pleased with the outcome. Make a friendly visit with someone before the day is over and get a pleasant surprise. Also a good day to get married if you want it to last a lifetime.

September 1
The moon goes in to the water sign Pisces early this morning so now is the time to start a new venture such as going back to church if you got out of the habit during the summer months. Good news for fishermen the moon goes full at noon and being in a water sign you can expect exceptionally good fishing through Monday night.

September 2

A good day to do many things, if you are farming you can plant winter wheat to do some pruning or paint a building. If you ladies want to do some canning this is an excellent day, also the right time for making sauerkraut. The fish are still biting until tomorrow morning. The afternoon and evening will be a dangerous time to travel so if you have to drive be very careful.

September 3
The moon goes into the fire sign Aries early this morning so now is the time to harvest grain dig potatoes, cut weeds, or do some spraying. The aspects to Pluto could make the afternoon a little hectic but the time to Neptune will make the evening very pleasant.

September 4
The morning hours would be a good time to finish yesterday's chores then plan on a trip or some shopping. A safe day for traveling and a good time to buy transportation or new appliances, also a pet selected now will give you much pleasure. If you want a nice day at home do some baking and then write some letters in the evening, both will be enjoyed.

After making great strides toward the eradication of brucellosis, livestock producers in Kentucky and the Southeast are now concerned about the increase in the number of infected herds being reported.

Even though much of the infection being found now is not really new infection, it is nonetheless a heretofore gone undetected. This concern to health officials as well as farmers, increased movement of livestock coupled with tighter surveillance is resulting in the uncovering of infection which has heretofore gone undetected. This makes it appear that the disease is increasing more than it actually is.

I think the current situation shows first of all, just how difficult it is to eradicate a serious disease such as brucellosis. Second, I think it points out the fact that we have a tendency to relax our efforts once considerable progress has been made, or the goal gets in sight. This was particularly true a few years ago in regard to hog cholera. Once the state was designated a "cholera free" area, some farmers and dealers became complacent.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has been operating a comprehensive brucellosis eradication program for more than two decades in cooperation with state departments of agriculture. Millions of dollars in federal and state funds have been spent on the brucellosis program. Federal and state health officials agree that the time has come to make that final push to get the disease eradicated — the problem is how to accomplish the goal.

As federal and state livestock health officials ponder new steps to eradicate brucellosis, farmers are urged to use some safeguards on their own. Farmers buying placement animals should be sure that they are tested and declared negative before bringing them on to their farm. Even though newly purchased animals test negative, they should be isolated from the rest of the on-farm herd and retested 30-60 days after they are purchased. This will guard against an animal testing negative one day and, due to the long and variable incubation period for brucellosis, show up positive 30 or 60 days later.

Livestock traders and dealers must also obey regulations regarding movement and identification of animals. If non-slaughter animals are tested and then identified, the herd or farm of origin can be traced whenever infection is uncovered.

Our livestock farmers — both beef producers and dairymen, have enough problems without an added burden of a coval disease such as brucellosis. While there are costs involved with eradication of brucellosis, the costs will be even greater if this disease is not eradicated.

A FORD IN OUR FUTURE

By Gene Snyder

Probably everything that could be said about the historic resignation of former President Richard M. Nixon, the succession to the Presidency by Gerald R. Ford, and the events leading up to the Constitutional transfer of power, has already been said.

Nevertheless, it is certain that Americans will go on discussing all that has happened for months, perhaps years, to come. And there is the equal certainty that much emotion will accompany the rehearsing of the drama for quite awhile.

But it is the future that must concern us as the Nation once more seizes and accepts the logic of uniting behind new leadership. From my vantage point in Congress, I can vouch for President Ford's assertion that he may have had many adversaries, but he has no enemies among the men and women who have been elected to represent the American people. We all know from his outstanding swearing-in speech last Friday, and the grueling cross-examination he underwent in Congress, that President Ford is a straightforward and can handle himself well under pressure. He knows that in his new job, his old adversaries may well become more militant, and even abusive, as he takes the helm, not only of the Republican Party, but the country. But I am quite sure that he will agree with all of Henry Kissinger's policies. President Ford is right in making his retention of our Secretary of State his first announcement — even before being sworn in. The world, as well as our own people, needs stability, and while there is no universal peace in our day, Mr. Kissinger is recognized everywhere as a man on the move in pursuit of peace.

We have been through the wringer as a people, and the whole world has watched. Most of us knew that the priceless gift of our forefathers, our Constitution, would see us through. Now that it has, we are stronger than ever — and the world knows it.

The problems that face us as a people have not changed, but there will be new insights into them as the Ford Administration begins to structure itself and settles down to its responsibilities. As of this writing, President Ford has not announced his selection for Vice President, the office that traditionally has meant almost oblivion for its occupant, but which so often has been the door to the White House.

The Ford transition promises to be much like the Johnson transition, with Cabinet and other changes coming very slowly. While I have not agreed with all of Henry Kissinger's policies, President Ford is right in making his retention of our Secretary of State his first announcement — even before being sworn in. The world, as well as our own people, needs stability, and while there is no universal peace in our day, Mr. Kissinger is recognized everywhere as a man on the move in pursuit of peace.

JOE KAISER HEATING AND AIR CONDITIONING

The purpose of a building is to protect us from the weather. Unless it protects us from the weather year round, it is not a modern building. In regards to year round air-conditioning, most of us are living in houses or working in buildings not up with the modern time in which we live.

With a Fedders year round air conditioner, you set the thermostat for either heating or cooling and you have spring the whole year.

If you have a central furnace, you likely have half an air conditioning system already and do not realize it. Call today for an estimate of the low cost of enjoying year round air conditioning. Let them furnish you a personal survey with all the pertinent facts and figures. See JOE KAISER HEATING AND AIR CONDITIONING located at 231 Decatur Avenue in Covington, phone 261-4361.

For all your heating and air conditioning needs contact this firm for their fine service and expert workmanship.

Food Preservation

A wide variety of fruits and vegetables may find their way to your table as pickle products—adding spice to meals or snacks. Skillful selection and blending of spices, sugar and vinegar with fruits and vegetables give crisp, firm texture and pungent, sweet-sour flavor.

Basic steps:

1. Use only good quality ingredients, firm, not too ripe fruits or vegetables.
2. Use vinegar that is high grade elder or white distilled of 4 to 6 percent acidity. Strength of vinegar is usually shown on the label. Use pure granulated salt. Alum and lime are not needed if quality ingredients and up-to-date procedures are used. Do not dilute the vinegar, unless the recipe so specifies.
3. Use tested recipe. Measure or weigh all ingredients.
4. Use proper equipment. For heating pickling liquids, do not use utensils of copper, brass, galvanized, or iron; these metals may react with acids or salts and cause undesirable color changes in the pickles or form undesirable compounds. For fermenting or brining, use stone, glass, or unchipped enameled containers.

5. Use a water-bath canner for processing jars of pickle products. Any large metal container with a close-fitting lid, deep enough to allow for one to two inches of water above the tops of the jars, plus extra space for water to bubble during boiling; and a wire or wood rack to keep jars from touching.

Heat processing is recommended for all pickle products, including sauerkraut. Adequate heating is best achieved in a boiling water bath. Such treatment destroys organisms that cause spoilage, and inactivates enzymes that may affect flavor, color, and texture.

For further information on pickles and relishes contact your local County Extension Office. The Boone County office is located in the Renaker Annex, Burlington, and the phone number is 598-5101, extension 17.

Snyder Promotes Accomplishments

Congressman M. G. "Gene"

Snyder, who enjoys campaigning actively, spent much of the weekend at the Kentucky State Fair. "Our booth has always attracted a large number of people," the Congressman said, "and it gives me a chance to get acquainted with folks from all over the district who visit the fair." Volunteers at the Snyder booth pointed out that it is visited by not only Congressional constituents, but by voters from all over Kentucky who are eager to make known that they are Snyder backers.

Material at Snyder's booth emphasizes his open stand against forced busing of school children, an issue of vital present importance to people in Jefferson County. Snyder has introduced four separate bills into Congress that would limit the powers of Federal Courts, Agencies, and Departments in the areas of forced busing.

Also noted are his achievements in obtaining full federal funding for the new Clay Wade Bailey Bridge and the Markland Bridge in Northern Kentucky, federal funding for the Southwest Jefferson County Floodwall and approval of the Dayton Floodwall. Listed along with these are approval for the Banklick Creek Watershed project, navigation improvements on the Ohio River, and flood control and highway improvements for all of Kentucky, as well as aiding in industrial development in Boone, Carroll, and Trimble Counties.

Snyder—always eager to discuss politics and problems, especially those concerning the people he serves—finds the time spent with them stimulating and enjoyable. "With the burdens placed on us in Washington," Snyder notes, "it's sometimes difficult to get back home and see as many people as you'd like to, but I consider it's part of my job, and I owe it to those who have been so good as to keep me in Congress. So I make it a point to get out and talk to them every chance I get."

Department To Meet

The Boone County Health Department will meet September 12, 8:30 a.m. in the auditorium at the building at 7325 Woodspoint Drive, Florence, Kentucky.

NOTE TO CORRESPONDENTS AND ADVERTISERS

Old Fashion Day Events Announced For Saturday

Here Ye! Here Ye! One & all! It is to be cried throughout the land that the townships of Walton and Verona do proclaim and declare a holiday, to be celebrated on Saturday, September 7th, in the nineteen-hundred and seventy-fourth, year of our Lord, in the city of Walton.

It is commanded and decreed that this day is to be known henceforth as "Ye Olde Fashion Day," in honour of its pioneering forebearers' courageous spirit in conquering the new land.

We direct all citizens to attend and make Merry.

Events of the day listed under times are as follows:

11 A.M. PARADE

The parade will originate at Edwards Avenue, proceeding to Main Street, turn left at Beaver Grade Road, circle around to High School Court and return to the heart of downtown Walton. Any person, club, group wishing to participate in the parade should call any one of the following numbers — 485-4860, 485-4330, 485-4261 or 485-4326.

All participants in the parade will receive a ribbon to remember the occasion by.

Motor vehicles in the parade will line up starting in front of Dunne's Gulf Station, 129 South Main Street, and all horses and horse-drawn vehicles will unload at Boone Lake Ballfield on Edwards Avenue.

Walton's Old Fashion Day is the highlight of the year for our townspeople and we hope to make it bigger and better every year. It is bigger and better every year. This can only be achieved by widespread participation and a feeling of interest by the community. So let's all come out and enjoy some "Old Fashioned Fun."

James W. Lawrence

James W. Lawrence, local Walton resident resigned his position with the Walton Advertiser to take up employment with the Kroger Printing Co., in Cincinnati, Ohio, Jim and his wife Betty, reside at 11 Park Avenue Walton, with their son Randy, a senior at W.V. High School. Their eldest son William, is a member of the U.S. Army and is stationed at Ft. Lewis, Washington.

Well known in Walton-Verona area for his work in church and community service, Jim is a dedicated member of 5 years with the W-V Volunteer Fire Department, serving with the Life Squad Division as an Emergency Medical Technician. He completed 80 hours of volunteer training to earn his EMT certificate.

Chairman of the Administrative Board and Sunday School Teacher at the United Methodist Church Jim has been a conscientious member of the church since coming to Walton in 1963. He also serves as treasurer on the Walton-Verona Board of Education.

A graduate of Bethany High School in Owen County 1960, he began his career in the printing industry at the News-Herald in Owenton in 1966. He came to the Advertiser under former publisher Malcolm Simpson, from the Boone County Recorder in 1963.

Jim Lawrence is truly a country-trained printer (high praise in the newspaper field) and has been invaluable to the Advertiser in his capacity as Assistant Editor, line-operator, comp-man, job printer, staffing the phone and acting as public relations man. In general — an all around member of the Walton Advertiser crew. He will be sorely missed and we join with many friends in town who wish him the best in his future career with the Kroger Printing Company.

SMORGASBORG

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Ryland Heights Volunteer Fire Department will hold their Annual Smorgasbord at the Ryland Heights School on Stewart Drive, 6 miles south of Covington, from 5 p.m. till 8 p.m. All proceeds to be used for the operation of the Fire Department and Life Squad.

WALTON-VERONA SCHOOL DISTRICT BEGINS 1974 - '75 SCHOOL YEAR

Walton-Verona School District opened their doors on Tuesday, August 27 for the 1974-'75 school year.

An upsurge in High school students was offset by a drop in elementary enrollment. The high school reported 435 students as compared to 410 in 1973. Elementary division showed attendance of 370 pupils, down 40 students over last years 410.

Superintendent John Grubbs welcomed 8 new teachers to the Walton-Verona staff. Three in the elementary grades and 5 in the high school. They are:

ELEMENTARY

Mrs. Judy Arlinghaus who comes to the district from Erlanger where she spent 2 years. A W-V graduate, Mrs. Arlinghaus obtained her degree from Morehead in 1971. She will be teaching 1st grade.

Mrs. Susan Fox, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, has two years previous teaching experience. She formerly taught in Loudon, Tennessee. Her first teaching assignment with the Walton-Verona District will be 3rd grade.

Mrs. Hope Stone will be on the Special Education Staff. She has taught the past 2 years at Campbellsville Ky. She is a graduate of Georgetown University.

ON THE HIGH SCHOOL STAFF

Mr. John Lucas, a graduate of Lloyd High School, obtained his teaching certificate from the University of Louisville. He began his career as W-V's new Assistant Coach and Math teacher. Also teaching Math is Mrs. Colleen Shields a W-V graduate who returns to the District after several years absence. She has 10 years of previous teaching experience with Walton-Verona school system.

GRACE CHURCH TO RECEIVE ITS DEED

Dr. George A. Jones, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of Northern Kentucky Baptist Association, will present "in fee simple" the deed to the property occupied by Grace Baptist Church, Independence on behalf of the association at the church's observance of its 10th anniversary on September 8 at the 11:00 a.m. worship service. Rev. Thomas D. Davidson, now superintendent of missions in the Steel Valley Association, Warren, Ohio, who assisted in the establishment of the church will be the featured speaker at both morning and evening services. Special music will be provided by the choir and by Jerry Bradshaw. The church will serve a basket lunch and will be pleased to welcome its members, former members, and friends according to the announcement of the pastor, Dr. Ordie E. Bradshaw.

CONNIE JO CARLISLE "SCHOLARSHIP FUND" STARTED

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carlisle of Walton, announced to the Advertiser that they are establishing a "Connie Jo Carlisle Scholarship Fund" in conjunction with the Walton-Verona School District.

Mrs. Betty Carlisle stated Friday that "Many people have sent money to us. Connie's friends don't know what else to do and yet feel they must do something (to show their condolence). I have set up an account at Dixie State Bank in Walton with a deposit of $177 that has been sent in so far. Anyone who wishes to donate to the "Connie Jo Carlisle Memorial Scholarship Fund" may do so at Dixie State Bank," states Mrs. Carlisle.

Mrs. Carlisle went on to say that they are donating Connie's insurance money to the Scholarship Fund as soon as it arrives. "This will be used for a student who needs the money to attend college. Someone who might not otherwise have the opportunity to do so. Connie wanted to go to college so very, very much I'm sure this is what she would have wanted."

Connie Jo Carlisle, a 1973 graduate student of Walton-Verona High School, was killed in a tragic auto accident August 23. She was enrolled in Georgetown College where she was to begin her freshman year this semester.

As announced by Dr. Elmer Thomas, conductor of Festival choruses, the final audition will be held on the afternoon of Sept. 15, with the final rehearsal to take place the next day.

Senior Citizens of Northern Kentucky Are Reaching Out

Mrs. Sue Powell has been employed as Boone County Outreach and Referral Aide for the Senior Citizens of Northern Kentucky Outreach Program. Mrs. Powell will be traveling throughout Boone County seeking the senior citizen who may need some form of assistance. She will provide information, referral and counseling services to the older adult and their families.

Office space has been provided in the Walton Christian Church where Mrs. Powell can be contacted for visits or phone calls each Thursday from 10:00 A.M. to 2:00 P.M. Phone number is 485-4391.

Mrs. Powell has already made many contacts with seniors in the area, and has provided transportation for several to the Walton Christian Church for the noon meal provided by the Northern Kentucky Nutrition and Social Service Project.

Mrs. Powell is pictured above with John C. Napier, age 84, who has recently undergone a cataract operation. Mr. Napier's noon meal is presently being delivered to his home. When the bandage is removed John plans to have his noon meal at the Walton Christian Church so he can visit with life long friends of Walton.

Sue is the wife of Vincent Powell. The Powells, both active in Church affairs, have a true feeling of "People Helping People." They reside on Uts Lane, Burlington with their two children, Timmy, age 5 and Wayne, age 8.

FEARLESS FORECAST

R. W. Lancaster

September 5

The Moon is in the fire sign Aries until 4 p.m. when it enters the earth sign Taurus. The morning hour is a good time for cutting weeds or spraying also picking fruit or drying apples, weather permitting. A good time to put up hay as it will cure fast. The evening hours would be a good time to make preserves or jellies.

September 6

All good aspects today and the right time to do many things. Get a haircut if you want it to be slow growing back. A safe day to travel and a good day for moving if you want to stay in the new place a long time. A good day for buying real estate but not too good for the seller. And if you ladies want a permanent to look nice and stay in a long time have it done today or tomorrow and you will be well pleased.

September 7

This Saturday would be a good time to think about your health, such as starting on that diet you have been putting off or a good time to see your dentist for fillings or plate impressions also if you need glasses a good day for eye tests. The Moon will trine Mars in late afternoon so you will have a spurt of energy for any sporting activities you may enjoy, don't plan on fishing as they won't bite until Tuesday morning.

September 8

The Moon went into the air sign Gemini late last night and forms two trines this morning to start this Sunday in a state of harmony, you can expect your friends and neighbors to be extra friendly at church service so look forward to some invitations to a cook-out in the afternoon. This is a good safe day to travel and any sporting activity will be enjoyed except that the fish aren't biting until Tuesday.

September 9

You can expect the day to start in a disorganized state with an upset stomach and a short temper due to the two bad aspects early this morning all this will pass before lunch and the afternoon would be a good time to write some letters or do some sewing also fruit picked now will keep well. The trine to Uranus at bedtime will give some unusual dreams tonight.

September 10

The moon goes in to the water sign Cancer early this morning so the fishing will be good today and tomorrow. An excellent time to do home canning or making sauerkraut. Your thoughts will be a little muddled during the evening meal while the moon is square to Mercury and Pluto, so don't make any plans at this time. The evening will be better.

September 11

A good day is in the making and the right time to collect outstanding debts especially at noon. Still a good time for home canning or making that sauerkraut and any home baking will turn out exceptionally well. The fish are still biting and this is the lady chance this week to catch a mess. The evening would be a good time to entertain at home.

W-V School Menu....

Sept 9—Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Buttered Corn, Cole Slaw, Chocolate Cake and Milk.
 Sept 10—Hamburger on Bun, Potato Salad, Sliced Pineapple, Orange Juice, Buttered Kale and Milk.
 Sept 11—Ravioli, Tossed Salad, Cheese Wedge, Apple Pie, Bread, Milk.
 Sept 12—Salsbury Steak-Gravy Mashed Potatoes, Mixed Fruit, Carrot Sticks, Hot Biscuits and Butter, Milk.
 Sept 13—Hot Dog on Bun-Buttered Peas, Plain Jello, Peanut-butter Cake, Orange Juice, Milk.

Bookmobiles Celebrate

Twentieth Anniversary
 FRANKFORT — Twenty years ago the Kentucky legislature appropriated funds for the state's first fleet of bookmobiles and put the state's library system on the road to success.

Before, bookmobiles began circulating through the counties, few rural Kentuckians had access to library materials.

For example, in 1954, 80 percent of Kentucky's rural population had no free library service. Of the 73 county libraries in existence, 31 were judged substandard according to American Library Association (ALA) criteria.

But today, according to State Librarian Charles Hinds, Kentucky has one of the finest library systems in the nation, with 118 libraries meeting ALA standards and 110 bookmobiles reaching 99 counties.

Unlike many other states, Kentucky began building its library system with bookmobiles. Hinds said that in other states a central town library usually came first. Then as more funds became available branch libraries were built. Finally, bookmobiles were used to extend library service to rural areas.

In many Kentucky counties, however, funds were not available for a century library. Buying a bookmobile was a less expensive yet effective way to get library services started, Hinds said.

In the early years of the program, planners gave some thought to phasing out bookmobiles, but because many counties still cannot afford a large number of branch libraries, bookmobiles continue to play a vital role.

James G. Schworer Is Named Director

James G. Schworer, 710 Jefferson Place, Taylor Mill, has been named Director of the Northern Kentucky Goodwill by W. Sharon Florer, Executive Director of Ohio Valley Goodwill Industries Rehabilitation Center.

Prior to the appointment, Schworer, who joined Goodwill in 1973, had served as Business Development Director.

Schworer received his BA in Communications from the University of Kentucky and his MA in Administration from Xavier University.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT...

The lady drove up to the curb in her new automobile. Taking precautions against car thieves, as soon as she was parked, she raised all the car windows and began pressing the lock buttons on the doors. After getting out of the car, she tried the doors to make sure they were firmly locked. Finally satisfied, she turned and walked away. All of which was fine, except for one thing. The car was a convertible and the top was down.

SHOSEN TO BLESS OTHERS

(By Professor Earl Clark, Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky.)

Stewart has rightly observed that Religion consists not so much in joyous feelings as in constant devotedness to God, and laying ourselves out for the good of others." Our lesson for today deals with God's call to Abraham. That call no doubt consisted of a joyous feeling when properly responded to. But it also consisted of a constant devotedness to God, and a laying out of self for the good of others.

In Genesis 12:1-3 we have the account of God's call to Abraham.

According to the New Testament (Acts 7:2) God's call came to Abraham when he lived in Ur of the Chaldees. This was before he lived in Haran. God must have first spoken to Abraham while he lived in Ur and then renewed the call as it is recorded in this pa-age of Scripture. Abraham and his family had left Ur of the Chaldees making their way northward to Haran. This was the usual route to the land of Canaan even though Canaan was due west of Ur. Both Ur and Haran were noted for their moon worship.

We have no way of knowing why Abraham's father Terah made the decision to stop and "dwell" in Haran. This may represent a lapse in his faith. It could have been necessary because of ill health or something else. We do know that God called Abraham to leave Haran and go to a land of which Abraham knew nothing.

Abraham must step out in faith. God will show him the land. God will bless him and make of him a great nation. God will make his name great. But this is not all. Abraham is to be a blessing. In Abraham all families of the earth shall be blessed.

God's call is always like that. Salvation comes to you, and on the way to somebody else. God does not bless one person and that's the end of the matter. However God blesses one it is intended to be shared with others. God's love reaches out to all of the world. He does not love one race more than he loves all or any other race. All families of the earth were to be blessed in Abraham.

Our next passage tells how Abraham conducted himself in response to God's word to him.

Abraham now stands on the gall of Canaan. He has gone out in faith, not knowing where he was going. But God knew the exact spot! When Abraham arrived in Canaan the Lord appeared unto him. This suggests that Abraham had to take God at his word. There is no evidence that God manifested himself to him on the way. We must often walk in God's way when we cannot feel that God is walking with us. To follow his instructions is enough. When God speaks man can trust him and move out even when he doesn't know where his going will lead him.

God now speaks to Abraham and tells him that this is the land. God promises to give "this land" to Abraham's posterity. Abraham responds by an act of worship. There he built an altar unto the Lord. It is said today that there are so few altars. Altars of personal and private devotions to God are not as popular and plentiful as they should be. Family altars have given way to a thousand other less important things. In many churches the altar has lost its significance, if it is there at all.

We come now to consider God's covenant with Abraham.

THE COVENANT WITH ABRAHAM Genesis 17:1-8

God again appears to Abraham when he is ninety-nine years old. God reveals himself to him as the Almighty God. He is told by God to walk before him and be perfect. The word "perfect" here means mature, whole, complete. Abraham must not be satisfied with less than he was capable of being. Perfection is to be his goal. It is our goal also.

93-Year-Old Professor Retires From Baptist School

"93 years young and still going strong," is a cliché applied to Dr. William Ernest Denham, who recently retired from the Clear Creek Baptist School here. He moved to Pineville in 1961 to teach one semester in this theological school for adults and stayed as a full-fledged faculty member.

In 1962 Dr. Denham married Mrs. Anna Whitcomb of nearby Harlan, Ky. He then commuted to Pineville from Harlan, driving 70 miles round trip four days a week to maintain a full teaching load. Two years ago he went into his second semi-retirement and continued to make the 70 mile trip two days a week to teach and record Bible studies.

The venerable educator came to the United States from Swansea, South Wales as a construction engineer, then entered the Baptist ministry and graduating from Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. and Tulane University, New Orleans, La.

Dr. Denham was a longtime professor at the Baptist Bible Institute, later New Orleans (La.) Baptist Theological Seminary, and has been pastor of several churches, having "retired" at the age of 67 from the First Baptist Church of Miami, Florida. He has been a frequent speaker on Clear Creek's weekly radio program, "Clear Creek Chimes." And he recently recorded "Studies in Galatians" and "Studies in Colossians," an expositional commentaries on those books of the Bible, and, "Devotions with Dr. Denham." These cassette recordings, each ninety minutes long, are available from the school at $3.25 each.

His many hobbies include reading mystery stories, fishing, hunting, golf and gardening.

Laughing children splash and splutter in the shallows. Farther out, big boys race and tear in noisy games of tag. Fathers show their children how to swim, while mothers smile encouragement. Lovers nestle close on striped blankets, and grandmas nod sleepily under big-brimmed hats. The day is good, a day of sand and sea and clear blue sky.

Then a whistle shrieks, and laughter stills as life guards work to save a life. Dread hovers, and even when the child is safe within his mother's arms, for some the day is tarnished.

It's easy to be gay on picnic days. But, when tragedy comes close and fears clamor, life's happiness is a temporary thing. Where can you find confidence?

Your church has the answer. It is the abiding place of God. Within its fellowship through prayer and worship, you can learn that God is the center of your life and that His goodness never wavers.

Safe Gun Handlings Prevents Accidents

It's not a pleasant subject, but let's talk about hunting accidents. Unfortunately, they do occur, but not in the numbers or with the frequency that a lot of people think they do.

The Conservation Education Division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife, which runs Kentucky's hunter safety program keeps a file on hunting accidents in the state, and their compilation shows that during 1973 there were seven reported accidents, four of them fatal, involving guns and hunters. This is a little below the average of the last five years, which is nine.

Since over 295,000 people bought licenses to hunt last year, this means that the accident rate was only .0027 per cent, or one accident per 42,100 hunters. That's a pretty good safety record, one which Kentucky hunters could be proud of if it were not exactly seven more accidents than there should have been.

The goal of those who teach hunter safety, and of all hunters, is an accident rate of zero. This should not be an impossible goal, for it is hard to imagine a hunting accident that could not have been avoided by the application of a little common sense, a little forethought, and an awareness of some of the techniques of safe gun handling.

For example, one of last year's reports tells of a man who lost a big toe when his rifle, the muzzle of which was resting against his foot, accidentally discharged. It shouldn't take a course in hunter safety to tell someone that it's not a good idea to point a loaded gun at any part of his, or anyone else's anatomy, but this type of careless accident, which could easily be avoided, shows up all too often.

Two of the seven accidents reported for last year were caused by defective guns. One blew up and the other discharged when the action was closed. Both were shotguns, and both were old. Had these guns been checked by a competent gunsmith, as all firearms should periodically be, these accidents would not have happened.

Another accident occurred when the victim stumbled and fell, discharging his gun. One of the first commandments of gun safety is always to have the firearm under control, so the muzzle will not point in a dangerous direction even if the hunter should stumble.

The fifth accident was caused by one hunter being in the line of fire of another. In this case, the victim was stooped in front of another man, and stood up just as the second fired. Knowing where your hunting companions are at all times and establishing safe zones of fire is another important precept of safe hunting.

The other two accidents were self-inflicted, and it isn't certain exactly how they happened. Chances are, though, that they were also in the "stumbled and fell" category. To help prevent this type of accident, guns should be unloaded when climbing fences or into tree stands, when jumping ditches or whenever and wherever footing is tricky, such as on ice or slick mud.

With the hunting season already here, let's all take a few minutes to think about safety, to examine our habits and attitudes, and to resolve to make 1974 an accident free year in Kentucky.

CHANGE IN SIREN SOUNDING
Walton residents may notice that the W.V.F.D. siren is now sounding at 7:05 p.m. each evening. This is to test all monitor and electrical equipment.

At 12:05 p.m. on the first Sunday of each month, the siren will also sound in a Northern Kentucky Civil Defense Alert Test.

Boone County Building Added To State Register

Seven Kentucky buildings, all part of preservation projects, were added to the National Register of Historic Places during July according to the Kentucky Heritage Commission.

They include the Hearne House in Covington; Head House in Midletown, Jefferson County; the Alexander Bradford House at Stamping Ground the Paul Sawyer Library in Frankfort; Shaker Centre House and Preservatory at South Union, Logan County; Platt's Landing in Boone City, and the Brown Pusey House Community Center in Elizabethtown.

Walter Langsam, assistant director of the commission, said "all the buildings are both architecturally and historically significant and fitted into the life of their times."

"Entry on the National Register of Historic Places," says Heritage Commission Director Mrs. Eldred Melton, "affords both positive and negative protection to a listed property. Federal, state and local agencies are in many cases required to file environmental impact statements on sites likely to be affected by their actions. Although listing does not prevent an agency from demolishing or otherwise damaging a historic site or its environs, it does legally require that its historic and architectural value be considered as a part of the evaluation of a project."

Mrs. Melton also said that the structures are eligible for federal matching grants for restoration and adaptation.

USDA To Spend $1 Million On Nutrition Education

WASHINGTON — Under a proposed regulation announced today by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an individual who wants program benefits would have to accept a job which requires joining a bonafide labor organization recognized by the National Labor Relations Act. The regulation would not require the recipient to join a company union.

In order to participate in the food stamp program all recipients with certain exceptions must register for and accept employment. Current regulations, however, permit a recipient to refuse a job in which he is required to join, resign from, or refrain from joining any legitimate labor organization. The proposed amendment is in line with regulations for the Work Incentive Program of the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Public comments are invited on the proposed regulation which is scheduled for publication in the Federal Register on Wed., Aug. 21. Written comments may be mailed or delivered to: Royal Ship, Acting Director, Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, so as to be received not later than September 20, 1974. Comments received will be open to public inspection.

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

—by—
Joe Claxson

Some burley producers in Boone County have already cut their tobacco, but others are in the process of cutting. There are two different chemicals to use for sucker control, the systemic and contact. Which ever chemical that will be used, be sure to use the proper amounts as experiments have shown the excess use does not do a better job. Read labels and folio instructions. The proper use of sucker-control chemicals can save money and hours of labor in growing burley tobacco. The excess use of chemicals leaves a high residue in tobacco that may cause problems in marketing especially to foreign buyers. Also, chemicals are high this year and we may save money by using the proper amounts.

Good news for burley growers! Business remains brisk at the tobacco counter, as smokers continue to push up demand.

For the year ending June 30, 1974, American consumers used their cigarette consumption to an estimated 600 billion. Further gains are expected during July-December.

Tobacco firms turned out some 645 billion cigarettes — roughly 43 billion for export & during 73-74. Over the 10-month period ended last April, U.S. Exports surged 13 percent as smokers around the world showed a growing preference for U.S. cigarettes.

In early May, cigarette makers raised prices on all major brands by 6- to 11.30 per 1,000 regular and king size, and $11.80 for 100 millimeter sizes. Prices include the Federal excise tax of $4.00 and amount to an increase of 14 cents for a pack of 20 cigarettes. Burley Tobacco Growers Coop By Jack Lewyn

Non-quota Maryland (Type 32) tobacco grown in traditional burley areas, where its production has expanded in the last two years, will be put to closer scrutiny under new legislation enacted by Congress, virtually ending the threat to burley which it would have become if unchecked.

Under the new law, the Maryland type, and any other non-quota tobacco, will be subject to the quotas for the kinds of tobacco traditionally grown in particular areas — unless it does not possess any of the characteristics of the quota type.

In this case, burley is the "quota type" and federal tobacco graders now must use the standards of burley characteristics, and the presumption that the non-quota type is burley, to determine any distinguishable differences. Burley is Type 31 tobacco, and the two types, genetically, are reported to have historic kinship.

The new law was embodied in a bill, H.R. 6485, introduced by U.S. Rep. John B. Breckinridge, D-Ky., and passed unanimously in the House of Representatives and Senate. It had the backing of burley and farm industry leaders.

In reporting out the legislation the House Committee on Agriculture said "the purpose of this bill is to preserve the effectiveness of the tobacco program by discouraging the production of types of tobacco which are not under price support, and acreage or limited production. It, like burley, is a light air-cured tobacco, and poundage quota programs, from being grown in areas where farmers have chosen to comply with these programs.

Maryland tobacco is traditional in the state whose name it bears, but growers there voted out production controls and price supports in the 1960s, thus enabling its unwhen it is grown under the same soil and climate conditions as burley, it becomes quite burley-like. Its growth in the burley belt began to expand in 1972, largely on a contract basis with a particular buyer at 60 cents a pound, and was produced mostly in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, where 1973 production was estimated at 5, 000,000 pounds on 2-745 acres. Figures for 1974 are not available, but an upward trend was evident.

Expanding output of Maryland tobacco in burley areas created two conditions which disturbed burley leaders: 1. Because of its similarity, it could have become a cheap substitute for burley, upsetting the balance of the production control-price support program and shattering the economic stability of burley areas. 2. Maryland's burley - like characteristics, and its sales procedures, could have provided an outlet for excess burley under the tightly controlled poundage program, thus endangering its effectiveness.

DARWIN FOLEY

Kenton County Extension Agent

The Kenton County Fair Association met August 26 to discuss the success of the 1974 fair and to make plans for improvements in 1975. Board Members in attendance were President Cecil Cummins, Vice President Stanley Bird, Assistant to the President Ben Heeger, Sr., and his wife Judy Heeger Secretary Mrs. C. A. Heeger, Secretary Mrs. C. A. Wicklund, Treasurer Robert G. Maddox, Directors Mrs. Malinda Richardson and Harold Bray, Agricultural Extension Agent Darwin Foley. Others in attendance were Ron Coleman of the Horse Show Committee, Mrs. Evelyn Rector of the Painting and Drawing Committee, Mrs. Alma Yates of the Plants and Flowers Committee, Charles Casey, Bill Durr, Bob Bach, Earl Works of the Grounds Crew, and Jan Cooper, of the Baby Show.

Cecil Cummins reported that attendance, exhibits and participation in events was up over last year. 4-H exhibits totaled a new high of 607, up almost 60 over last year. This year prior to the fair, 4-H'ers and 4-H leaders spent many hours painting and remodeling the interior of the 4-H Building. Displays were removed at 7:30 Saturday evening, but the

Kenton County PTA Council Officers Are Installed

Mrs. Blair Branham installed the following officers for the Kenton County Council PTA for the 1974-1975 year: Mrs. Malcolm Fletcher, President; Mrs. James Auville, Vice-President; Mrs. Wm. Rau, Secretary; Mrs. Orville Lawson, Treasurer.

Mrs. Fletcher also attended the State Convention recently held in Louisville, Ky.

The winner of the Kenton County Council Publicity Book award was Kenton Elementary with a honorable mention received by White's Tower.

The recipient of the Peggy Kinney Attendance Award was Simon Kenton High School.

4-H Council has decided for next year to leave displays in place until the conclusion of the fair for the Saturday evening viewer.

This year's fair featured for the first time a concert by the 100th Division Army Reserve Band of Ft. Thomas and Pony Pulling Contests.

Plans are being made for next year to improve parking and access to the fair grounds plus construction of a new 1000 seat bleacher for the main ring. It takes the work and support of many people in a county and community to have a successful county fair. People interested in participating in the 1975 Kenton County Fair can make their wishes known by attending the regular monthly meeting at the RECCO Building at Nicholson.

CARD OF THANKS—

I want to thank the many friends who sent cards to Evan and remembered him with visits, calls of concern and prayers while he was in the hospital. He enjoyed the visits so much from his friends this summer while he was a shut-in. A special appreciation for the many visits of Rev. Harris and Rev. Yates, and the cards from the Baptist, Christian and Methodist churches. Evans is a patient in Baptist Convalescent Center in Newport, Kentucky.

Thank you

Mrs. Mary Lee Hance

Mini-History Kentucky Pioneers

The inhabitants of the Northern Kentucky Area, prior to the coming of the white man, were the SHAWNEE along with other Indiana tribes. They traveled the waters of the NEPPERINE (Licking) and the OHIO rivers and followed the overland trails worn by the buffalo and from the salt licks.

The first white man known to have gone KENTON and CAMPBELL Counties was a Dutchman named ARNOUT VIELE who sailed down the Ohio by canoe to trade with the Shawnee further west. French surveyors and military expeditions came down the Ohio in 1725 discovering BIG BONE in BOONE County.

The first white woman to tread this area's soil was Mrs. Mary Ingles. She made her escape from Indian captivity at BIG BONE LICK in Boone County and followed the route of the Ohio through KENTON and CAMPBELL in her journey to return to her home in DRAPER'S MEADOW, VA. in 1758.

The first measurements of the Ohio were made in 1766 by Capt. Harry Gordon; in 1769 by Col. Richard Taylor and by Simon Kenton in 1771.

Covington and Newport were chartered as cities in 1834. It was not until 38 years after Christopher Gist made his first visit that the first settlement was made in Northern Kentucky.

In 1789 Major David Leitch, established a settlement about 6 miles up the Licking River opposite the mouth of Banklick Creek. It was located on the east bank and composed of a block house with pickets. Later a companion settlement was established on the opposite banks and these settlements were called Leitch's Station in what is now Campbell County and Banklick Station in what is now Kenton County.

The next two settlements that took place were Thomas Kennedy's farm in 1801, at the confluence of the OHIO and LICKING on the west bank of the Licking which is now the present City of Covington, and Gen. James Taylor's settlement in 1790 on the east bank of the Licking which is now the City of Newport.

Mary Ingles true frontier heroine

William and Mary Ingles, two sons, Thomas age 4, and George age 2, her mother, brother and his family and a few other settlers were living at Drapers Meadows, now Blackburg, Virginia, which is located in the Allegheny Mountains.

On July 8, 1775, about the middle of the afternoon, twenty-five fierce Indians attacked the settlement. The men busy with the crops did not take their guns to the field and were unable to defend the settlement.

Mary's mother, Mrs. George Draper, was killed. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Draper ran with her young son in her arms, but was shot in the arm, captured and her son killed and scalped in her presence. Several other settlers were killed, and the guns and ammunition, horses, and whatever else the Indians wanted, were taken then fire was set to the settlers' cabins.

Captured, Mary Ingles cooked breakfast the next morning without being told to and adjusted herself the best she could to the Indians. She was pregnant with her third child and near delivery. This so impressed the Indian chief that he treated her kindly. He secured a horse for her and her sons to ride which she appreciated. Mary Ingles gave birth to her third child, a daughter, during the third night as a prisoner.

Along the way to the Indian encampment, the party stopped to dig a little salt spring near the mouth of the Kanawa River to make salt, which the Indians always needed. The trip was slow, but Mary, considered a very valuable prisoner and treated above on considerable kindness, endured the trip well. The Indians trusted her not to try to escape which would mean deserting her three small children. They crossed the Ohio River near the mouth of the Kanawa River and proceeded down the Ohio River to the mouth of the Scioto River, where Portsmouth was the headquarters for the Shawnee Indians and was a village of about 100 Indian homes.

Elizabeth Draper was forced to run the gamut, and her wounded arm was broken again, but Mary Ingles did not have to endure the ordeal. It was the custom of the Indians to never permit two members of a family who were prisoners to live together or in the same village. So Mary Ingles was separated from her children and Elizabeth Draper. She was permitted to remain at the Indian headquarters, near the Indian Chief, while the other prisoners were sent elsewhere. She never saw her daughter or two-year old son again.

The Indians had secured another prisoner who was of immense help to Mary. She was described as an "old Dutch Woman" (no other name available). The Shawnee Indians obtained her from the Wyandotte Indians and she had been a prisoner for several years. As the Indians vocabulary was small, she could speak and understand their language, also the English language and was a good interpreter.

Mary and the Dutch woman made plans to escape which they both knew could cost them their lives. The opportunity presented itself one day when the Dutch woman, twenty Indian men, three Frenchmen, several squaws, and Mary got into canoes and floated down the Ohio River and went to Big Bone in Boone County, Kentucky, to make salt.

After being at Big Bone for about one week, the two white women obtained permission from the Indians to gather wild grapes. Each had a tomahawk, knife, and blanket, but no other weapons, took no extra food or clothing. They left Big Bone in early afternoon and as their plans had already been made to escape, they were now on their way to Virginia.

Her route taken by the escapees led them to follow Big Bone Creek to the Ohio River, the Ohio River to the Kanawa River and the Kanawa River to the New River, and the New River to the settlement where the cabins had been burned. Their food consisted mostly of wild grapes, pawpaws, nut of various kinds, and the bark of roots. The land was covered with dense forest and undergrowth. They knew the weather would not always be favorable. The water courses that flowed into the Ohio River were also a big factor. Apparently neither of the women could swim for, when they came to a place like the Licking River, it was necessary to go up stream to a place that was shallow enough to wade, which took several days.

After many harrowing experiences and near starvation, the two women finally reached the Big Sandy River and, as it was deep they went upstream to find a crossing. They found a big drift but were too weak to go much farther. Day by day they became more emaciated. The stress and strain of the trip caused the Dutch woman to become deranged and she would become very angry at Mary for persuading her to escape from the Indians. Finally the woman tried to kill Mary Ingles. She managed to escape and found a canoe the Indians had used when they crossed the New River with their prisoners and she used it to cross the river again. Mary traveled one side of the river and the Dutch woman traveled the other. At last Mary had to leave the river and the old Dutch woman in order to go over a mountain. She was barefoot and her feet were bleeding from walking on frozen ground. Her clothes were almost gone by being torn on bushes and her limbs had become frostbitten and swollen. She knew she could make only a few more miles. As she was making her last desperate miles, she came to a settlement of one cabin which was occupied by Harmon Adams and family, whom she had known for several years.

1700's History of Kentucky

The Sun Shines Bright on My Old Kentucky Home! They came from Europe to settle the new lands of America and slowly, our forefathers trickled down to the fertile lands of Kentucky. They came to hunt, to trade with the Indians and finally to stay to farm its riches.

Long before the so-called red Indians of Kentucky, there dwelled prehistoric men who lived along many of the streams and in the caves of the commonwealth. Hundreds of burial sites, mounds and skeletons plus thousands of artifacts have been uncovered.

The Indians were relative late-comers to the dark and bloody hunting grounds of "Ken-tuck-ah." After the Indians came the first trickle of white men who came to hunt, then to explore and finally settled with their families among the blue hills and lush meadows they found in the frontiers of our state.

Trappers and hunters both French and British, began crossing Kentucky as early as 1740. A trading post was known to have been established by 1745 in today's Clark County.

Tales of the rich soil and abundant hunting drifted back to Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. The large land and fur companies began to send in explorers to seek out truth from tale about the prospects of the fur trade here.

George Croghan's Indian traders visited the Big Bone Lick and Falls of the Ohio between 1746 and 1760. Mary Ingles, a true pioneering heroine, escaped through eastern Kentucky through the Lower Blue Licks to reach her Virginia home. The adventures became so numerous that a saying in Virginia was "He has either gone to hell, or Kentucky."

Finally our most famous adventurer, Daniel Boone with an armed band of 30 men blazed the famous Wilderness Road and founded Boonesboro (or Boonesborough) on the Kentucky River. Henderson arrived in a few weeks with additional settlers, and later in the same season Boone guided a second party, including his family to the fertile valleys of Kentucky.

hero: John Filson, and Lordy Byron's verse on him in Don Juan gave him name international prominence. Historical scholarship has disproved many of the legends about him. Nevertheless these still attest to those qualities of courage and determination which earned him enduring popularity.

Simon Kenton

Simon Kenton was born in Fauquier County, Virginia, May 15, 1751. In the fall of 1771, he fell in with George Yeager and John Strader. Yeager it was who called him the "Cane Land." It fired his imagination and Kenton came to Kentucky to begin many adventures in the Kentucky area. Like Daniel Boone, he lost his lands. In 1802, pursued by law-suits and losses, he moved into Ohio and settled in Urbana. In 1805, he was elected a brigadier general in the Ohio militia and in 1810 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1812, he joined the Kentucky troops under governor Shelby, into whose family he was admitted as a privileged member, and was in the battle of the Thames. In 1820 he moved to the head of Mad River, Logan County, Ohio, in sight of Wapatomika, where he had been tied to the stake by the Indians when a prisoner in their hands. On the 29th of April 1836, in sight of the place where the Indians, 58 years before, proposed to torture him to death, he died, surrounded by his family and neighbors, and supported by the consolations of the gospel.

By 1775, there were four settlements in Kentucky: Logan's Fort in the south, Harrod's, McCellan's and Bryan's Station.

By 1780, the Virginia Assembly had created Lincoln, Fayette, and Jefferson counties with county seats at Stanford, Lexington, and Louisville. New towns had sprung up at Georgetown, Versailles, and Maysville.

By this early date the fertile fields of Kentucky were producing corn, wheat, hemp, tobacco, and livestock. By 1785 there were at least three claimants for every acre of land.

After the Revolution, Kentuckians began to turn their efforts toward statehood. In June, 1792, Kentucky became the fifteenth state of the Union. Isaac Shelby, one of the heroes of the Revolutionary War, battle of King's Mountain in South Carolina, became the first governor. As early as 1794, attempts were made to establish public schools in Kentucky. But it wasn't until 1849 that delegates to the Third Constitutional Convention wrote an education clause into the new constitution.

Every man and boy able to shoulder a weapon was expected to provide food for the table by way of game in the Pioneer days. Buffalo, elk, bear and the deer were among the larger game which feed the settlers. Smaller game was raccoon, turkey, opossum and ground hog. The panther was often eaten and even preferred as a delicacy by some. The least relished of all game was wolf and wild-cat, but this was eaten as a last resort.

Elk had a coarse dark meat much like the buffalo but was easier to hunt due to its habit of traveling in large droves and placing great faith in their leader to protect them. If a leading elk was killed the rest were easily slaughtered. If a settler failed to kill the leader (usually an old doe) the story was quite different. Then the elk would fight, often wounding or killing the hunter, if the animal was cornered.

Emense herds of buffalo and elk once roamed the Kentucky wilderness. One of the favorite places to hunt this abundant game was at the Upper and Lower Blue Licks on the banks of the Licking River where wildlife came down to lick the heavy salt deposits located in this area.

Building a Pioneer house

Our Pioneering forefathers had a much harder time in finding homes than we do today, even if the percentage rate of mortgages has skyrocketed out of sight. They could not go to their nearest friendly realtor and give specifications and sit back and wait for that right buy. No indeed. Trees of the forests was the building material and the architectural plans were dictated by the endurance of their backbones, and aching muscles.

Pioneering houses were basically all built of round logs from the surrounding forests. The first story made up of the largest they were able to find. The second story of smaller logs which jutted over two or three feet to prevent anyone from climbing to the top of the house. Chimneys were built on the inside of the house by throwing on an extra log, three and a half feet from the wall on which the chimney was to be built. From this was carried up with sticks and clay to the roof of the house and some 2 feet above the roof.

The whole width of the house was occupied by a fireplace into which wood 10 to 12 feet long could be fed. When burned in two in the middle, the ends could be pushed up so as to keep a good fire through a long winter night.

There was only one bed in the cabin. Other sleeping space was gained by placing warm buffalo robes and deer skin on the floor near the fireplace. Doors were made of punched slabs, six inches thick and was barred on the inside by strong staples driven into the log on both sides into which were placed strong bars. Upper floors were equipped with port-holes out of which they could shoot as occasion might require and no windows were allowed.

Later a more refined and updated version of the log cabin was designed and examples of these are what are most often seen when describing the log cabins.

Area bought for keg of whiskey

In 1780 a warrant issued by the Governor of Virginia to George Muse was traded for a keg of whiskey...the receiver then traded the warrant to Col. James Taylor for a "quarter of a buffalo". Col. Taylor traded it to Stephen Trigg for another tract of land. Trigg sold it to John Todd, Jr., who then sold it to John S. Gano.

It took long enough to have it surveyed and sold to Kennedy for $750.00. Thomas Kennedy sold 150 acres to John S. Gano, Richard M. Gano and Thomas Cansell, who plotted the town, giving the principal streets the appearance of continuing streets from Cincinnati. The town was then named in honor of General Leonard Covington, a hero of the War of 1812. It was formally incorporated in 1815 and was granted a City Charter in 1834. Its population was 743 citizens in 1830. Covington and Newport prospered during the 19th century along with their sister city of the banks of the Ohio, Cincinnati, and they continue to grow in the 20th Century.

Weep no more, my lady,
Weep no more today;
We will sing one song
For the old Kentucky home,
For the old Kentucky home,
far away!

Questionable joys of pioneer living

Girls in long calico dresses with matching sun bonnets over their long flowing tresses. Petticoats peeking over high button shoes, catching the flirtatious eyes of buckskinned suitors at a foot-stomping... fiddle-playing... jug-die hours or days later from the dream childhood fever or lack of simple mid-wife care. For a woman to just "fade away" was not uncommon under the duress of everyday work — an old woman at the age of 30 or 35.

Wives, mothers and sisters watched their menfolk earn the barest of necessities of life, paying such a high physical price that to live to be an old man was indeed an esteemed position to obtain. Not to mention the perils of providing food for the table by hunting with such poor weapons that many a hunter was killed by his own gun, instead of the intended hunted. And to kill a bear, well that was a feat of such courage and good luck that it guaranteed the fortunate man a place in song or legend in his own time.

To move a few hundred miles was tantamount to literally forsaking mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters, for few journeys were undertaken more than once in a lifetime. The perils of a hostile environment, weather, Indians, flood and famine were so great that few cared to try their luck a second time.

So I will take my "Old Fashioned" living in small doses. A trip to the high sierras or the Canadian wilderness is a thing to cherish and enjoy by all and we should arrive in every way possible way to keep unbroken, unscarred areas of our good earth, free from the contamination of modern man.

However I thank God always for our modern medicines and bountiful tables that we have in the 20th Century. I am sure that the pioneering forefathers had just such a future for us in mind when they undertook the terrible hardships in order to tame this big, beautiful country so that their descendants could enjoy life more in every way than they themselves did.

Daniel Boone

Boone guided a second party, including his family that same year into the new frontier. When Kentucky was made a county of Virginia in 1776, he was elected a captain of militia. In the American Revolution, while on an expedition to find salt in the Blue Licks on the Licking, Boone and his party were captured (Feb. 1778) by Shawnee Indians and taken to British headquarters at Detroit. Highly regarded by the Indians, he was adopted as a member of the tribe. He led his captors to think that he would prevail on the other settlers to surrender, but, after four months of captivity, he escaped in time to warn the settlers in Kentucky of an impending British-Indian raid. The raid was unsuccessful and Boone was declared a hero.

GENERAL ORDER

Head Quarters, Morgan's Cavalry,
Knoxville, August 4th, 1862.

Soldiers:

Your country makes a great appeal to your Patriotism. It has been decided that Kentucky shall be freed from the detested Northern yoke, and who so fit to carry out this order as yourselves?

The road is well known to you. You have already taught the Tyrants of Kentucky, Lebanon and Louisville, where Southern boys have Southern arms, our Soldiers are the only ones.

To an enemy in the future, to our countrymen in the future, protect their homes, protect their property. Soldiers: I feel sure that you will return with great success to enjoy in peace the fruits of your glorious campaign, let your strength be a terror to the "armies" of your kindred and friends.

JOHN E. MORGAN,

Colonel Cavalry, C. S. A.

In the Jackson Purchase and in the Bluegrass, both areas of strong southern sympathies, military occupation was especially harsh. In the Purchase a number of civilians suspected of being guerrillas were summarily executed.

A Confederate attempt to exploit northern opposition may be seen in Morgan's general order (above), calling upon his men to free Kentucky from the detested Northern yoke.

Kentuckians generally remained loyal, although Lincoln, with his declaration "No peace without Abolition" drew their ire with his Emancipation proclamation. An even greater outcry was raised over the Union decision to enlist Negro troops. On this issue the state was close to armed resistance. In the 1864 election Lincoln lost Kentucky by a margin of three to one.

"Walton-Verona School established as early as 1800

As early as 1800 there were two schools in Verona, one the public school, or grade school, operated by the county and the other a private school, grade and high school, known as "The League Institute" started by Miss Nannie Hamilton.

In connection with the school, a boarding house was maintained and cottages furnished to take care of many boys and girls from communities several miles away, who wanted a higher education, since the League Institute was one of the few schools in Northern Kentucky to offer a four year high school course.

Verona, a sleepy little village, in the early 1800's, realized that their children needed a formal education. The townspeople went to great lengths in order to provide the boys and girls of that area with a progressive educational system.

Walton also saw the need of formal education and in the 1800's opened a public school or grade school on the site of the old school, and this was operated by the County; this was a graded school only. The first school in Walton to offer High School subjects was a private school. This private school was started by Mrs. Clara Myers, who came to Kentucky from Vermont and had attended Georgetown College.

In 1902 the school became a public institution and was located at the site better known as the Ryle Property, two doors north of the Walton Christian Church. In the fall of 1935 the Walton and Verona schools were consolidated into one school district, a grade school maintained at Verona and the grade and high school at Walton, and became known as the Walton-Verona School.

In 1954, the present building in Walton was completed. In basketball there have been three teams to participate in the State Tournaments, the teams of 1928, 1933 and 1942.

The Walton-Verona School has always maintained a High Standard Scholastically and with the exception of during the War years and right after, has had an "A" rating.

This school is looking forward to dedicating its new gym and parking area next Sunday, September 15. The new facilities make the Walton-Verona on school system one of the most progressive and modern independent schools in the state.

The cry of "Morgan's Raiders" was dreaded by the Union Soldiers in Kentucky.

Confederate cavalry surprised federal soldiers at Cynthiana on Morgan's first major raid into Kentucky in 1862. Morgan was captured in Ohio, but escaped to lead his final disastrous raid in 1864. He was shot and killed by Don Carlos Buell at Perryville near Harrodsburg on Oct. 8, 1862.

Confederate General Braxton Bragg, evaded Kentucky soil, during the Civil War, marching from southern Kentucky toward Lexington. In Confederate troops met those under the command of Don Carlos Buell at Perryville near Harrodsburg on Oct. 8, 1862.

A bloody battle which left 1300 dead and 5400 wounded issued. This was the last major battle in Kentucky except for the crimmages of "Morgan's Raiders."

Excursions by river steamers such as the Maggie Harper brought many rural and smalltown Kentuckians to Louisville and Cincinnati to sample the diversions of the city. The trip itself, enlivened by music from an orchestra, promised to be festive.

L&N Railroad comes to Walton, Kentucky

The 48th of June 1869 was a big day in Walton, Ky. On that date, the first train ran over the line of the Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railroad through the city.

That railroad, now a part of the Louisville & Nashville, had been under construction for two years, and needless to say, there was great rejoicing all along the area of Kentucky between LaGrange, Ky., and Covington through which the new line ran.

Earlier, the proposed railroad had been endorsed by James Guthrie, then president of the L&N, who authorized his railroad to subscribe bonds covering cost of some of the construction. Albert Pink, the L&N's chief engineer, lent his talents to the planning and construction details of a new roundhouse and shops at East Louisville and to major bridges along the line.

In the spring of 1867, with surveys made and the necessary legalities cleared by the Kentucky legislature, the L&N launched construction of its Cincinnati Branch. General I. M. St. John, the road's chief engineer, reported that "it (the branch) will diverge from the Lexington road just east of LaGrange and follow as generally an air-line path as possible to Latonia Springs and Covington." The air line description actually was not quite accurate. It was a twisting, curving, and convoluted path which the L&N's Irish, German, Swedish, Negro and Anglo-Saxon contractors and their gangs hacked out of the Northern Kentucky hills. There were 47 bridges, ranging from short ones over small streams, to great stone trestles like the one 105 feet high over Bank Lick Creek near Independence. There were also seven tunnels and scores of curves. "Hardly a straight line in the road," wrote one Cincinnati reporter after a trip to Louisville over the new railroad.

In spite of all the curves and grades, the new 107-mile long railroad soon became known as "The Short Line," because its opening had lopped off a good five hours running time from the next shortest rail route, and was over seven hours faster than the speediest Ohio River steamboat between Louisville and Cincinnati.

No golden spike ceremonies marked the official opening on June 28, 1869, however, reporters and delegations of dignitaries from Louisville, Newport and Cincinnati rode the new passenger trains to inspect the line. All had high praise for The Short Line, its equipment, engineering features and its spectacular scenery. The Cincinnati Enquirer reported that "in its opinion and that of everyone competent to judge, the new railroad was complete and substantial in its construction and is entitled to the highest merit."

At a banquet in Louisville honoring the delegations from Newport and Covington, O. W. Root, one of Newport's civic leaders declared "The completion of this railroad is a great triumph. We like to see the great railroads binding north and south together so that the people might know each other. It will do more than anything else to remove the bitterness of war and heal wounds." The L&N purchased the Short Line along with the L.C.&L. in 1881.

In 1880 an argument over the ownership of a hog led to the famous Hatfield and McCoy feud in Kentucky. It resulted in some 40 to 50 people who perished, including some that had simply "disappeared" in the mountains.

In Memorium

Saturday, the fifth day of February, 1898, the village of Walton, Boone county, Kentucky, was the scene of an accident most appalling in its nature, which resulted in the death of Sister Eliza A. Holder, wife of William Holder, a most excellent lady, which has cast a gloom over the entire community.

Sister Holder had washed a dress skirt in gasoline and hung it before the fire, when the vapor arising from the gasoline ignited and enveloped her in flames, burning her so severely that despite all that could be done by loving hearts and willing hands to save her life after almost two weeks of intense suffering the grim monster, death, claimed her as his own.

Sister Holder was born Sept. 12th, 1852 being 45 years, 5 months and 5 days old at the time of her death.

October 24, 1897, she was married to William Holder (her maiden name being Eliza A. Byland. She professed faith in the Blessed Master October, 1880, and united with the Baptist church at Walton and remained a consistent member of that church until her death. Sister Holder was kind and pleasant and faithful to her friends and no one could exhibit greater delight in the entertainment of her friends at her lovely home.

But her cheerful spirit has flown from that home and a dark pall has fallen over it that coming years will not suffice to remove. She leaves a devoted husband and long daughter to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and affectionate mother. But has passed beyond the boundary of pain and suffering, sorrow and death. She has gone into the presence of Him who has said, "He will wipe all tears from our eyes and in whose presence is fullness of joy forevermore."

We would commend them for comfort in this dark hour of bereavement to Him who is able to heal the deepest wound and console the most disconsolate heart.

Her funeral sermon was preached by the writer in the Baptist church at Walton Saturday, from 1st Cor. 13:13, at 11 o'clock a.m. from 1st Cor. 13:13, chapter, 12th verse, to a large congregation of sorrowing relatives and friends who had gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to one they loved. After which she was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery which surrounds the church, to await that morning when the voice of Him who awoke the sleeping Lazarus shall awake the sleeping nations of earth.

Until then, dear sister, rest in peace!

1800's History of Kentucky

The 1800's was going strong. Northern Kentucky and the Ohio Valley was becoming a cosmopolitan sprawl. Streets were jammed with street cars, hackneys, omnibuses, cars, carriages, wagons, public markets and livestock were driven to slaughterhouses on foot "obstructing traffic and filling the atmosphere with noxious odors."

Fertile fields were cultivated, streams were dammed up and the headwaters used to turn mills to grind meal and flour. Grain was converted to whiskey at distilleries all over the central region. Smokehouses yielded thousands of tons of smoked and cured meats. Herds of cattle, hogs, mules, horses, and sheep were driven overland to market to the East or south to the expanded Cotton Kingdom. Hundreds of flatboats loaded with produce floated downstream to Natchez and New Orleans.

It was during this same period that Kentucky experienced many social and cultural changes. Farmers grew wealth from the sale of hemp; grain, livestock and tobacco. They began to build large homes.

The Civil War loomed on the horizon though every effort was made to keep Kentucky neutral. In 1861, the battles broke on Kentucky soil. Dozens of skirmishes were fought in the state, but only one major battle. This was at Perryville, in 1862. As the stories go, families, counties, towns, and cities were divided in their loyalties during the Civil War.

During the Post-Civil War industrial recovery was underway and industries in the Kentucky area settled down to the

Jesse James Gang

Robs Ky. Bank

Jesse James and his gang robbed the Southern Bank of Kentucky in Russellville on March 21, 1868. They relieved the bank of $14,000 but missed $50,000 because they did not stop to examine the vault.

The James boys hid out in Tennessee assuming the guise of farmers.

They later held up the Deposit Bank at Columbia and the Cave City—Mammoth Cave stagecoach.

Their activities from Kentucky to Kansas and as far north as Minnesota made them the most feared outlaws in the country.

Colonel John Fleming

Colonel John Fleming, after whom Fleming County was called, was born in Virginia; and in company with Major George Stockton emigrated to Kentucky in the year 1787.

Descending the Ohio River in a canoe, he settled at Stroud's station. He afterwards removed to Fleming County and settled Fleming's station in the year 1790.

New communication device

In July, 1877, the telephone came to Cincinnati. James O. Shires, an inspector for the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company (an affiliate of Western Union) and an agent for the Western Electric Manufacturing Company, demonstrated the first telephone to Cincinnati.

Perhaps it was Shires' own unbridled enthusiasm that made the first demonstration to the City and Suburban Telephone Association. He hired a buggy and drove up to the Mt. Lookout Station of the Mt. Lookout, Columbia and Cincinnati Railway Co.

The railroad operated a telegraph line which it leased from the City and Suburban Telegraph Association. A. H. Meier, the telegraph operator at the Mt. Lookout Station, must have been surprised on that warm July morning when James Shires' buggy drew up at the door of his small office. Shires quietly explained what he proposed to do and instructed Meier in the technicalities of his role, for the telegraph operator had some switching of wires to attend to upon receiving a telegraphic signal from Shires at the intown end of the line.

Having made sure that Meier understood his duties, Shires mounted to the seat of his buggy, and set off on the return trip to Cincinnati.

The city and of the telegraph line terminated in the office of Charles H. Kilgour, on the second floor of the Franklin Bank, located east of Walnut on Third Street. Assembled some what on the spur of the moment for this demonstration were Andrew Erkenbrecher, President of the City and Suburban Telephone Association, and stockholders John Kilgour, Charles Kilgour, and T. W. Yardley.

Shires must have experienced moments of anxiety as he went about attaching his telephone to the telegraph line before the curious eyes of these busy men. His anxiety sprang from concern over mechanical failure, however, and not from an awareness of skepticism on the part of the assembled men. There was no pessimism; these gentlemen were deeply interested and seemed to sense the importance of what they were about to witness.

Their absorption in the preliminaries of the demonstration filled the room with an intense silence broken only by the muffled and distant sounds of the city and clearly in that upstairs office of the President of the Franklin Bank! The enthusiastic gentlemen conversed for some time with Meier, who was joined quite by accident by Professor Ormand Stone, the Director of the Mt. Lookout Observatory. The astronomer participated in the telephone conversation and Mr. Shires reported the professor "was made the victim of several astronomical telephone jokes."

On August 21, 1877, the first contract for a one-party telephone in Cincinnati was signed by the Cincinnati Gas and Coal Company. The company agreed to three telephones to replace the printing telegraph instruments on their line. Later the same month, Joseph R.

Peebles Sons, Grocers, contracted for telephones to be placed on their lines. From that point on, the adoption of telephones in Cincinnati spread rapidly.

On September 10, 1878, a contract was signed between the Bell Telephone Company of Boston and the City and Suburban Telephone Association. The Association then became the exclusive agent for Bell telephones in Cincinnati and all territory within a radius of 25 miles of the city limits.

When Cincinnati's first telephone book was published in May, 1879, it contained both alphabetical and classified listings of nearly 500 subscribers. Just imagine the job of an operator in those days! All calls were identified and connected by name and the operators had to memorize every one of them!

Life was sometimes a pleasure, when a body could just sit on her front porch in the beautiful Kentucky hills and rock the cradle of the world away. The vines of gods trail up the sides of the porch to shade you from the sun. What more could you ask for!

LOW COAL CONSUMPTION
Even in 1914, Southern was energy conscious and conserved fuel. And at the rate the company was burning coal, that was important.

By never placing more coal in the fire box than necessary, Fireman F. A. Meredith of the Charlotte Division has made the lowest record for the amount of coal consumed in carded freight service on the entire division during the past twelve months.

The rules which he observes in saving fuel include:

Make sure the engine is properly drafted and no leaks are around the smoke box.

See that grates are properly adjusted.

Fire lightly and regularly, never placing more coal than is necessary in the fire box.

Be very careful not to allow any coal to fall out of the gangway.

Never use a fire hook unless cleaning the fire.

Watch the engineer to see how he is working the engine and fire accordingly.

TO THE WORLD AUSTIN B. WICKHAM.

Having resorted to low, cowardly and dishonorable means, for the purpose of injuring my character and standing, and having refused honorable satisfaction, which I have demanded; I avail myself of this opportunity of publishing him to the world as a reckless liar, an infamous scoundrel, a black hearted villain, an arrant coward, a worthless vagabond, and an imported miscreant, a base poltroon and a dishonor to his country.

The Walton High School Hi-Y Club put forth their purpose in the Annual of 1914. In that year "Dawn" the Hi-Y states "The purpose of this organization is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character. Through the Hi-Y our boys, like others have been brought to realize the necessity of the three-fold life, namely the development of body, mind and spirit. Most of the high school boys are members of the club, and they take quite a delight in relating the incidents and experiences of the Older Boys' Conference. w. Members included Layle

Baker, Clifford Dudgeon, Malcolm Simpson, Vernon Kemper, Walter Vest, Marvin Hudson, Theodore Neumeister, Kircher Johnson, Raymond Watson, Florain Lasby, Sam Jones Hudson, and Gaines Levi Robinson. Officers included Raymond Watson, president; Florain Lasby, vice president; and Clifford Dudgeon, secretary.

1900's History of Kentucky

As the cold December winds of 1903 blew across a desolate beach at Kitynaw, North Carolina, two Dayton, Ohio, brothers, owners of a bicycle shop, successfully tested their flying machine. Man's dream to soar through the clouds was slowly being realized.

Meanwhile, the four-wheeled horseless carriage chugged its way in Kentucky.

There was still time to enjoy life, plenty of fish left to be caught in the Ohio River and the creeks around the Walton area.

In 1908, racial unrest troubled the community of Olmstead in Logan County. Four Negroes, thought to be ringleaders were arrested on minor charges and confined in the Russellville jail. On the night of July 23, a lynch mob hanged them from a cedar tree just south of Russellville. In April, 1917, newspaper headlines blared: "Wilson Leads U.S. Into War and Kentuckians Prepare." Our boys went off to fight the "War to end all wars." Many of them had never been farther than across the river into Ohio, let alone out of their native lands. Many never returned, dead on the battlefields of Europe.

The king of American thoroughbreds, Man o' War appeared on the Kentucky racing scene. In his redoubtable career he lost only once out of twenty-one starts, that time in 1919 to a horse appropriately named Upset.

In 1920 he won two notable victories — an $80,000 match race against Sir Barton and the Dwyer Stakes. In the latter race John P. Grier ran neck and neck with him for over a mile, but "Big Red" moved out to win.

November, 1918 brought victory to the Allied Forces and the war in Europe was over. Celebrations were exuberant affairs when the good news reached Kentucky. The first 25 years of 1900 had brought war, flood, racial unrest and the loss of many of our finest young men to Kaiser Germany. But it also brought mechanization and prosperity through collective bargaining and a broadening of view through our contact with the European continent.

The "Charleston" had ushered in the twenties and America was trying hard to keep its citizens sober by prohibition. Women bobbed their hair, shortened their skirts and the theme of the whole world seemed to be fun, fun, fun.

During Prohibition the town of Golden Pond in western Kentucky became famous as a moonshine center of America. Its "white lightning" went to the cities of the Midwest, distributed in part by the Al Capone gang of Chicago.

Halfway around the globe, a diminutive Indian, Mahatma Gandhi, was beginning to make headlines as he preached his theories of non-violent civil disobedience to obtain civil rights. This doctrine was to bring the East Indian Nations their freedom from British Rule and set the pattern for civil rights movement in later decades in the United States.

In Germany, and Europe the seeds of upheaval were being planted with the circulation of a book entitled "Mein Kampf." The author was a poor, unknown, painter. . . . Adolf Hitler.

Charles Lindbergh flew solo from New York to Paris in his plane, the "Spirit of St. Louis." He later was honored in Cincinnati for his feat.

The Depression

Far away in New York, on Wall Street, there had been a widespread scramble for easy profits. Consumers everywhere had purchased goods on the installment plan or made an ever increasing number of loans. But the fact that capital goods investment was not moving rapidly presented a threat to employment. The world of finance collapsed like a house of cards. Many Kentuckians lost everything they owned.

By 1939, the real economic depression brought on by the financial crash of '29 was finally over. Also in that year the Cincinnati Bell Company lost its exchange in a fire in Warsaw, but service was restored in a few hours.

A greater fire was raging in Europe. World War II was actually consuming country after country. In December 7, 1941, Japan bombed Pearl Harbor and war was declared by President Roosevelt. The Cincinnati Reds brought temporary jubilation to the city with their past victory in the World Series in 1940. When Johnny came marching home this time, he found more women in the labor market than ever before, since women had to perform a variety of jobs while the men were fighting.

The later years in the 1900's were to bring another war in Korea and then again the soldiers marched to Vietnam. Our economy has survived major runs on our gold supply and food which was once abundant has become a priceless commodity.

However the spirit that prevailed in the 1700's is no less present for having weathered the 275 years of turmoil. The Kentuckians are still a proud and hard working people who optimistically look forward to the future of this great nation.

Emma Clement

Mrs. Emma C. Clement, granddaughter of a slave, was named "Mother of the Year" in 1946, the first Negro woman so honored. A graduate of Livingstone College in North Carolina, she was married to George C. Clement, Bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church. One of their seven children was Rufus E. Clement, a former president of Atlanta University.

Baron of Basketball

Adolph Rupp, the "Baron of Basketball," has guided the Kentucky Wildcats to 858 victories with only 183 losses in a forty-one-year period from 1930-1971 — a record for collegiate coaches.

Rupp and his "Fabulous Five" of 1947-1948 were part of the United States squad which won the 1948 Olympic basketball title in London.

John T. Scopes.

John T. Scopes, a member of the class of 1924, was the defendant in the famous "monkey trial" in Dayton, Tennessee, where he had been charged with teaching Charles Darwin's evolutionary theories in the local high school. Such teachings at the time were banned by state statute.

The issue was debated in the 1925 trial by two of the most noted lawyers of the time: Clarence Darrow, representing Scopes, and William Jennings Bryan for the prosecution.

HITLER: 'Fight to Finish'

Printed in the Walton Advertiser Thursday, November 18, 1943.

Declaring that "the last battle will bring the decision, and it will be won by the people with the greatest persistency," Adolf Hitler broadcast to the world Germany's resolution never to give in at the 11th hour.

But speaking in London one day later, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said Germany was doomed to defeat in 1944, in a campaign that will be the most severe and costly in life experienced by the Allies.

Because of their disturbing effect on enemy morale, Allied bombings are one of the prime forces against Hitler's regime, Churchill said. "The back of the U-boat campaign has been broken," he asserted.

Floyd Collins

The dramatic effort to rescue Floyd Collins, trapped in Sand Cave near Cave City, was one of the most widely reported news stories between the two World Wars and became the subject of a popular Kentucky ballet.

Collins, a commercial cave developer who owned nearby Crystal Cave, was exploring for new caves in February 1925 when a rock fell on his leg and pinned him in a passageway that would-be rescuers were unable to reach.

For seventeen days Collins lay trapped, while rescue workers drilled a sixty-foot shaft from the surface — but when they reached him, he was dead. he was dead.

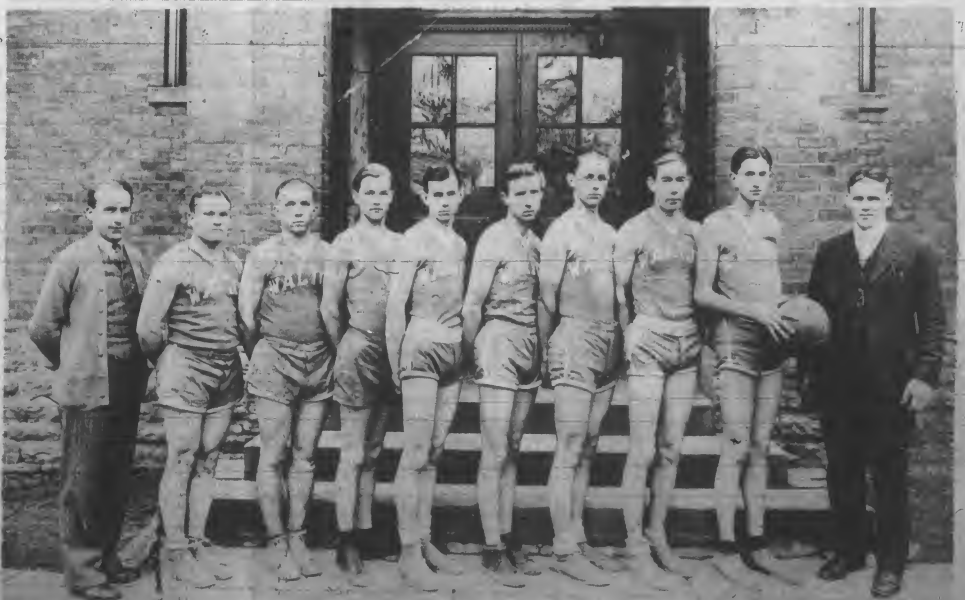

Walton 1914

It is a "regular" town, with a miniature Broadway, electric lights, with houses showing the best of attractions in living and silent drama, a beautiful pike "The Highway to Lexington" crosses within the city limits, two railroads, The Louisville & Nashville and the Queen & Crescent accommodating the traveling public with eleven trains daily. The accommodations of these roads are so good, and the rates so low, that we are but a step from Cincinnati, Ohio, nineteen miles away. Many men work in Ludlow, Covington and Cincinnati, leave in the morning and return in the evening, securing the mileage for the month for the small sum of $5.00.

Pictured above 4 men and a dog with a self explanatory message "A Dry Town" painted on the barrel. Obviously prohibition in the 1920s was not to everyone's liking. Prohibition made much money for some of Kentucky's shadier citizens. Moonshine was sold as far away as Detroit, some of it going through the Al Capone Gang.

WALTON HAS BIG DAY

"Dedication Ceremonies" Sunday 15

The Walton-Verona Board of Education will hold its "Dedication Ceremonies" on the new Music Room and Physical Education facilities. The dedication will be followed by Open House on Sunday, Sept. 15 at 2:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Mr. J.B. Mansfield, commissioner of Kentucky High School Athletic Association.

The Walton Verona Physical Education facility is located adjacent to the Walton Verona High School and is connected by a covered walkway and bus loading area. Separating the two buildings allows for complete use of the new facility by the school system and the community.

The W-V Board of Education and architectural and engineering firm of Luckett & Farley Inc., Louisville completed the steel rigid frame masonry building with a sloped build-up-insulated roof to meet the requirements of the current physical education program. The gymnasium contains 11,000 square feet completely surfaced with tongue and groove hardwood maple floor and furnished with pull-out seating for 1500 people.

Lobby and concession area is 1750 square feet for convenient access to all parking areas. The lobby area is used for auxiliary P.E. space during school hours.

The music suite is 2915 square feet air conditioned and carpeted containing instrumental, vocal rehearsal hall, recording, practice room, music office, library, and instrument repair room.

The classroom-practice room contains 770 square feet is located with access from the music suite as well as the lobby. This room provides a needed "large group" room as well as practice space.

Locker rooms contain 3,000 square feet total area for both boys and girls. P.E. classes. Area contains locker space, shower and dressing space, P.E. offices, restrooms, equipment storage and provisions to accommodate variety sports. Each dressing area contains an outside entrance providing for use of these spaces by the community summer athletic program.

Heating, ventilation, and cooling systems are total electric.

Superintendent John Grubbs extends an invitation to the public to attend the Dedication and Open House to be held in the Gym immediately following the ceremonies.

Keenage Groups Off On Tour

The Keenage Group of Walton are going to Brown County (Nashville) Indiana Sept. 16.

They also will be having dinner at the country store. Transportation will be furnished. They will leave the Walton Baptist Church at 8 a.m.

The Boone County Chapter Daughters American Revolution held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Davis Gaines, Hebron. Serving with Mrs. Gaines as co-hostess were Mmes. Howard Jarrell, Carroll Conrad, M.G. Karner and Bill W. Brown.

The meeting was called to order by the Regent Mrs. Samuel Denham Jr., followed by DAR Ritual, Pledge to the Flag, singing the Star Spangled Banner and Creed.

The objects of the Daughters of the American Revolution is to Perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence, to promote the development of an enlightened public opinion, and to foster patriotic citizenship.

Mrs. Bernard Scott gave a short message on National Defense and she also gave excerpts from Representative John M. Ashbrook's article on "Soviet Military Might: Western Made."

Mrs. Roy Nestor, state chaplain installed Mrs. Henry Dye as Registrar. Mrs. Dye was ill when the officers were installed in June.

Mrs. Samuel Denham Jr. reported on the District meeting that was held at Maysville, August 15. There were fifteen members from the Boone County Chapter that were present.

Members attending were: Mmes. Frances Berkshire, J. Procter Brothers, Helen Collins, Reuben Conner, Carroll Conrad, William Conrad, Clifford Carroll, Samuel Denham Jr., Henry Dye, Joseph Eubanks, C. Davis Gaines, Howard Jarrell, Roy Nestor, Floyd Roberts, Francis Sayre, Bernard Scott, Clarence Wolfe, Robert Woodward and Miss Margaret Goodridge.

First came the bands, then the old cars, followed by Horse drawn wagons, pony carts, and horse back riders. The loud report of a Kentucky long-rifle split the air with deafening roars, interrupting the sounds of fiddle-playing and banjo strumming music of Kentucky Bluegrass.

The Walton-Verona Old Fashion Day Parade was on its way heralding a day of fun-filled activity for everyone.

Through the day, Approximately 10,000 people attended at one time or another for the day long events which consisted of contests, parades and dancing until after midnight. A huge success," said Mr. Abe Ryan Chairman of the activities. "I'm sure each year it gets better and better."

The advertiser will have the contest winners in next week's edition of the Advertiser. For a Pictorial Review of the Parade see page 6 and 6 of this week's edition.

County Health Dept. Graduate Award

Mrs. Sandra Mardis Stratil of (6719 Dixie Highway) Florence has been awarded a graduate assistantship at Morehead State University for the 1974-75 school year.

She is assigned to the TRIO program of student services and is pursuing a master's degree in English.

The lesson will be on "Changing Family Life Patterns" given by Mrs. Gaines Huey and Mrs. Harry Henson.

The public is invited.

Wishes Come True For Bertha Wallace

Mrs. Bertha Wallace, U.S. 25, Walton, had two wishes when her doctors told her she was dying of stomach cancer. One was to have a picture of herself and her horse, "Buckskin," in the Kentucky Post and to meet her idol Johnny Bench, star catcher for the Cincinnati Reds.

Both wishes have come true. Mrs. Wallace's picture appeared in the Kentucky Post on August 9. After reading her story and wishes, Johnny Bench drove out to meet her. Their picture appeared in the Kentucky Post September 3rd.

Mrs. Wallace has been a member of the Walton United Methodist Church all her 65 years. During her January five-week stay in the hospital, the United Methodist Women of the church presented her with a lifetime membership pin in that organization.

Mrs. Wallace, whose maiden name was Bertha Perry, married Scott Lancaster in 1916 and they lived on the farm until he died in 1963.

In 1966, she married Claude Wallace and they have continued living on the farm.

She has a son, Robert Lancaster, 40, of Walton, and two grandchildren, Gina 18, and Renee 14.

Goshen Christian ladies

The Goshen Christian Missionary Ladies Group held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Chester Mullins, September 4th, at 10:00 a.m.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Rich Glenn. Roll call was answered by ten ladies reading a verse of scripture with the word "harvest" in it.

The Sunshine Report showed that 69 cards had been sent out and 19 visits made to the sick.

For the past six months, the Missionary Group has sent money donations to Gundy Mission. A letter was read from Gundy thanking us for our support and letting us know the activities of the children for the past month.

Our Social Security number project has been completed and they will be received soon.

Reports were given by the retiring officers which showed that the group had a very successful year.

In new business the new president, Mrs. Mary Cook took her office. The church home coming, which will be held October 6, 1974, was discussed, but no plans were completed as yet.

At the noon hour, a very nice luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. Mullins. Those present were Mrs. Goldie Glenn, Mrs. Rachel Daniels, Mrs. George Cornelius, Mrs. Lillian Elliott, Miss Ruth Finer, Mrs. Nannie Cliff Flak, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Esther Glenn, Mrs. Eula LaFollette and Mrs. Mullins.

The program in the afternoon was a review on Acts, chapters 21-24. Hostess for October will be Mrs. Lillian Elliott, program leader, Mrs. Esther Glenn and the word for roll call will be "heat."

Search For Major Appliance 'Junkers'

Rod Krieger, Whirlpool Researcher and Project Coordinator, stands next to towering mountain of junked appliances which are being collected by Whirlpool for a recycling study. Approximately 500 tons of the discarded appliances are being used in the research project.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH.—Whirlpool Corporation announced today that it will collect 500 tons of junked appliances for Phase II of its feasibility study on recycling.

The company first began studying the recycling of discarded major household appliances in July of 1972. With the cooperation of Inland Steel, a small-scale test melt of approximately 27 tons of scrapped, porcelainized appliance parts was made. The results of this test were therefore sufficiently encouraging to warrant larger scale tests using actual junked appliances.

The second test will take place sometime this summer. Approximately 500 tons of scrapped major household appliances will be baled and shipped to Inland Steel, East Chicago, Indiana, for consecutive test melts in an open hearth furnace.

An analysis will then be made of the test melts to gain further insights into the effects of appliance scrap on steel making operations and steel quality.

Rod Krieger, Whirlpool Researcher and Project Coordinator, stated, "To date, recycling of major household appliances has not been very successful because of poor economics. We are hoping, through these tests, to reverse that situation by determining how this type of scrap can be better used and processed. If the results of the test project are positive, we hope that more junked appliances will find their way into the recycling chain."

According to reports from the United States Council on Environment Quality, the disposal of appliances is considered to be a minor problem because they only amount of about one percent of our total national solid waste.

Krieger added that even though the disposal of appliances is currently considered to be a minor problem, it is never too early to concern ourselves with the feasibility of recycling and reclaiming our natural resources.

What to do in September

By Nevyle Shackelford
UK College of Agriculture

Now comes September, the month that calls youngsters back to school, gives the workman his Labor Day, and revives once again in almost every living creature, a strange yearning, a wanderlust to be up and away.

Across open fields, in the woodlands, along roadsides, and over croplands flows a browning of vegetation — the rust of autumn. Soon the yellow glow of the goldenrod will be illuminating old weed fields, and the scarlet tapers of the cardinal flower that so impressed Daniel Boone on his first visit to Kentucky will be working their magic in the swamp. September is a good month and beautiful month, a time when the first hues of autumn begin to spread across the land.

With so many "lovely tokens" of fall to see, to enjoy, and experience, it is rather difficult to bring up the subject of work and recommend things to do in the garden, but to maintain a good existence, to have a pleasant winter, and a joyous, beautiful spring, some things need to be done in September. Here are some suggestions from Extension specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Potatoes should be dug and stored away in September, apples picked, and particular care should be given to cabbage, cauliflower, celery, and other late crops. These crops should be watched carefully and sprayed when necessary to prevent late insect damage.

Daffodil and tulip bulbs should be set now and, for a more beautiful flower garden next spring, such bloomers as alyssum, Canterbury bells, candytuft, dianthus, delphiniums, foxglove, and peonies should be divided and replanted.

Petersburg receives municipal aid SBA Loan Officer

FRANKFORT—Governor Wendell H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Billy Paxton today announced the 1974-75 Municipal Aid Program for the City of Petersburg.

The program is based on an anticipated allotment of $1,946 for the coming fiscal year.

The program provides for ditching, drainage improvements, and blacktop patching on Grant Street, Market Street, and Second Street.

The activities authorized will be accomplished by the city with the Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of the work in accordance with the Municipal Aid Agreement.

The Municipal Aid Program, which became effective July 1, 1973, is the product of Governor Ford's concern about the money problems of Kentucky's cities and towns and his campaign commitment to find some manner of helping local officials meet them.

The program is supported by a one-half cent per gallon gasoline tax. The funds derived from this tax are distributed among the incorporated and unincorporated areas according to the terms of a formula chosen by the General Assembly in 1972.

The program is selected annually after consultation with the city or urban place. A formal agreement has been signed by officials acting for each party.

House plants that have been outside in the full sun this summer should be moved now to a location where there is heavy shade — or at least a couple of weeks before frost — they can be moved indoors. However, don't move plants directly inside from a full-sun location outdoors — the shock could be fatal to them.

House plants for the winter should be started in September if possible. Cuttings may be taken from geraniums and similar bedding plants now and rooted in water or damp sand. The repotting of old plants can also be done now to good advantage.

September is also a good month to renovate the lawn. Late this month is a favorable time to dethatch, reseed and fertilize. New lawns should be seeded by mid-September in most areas of Kentucky, but seeding can be done until the end of the month. Late September, too, when temperatures are expected to be in the 60-degree range for several days, is the best time to use herbicides for control of such perennial broadleaf weeds in the lawn as buckhorn plantain, broadleaf plantain, wild garlic, dandelion, and ground ivy.

Whether renovating an old lawn or starting a new one, the homeowner should check with his county Extension agent for recommendations as to type of grass to sow and kinds of fertilizer to use and for a copy of the UK Extension publication, "Home Lawns in Kentucky" (ID-6), which contains a wealth of information on lawn establishment and maintenance.

The Old Almanac recommends reading the 34th Psalm in September and suggests that one will do well to check the chimney for cracks that might allow a stray spark to pop out and set the house on fire. It also urges one and all to go paw-paw and wild grape hunting and to take time to enjoy the blooming of that last wildflower of the season which old timers used to call "Farewell Summer." This, too, is good advice. So do what must be done, but above all don't let garden chores prevent you from enjoying this month which as the poet says holds "summer's best of weather and autumn's best of cheer."

Little Miss Kentucky

Talent Contest

The Holiday Inn of Lexington, Kentucky, will be hosting the Little Miss Kentucky Talent Contest on February 22, 1975.

Contestants will be competing in any of five categories: dancing, vocal, baton, instrumental and variety. Judging will be based on artistic ability 75 per cent and poise, personality, and appearance 25 per cent. Contestants must be five years old by January 1, 1975 and no older than twelve as of July 1, 1975.

Please notice that the date has been changed from February 25, as previously announced.

Any young lady meeting the age requirements and is a resident of the state may enter the competition. Applications may be obtained by sending a self-addressed envelope to the Official Registration and Public Relations Office, Little Miss Kentucky Talent Contest, P.O. Box 11721, Nashville, Tennessee 37211.

"PENNY POSTCARD" UP TO 8 CENTS

by
M. GENE SNYDER

U. S. Congressman
4th District, Kentucky

Last March the cost of mailing a "penny postcard" went up to 8 cents, and a letter went to 10 cents. On August 8th, Congressman George H. Mahon, Chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, announced that the Postal Service had increased its personnel by 9,270 in Fiscal 1974, which ended June 30. Yet according to letters I receive from folks at home, and according to my own experience, our mail service keeps getting worse, not better.

Bill H. R. 9946, would abolish the U.S. Postal Service established by the Postal Reorganization Act in 1970, repeal that law, and reestablish the former Post Office as an executive department of the Federal Government. The promised better mail service under a "self-supporting" Postal Service has not come to pass, and a stop should be put to the "mail fraud" that is victimizing American taxpayers and mail users.

When Congress approved the new Service, the legislation establishing it was coupled with a salary increase for postal employees. Had the two proposals been considered separately, the Service may not have been approved.

In my last column I mentioned a few items that have driven up our mail costs under the poor management of reform. Here are some more examples.

An amazing bit of aliphoid management is revealed in the testimony of Mr. Ralph Nicholson, Senior Assistant Postmaster General, Finance Group, before the House Committee on Appropriations.

On April 9th, 1974, Nicholson told the Committee that the estimated net income of the U. S. Postal Service for Fiscal Year 1974 would be $44 million. Yet, exactly three months later on July 9, Nicholson told the Committee's Subcommittee on Postal Service that he believed the Service would have a deficit of $475 million in Fiscal '75! Here we have a miscalculation of only more than half a billion dollars! $519 million to be exact. This raises grave doubts as to the Service's ability to project its income and expenditures.

Postmaster General Elmer T. Kasseh has a "sweetheart contract" giving him a $60,000 annual salary until 1977, with a clause providing that if he is fired by the Board of Governors for any reason other than neglect or dereliction of duty, his pay until 1977 will continue undiminished. Empire builder Kasseh has increased the number of Assistant Postmasters General from six under the old Post Office, to sixteen today. Further surrounding himself with high paid brass, he has five senior Assistant Postmasters General now in positions that didn't even exist in 1970! In the four years, he has jumped the Washington headquarters bureaucrats from 2,007 to 2,08. Congress must terminate this costly postal disservice to the American people.

The Ford
In Our Future

WASHINGTON, D.C. (LLNS) During the happier days before Watergate, John Mitchell joked with the press when he said: "watch what we do, not what we say." When the Congress and the American people heeded his advice, we were appalled to learn what was going on in the Nixon Administration. Let us forget, what they were saying sounded great. Ronald Ziegler was assuring us of the complete innocence of President Nixon. Herbert Stein was predicting a drop in the rate of inflation and a strong economy; Earl Butz was predicting bumper crops of food, no shortages, and stable food prices. The happiest note of all was President Nixon assuring us that we would "HAVE NO RECESSION." ... and we would hardly be affected by the Arab oil embargo.

It would be an understatement to say these men were merely in error. It appears the only error was our believing them.

President Ford, and Liberty Lobby wishes him every success, is now at a critical juncture. What he has promised sounds good. He seems candid, honest, honorable, and worthy of respect. Every American wants to believe that the proprieties of the past will now cease.

But if President Ford is really serious about an administration of truth and candor, he must appoint truthful and candid men. And a good place to start would be at the Agriculture Department.

The Secretary of Agriculture solemnly and repeatedly assured what the "Great Russian Grain Robbery," (the sale of millions of dollars in needed grain to the Soviet Union), would not affect American food prices. After food prices soared, as most economists anticipated, Butz repeatedly and publicly insisted that the Soviet grain sale had not caused the food inflation.

When pork and corn were sold to China, Butz announced that this would not cause food prices to rise ... it did.

For the past few months, with our strategic grain reserves at an all-time low, Butz has practically guaranteed a bounty harvest. It has not materialized.

Butz, after acknowledging a slightly smaller crop than the Mt. Everest of grain predicted this year, is now assuring us with the news that the Midwest crop failure will not cause food prices to soar again. A check of the grain futures on the business pages indicate upward leaps as our meager supplies struggle to satisfy demand. And rising prices at the supermarket are not far behind.

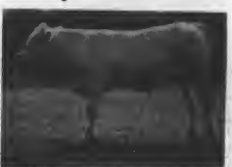

President Ford hopefully will appoint a successor to the Secretary of Agriculture, as truthful, trustworthy and as honest as we would like to expect from the new occupant of the Oval Office.

Loan officer in Newport

Small Business Administration will have a loan officer in the Newport office on the 3rd Tuesday of each month from 12 noon to 3 p.m. The SBA office is located in the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Office, 914 Monmouth Street, Newport. Those interested may contact the SBA representative at the Chamber of Commerce office, or by phoning 491-3091.

In order to determine credit and eligibility requirements for SBA loan programs, it is suggested that the businessman bring with him a recent financial statement or balance sheet of the business and a profit and loss statement for the previous full year. This information pertains to established businesses. However, anyone interested in establishing a new business is encouraged to consult with this representative, as well as other businessmen who are in need of financial advice or assistance.

Charolais Parade
at Ky. State Fair

In the largest Charolais show of the season, 120 head of Charolais cattle, representing 23 breeders from four states, were paraded before Randall Grooms of Overton, Texas, for determination of champions at the 1974 Kentucky State Fair.

C.S.F. Challenger, owned by C.A. Stephenson, Verona, made an impressive showing in the Junior Bull calf division. In state competition Challenger showed first and in the open to the World competition he showed second.

He has been shown several times this season and has took first place every time.

He was Grand Champion at the Madison County Fair in Richmond, Ky., which was his first time out.

This bull is only eight months old and has shown a lot of potential from the time he was born.

He will be on exhibit at the North American Livestock Expo., in Louisville at the State Fair Grounds in November 17-23.

St. Francis site of interfaith picnic

St. Francis Mission, the oldest Catholic church in the present Diocese of Covington, will be the site at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15 for a bi-centennial interfaith picnic and religious heritage festival.

Sponsored by the Scott County bi-centennial committee as a high point of its 174 year-long emphasis on religious heritage, the potluck picnic will be served at 1 p.m.; and a program featuring addresses and music by choirs of various faiths will begin at 2 p.m. The event will continue through the afternoon, concluding about 5 p.m.

Scott County's churches will observe "Go to Church in Scott County Today" services prior to the event. Special old fashioned services have been planned for First Christian Church, Georgetown Baptist Church and First Methodist Church in Georgetown at 11 a.m. and the day at St. Francis will begin with mass at 10 a.m.

Chairman of the picnic is the Rev. James R. O'Rourke, chaplain in residence at Cardome Visitation Monastery, Georgetown, and administrator of St. Francis Mission.

Dr. Richard Pope, professor of church history at Lexington Theological Seminary, will be the main speaker, discussing pioneer religion. Dr. Pope, who holds degrees from Drury College and University of Chicago, is author of the Church and Its Culture, 1965; The Man Who Responds, 1969; and Our Changing and Changeless Faith, 1974.

Dr. Robert L. Mills will officially open the event with the blessing. Soft drinks, water, handwashing facilities and some tables and chairs will be provided. Families are each requested to bring a meat dish and another dish, either bread, salad, vegetable or dessert. The event will be open to the public.

Entry deadline is October 1 for the 1974 National Angus Show set for November 18 and 19 in Louisville. The show will be held in conjunction with the all new North American Livestock Exposition and is expected to draw a record number of cattle.

The American Angus Association is taking entries for the open breeding cattle show, which has been designated a National Show. Entry blanks are available from the American Angus Association and must be returned to the Association by October 1. Total premiums for the National Angus Show are $20,000, with each first place entry to receive $150 with the remainder of the premium money to be awarded on a graduated basis.

Expansion at Baptist School

PIKEVILLE — Eighty freshmen enrolled was a major highlight marking the fall term September 3 at the Clear Creek Baptist School here.

The Rev. Carl Hunter, new Professor of Music and RE Religious Education, immediately presented plans for his new department to be constructed in 1976 adjoining the administration building.

The Childrens Center to care for 70 preschool children while their parents attend classes will be dedicated in October. Students wives regularly attend classes, tuition free, and many graduate with their husbands when the three year course is completed.

Reportably the only Baptist school in the world which weekly produces and distributes broadcasts and newspaper articles to radio stations and newspapers, Clear Creek's media features are now heard on 104 stations and are published in 104 newspapers.

Several Baptist associations and churches recently donated $122,600 to extensively remodel student family cottages badly in need of extensive repairs.

The Sunday School Lesson commentary, by Professor Earl Clark of the Clear Creek Baptist School, is published each Thursday in the Walton Advertiser.

Exodus 19:3-8
Exodus 3:7-9

Richard Rumbold said, "I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden." Our Bible lesson for today would validate the faith of Richard Rumbold. God never intended that a few self-appointed tyrants dictate the lives of the rest of humanity.

God's people got in trouble. Whether or not it was of their own making is a matter of debate. It is not a matter for debate concerning God's will toward oppression and injustice.

Harsh Injustice

The story of how God's people come to the land of Egypt under Joseph is familiar. The story of Moses in Egypt is also well known. When "There arose a new king who knew not Joseph" (Exodus 1:8), their oppression began.

Every student of the Bible has pondered the matter concerning the long centuries when nothing was being done about the injustice toward God's people. Didn't God care? Doesn't God care now? Many are the oppressed today. Millions in this modern day gall under the constant affliction of hard taskmasters. The seeming indifference on the part of God has contributed to the unbelievable conclusion of some that God is dead. But we may ask another question. Was nothing being done during those long centuries? Were God's people content to dwell in Egypt before they began to be oppressed? Was God preparing a deliverer for the right time? God did care.

In verses 7 and 8 God says, "I have surely seen . . . and have heard . . . for I know . . . and I am come down to deliver them . . . Yes, God sees, hears, knows and comes to deliver. No matter how strong the oppressor may be, God is stronger. God has a better land and a better life for his people. Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10). There was a "land flowing with milk and honey" for God's people.

Verse 9 relates the fact that God had heard the cry of the oppressed and that he had seen their plight. God is aware of both the oppressed and those who oppress them. God determined deliverance through human instrumentality.

Verse 10 reminds them what God did to the Egyptians and how God lifted and carried them as on the wings of an eagle. God had brought them into his own fellowship. Because of what God had done for them, they were to be faithful to him in all things.

If they would be faithful in keeping his covenant, God would make them his personal people. They would be a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation. God would lift them to the highest possible position. What an inspiration! How does this apply to the people of God today? Read Revelation 1:6 "And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen."

"Youth Kick-Off"

The Church of Christ-Nicholson will be having their fall Youth Kick-off, Sunday, September 15. A full day of events have been planned. The activities will begin at 2:30. The evening service at 7:00 will feature a men's trio from the Cincinnati Bible College. Preceding the evening service all are invited to stay for a watermelon feast. All ages are invited to attend this great day of fun, fellowship and Christian growth.

Kick-off Sunday, September 15, features life from right Terry Maurer, Rick Murry, and Todd Dillon.

Baptist Youth Choir To present "Hope"

Youth from three area Baptist churches will present the musical "Hope" this Sunday evening, September 15, at 7:30 p.m. at Walton First Baptist. The Walton-New Bethel-New Banklick group recently presented this musical on a weekend mission trip to five churches in Southern Indiana. The group chose this musical because of its strong emphasis on the theme of hope as found throughout the Bible.

Written by Otis Skillings, composer of the popular "Life" and "Love" musicals, "Hope" is divided into four major divisions. First mentioned is the hope that has been available through God the Father from Creation. Next, the musical discusses the hope through Jesus the Son. Thirdly comes the hope through the Holy Spirit's indwelling of the Christian. And last, the hope of seeing the Father face-to-face is proclaimed.

Walton Baptist as host church invites the public to attend this musical and spiritual service.

When man's aspirations are filled with religious faith and a sense of spiritual mission, he rises to heights of unselfish dedication. But when he keeps his sights lowered to greedy goals, he often becomes entangled in his own materialistic web.

Bring your family to church. That's where we learn with confidence to lift our eyes to the realities that are above the worldly.

As we train a youngster to look to God, we are unlocking the potential of a soul.

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

—by—
Joe Claxon

Some burley producers in Boone County have already cut their tobacco, but others are in the process of cutting. There are two different chemicals to use for sucker control, the systemic and contact. Which ever chemical that will be used, be sure to use the proper amounts as experiments have shown the excess use does not do a better job. Read excess use of chemicals leaves a high residue in tobacco that may cause problems in marketing especially to foreign buyers. Also, chemicals are high this year and we may save money by using the proper amounts.

Good news for burley growers! Business remains brisk at the tobacco counter, as smokers continue to push up demand.

For the year ending June 30, 1974, American consumers upped their cigarette consumption to an estimated 600 billion. Further gains are expected during July-December.

Tobacco firms turned out some 645 billion cigarettes—roughly 43 billion for export—during 1973-74. Over the 10-month period ended last April, U.S. exports surged 13 percent as smokers around the world showed a growing preference for U.S. cigarettes.

In early May, cigarette makers raised prices on all major brands by 6 1/2 percent to $11.30 per 1,000 regular and king size, and $11.80 for millimeter sizes.

Prices include the Federal excise tax of $4.00 and amount to an increase of 1.4 cents for a pack of 20 cigarettes.

Small grain crops have been increasing in popularity in Kentucky in recent years. The state's farmers grew over 550,000 acres of small grains in 1973, according to Morris J. Bitzer, Extension grain crops specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The right variety of small grain crop to grow is an important consideration if you are to have a successful crop, notes Bitzer.

Wheat is the most versatile of the small grains and the most popular in Kentucky. Wheat is very winterhardy and will withstand wetter soils than barley or oats. When harvested for silage, wheat may be followed by corn or soybeans in any area of the state. In western Kentucky, the use of early-maturing varieties also makes it possible to double-crop after wheat is harvested for grain.

Kentucky Plants Trees

ATLANTA Ga.—Kentucky's forest products industry planted 1,702,000 seedlings during the 1973-74 tree planting season, according to the Southern Forest Institute.

The annual survey, broken down further, shows that of the total seedlings planted in Kentucky, 1,596,000 were pine and the remaining 106,000 were hardwood. 575,000 of these new trees were planted on land owned or leased by the wood-using industry in the state. Another 1,127,000 were distributed to private landowners for planting on their lands.

A total of 1,000 of the seedlings planted in Kentucky were what is often referred to as "Supertrees." These are genetically improved seedlings which grow taller, straighter, and healthier, up to 20 percent faster than an ordinary pine seedling.

Tobacco convention set for Sept. 22-24

By Jack Lewyn

Tobacco's situation, its outlook and problems will be recounted by representatives of the industry, government officials and agronomists during sessions of the annual convention of the Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Export Association in Lexington Sept. 22-24.

Reports will cover burley and dark leaf production and prospects; the export situation and outlook for both types, marketing and manufacturing, market development, the federal tobacco inspection service, and the operation of the production control and price support program.

A delegation of Russian tobacco officials, scheduled to be in the United States this month, is expected to attend some of the sessions of the association in Lexington, and then continue on a tour of other tobacco areas and operations.

U.S. Rep. John B. Breckinridge, D-Ky., of Lexington, will speak at a luncheon meeting Monday, Sept. 23, and James C. Bowling, vice president of Philip Morris Inc., New York, will be the speaker at a dinner meeting that day. William O'Flaherty, president of the Tobacco Tax Council, Richmond, Va., will make a report on the current cigarette-tax situation at a morning meeting. Gordon Fraser, assistant administrator of the Foreign Agricultural Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, will speak at a luncheon Tuesday, Sept. 24.

Frank B. Snodgrass, vice president and managing director of the export association, will make his annual report at the opening session Monday. Registration for the convention will be held Sunday, Sept. 22.

Addresses of welcome will be delivered Monday by J. D. Johnson Jr., Knoxville, Tenn., president of the export association; Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell Butler, Frankfort, and Dr. G.W. Stokes, Lexington, associate dean of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Most of the reports on general tobacco situation will be made Tuesday morning.

Government Sales in Kentucky

Want to buy a pickup truck for hunting or fishing? How about a second car for the wife?

L.D. Strom, General Services Administration's Regional Administrator announced today that cars and trucks formerly used by the Federal Government would be sold at auction in Louisville and Lexington during mid-September.

The first sale will be held at the Lexington Interagency Motor Pool, 144 Harrison Avenue on September 17 at 10:00 a.m. The second auction will be held on September 19 at 10 a.m. at a sales site in the Federal Center, 10th Street and Penn Street, Jeffersonville, Indiana.

The sales will include sedans, station wagons, sedan deliveries, pickups and trucks. Most of the sedans have automatic transmissions and are air-conditioned. The sales include Fords, AMC's, Plymouths, Chevrolets, and Internationals. The vehicles range in age from 1963 to 1971.

In Lexington, the vehicles may be inspected from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., September 16, and 8 to 10 a.m. on September 17. In Louisville, inspection may be made from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on September 18 and 8 to 10 a.m. on September 19.

Additional information may be obtained by calling or writing the Sales Branch, General Services Administration, 1776 Peachtree Street, N.W., Atlanta, Georgia 30309, telephone area code 404-526-5241.

4 AND 1 YEAR FOR FARMERS

1974 looks like a "4 and 1" year for Kentucky farmers, according to current forecasts — $4 a bushel corn by next spring and over $1 a pound for burley tobacco by Christmas.

But these figures are not good news for all agricultural producers in the state, and in fact may not be enough in many instances to salvage a profitable year.

The reason for this seeming inconsistency lies in the primary factor that governs the prices farmers receive. That factor is supply, and it means that as the amount of farm produce goes down, the price goes up.

Thus, lowered crop production, or at least the prospect of crop production below what is needed, has driven up the price of corn and burley. But if a farmer's crop has been shortened, as many have, by weather, disease or damage after harvest, the good prices don't mean as much.

Corn growers in Kentucky, however, have fared better on the average this season than their counterparts farther west. The drought that seared the Plains states was much less a factor in this area, and farmers here who increased their corn acreage this year may find prices to their liking this winter and beyond.

But, as Ben Franklin might have said, one man's bounty is another man's misery. So it is with the corn supply problems, as Kentucky dairymen, as well as hog and cattle producers, face the prospects of high winter-time feed prices combined with a livestock and milk marketing outlook somewhere between uncertain and bleak.

SUCCESS IN AGRICULTURE

The success of agricultural production relies heavily on the basic biological processes.

Each of the farmer's crops — eggs, wheat, milk, corn — is the result of a natural growth process; an ongoing, continuous process that can't be turned on and off like a water tap.

Each grain crop takes several months to grow. You can't turn out a thousand bushels of wheat in a month just because you need them. You have to wait for the right season, the right weather to plant, the right time to fertilize.

With animals the wait is much longer than with grain. It takes from 1 1/2 to 2 years from the time a steer is born until he is sent to market and the meat appears in the supermarket as steak and hamburger.

Six months pass between the birth of a litter of pigs and their appearance as more pork on the market.

"If You Have Anything To Sell—Call Us"

Last year we brought you over two billion dollars worth of automobiles. You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of cars rode our rails in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for autos we shipped amounted to $2,411,000,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got 76% of all the autos and auto parts Americans buy.

Why does the automotive industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is five times as much as by rail. Air shipping is over fourteen times the price.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

Kentuckians hold dear the writings of a man who came to live in the narrow valleys of southeastern Kentucky. John Fox Jr. was born at Stony Point near Paris in 1863 and died at Big Stone Gap, Va., in 1919. Eastern Kentucky and Virginia provided the settings and characters for many of his novels, which were well received then and now. "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "The Heart of the Hills," "Hell For Sartain" and "Knight of the Cumberland" are some titles from the rich legacy he left the world of literature.

His soft, gentle phrases tell of blue-mauve hills, early morning mists curtaining the valleys, alpenglow coloring trees above the gaps. Even mountain fane and violence are described in a rhythmic cadence.

A sense of right and wrong led Fox and a few friends from the Bluegrass to live in Letcher County, on Kingdom Come Creek and on over the mountains in Virginia. There they sought to bring law and order to the region.

At van, a short distance from Whitesburg, those who continue to enjoy his stories can see one of his books adapted for stage. "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" is performed at the Little Shepherd Amphitheatre Friday through Sunday nights, closing Sept. 1. People in Whitesburg can describe a large log house where Fox lived and made friends with people who became characters in his books. "Oh, the names were changed," they will remark, "but we know who they were."

Side roads near Whitesburg lead to Scuttle Hole Gap, while other pioneer roads lead to Virginia markets. Kingdom Come Creek still has log houses, barns and wildflowers. The Little Shepherd Trail, Big Black Mountain and Pine Mountain offer outstanding vistas to visitors to this region.

Kingdom Come State Resort Park, Redbird Purchase Unit of Daniel Boone National Forest, and Kentucky State Forest are tourism sites within a 30-mile radius of Whitesburg.

Historical Items Sought

Edward W. Johnson, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks, has announced that Kentuckians may donate or loan historical items to the museum at the rebuilt Fort Booneborough which opens Aug. 30. Johnson said "the legacy of Daniel Boone and the first settlers at old Fort Booneborough has been left to each and every Kentuckian. The new fort should be a place any Kentuckian can point to and say that is mine. In that spirit we are accepting any loans or donations to the fort's museum." Interested persons may contact Lou Delle McIntosh, Department of Parks, 10th Floor, Capitol Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Connie Jo Carlisle would like to express their gratitude and love to Rev. Yates and Jim Lawrence and all the others for staying at our home the night of the accident. To Dr. and Mrs. John Maddox who rushed to the accident to try to help Connie and they are responsible for getting stop signs put back up a few days after Connie died. (They had been down for over a year. Connie did not know she was at the end of the road it was pitch dark and NO signs of any kind gave her a warning. Connie never drove fast.)

Thanks to Dr. William Waller who came immediately to the accident and to our home. We know Connie did not suffer.

We would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson who took care of all the food and for meeting us at the airport and many other acts of kindness. Thanks to everyone that sent food and flowers. We have received around 300 cards. We knew what Connie meant to us but had no idea she had touched the hearts of so many others.

Thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Richard Bachmeyer and Dr. and Mrs. Roger Augenstein for helping in so many ways and staying by our side through everything.

Thanks to Rev. Yates for the message and to Mrs. Fay Connor and Mrs. Dorothy Beigle for the music "Sunshine Behind the Clouds." Every minute of her eighteen years was full of sunshine for us and so many others.

Please pray for us, not having Connie in our home is almost unbearable. Help keep her memory alive by helping us to send others to college or to help others in some other way.

If we have missed thanking anyone please forgive us.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carlisle and Christy Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Carlisle Mrs. Elsie Maloney Mr. Chas. Maloney

Hiking recommended for physical fitness

HARTFORD, Conn.—If you're planning to hike yourself into shape this fall, you're on the trail to good health. Doctors say brisk outdoor walking helps reduce the cholesterol level in the blood at the same time it puts the firmness back into flabby muscles. And just being outdoors is invigorating, especially in the fall. Best of all walking is one of the few forms of exercise almost anyone can enjoy.

Hiking, however, demands caution against certain hazards. Most important, never keep going beyond the point of fatigue. It's far easier to strain or pull a muscle when resistance is low.

Call it quits when you feel pleasantly tired, and avoid hilly routes unless you know you're in good condition. This is doubly true, says Aetna, for older people and those with a history of heart trouble.

Outdoor dangers vary with the different regions of the country, and you should know how to cope with those you're likely to meet. Bites of any sort, rashes from the wrong kind of ivy, and sometimes even sunburn can put you out of action if you're not careful.

On the whole, all you need to enjoy your hike is a little common sense. Just remember that the object is to come back feeling better than when you left.

Wheat Varieties for Ky.

The recommended wheat varieties for Kentucky are Abe, Arthur, Arthur 71, and McNair 4823. Abe, Arthur and Arthur 71 mature about two weeks later than Barsoy barley and are the highest yielding wheat varieties. Arthur 71 and Abe are new varieties which are similar to Arthur but add resistance to the Hessian fly. Abe is shorter and has more lodging resistance than Arthur and Arthur 71. If you are seeding wheat early for fall grazing, Bitzer says Arthur 71 is the best variety to use. McNair 4823 is a good, high-yielding but late-maturing wheat variety.

FEARLESS Forecast

September 12

The Moon enters the fire sign Leo early this morning and makes good aspects the rest of the day, now is a good time to have your teeth looked after such as fillings and plate impressions, if you need glasses have your eye test today, fruit picked today will keep well. Also a good day for drying apples or digging potatoes to store for winter.

September 13

A good day to seek employment or ask for a promotion also a good time to take care of any legal matters or sign contracts. If you didn't finish yesterday's chores you can finish them today. A good day to get a haircut if you want it to be slow growing back. Buy clothing or shoes today and you will select items that will wear well.

September 14

The moon goes into the earth sign Virgo early this morning and the fishing is still poor. Should be a good Saturday for golf or baseball maybe start football practice, an excellent day to do a kind deed that will be long remembered.

September 15

With the good aspect between the Moon and Saturn this morning you will feel your sense of duty to church and family when you awake so there will be no problem getting ready for the morning service. The afternoon would be an enjoyable time to visit some older person. The new moon at dark tonight could induce the fish to bite for a while.

September 16

The Moon goes into the air sign Libra early this morning and conjuncts Mars at noon so you will start the week off full of energy, be careful of your driving as this aspect could make you reckless. If you want your hair to look beautiful and your nails to look nice get a haircut and manicure today they will also grow back fast. The afternoon would be a good time to do some home baking.

September 17

The moon will be in opposition to Jupiter early this morning so you will probably have some inner conflict all morning, just be very careful of your expenditures do your shopping after lunch, on the domestic front, sewing, baking and house cleaning would go well in the afternoon and if you have any outstanding debts this is a good day to collect.

September 18

The Moon goes into the water sign Scorpio at mid-morning so you can plan on some good fishing today and tomorrow. If you have any legal business to take care of or property to sell this is the right time to complete the deal for complete satisfaction. Weather permitting, now is the time to pour concrete or stretch a wire fence. Any new venture started now should turn out well.

Don't be a loser !

"Airtightness" is an important part of saving energy and money. When your fireplace is not being used, the damper should be tightly closed to prevent the chimney from drawing heated or cooled air from the house.

Good fitting storm windows and doors save energy, too. Anything you can do to cut down escaping air that you pay to heat or cool makes sense and saves dollars. It's worth the effort. Today, it's the lazy homeowner who wastes energy.

Electricity is too good to waste !

UNVEILS NEW STRUCTURE SUNDAY, SEPT. 15

Walton residence praised the new building at the Dedication Ceremonies on Sunday, Sept. 15 as Walton-Verona School District unveiled the new Music and Physical Education Building. "Bright and cheerful coloration" and "lots-of-room" are comments most heard.

A small but enthusiastic crowd, gathered in Walton for the dedication ceremonies of the Walton-Verona School District's new Music and Physical Education Building, Sunday, Sept. 15. Guest speaker Tom Mills assistant commissioner of Kentucky High School Athletic Association, jokingly referred to himself as the "first substitute player" to perform in the new facilities. He pinch hitted for scheduled speaker Commissioner J.B. Mansfield who was unable to attend the festivities.

Mr. Mills was greatly impressed by both the progress and aesthetic design of the new structure. Impact on community culture, was his main theme as he stressed the need of good music and physical education facilities which every community must fulfill in order to produce a well-rounded school and community life.

Mr. Mills had warm praise for the Walton-Verona Band which played at the event. He also referred to the Music Department in the new building as "excellent" and "unique."

Superintendent John Grubbs said "The board is very pleased. We did not want just a gym. We only have about 20 or 25 home basketball games a year in the Walton-Verona School. We insisted on having a true Physical Education Building in every sense. We feel the new structure is extremely well designed and just what we were seeking. A building that will serve all-around activities, not only in the physical education field but in music as well. The interior of the building has some outstanding features, such as fold-down seats and a bright colorful appearance, royal blue border around the gym floor, which were most favorably commented on by most of the guests attending the affair. Another outstanding feature is the large amount of space in the Locker Rooms and their easy access.

"We are especially pleased with the acoustical of the building and feel that the PA System we have is the best. I have never personally, heard one better, for sharpness and clarity," continued Mr. Grubbs.

The first scheduled event in the new facilities will be a Student Council sponsored Gospel Sing on October 5, followed on October 28 by the PTA meeting of the Walton-Verona PTA.

WALTON-VERONA SCHOOL RECEIVES STATE AUDIT

The following is the report of the State Auditor on the Walton-Verona School Payments from the Boone County Sheriff's Office from January 5, 1970 to January 7, 1974.

Our examination was made in accordance with the provisions for the collection of taxes contained in Chapter 134 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes and with generally accepted auditing standards, including such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As shown in Exhibit A attached, there was a net under-payment of taxes to Boone County Fiscal Court of $3,541.54 for the period from January 5, 1970 to January 7, 1974. $11,096.84 was found to be due the Boone County Board of Education and $11,511.02 was found to be due the Walton-Verona Board of Education for the same period.

In addition to the $3,541.54 due the Boone County Fiscal Court for property taxes as shown in Exhibit A, $29,440.99 in excess fees for 1971 as shown on pages 35 and 36 of our audit report dated April 11, 1974, and a total of $5,294.01 resulting from a re-computation of excess fees necessitated by this audit is due the Fiscal Court from the office of the former Sheriff. The former Sheriff's County Revenue Bond covering the County levy of Boone County for the years 1970, 1971, 1972, and 1973 was in the amount of $100,000.00 and was recorded in County Court Order Book 35, page 519 with the following sureties: Clifford Ryan, Raymond Collins, Elvin E. Helms, Sr., Lawrence Farrell, Charles L. Deglow, G.C. Ely, Stanley Houston, Fats Tanner, Clifton Miller, Jr., and Wallace M. Lucas. The former Sheriff's Official Bond in the amount of $100,000.00 covering the period from January 1, 1970 to December 31, 1973 was recorded in County Court Order Book 35, page 522 with the Huckleby Union Insurance Company as surety.

Randy Lawrence Who's Who

Who's Who among American high school students honors Randy Jack Lawrence, a senior at Walton-Verona, who was recently notified that he is to be featured in the Eighth Annual Edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students," 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics activities or community service in the books. Less than 3 per cent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

Randy Lawrence is the son of James and Betty Lawrence of 11 Park Ave., Walton. He is active in church, Student Council (treasurer), Basketball Manager (3 years), Golf Team (4 years).

In addition to having his biography published in the book, Randy will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers."

Randy plans to attend U.K. and major in journalism upon graduation in June.

American Legion

The sixth district of American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary will hold a meeting at Johnson McElroy Post No. 277 at 2:30, Sept. 22. Registration starts at 2:00 p.m. There will be a luncheon served after the meeting. All members are urged to attend.

SENATOR HUDDLESTON RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

WASHINGTON—At the request of President Gerald Ford, Senator Walter Dee Huddleston (D-Ky.) has been appointed by the Senate leadership to attend a pre-summit conference on Agriculture and Food Policy in Chicago on September 13.

This meeting is one of several "mini-conferences" that are being held prior to the September 27 and 28 Domestic Summit on the Economy.

Huddleston was one of five freshmen senators who originally proposed the summit plan that will consider various plans of action for combating the current record-breaking inflation.

Turkey Shoot

The Boone Lake Club is holding a Turkey Shoot, Sunday Sept. 22, which includes turkeys, bacon and ham. Everyone is welcome.

"Happy Hearts" Senior Citizens

Mrs. Anna Westover

Many seniors in the Walton area are enjoying the noon meal and fellowship at the Walton Christian Church.

Recently a contest was held among the participants to select a name for the group. Each person submitted a title and all were excellent. The choice was difficult, according to reports, but Mrs. Anna Westover won with her name "Happy Hearts Seniors."

You will be keeping up with the "Happy Hearts" weekly in the Advertiser on Page 3 under our new Senior Citizens Column. The "Happy Hearts" group would like to extend an open invitation to all seniors 60 or over who feel they would like to participate in the noon meal program.

Reservations must be made a day in advance by calling Mrs. Beulah Smith at Walton Christian Church, Phone 485-4591. Meals are served Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Reading Program

Southern Kenton County schools—Visalia Piner Taylor Mill, Ryland Heights—are participating in a $117,000 special reading program financed by the federal government.

William R. Brown, federal program coordinator for the Kenton County school system, said the project provides for six reading teachers, two guidance counselors and teacher aides.

The aides are paid $15 a day and "must have a high school diploma and the patience to work with children."

Grades one through four are involved and students are selected after tests.

Other schools participating in the Kenton County projects are Bromley and Crescent Springs. Schools selected on the basis of an economic survey.

KEMPAC Seminar Cook and Ford to speak

The 1974 Kentucky Senatorial Campaign will be the main topic of discussion at the 12th Annual Seminar of the Kentucky Educational Medical Political Action Committee (KEMPAC) to be held at Belle Hall in the Bluegrass Convention Center Louisville. The Seminar will officially convene on Monday September 23, 1974, at 6:00 p.m. The KEMPAC Seminar precedes by one day the opening of the Annual Meeting of the Kentucky Medical Association.

Carl Cooper, M.D., Bedford Chairman of the KEMPAC Board announced today that Senator Marlow Cook and Governor Wendell Ford candidates for the United States Senate will be the main speakers of the session. Doctor Cooper also stated that W. J. Lewis, M.D., Dayton Ohio, Chairman of the American Medical Political Action Committee Board will be a guest at the Seminar.

It is anticipated that approximately 400 Kentucky physicians and their guests will be on hand for this very important Annual Meeting.

PCA 40th ANNUAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEET

The 40th Annual Stockholders' Meetings are anticipated to be the largest ever. To handle the large gathering and to have locations convenient for the members, two meetings will be held.

The first meeting will be held Friday, October 11, 1974 at the Pendleton County Elementary School on U.S. 27 at Butler, Kentucky. The second meeting will be held Saturday, October 12, 1974 at the Walton-Verona Elementary School on Porter Road at Verona, Kentucky. Both meetings to start at 7:00 E.D.S.T.

The election of Directors will be of great importance for the Walton field office area this year because their director's term is expiring. There will also be an election of the Nominating Committee. Results of both elections will be announced Saturday, October 12th at the annual meeting at Verona.

The agenda includes a turkey dinner with all the fixings. This year's door prizes features a Fryer/Broiler, Warmer Electric Skillet, a self-cleaning iron, an electric fence charger and a 1/2 inch power drill.

After the business session, entertainment will be presented by the "One Way Singers" from Walton. These girls will provide music for the young and old alike.

Steve Fisk, office manager stated "We'd like to urge all members to attend the meeting. The night should prove to be a very informative and enjoyable meeting for all."

I certainly appreciate the help that the Walton Life Saving Squad gave to me in bringing me to the Cincinnati Veterans Hospital, when I had my accident. I can't imagine what Walton would do without the services of its life saving squad and fire department.

I would like to thank all my neighbors, friends, and various organizations for their cards, visitations and prayers, and of course, phone calls.

Yours truly,
Allen D. Rust

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Walton Womens Club

The Walton Womens Club, under leadership of President Mrs. James Lee Cobb, enjoyed a delightful opening meeting, September 4th in Fellowship Hall, Walton Christian Church.

Hostess Mrs. Zayda Clore, Mrs. W. H. Presser, Mrs. D. L. Lushy, and Mrs. W. R. Belcher had decorated the Hall with beautiful fall flowers.

The Kentucky Federation's theme for 1974-75 is "Ting the Bells of Freedom." Kentuck's club women as Liberty Bells shall be the patriots, who ring church bells, school bells, door bells and telephone bells in an effort to insure that all the basic freedoms are extended to all Kentuckians.

Walton Club's projects among many are two of dominant interest. They are "Learning About Boone County Parks" and the "History of Walton," all with the intention of being able to contribute to the needs of the community in a valuable manner.

Mrs. Claude Thompson, vice president, presented the program; spiritual guidance, Miss Elma Taylor, speaker, Mr. Rick Clemans, Superintendent of Boone County Parks, research papers by Mr. Wilford Rice on "Walton Past, Present and Future."

Mrs. John Hetterman is planning a craft workshop at her home on Verona Road, October 23rd.

Mrs. Gayle McElroy, President of the Walton Club, was also an honored guest with Mr. Clemans and Mr. Rice.

Members attending were Miss Louise Conrad, Miss Rachel Acree, Mmes. W. R. Belcher, Cameron Brakfield, William Brown, John Campbell, James Lee Cobb, Carl Conner, Zayda Clore, John Farrell, A. H. Gaines, John Hetterman and Miss Elma Taylor.

Also attending Mmes. D. L. Lushy, J. C. Mayhugh, Melvin Moore, W. H. Presser, Thomas Rodney, L. R. Richardson, W. W. House, Claude Thompson and Melvin Wasson.

Oak Island Homemakers

The September 9 meeting of the Oak Island Homemakers Club was held at 1 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of the Baptist Church. The president Mrs. Betty Goebel presided.

Presiding the meeting Mrs. Leontine Stephens was hostess for a coffee hour.

Mrs. Nancy Peebles and Mrs. Goebel attended the Homemaker summer camp July 12-14 at North Central 4-H Camp, Carlisle. Mrs. Peebles gave an interesting report on the handicraft made at camp. She exhibited two beautiful Dolls Robbia Wreaths and some cloth flowers which they made at camp.

Perfect attendance awards for 1973-74 were presented to Mrs. Elizabeth Barberick Mrs. Betty Goebel Mrs. Glenda Jackson and Mrs. Margaret Rector.

Reading awards were presented to Mrs. Elizabeth Barberick Mrs. Dixie Dressman, Mrs. Lydia Huffaker, Mrs. Glenda Jackson and Mrs. Margaret Rector.

The president appointed lesson leaders and club subject chairmen for the club year 1974-75.

Plans were made for members to attend the Tri-annual luncheon meeting October 1, Beverly Hills, Alexander Pike, and the Annual Meeting, October 24, Town and Country, Dixie Highway.

Members answering roll call were Mrs.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION A MEDICAL ACT—in response to Doris McDowell, a Louisville nurse, the Attorney General's Office says that a registered nurse who has adequate instruction and experience in such procedures may administer blood transfusions under the direct supervision of a licensed physician. Likewise, a certified nurse anesthetist could administer an anesthetic, under the supervision of a licensed dentist. The decision to administer a blood transfusion would be a medical act since this is part of the diagnosis of the treatment. The nurse performing the administration of a blood transfusion under the careful eye of a physician is merely the extension of the hands of the physician.

"Happy Hearts"
enjoy afternoon

The Happy Heart Senior Citizens group enjoyed an afternoon of good food, fellowship and music Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Twenty-three were present for the noon meal and entertainment. A member of our group, Burdette Powers, played some lovely numbers on the piano and accompanied Phyllis Simpson and Mary Ponder in some gospel songs. We also enjoyed a special by Agnes Sleet. Noon meals are served every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at the Walton Christian Church.

Special entertainment or projects will be planned each week. Tuesday Oct. 8, Mrs. Brock from Cincinnati, Bell, will be with us, showing a film on life and legend in Northern Ky., which should bring back memories to many seniors. We hope you will make plans to be with us.

If you are over 60 and could benefit from these meals, please contact our outreach and referral aid, Sue Powell at 485-4591 Thursdays, 10 a.m.-2p.m.

U.S. Farmers comprise less than 3 per cent of the population. But they have production assets exceeding $300 billion, spend $64 billion in one year to pay production expenses, pay property taxes of more than $3 billion a year, and have close to an $80 billion debt load that is expected to double within 10 years.

Today the average commercial farmer in the U.S. has well over $100,000 invested in land, machinery, livestock, working capital, and farm buildings other than his house. The figure has doubled in a decade.

One of our 5 jobs in the U.S. is related to agriculture and at the heart of this is the American Farmer.

Agriculture is the nation's largest industry, employing 4.4 million persons directly and supporting another 10 to 12 million jobs in machinery, chemical, public utilities and other industries, and in processing and marketing food products.

The value of U.S. farm assets (excluding Alaska and Hawaii) amounted to $159.8 billion on January 1, 1974. Debts totaled $81.7 billion, leaving equity of $78.1 billion. The debt-to-asset ratio decreased to 17.8 per cent. About three-fourths of the $78.1 billion increase in asset value during 1973 was due to a record $51.0 billion increase in the value of farm real estate. Farm debt increased $8.2 billion, with gains in both non-real estate debt and farm mortgages. Interest charges on farm debt in 1973 totaled $5.1 billion, up $0.9 billion from 1972. Total realized net farm income from farm operators shot up $26.1 billion from $19.7 billion in 1972; realized net farm income per farm rose from $6,856 to $9,193.

Lower-Nicotine may be introduced

By Jack Lewyn

A world-wide trend toward milder, lower-nicotine cigarettes may eventually bring about changes in the characteristics of the tobacco produced on American farms, including burley, directors of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association have been told.

Already, some suggestions have been made that types of burley with very low nicotine be considered for future production.

R.C. (Dick) Travis, vice president for export promotion for the Burley Co-op, who is a cigarette-blending expert, reported to the association's directors at a meeting in Lexington that manufacturers world-wide, including the United States, are moving toward "lighter" tobacco contents in cigarettes.

Travis recently returned from visiting manufacturers in Spain, Greece and Egypt, and made the comments while reporting on the results of his trip. He also noted that Egypt, once a major user of American burley, is again buying U.S. tobacco.

Travis, whose work is supported by growers through the Burley Co-op's Burley Sales Promotion Fund, works with foreign manufacturers in cigarette blending using U.S. burley. Exports of American burley in 1973 totaled about 75 million pounds.

Several domestic manufacturers have introduced "light" versions of their popular cigarette brands, and both Travis and John M. Berry, president of the co-op said the trend bears watching for its possible effects on burley production in the future.

At present, Travis also noted, there is a shortage of tobacco over the world, mostly because of recent short-falls in production. There have been two extremely short burley crops in the U.S. in the last three years, and the outcome of the 1974 crop, under the adverse weather conditions which prevailed in early September, is difficult to determine.

Simon Kenton F.F.A.

The Simon Kenton F.F.A. chapter held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, August 1st, 1974, in the agriculture shop at 8 p.m.

Jeff Neuspickel, chaplain, gave a devotion and President Gary Riley called the meeting to order. Opening ceremonies were held. There were 22 members present and one guest, Theresa Martin. The officer reports were given and the committee reports were given also. The most important report was by the Supervised Farming Committee, on the Bluegrass Fair. The Welding Team got a Red, and members are Ricky Courtney, Danny Epperson and Stan Collet. Livestock Judging Team got Superior 6th place; members are Gary Riley, Tim Smith and Doug Clayton. Dairy Judging Team got White; members are Dexter LaFollette, Mitchell Deaton and Dave Roland. Seed Identification got Superior 4th place; Mike Thorne and Tractor Driving Red 6th place; Ben Heeger. Closing ceremonies were held. The next meeting will be September 17, 1974.

CROP REPORT

Statewide, soil moisture during August ranged from very short to mostly surplus. Severe shortages of soil moisture prevailed at the first of the month with 35% very short. However, by late August the rains had reversed the condition and 3/4 of the crop-weather correspondents reported surplus soil moisture. Rainfall totals ranging from 4 to 12 inches during the month made it the third wettest August on record.

CORN PRODUCTION

Kentucky's corn production, forecast at 89,600,000 bushels, is 4 per cent above last year's crop of 85,850,000 bushels, and 8 per cent above 1972. Yield is expected to be 80 bushels per acre — 2 bushels above August 1, but 5 bushels below the crop of 1973. During the past 10 years, the September 1 forecast has been above the final production estimate six times and below four times. Overall crop prospects are good. Some early corn filled poorly because of short soil moisture during July. By the end of August, about 1/2 of the crop was in dough stage or beyond and nearly half was denting but not mature. Progress is about the same stage as a year ago.

Total U.S. corn production is expected to reach 4,394.7 million bushels with an average yield of 78.3 bushels per acre. The September 1 forecast is 11% below last year but 11% above the August 1 forecast.

SOYBEAN PRODUCTION

Kentucky's soybean production is forecast at a record 32,130,000 bushels — 4% above August 1 and 11% above the 1973 crop. Yield during the past 10 years, the September 1 forecast has been above the final production estimate six times and below four times. Soybeans are making excellent progress. Growth has been rapid and pod set indicates improved yield potential. Only a small portion of the crop is showing any tendency toward ripening. On September 1, five of every six acres had leaves entirely green as plants reacted to surplus moisture. Some danger from freeze exists for late planted beans.

U.S. soybean production is forecast at 1,315.8 million bushels compared with 1,266.5 million for 1973. U.S. yield is expected to average 25.1 bushels per acre, compared with 27.8 in 1973. Yield estimate is the same as a month ago.

BURLEY PROSPECTS ABOVE 1973
Burley tobacco production in Kentucky is estimated at 391 million pounds, 2 per cent above the August 1 forecast and 31 per cent above the 1973 crop. Yield is expected to be 2900 pounds — up 50 pounds from August and 280 pounds above the low 1973 average pounds per acre. During the past 10 years, the September 1 forecast has been above the final production estimate five times and below five times. Heavy rains have delayed cutting. Plants are taking a second growth and poor sucker control is causing some growers extra work. Lower leaves are sloughing off. Crops already housed are in a critical stage due to the high humidity. Losses from houseburn and rotting are eminent unless drier weather comes soon. Many farmers are at a loss as to just what is best, but cutting and housing will be very active as soon as weather improves. As of September 1, burley cutting was about 17% completed compared with 22% a year ago.

Thursday, Sept. 19, 1974

DARK TOBACCO

Type 22, fire cured tobacco production in Kentucky, forecast at 8,225,000 pounds, is 8 per cent above last year, but unchanged from the August 1 forecast. Yield forecast at 1750 pounds compares with 1560 for 1973. Growing conditions have not been favorable during the season and quality may be hurt, but better yields than last year are almost assured. Total Tennessee and Kentucky Type 22 production is estimated at 25,800,000 pounds. Yield is forecast at 1817 pounds per acre.

Church Sermon

The Commitment of God's People

(Joshua 24:1-7; 14:15; 24)

Culeridge said, "Christianity is not a theory or speculation, but a life; not a philosophy of life, but a life and a living process."

Yes, Christianity is a life to be lived. To follow Christ involves a commitment of our own lives to His will for us.

Our lesson for today is concerned about the commitment of God's people. It speaks first of God's delivering His people.

Deliverance
Moses, God's great servant, had died and Joshua had taken the place of leadership. The plagues in Egypt were over. The wilderness wanderings were now in the past. The people of God have arrived in Canaan, the land of promise. In fact, they are in Shechem the very place where God had spoken to Abraham concerning the land.

The time had come to confront the people concerning certain issues Joshua called the officers and leaders of the people together. They not only came before their leader, Joshua, but "they presented themselves before God." It would always be a good thing to bear in mind when we assemble today; that we are before God as well as the leader of worship.

Joshua speaks to all of the people as he relates to them the work of God's grace in His acts of deliverance. Their fathers had served other gods beyond the river (this word "beyond" in Hebrew is the usual Hebrew word for "river"). Their fathers had not discovered God. God had called them out of their homeland to a land of His own promise.

God had prospered them. God had done great things among them. They had gone down into Egypt and later became slaves. But God had delivered them. He performed miracles before their eyes in delivering them.

God had a claim on their lives. God has a claim on ours. God created us. God redeemed us. God continues to deliver and sustain us. Surely, God's work is a work of grace. Christianity differs from the other religions of the world at this very point. Where other religions teach that man seeks after God or gods, Christianity teaches that God seeks man!

We now come to the part of Joshua's speech in which he demands of the people that they make a decision.

Decision
Every man has the right of choice. Every man has the responsibility of choice. God demands of man that he choose. Man has the right to choose but he does not have the right not to choose. He may not choose to serve God but he still has made his choice.

Joshua uses the word "therefore." This would refer back to God's acts of deliverance and His claims upon them. They ought "therefore" to fear the Lord, and serve Him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which their fathers served." To fear the Lord means to stand in awe before Him. It means to have reverence for God.

"And if it seem evil unto you..." probably means "if you are not willing to..." Their decision is to be made between service to God and service to other gods. It is servitude either way. Man will be a slave to someone or something. It is not so much a question of loyalty as it is where our loyalties lie.

The last words of verse 15 are Joshua's words of personal example and encouragement. He and his house have already made the decision. They have chosen to serve the Lord. There is a genuine need today for every man to make a clear-cut decision in the matter of his loyalties. Many who profess Christ are disloyal to His causes in the world. Many are "going back and walking no more with Him" largely because they have failed to make this decision wholeheartedly.

In Memory

Naomi Johnson Craycroft, born April 4, 1915—Died September 2, 1974.

The earthly life of our good friend Naomi came to its end early Monday morning September 2nd.

In the many years she and her daughters Annie and Margaret and her sons Robert and Lloyd attended Emmanuel, we thought we knew her pretty well. We knew of her deep and abiding faith her love for her Lord His Church and for her family.

We knew of the determined struggle to make a living after her husband Edward William Craycroft passed away. We knew of her aim to see all her children started on the road of life.

We knew of her love for the Bible as God's word and her continuing study of it to better know His will.

Yet there was a Naomi none of us really knew until the doctors reported that she had only a short time left in this life because of an advanced case of dread cancer.

As she calmly discussed her home-going, she showed to all who knew her how deep and sincere and eternal her faith in her Lord and His word really were.

During the long days and nights of pain, as her family and friends beheld the peace that was hers, their love for her and her Lord was multiplied many times. Now the long night is done and Heaven is begun. We shall miss her every day of our lives but we will be ever grateful to her for showing us the way to peace our lives in the Master's hands and trust Him to keep us ever and ever in His love.

Naomi Johnson Craycroft was the daughter of the D. K. and Annie Johnson.

Walton Methodist participates in conference

Walton United Methodist Church is participating in a conference-wide "Pastor-People Renewal" now through September 29.

The schedule calls for home prayer groups on September 16-21 with family visitation on Sunday afternoon, September 22 and the following Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Special services and activities pointing toward "pastor-people renewal" will be observed at each participating church with the local pastor or guest speaker delivering the message. Lay people will assist in each service.

Rev. Robert Yates will present the messages at Walton with S.E. Cummins assisting in the song services.

The emphasis will climax with a great Conference-Wide Renewal Rally at Eastern Kentucky University Coliseum in Richmond, Kentucky on Sunday, September 29, at 3:30 p.m.

Bishop Frank Robertson, episcopal leader of the Louisville Area, will be the inspirational speaker.

The world-famous Junaluska Singers, from North Carolina, will provide special music for the rally.

You will be glad to participate in this special rally of song, praise, thanksgiving and renewal. This promises to be an unforgettable experience in your life.

Come expecting great things to happen.

Laughing children splash and splutter in the shallows. Farther out, big boys race and tear in noisy games of tag. Fathers show their children how to swim, while mothers smile encouragement. Lovers nestle close on striped blankets, and grandmas nod sleepily under big-brimmed hats. The day is good, a day of sand and sea and clear blue sky.

Then a whistle shrieks, and laughter stills as life guards work to save a life. Dread hovers, and even when the child is safe within his mother's arms, for some the day is tarnished.

It's easy to be gay on picnic days. But, when tragedy comes close and fears clamor, life's happiness is a temporary thing. Where can you find confidence?

Your church has the answer. It is the abiding place of God. Within its fellowship through prayer and worship, you can learn that God is the center of your life and that His goodness never wavers.

The First Prayer in Congress

by
M. GENE SNYDER
U. S. Congressman
4th District, Kentucky

This week I would like to share with you the recollection of a very great moment in our Nation's history. Embroiled as we are in today's problems and controversies a backward look in the days of our country's beginnings often can restore our own faith in God and in ourselves, and revitalize our courage to face the future.

Last Wednesday, September 11, 1974 when the House of Representatives convened at noon after its fall recess over Labor Day, our Chaplain, Rev. Edward G. Latch, D.D., offered the following prayer which I believe many of you will especially treasure and want to keep as I do.

Two hundred years ago, September 7, 1774, the Reverend Jacob Duche offered this prayer before the First Continental Congress, assembled in Philadelphia Pa. It has been called the First Prayer in Congress. In spirit let us make it our prayer this morning:

O Lord, our Heavenly Father, High and Mighty, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, who dost from Thy throne behold all the dwellers on Earth, and reignest with power supreme and uncontrolled over all the kingdoms, empires, and governments; look down in mercy, we beseech Thee, on these our American States, who have fled to Thee from the rod of the oppressor, and thrown themselves on Thy gracious protection, desiring to be henceforth dependent only on Thee, to Thee have they appealed for the righteousness of their cause, to Thee do they now look up for that countenance and support, which Thou alone canst give; take them, therefore, Heavenly Father, under Thy nurturing care; give them wisdom in council and valor in the field; defeat the malicious designs of our cruel adversaries; convince them of the unrighteousness of their cause; and if they persist in their sanguinary purposes, O, let the voice of Thine own unerring justice, sounding in their hearts, constrain them to drop the weapons of war, from their unnerved hands in the day of battle! Be Thou present, O God of Wisdom, and direct the counsils of this honorable assembly; enable them to settle things on the best and surest foundation. That the scene of blood may be speedily closed; that order, harmony and peace may be effectually restored, and truth and justice, religion and piety prevail and flourish amongst Thy people. Preserve the health of their bodies and vigor of their minds; shewer down on them and the millions they here represent, such temporal blessings as Thou seest expedient for them in this world, and crown them with everlasting glory in the world to come. All this we ask in the name and through the merits of Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Saviour. Amen.

Housing and Community Development Act

Kentucky's senior Senator Marlow Cook has reported that the omnibus Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 is a complex piece of legislation covering many federal programs ranging from mortgage credit assistance and rural housing to mobile home construction and safety standards.

Because of the complexity of the act and its importance for communities and individuals Cook said persons interested in details of the new law may obtain a 23 page summary of its provisions by writing him at 347 Old Senate Office Building Washington D.C. 2051.

Kentucky has been allocated $2,682,900 as its share of the Land and Water Conservation Fund set up as a federal and state funding partnership for recreation land acquisition and development.

Senator Cook announcing the Commonwealth's portion of the $180 million distributed nationwide said Kentucky ranked 24th in the amount allocated to states for fiscal 1975.

The money from the U.S. Department of the Interior is to be used for matching grant-in-aid recreation programs as well as land acquisition. The amount was determined on the basis of a formula which includes general and urban population considerations.

Legislation to improve federal alcohol and drug abuse education programs with a particular emphasis on smaller communities, has been cleared by the Senate in Washington and sent to the President to sign.

Senator Marlow Cook stated the bill adopted Sept. 3 would continue and expand the community and school-based drug education projects administered by the U.S. Office of Education.

USDA Approves use of cheese alternate

ATLANTA, Ga. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has approved regulations for the National School Lunch and Special Food Service Program for children to allow the use of "cheese alternate products" in these programs.

Cheese alternate products may be made from conventional ingredients such as milk and animal proteins, and animal or vegetable fats. When served, they must be mixed with natural or processed cheese. The combined product may be used to meet all or part of the "meat/meat alternate" requirement of meals served under the National School Lunch Program and Special Food Service Program for children. The amount of cheese alternate products served must not exceed that of the natural of processed cheese, and the cheese and cheese alternate product must be melted together in the cooking or heating process.

Cheese alternate products are available in forms similar to mozzarella and American processed cheese. They are intended to be used as supplements to and not substitutes for meat, poultry, fish, or cheese. Meals containing cheese alternate products will be eligible for USDA cash reimbursement provided the products meet nutritional and physical specifications of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

PASSES REFORM

This session of Congress has passed two extremely important pieces of legislation — budget reform and new pension reform. The former imposes on Congress the requirement of putting its fiscal house in order and bringing federal spending under control, while the latter provides protection of retirement benefits for more than 23 million workers.

The pension bill which President Ford signed into law on Labor Day, has the following key provisions:

1) Vesting rights. This provision guarantees that an employee is entitled to a pension after a certain period of service with a company. The period of time required varies under alternative plans — 5 years in one case and 10 in another — but it provides protection against a worker losing his pension because he has not served an extremely long period of time.

2) Insurance. The bill provides protection against a worker losing his pension because of mismanagement or insufficient money in the pension fund. It also requires adequate funding of pension plans by the parent companies.

3) Portability. This voluntary provision allows workers who change jobs to transfer retirement credits to his new company with their approval. This will prevent workers from losing their retirement benefits because they switch jobs.

4) Self-Employed. The bill also increases the limitation on contributions which self-employed persons such as doctors and lawyers can make to their own pension funds.

Don Dukes

Love of Doves

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Don Duke's passion for doves and the freedom he says they represent dates back over 13 years to John F. Kennedy's inauguration as president.

That cold January day in 1961 found Duke, a 16-year old Navy cadetman from Christian County, serving in the special military honor guard to the new president. He recalls how the sudden flight of a lone dove seemed to punctuate Kennedy's famous inaugural speech. The rest is poetry his.

"He stood there, with his hat not on his hair, while seamen's feet froze as they sweat in the cold January glare."

"He looked at the crowd with a millionaire's stare, while soldiers' bronzed belt buckles glinted off a glare."

"Hail to the chief, the music of power filled the air...but what you can do for your country. Soaring above the huge white dome, he saw you (the dove) and smiled, as Caesar did in Rome, tension flew away with that."

"Cooling, Cooling, your soft words is so, so soothing, soothing."

Now a muscular, red-bearded 30-year-old philosophy junior at the University of Kentucky, he has sold insurance, operated a concession stand, played poker for a living, managed a supper club and served time in prison.

It was Duke's stay in prison that really bolstered his love of freedom and led him to a commitment to do something for his country's prison system. He was paroled two years ago from the Frenchburg Correctional Facility after serving nine months of a three-year sentence for illegally possessing a gambling machine in his club, a charge he is contesting.

Duke was a model inmate at Frenchburg. He served as president of the resident's council and editor of the inmate newspaper. He used his time there to complete a high school education cut short a year 13 when he ran away from home and joined the circus. He paid a prostitute to pose as his mother and lie about his age, so he could enlist in the Navy, when he was 14.

Duke said most inmates, like himself, are poor, under-educated products of broken homes where one or more parents have prison records.

"Our tendency is to wash our hands of a man by stuffing him in a cell far away from his home community and, thereby allowing us to forfeit any effort to pitch in and help him. We are accomplices in a wretched system," he said.

Twice during a recent interview with this reporter, the phone in Duke's tiny dormitory room rang to reveal offers from UK faculty to help him organize black history classes and an "Adopt-A-Prisoner" program for inmates.

Overweight

About a year ago the unpleasant facts stared me in the face. Nearing 35, I was overweight, overstressed, and my general physical condition was marginal.

Finally, with 210 lbs. of not too firm flesh hanging from my 6 ft. frame, I began to realize that walking through the uplands of Nebraska with shotgun and heavy boots wasn't as much fun as I had anticipated.

By late summer I had shed nearly 20 pounds I was walking a brisk two miles each evening and I was ready for the final element in my program — running. The most important warning to heed here is to get a good physical examination. This is essential for anybody past 30 if you're embarking on a program of improving physical fitness.

I won't bore you with the details of how far I run now, or how fast. The important point is that I do enough every day to gain the essential health benefits of heart stimulation and a good total workout of the respiratory system. While I had lost weight before I could never keep it off. Now I had a daily incentive to stay slim — running is easier at 170 pounds.

Side benefits began to accrue: I slept less, felt better, worked more effectively

Preston Looks To Country Music

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard and Johnny Preston have at least two things in common: they're all accomplished country musicians and have arrest records.

But unlike Cash and Haggard, the less famous Preston must be content to pick, strum and wail from inside the "walls" of the Blackburn Correctional Complex (BCC) at Lexington.

"It ain't so bad, though, when you consider that this place (Blackburn) is a minimum security facility with a lotta freedom for a prison. And besides, I just got out to do a concert," said Preston.

Blackburn officials recently permitted Preston to accept an invitation to participate in the recent Bluegrass Festival near Lexington as part of a country music quartet.

The quartet, known as the Charles Brothers, counted Preston as a full-time member back in 1971-72 when he was on his first parole from an armed robbery sentence. A year later, a parole violation brought Preston back "on this side of the fence."

The 10,000 spectators attending the festival at the Kentucky State Horse Farm apparently liked the quartet's sound so much that two encores were necessary before a half finally was called to their performance.

"We hadn't played together in more than two years, but I felt like we didn't really need the practice. The audience seemed to like us," said Preston.

In addition to having mastered a bevy of stringed instruments, Preston also is a songwriter of some note, with several nationally released recordings to his credit.

By far the most notable song in his collection is "Running Bear," a tune which topped the musical charts in the late 1950s. Preston both wrote and recorded the song.

"Visit Me On Sunday" and "Bad Hunch of Biscuits" won modest fame for him in the country music world in 1966.

"I'm really anxious to get back into the swing of things in country music, and that concert confirmed my feelings more than ever that it's where I belong," said Preston.

Bicentennial growing in numbers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As of August 15, there were 1,297 officially designated Bicentennial communities throughout the United States, with the number growing rapidly.

The Bicentennial Communities Program is sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and formally endorsed by the Conference of Mayors, League of Cities and the Organization of County Officials.

The aim of the program is to encourage communities of all sizes and geo-political structure to help plan and carry out projects and events which, taken together, will be the major portion of the nation's Bicentennial commemoration.

There are four simple steps a community must take to receive Bicentennial Community status:

1) Organize a Bicentennial planning and coordinating committee which represents all segments of the community.

2) Plan a program which will have at least one reminder of the special effort the community undertook for the Bicentennial commemoration.

3) Obtain approval of the program from the Chief Executive Officer or governing body of the community.

FEARLESS Forecast

September 19,

The Moon in the water sign, Scorpio, should make good fishing today and tonight. Any trees planted today or tomorrow will make a quick growth and be well rooted to stand the winter cold. If you want to stimulate your hair growth, get it cut today or tomorrow; also a good time for scalp treatments.

September 20,

A good day to pour concrete or paint a building and not too late to plant trees, if you didn't get it done yesterday. A safe day for traveling and an excellent time to start a new venture. Any advertising placed now will get results. You will get a surge of energy in the evening as the Moon sextiles Mars, so enjoy the dance and some good company.

September 21,

The Moon in Sagittarius, a good time to think about your health, the right time to have teeth extracted or have an eye test, if you need glasses, and a good day to have a physical examination, if you have been ailing. The fish won't bite while the Moon is in a fire sign, but you will have energy for other sports. The Moon squares Jupiter at noon, so don't do any gambling and be careful of your driving.

September 22,

The Moon in Sagittarius, the sign pertaining to religion astrologically, is very appropriate this morning and with the sextile between Venus and Saturn. You can expect to hear a sermon on sense of duty to parents and older persons to love thy neighbor and be thrifty. If you follow the ministers advice, you won't need a sleeping pill when you go to bed tonight.

September 23,

The Sun enters Libra early this morning, so the first day of fall is here whether you are ready or not. With the Moon in Capricorn forming a square to the Sun early this morning, you will probably awake up thinking about all the chores you put off during the summer and have some remorse, with the idea of doing better next year. On the domestic front, if you do home baking the yeast dough will rise well and taste exceptionally good, an excellent day for house cleaning.

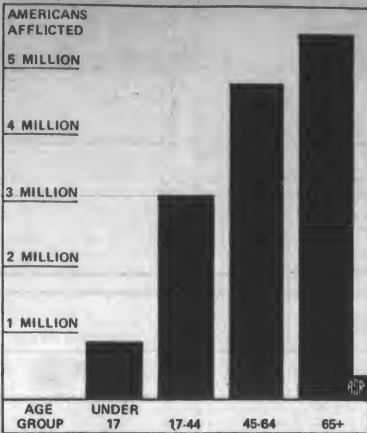

September 24,

An excellent day to collect outstanding debts and use the extra cash to make economical food purchases. If you have any money left over and want a pet this is an ideal day to make the purchase. You may encounter small difficulties at noon with the moon in opposition to Saturn, but the evening will be most pleasant, when the moon trines Venus and gives out vibrations of sociability love and affection.

September 25,

Don't be surprised if you wake up with a headache and nervous tension this morning, as the Moon is forming a square to both Uranus and then Mercury. This should pass by Noon and the Moon goes in to the fixed air sign, Aquarius at 1:00 p.m. local time. If you plan on doing any baking, have it done before noon. The afternoon would be a good time to buy an automobile or get the old one fixed up for the winter, and if you want a letter to be well received, write it this evening.

Hearing Loss Strikes All Ages

While hearing losses continue to be most prevalent among the elderly, they are by no means limited to senior citizens.

As is shown in the graph above, the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation points out that hearing impairments can—and do—strike persons of all age groups. The crusade, which is sponsored by Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, is designed to build public awareness of hearing loss problems.

Presbycusis, which is a deterioration of the nerves of the inner ear and frequently is part of the natural aging process, accounts for many of the almost 5.7 million hearing impaired individuals in the age 65 and over category.

Among persons in the 45-64 age bracket, an estimated 4.7 million suffer from hearing losses. In the age 17-44 category there are an additional 3.1 million hearing loss victims, and even among those under age 17 there are more than 800,000 persons with hearing problems.

While hearing losses, particularly among citizens under age 65, are caused by a variety of reasons, the Beltone Crusade officials point out the noise pollution so common in today's society is a major cause of hearing impairments.

There is no certain method of avoiding a hearing loss, but the crusade officials urge everyone to avoid continuous or prolonged exposure to excessive noise levels and to have an annual hearing test to determine if their hearing ability changes.

THOSE IN SERVICE

Command Sergeant Major Ralph Pitcher will become commandant of the institute, expected to graduate about 2,300 students this fiscal year alone.

The veteran of over 24 years of Army service, which began as a rifleman, sees no problem in his new assignment—although he has never held a similar position in his service career.

Among his duties as commandant,

Pitcher is responsible for administrative functions, over-seeing instructors and making the final decision in the cases of students with academic or disciplinary problems.

"One of my main jobs will be to decide if these students stay or go," said the Kentucky native.

Pitcher has previously served at Ft. Sill as command sergeant major of the 212th Field Artillery Group and of the 2nd Battalion, 37th Field Artillery.

Commander Sergeant Major Ralph Pitcher is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Pitcher of Union.

Walton Advertiser Goes Cold Type

Walton Advertiser has been converting to "cold type" process over the last three weeks. We are pleased with the new look of the paper even though we have a long way to go before we are fully satisfied. Open House was held Friday to demonstrate the new equipment and process to the Advertiser customers.

Nostalgia for by-gone days is evident in recent times. "Old Fashion Day," "Seat Day," "Marigold Festival," with Kentucky Heritage theme, "Bi-Centennial," are all recent news items in the Walton Advertiser.

But Progress is also demanding "space" in our publication, "Walton Signs Sewer Bond Issue," "Airport Opens New Modern Facilities" are some of the featured headlines in the recent newspapers.

The "Advertiser" has had a rather dramatic shove into progress, dragging our feet a wee bit, as we try to keep a toe-hold on our nostalgia. The shortage of paper, advertising geared to "cold type," printed. The newspapers are then returned to our office Wednesday, to be stamped and mailed out to our customers.

The Advertiser held open house for our advertisers Saturday, Sept. 21.

Most were amazed at the functions the computer was able to carry-out. All felt the new process was definitely a huge step forward for the "News." The freedom we now have as to number of pages, appearance, use of pictures etc., will all go toward making your Walton Advertiser a better and bigger paper in the near future.

Like all new things, we are still working the bugs out of our system and occasionally you will note mistakes and differences that may not appeal to you. We request your patience while the "computer" retrains us from old fashioned ink and machinery to clean, white-shirted cold type system operators. We are sure with the brains it has, it won't take long.

SCIENCE BUILDING OPEN SEPTEMBER 29

Northern Kentucky State College's new $7 million Science Building will officially open September 29th when the College hosts an Open House in the building for the general public.

The Open House, from 2 to 5 p.m. on the Highland Heights campus, will feature demonstrations of the modern scientific equipment housed there and scientific displays. In addition, the fifth floor of the building, which houses the NKSC Department of Music, will offer guests mini-concerts by the College Choir and Chamber Singers, a display of student art, and an opportunity to be on "TV" via a video-tape system.

At 2 p.m., a ceremony officially opening the building will be held on the plaza near the building, with college officials and area dignitaries participating.

The new building, called the "largest classroom building in Kentucky" when it was designed, houses the departments of Biological Sciences, Physical Sciences, Mathematics, Psychology, Political Science, Sociology, and Music.

The science facility has 16 laboratories, 34 classrooms, 12 research offices for faculty, a rooftop telescope for astronomy, and a rooftop greenhouse.

Planned as part of the demonstrations and exhibitions included in the tour of the building are: computer demonstrations, demonstrations of electronic instruments. Laser light demonstrations, computer-generated star charts, planetary surface models, radioactively experiments, exhibits of rocks, minerals, and fossils, filmstrips on the human body, exhibits of gene research, insect collections, and exhibits of various types of bacteria. Visitors may also see and hold a live python snake.

Area high school students toured the new facility and viewed the exhibits at a special preview for them in conjunction with a meeting of the Northern Kentucky chapter of the Kentucky Association for Progress in Science. The meeting and preview was held on campus Saturday, September 14.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Open House.

5 Hurt In VERONA CRASH

Five persons were in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital late Saturday after a two-car, head-on collision on Ky. 14 in Verona Friday night.

Boone County police said an auto driven by Rickie Stephenson, 20, of Stephenson Mill Rd., Walton, "Was apparently traveling too fast to negotiate the curve" along a stretch of Ky. 14, about eight miles northwest of Walton.

The Stephenson car was traveling east on Ky. 14 "left of the center line, completely on the wrong side of the road," police said, when it struck another auto driven by Russell Baker, 54, of 425 Mt. Zion Rd., Hebron.

In the car with Stephenson was Larry Clifton, 13, of Box 15, High St., and John Rader, 15, of 25 High St., both of Walton, police reported.

Baker's wife, Martha, 51, was the only passenger in his car. All were admitted to St. Elizabeth in fair condition with various fractures and lacerations.

NKADD ANNUAL MEETING

The future of regionalism will be the major topic of discussion at the annual meeting of the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, September 27. A dinner will precede the 8:00 P.M. meeting at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

ASCS Reminders to Kenton Farmers

The ASCS wishes to bring Kenton County Farmers up to date on the latest ASCS news by listing the following reminders:

REAP or RECP
Funds are still available for anyone wishing to do a conservation practice for fall such as building ponds or forestry practices.

WOOL
Current market prices coupled with market prospects for the balance of this year indicate that incentive payments may be required for 1974, therefore anyone having wool bills should continue to bring them to the ASCS office and sign an application for payment.

FEED GRAIN
1975 Provisions are unchanged from 1974 and are as follows: No set-aside and no conserving base requirements. May reserve allotments with conserving crops or annual non-conserving crops.

TOBACCO
Tobacco marketing cards will be issued around the 1st of November. Anyone failing to return their certification card on 10/17 will have to come to the ASCS

National League Seeks Logo

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Attention, artists—young and old, amateur and pro. The National League is seeking a logo and you can become wealthier by winning $2,500 and famous by designing a special logo for its 100th Anniversary to be celebrated in 1976, which is concurrent with the Bicentennial of the United States.

The logo will be used by the league and all its clubs as the symbol signifying the league's centennial. The National League was founded in New York on Feb. 2, 1876. A league-wide, season-long celebration for 1976 is being planned, which will include wide use of the logo.

The deadline for all artists to bring their ideas to the clubs is Dec. 1, 1974. Each team will screen the entries and submit the best five to the National League Centennial Committee, no later than Jan. 15, 1975. The winner will be selected no later than Feb. 1, 1975.

Entrants are to send their artistic thoughts, in art form, preferably finished art, to the clubs in their area—or if a person does not reside in a National League city or its immediate environs, he or she should send their art to the club closest to them.

For example, a fan living in Kentucky or Tennessee should send his entry to the Cincinnati Reds.

All entries become the property of the National League for use by the league as it sees fit. Employees of the National League, its teams, or any other team in organized baseball, the League Offices and the Commissioner's Office are not eligible.

All entries should be mailed to: Cincinnati Reds, LOGO CONTEST, 100 Riverfront Stadium, Cincinnati, Ohio

BRIARCREST BIDDLIERS

The Briarcrest Bidders held their monthly meeting Monday, September 9 at the home of the H-I leader, Mrs. Kestey.

The meeting was called to order and the second year Veterinarian Science and Horse Program books were passed out. The first chapter of the Horse Program was to be read by the next meeting.

Miss Lois Good and Mr. Charles A. Webster were married Aug. 31 at 7:30 in a candlelight ceremony. The wedding was at the home of the bride's mother at Jonestown.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Good and the late Raymond Good. She is a graduate of Grant County High School and is employed at Levi's. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Webster of Walton. He is a graduate of Walton-Vernon and is a graduate of Auctioneering School in Indiana. The couple are making their home in Walton.

Social Scene

Mrs. Margaret Hance of Sarasota, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marben of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Margaret Morrissey, Mary Jane and Michael of Edwardsville, Ill., and Mrs. David Davidson of Indianapolis, Ind., were recent guests of the Evan M. Hance family of South Main Street.

Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Charles Kinsler and Miss Virginia Beverly of Erlanger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Harper entertained with a cook-out and birthday party for their daughter, Shana Rae's second birthday.

Those who enjoyed the occasion was Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ellis and boys, Erlanger; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Greene and daughters, Florence; Miss Kelly Gullion, Napoleon; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Greene and Andrew Henry, Walton and Rick and Ronda Robison.

Shana received many gifts and congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Greene were recent visitors at Warsaw where they helped to celebrate Mrs. George Henry's 89th birthday. The Greene's report that there was 25 of the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren on hand for the occasion.

Mrs. Henry also received a phone call from one daughter and her husband in Illinois who were unable to attend. Mrs. Henry received many beautiful flowers and well wishes from the friends and relatives who attended the occasion.

Mrs. Richard Howard is a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Staffordsburg

Georgia Richardson returned home Sunday after spending a week with her daughter Evelyn Marshall and her husband, of Nicholasville.

Jessie Fisk and Alberta Ballinger visited their aunt, Edna Armstrong who has spent the summer with her daughter Georgia Felle of Campbell County and will soon be leaving for Lee Plaire, Ill. to spend the winter with her son, Lee Ray and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Brannock of Kelat are spending a few days with the D. Ballinger family and visiting other relatives.

R.F. Giles has returned home after having minor surgery.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Walton Woman's Club

Mr. John Grubbs, Guest Speaker

Mr. John Grubbs will speak at the October 2 meeting of the Walton Woman's Club at Fellowship Hall, Walton Christian Church. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Mr. Grubbs, is entering his third year as Superintendent of the Walton-Vernon School system was born and grew up in this city.

He is a graduate of Center College, Danville, and was Principal of Beechwood before he came to the Walton-Vernon District.

By discussing their experiences in an atmosphere of friendship and cordiality, members draw encouragement and specific advice from one another and are thus aided in their efforts to lose weight.

For information on the open meeting location, you may call 761-2200 in Cincinnati or if outside of Cincinnati, call 1-800-582-7026 at no charge to you.

WALTON HOMEMAKERS

The Walton Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Robert Eisenhardt of old Salem Creek Road where a lovely pot luck lunch was enjoyed by the following, Mmes: Roy Eason, Frank Penick, Gale McElroy, Leo Mynn, James Burden, Donald McMillan, Gaines Huey, John Hesterman, John Wood, Donald Rice, Harry Henson, R. C. Hinsdale, Edward Lay, Nelson Popham, Robert Eisenhardt, Paul Beighle, Mrs. Lillian Acree, Miss Rachel Acree and Mrs. Mabel Maddox.

Mrs. Robert Eisenhardt was hostess and Mrs. Nelson Popham was co-hostess. A most interesting and informative lesson on "Changing Family Life Patterns" was given by Mrs. Gaines Huey.

OAKRIDGE HOMEMAKERS

Oak Ridge Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Paul Bishop on Tuesday, September 17.

Mrs. Charles Harvey, the president gave a report of coming events, also Homemakers Newsletter. New officers were elected for 1978 coming year. Those present were Mmes Dorthea Cummins, Nettie Everman, Thelma Willenburg, Frances Gask, Lela Slaughter, Ellen Monson, Shirley Stephenson, Patti Dehnes, Bernice Fennell, Rosie Thompson, Charles Harvey, Loraine Setters, guests, Ann Bishop, Alma Yates and Shirley Talent.

Beechgrove Homakers

It was a lovely day Thursday September 19th, when thirteen members met at the home of Mrs. Pat Blanton with Mrs. Hazel Kumer as co-hostess.

"10 Commandments of Human Relations" was the devotional given by Mrs. Minnie Letcher. The meeting was all business. The same officers and club chairman will remain in their positions. Members were selected as lesson leaders to go to the various training schools listed on the Homemakers Program. Calendar books were filled out and hostess and co-hostess listed for every month.

We gratefully appreciate Mrs. Ronnie Mutch making new booklets for each of us, giving the members names, addresses, telephone numbers and other information. A very nice luncheon with a selection of desserts was enjoyed by all. It was with regret that the resignation of Mrs. MariAnn Scheper was accepted. She will be missed at future meetings.

Members present were Ruth Powers, Ronnie Mutch, Margaret Dickson, Betty Skelton, Henrietta Endres, Hazel Kumer, Pat Blanton, Ruth Kelly, Joan Ellis, Carrie Hall, Ruth Ann Andres, Minnie Letcher and Connie Schneider.

The October 17th meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alice McHale with Mrs. Ronnie Mutch as co-hostess.

Once, again, we wish to say that the Betty Crocker coupons are still being gratefully received for Riverside-Good Counsel School.

"Weight Watchers" National Month

"National Open Meeting Month" — special program designed to give weight conscious people the opportunity to learn first-hand and without charge what goes on at a Weight Watchers meeting — will be conducted in this area September 30th to October 20th.

During National Open Meeting Month people who are at least 10 pounds overweight may visit a scheduled open meeting at no cost, so that they can discover for themselves the warmth, the friendship and the understanding that prevails at these meetings.

Visitors will receive a handsomely-designed free booklet called "The Friendly Persuasion of Weight Watchers Members." At the weekly weight watchers meetings members "weigh-in" privately, participate in a meeting conducted by someone who has lost weight on the program and then discuss their own progress in shedding excess pounds.

By discussing their experiences in an atmosphere of friendship and cordiality, members draw encouragement and specific advice from one another and are thus aided in their efforts to lose weight.

For information on the open meeting location, you may call 761-2200 in Cincinnati or if outside of Cincinnati, call 1-800-582-7026 at no charge to you.

Day-old bread and baked goods may be available at considerable savings, ask or watch for them in the stores where you shop. UK Extension foods specialists suggest. They also recommend watching for specials on bread; if you have a freezer buying bread when it is "on special" and freezing it for later use can save you money.

KEENAGE GROUP

Monday, September 16, twenty-two of the Keen-agers motored to Nashville, Indiana. The quaint shops were a source of delight to each person—time being limited, many shops were not visited. The group had lunch at the Nashville House and made purchases of homemade bread at the Country Store.

On the way home, the cars stopped at Jaw Bone Sorghum Mill for molasses. It was a delightful trip.

For our October 8th meeting, we have been invited to Trinity Baptist Church, Lexington, Ky., for lunch with the retired group there. Plans are in the making to visit a glass barn and to visit Bro. Larry Cook and his church.

The following were on the Nashville Tour: Mrs. Cleo Vanlandingham, Miss Rachel Acree, Mrs. Clara Presser, Mrs. Pheltry, Mrs. Hazel Pickett, Mrs. Treasa Baker, Mrs. Shelby Acree, Mrs. Mabel Maddox, Mrs. Marie Penick, Mrs. Fanny Adams, Mrs. Jesse Hoffman, Mrs. Lila Wasson, Mrs. Leona Jump, Mrs. Elizabeth Fairchild, Mrs. Allie Williams, Mr. Clarence Banford, Dale Hattie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vance, Mrs. Gaynelle Flynn and Mrs. Lucite Neumeister.

CLOVERLEAF 4-H Club

The Cloverleaf 4-H Club will sponsor a booth at the Independence Court day Sept. 28. They have been preparing months for the occasion. They will have Terrariums, potted blooming flowers, dried floral arrangements, arts and handicrafts, stuffed toys, plus a White Elephant Sale.

Also an added attraction will be the demonstration of the Whole Stick, as seen on the Paul Dixon Show. Part of the proceeds will go to the Mucattuck Orphanage.

WHITE'S TOWER PTA

White's Tower Elementary School PTA will hold its Annual Fall Festival and Dinner on Saturday, September 28, 1974 at 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Dave Chadwick is the general chairman.

There will be a roast beef dinner served beginning at 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. Hot dogs will also be available. Prices for the dinner are adults $2 and children $1.25.

Among the games for the children are "The Gold Fish Game," "The Tic-Tac-Toe," "Lucky Sucker," and "Pepsi Ring." New this year will be a Country Store featuring handmade items and a puppet show presented by Todd Garvin, 5th grade student at White's Tower. A trip through the Spook House will also be a featured attraction.

Two Bengal Football Game tickets will be drawn and there will also be a bakery table and candy booth where goods may be purchased.

Piner Homemakers

They will enjoy studying such things as making fabric flowers, being a good mother, making pressed flower items, teaching children sexuality, Kentucky folklore, funeral arrangements, home remodeling, the metric system, physical fitness, landscaping, wardrobe recycling, personal coloring, care and safety of foods and energy conservation.

There will be some luncheon meetings at local country clubs with a style show, speech or other entertainment. Members may also plan tours of historical places during the summer months.

They had the first meeting of the year Sept. 17 in the pleasant farm home of Mrs. Frank Elliott. Twelve enthusiastic ladies helped President Mrs. Clarence Duncan plan the hostesses and lesson leaders for the coming year.

As a special treat two guest, Mrs. Gale McElroy and Mrs. Sue Gibson talked about the "Art of Patchwork." They gave instructions and showed beautiful quilts and pillows.

The members are looking forward to learning how to individualize the home on Oct. 15 at the RECC Building Nicholson. Interested members may arrive one hour early to try their hand at patchwork.

The US had 19 million people employed in farming in 1962 out of a total civilian employment of 66.7 million people. But, by 1972 agricultural employment had declined to about 4.4 million. This is not just a U.S. phenomenon. Between 1962 and 1972 agricultural employment in France declined from 3.9 to 2.6 million, in Germany from 3.3 to 2.0 million, and in Japan from 12.0 to 7.4 million. In Italy agricultural employment fell from 5.8 to 3.3 million. Spain's agricultural employment went from 4.5 to 3.5 million. Between 1961 and 1971 Greece agricultural employment declined from 1.9 to 1.4 million.

The number of people active in agriculture throughout the world will rise to 417,000,000 by 1985, according to preliminary estimates 35-year period beginning in 1950 a. 233,000,000, but the world figure hides contrasting trends in the three economic classes of countries. For the developed market economies—where both the total population and total labor force are growing at about one percent per year—the agricultural labor force is projected to decrease at an ever faster rate. By 1985 it will have fallen from 210,000,000 in 1950 to less than 100,000,000. Only 2.3 percent of the North American labor force will then be engaged in agriculture. In Western Europe the proportion will be 9.0 percent. In the developed areas of Oceania it will be 5.2 per cent, and in other developed countries 11.1 per cent. By contrast, the developing market economies are expected to witness considerable increases in the agricultural labor force. It will rise from 344,000,000 in 1950 to 499,000,000 in 1985. Although the relative importance of farming in these countries will decline, in 1985 it will still be the principal source of employment.

Ever Wondered Why Cow Jumped Over The Moon?

The social status of cows is coming in for scientific scrutiny these days. Already agricultural scientists have learned that "Boozy the Cow" is not just an affectionate title dreamed up by writers of children's literature. It's an accurate name for cows who rank highest in the bovine social register by virtue of their business. Cows, it seems, achieve "status" by literally throwing their weight around—bumping and pushing their way up the social ladder. As a matter of fact, the cow who jumped over the moon probably got it in the rear from her socially superior sister. While the cow's techniques to establish social superiority may not be quite as subtle as those used by her human counterparts, they pay off in corresponding measure. Cows with social status, for example, actually walk only about one-third as far for their food as those on the lower end of the totem pole do. They also enjoy undisputed "right of way" in certain instances, and a place of honor in others. Cows grazing in a pasture will invariably protect their eating space from those lower in the social scale. But let a cow who's above them in the social order approach, and they vacate the space without murmuring so much as a "moo-moo." When it's time to enter the milking parlor, cows organize themselves into a specific order. Ladies with status go in first. It may sound like bull, but you can lead a cow to the milking parlor and she won't go in unless she's socially superior. One scientific experiment involved a month-long training period during which cows were forced to enter in a different order.

As soon as they were allowed to enter the milking parlor without interference, the cows reverted to their original order. Cow-watchers also have learned that the bovine beasts are subject to a sort of mass psychology that leads them all to do the same thing at just about the same time. When one cow leaves a grazing area and heads for the barn or the water, the rest of the herd will follow in a few minutes. In this instance, the cows usually string out in single file, heads up, and look neither to the right nor the left. Each cow walks briskly, as if under orders, and there's no misbehavior, eating, or casual fighting in the ranks. Cows with the most status usually have the place of honor in the middle of the pilgrimage. Leading the procession are mid-dominant cows and bringing up the cow's tail are the most submissive members of the herd. What does all of this have to do with the price of milk? More than it appears. By studying the behavior patterns of dairy cattle, scientists hope to come up with new management plans to enable dairymen to get more efficient milk production and growth. While studies of animal behavioral patterns have been going on since before Aristotle's days, most of them have dealt with wild rather than domestic animals.

A new research program on group management of large animals is now under way at Utah State University in cooperation with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service. Initial studies will focus on dairy cattle, but findings also are expected to prove helpful in management of beef cattle. The first inkling that cows had a

Thursday, Sept. 26, 1974
"pecking order" similar to chickens came as early as 1893 when a boss-follower relationship was noted in Swiss cow herds. Now, with concentration of animals per farm increasing and management practices changing, animal behavior studies are becoming more important factors in improving production efficiency. One of the first problems scheduled for study in Utah is how to best group cows to facilitate management for maximum milk yields. Other questions will involve optimum group size, transfer of animals between size, transfer of animals between groups, and the amount of space needed per cow.

Contest Seeks Kentucky's Top 4-H Club Members

Ten Kentucky 4-H club members will share $1,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds in the 1974 4-H Club Award of Excellence Program sponsored by the Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. An annual public service program of the Louisville daily newspapers, the program is in cooperation with the University of Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service which assisted in its development and whose extension agents coordinate it. The participants who are selected the top 4-H boy and girl in the state will each receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. Eight runners-up — four boys and four girls — will each receive a $100 savings bond. All 10 winners, their parents and county 4-H agents will receive all-expense-paid trips to Louisville to be guests of honor at the annual Farm Awards Luncheon in March, 1974. In addition to the 10 top awards, plaques will be awarded to the boy and girl selected as the most outstanding 4-Hers in each extension area in Kentucky. Plaques will also be awarded to the top boy and girl in each county having 10 or more participants — five girls and five boys — in the program.

Certificates of merit will be awarded to the top boy and girl in each of the three competition age groups in each county. The age groups are 9-12, 13-15, and 16-19 for both boys and girls. Participants in the program will be judged on their individual academic development, moral development, civic and community development, physical development, and 4-H club activities. Judging will take place on three levels: county, extension area, and state. Participants are judged only within their own age group. The program advisory committee made an important rule change in the program this year. Previous state runners-up may now participate in the program one more time during their 4-H careers. Previous winners of the two top awards are still ineligible for further participation. Entry forms and brochures containing rules for the 4-H Club Award of Excellence Program are available at extension service offices in all Kentucky counties. The outstanding 4-H club boy in the 1973 program was Donald Thomas Prather of New Castle. The outstanding 4-H club girl for 1973 was Janet Lee Patterson of Greensburg.

Tobacco situation report issued

Although growers will harvest slightly over 1 billion pounds of tobacco this year — 15 per cent more than in 1973 — the present crop will not cover domestic use and exports, according to USDA's latest tobacco situation. Domestic manufacturers and exporters may need about 2.1 billion pounds during 1974-75. Supplies look tighter than last year, and prices to farmers have surged upward. For example, in the second week of September, flue-cured tobacco farmers were receiving an average of 16 percent above year earlier prices. Cigarette production gains here and strong demand abroad spell record use for U.S. flue-cured tobacco. Burley benefits from a world-wide surge in the manufacture of blended cigarettes. This year's flue-cured crop, estimated at 1.3 billion pounds plus carryover, add to a 2.9 billion pound supply. Manufacturers and exporters used a record 1.3 billion pounds during the year ended June 30, and the use for the present year may run about the same. The burley crop, at 576 million pounds, stands more than a quarter above 1973. The carryover dwindled, however, and the total supply for 1974-75 may be 3 per cent below the previous year.

DIVINE GUIDANCE AND CHANGING TIMES

(1 Samuel 12:13-18, 22-24)

Curly spoke these words concerning change: "Today is not yesterday. We ourselves change. How then, can our works and thoughts, if they are always to be the fittest, continue always the same? Change, indeed is painful, yet ever needful; and if memory have its force and worth, so also has hope."

We are concerned in today's lesson about changing times and God's guidance in such times. The people of Israel had settled in the land of Canaan. Following the death of Moses and Joshua, God had appointed judges to direct His government of His people. Samuel was the last of these judges. The time came when the people demanded a king like the other nations. Samuel demurred but yielded at the word of God.

Our scripture lesson relates Samuel's words to the people following their decision. Now that they have a king there are duties to perform.

Demand for Performance

Samuel calls upon the people to consider what they have done. He reminds them that they made the choice. They desired the change. Even though Samuel was convinced that the change was not God's will, he does recognize that God has allowed the change. There is an important lesson here for each of us. God has a permissive will. We make our choices and too often these choices place us in the permissive will of God. It is true that God even blesses us when we are in His permissive will. But God also has a perfect will. Blessed is the man, woman or child who finds God's perfect will and performs it.

But even if the people of Israel have strayed from God's perfect will to His permissive will, they must perform His duties or suffer the consequences. They are still to fear the Lord, and serve Him. They are to obey His voice, and not rebel against His commandment.

Samuel assures them that, failure to follow the Lord, will bring God's hand of discipline upon them. They are called upon to recall how God's hand was against their disobedient and rebellious fathers. It will not be different for them.

Did they think it possible to escape, Samuel calls upon God to demonstrate His power.

Demonstration of Power
Samuel called upon God to perform a miracle which would serve to confirm his words. He reminds them that it was the day of wheat harvest. The last rains of the season would be over. It would be most unusual for rain to come at that particular time. But Samuel asks God to send thunder and rain.

The Lord answered Samuel's request. The thunder and rain came. The people stood in reverence and awe before God. They also recognized Samuel as God's prophet. The people probably thought they would be destroyed or punished severely so Samuel rebuked them. He speaks to them of God's purpose concerning them.

Declaration of Purpose

Samuel is certain that the Lord will not forsake His people. He has this certainty on the nature of God. The phrase for his name's sake, is a reference to God's eternal purpose was to call out a people unto Himself.

Samuel further assures them that he will not cease praying for them. To know the needs of people as Samuel knew their needs, and not pray for them, would be to sin against God. Multitudes of people are lost. They need the prayers of the people of God. God's people need each other's prayers. God's strength comes to those who pray as well as to the ones prayed for.

The people will continue to have Samuel's support in his teaching and guidance ministry. He calls upon them to "fear the Lord and serve him with all of your heart, for consider how great things he hath done for you."

Israel had come to a time when change seemed to be inevitable. Did they make a mistake? Could they expect God's guidance if they had made a mistake? Samuel assures them that God will continue to be with them as long as they fear and serve Him. God's presence and blessings upon His people are not dependent upon methods, organization and traditions. God's blessings are upon those who fear, love and serve Him.

Revival, Homecoming Kenton Baptist

The Kenton Baptist Church announces the coming Revival Service Oct. 6-13. Services will begin at 7:30.

The Rev. Robert Hedaich from Cold Springs Baptist Church will be the visiting evangelist and Vernon Lybions will be leading the singing. There will be special music each service.

Sunday, Oct. 13 is Homecoming Day. The Walters family will be featured on that day at 2 p.m.

Brs. Kuriger, a former pastor, will be guest speaker in the afternoon. Dinner will be served at the church.

The community is greatly anticipating the eventful day.

BEVERLICK REVIVAL SEPT. 30- OCT. 6

Beaver Lick Baptist Church will hold a Revival on September 30 through October 6.

A special attraction will be the Revelaires Quartet from Charlotte, North Carolina. They will be performing Saturday night at 8 p.m. and Sunday morning at the 11 a.m. services.

"The Minister" Walter (Buck) Shinkler invites the public to attend.

The Revival will begin at 7:30 p.m. each night.

In Memory

KNOW WHAT SENDS MY PRESSURE UP?
It's thinking about that $250 seat—the one that was empty last Sunday.
Haven't you figured out what your seat at church is worth? Say the building—at yesterday's prices—cost roughly a hundred thousand. And there are four hundred seats. That's an investment of $250 per seat.
That's little enough for a seat occupied regularly by a person eager to worship the Lord. (Men have given their lives for the Gospel.)
But to preach Christ to an empty seat—$250 is a lot of investment in the man who isn't there! I realize my kind of arithmetic isn't likely to save souls. But it would do a lot for my blood pressure if just a few people in every congregation across the land would start thinking about that empty seat the way I do!
I don't mean the money. Just the fact that spiritual opportunities are here to be claimed ... and only when wasted do they cost us dearly.

Health Insurance Not likely in 1974

by
M. GENE SNYDER
U. S. Congressman
4th District, Kentucky

One issue that has long been a subject of great controversy in and out of Congress, is national health insurance that would cover the poor, and protect the average citizen and his family against the high costs of what now is called catastrophic illness.

For as long as I have been in the House of Representatives, there have been bills recommending one approach or another to relieve these ends. All of them would cost enormous sums. A chief difference among the various proposals has been how, and in what proportions, and by whom, those costs would be borne.

With doctors' bills, hospital charges, and all other medical expenses soaring as inflation has worsened in recent years, the cry for this kind of coverage has intensified. President Ford called for enactment this year of a national health insurance measure in his first address to Congress after taking office.

I warned that this was too great a matter to rush, in view of its importance and complexity. The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, chaired by the Honorable Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, has had jurisdiction over these health proposals. As might have been predicted, the members of that committee were unable to iron out the many differences among the several major health proposals that its leadership chose to consider in hearings that started last April. They never came up with a package they could agree on.

So Mr. Mills set aside all those proposals and drafted an entirely new one. This, too, ran into many objections and got bogged down in committee. Further consideration was postponed until after the fall recess. The committee will not get back to the health insurance issue until it completes action on the tax reform bill—not expected until the end of September. It could take longer.

It is generally agreed that even if the Ways and Means Committee could report out a health bill to the House of Representatives, no meaningful action could take place until after the November elections. The chances for such a bill's passage in a lame-duck Congress are not bright. New costs to the taxpayer are involved. Public awareness of those costs, when spelled out in a specific bill before the House, will stir up still more controversy, in my opinion.

In Mr. Mills' newest proposal, two costs would be there: A payroll tax would be levied on both employers and employees, on the first $20,000 of a worker's income in order to finance the national insurance for catastrophic illnesses. But, in addition, a worker wanting the catastrophic coverage for his own family, would first have to buy regular health insurance, sharing the annual cost of $50 with his employer. It is estimated that the Mills proposal would cost workers and employers some $7 billion a year, and the Federal Government an additional $7.3 billion a year. Since government money must come from the people, those same workers and employers must shell out for that, too. The ever present question with inflation stripping Mr. and Mrs. America right now, is, where on earth will they find the extra dollars to pay for such a program?

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

ACCESS TO WATERGATE?

I intend to support legislation to permit public access to former President Nixon's Watergate tapes and documents. Such legislation was initially considered before the Government Operations Committee, of which I am a member.

I feel the public has a right to know the full Watergate story and the facts surrounding the forced resignation of a President of the United States.

The premature pardoning of Mr. Nixon and the agreement whereby his tapes and documents will remain secret except in cases where they are subpoenaed by a court, raised the possibility that the full Watergate story would never be told.

The relevant tapes and documents should and must be made public. If we have to force public access, then Congress should do it. Mr. Nixon has been pardoned; he has not admitted guilt, and he has retained wide control over Watergate-related tapes and documents.

Mr. Nixon has received everything and the American people nothing. At a very minimum, they deserve to know all the facts—even if it comes by force of law.

I would like to take this opportunity to

HUNTERS TO HAVE CHOICE

FRANKFORT—Kentucky hunters seeking permits to construct permanent pits or blinds for waterfowl hunting at Lake Barkley this year will have a special opportunity to get the hunting location of their choice.

On October 1, from 9 to 9 a.m., at the Lake Barkley Resource Manager's Office at Barkley Dam, applicants for pit and blind permits can take part in a special drawing to determine the order of blind registration.

The drawing, which will close promptly at 9 a.m., will be followed by registration in which hunters with the lowest numbers will receive first choices of location.

All applicants for pit and blind permits must show a valid Kentucky hunting license to the registration clerk before a permit will be issued.

Hunters who miss out on the special October 1 drawing will be registered on a "first come — first served" basis, as in years past, with registration for permits held at the Resource Manager's Office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays, from October 1 through December 31. The office is located at Barkley Dam, off highways U.S. 61 and U.S. 62.

A permit will be issued for each permanent blind or pit, and only one permit will be issued per hunter. All pits and blinds must be 100 yards apart and 200 yards from any refuge area.

Hunting will be permitted along both shores of Lake Barkley except on recreation areas, access points and refuges. Waterfowl hunting along the western shore will be confined to those areas below the 359 elevation and those areas within 25 yards of the 359 elevation line.

Refuges closed to all hunting, fishing and boating are the area between Hayes Landing Light at river mile 31 and Crooked Creek light at river mile 57, on the west side of the main channel, and the area surrounded by a levee between river mile 68.4 and river mile 70.4. The first area will be closed from November 1 through February 15, the second area from October 1 through February 28.

LOAN RESOLUTION 40
(Public Bodies)

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY, AUTHORIZING AND PROVIDING FOR THE INCURRENCE OF INDEBTEDNESS FOR THE PURPOSE OF PROVIDING A PORTION OF THE COST OF ACQUIRING, CONSTRUCTING, ENLARGING, IMPROVING, AND/OR EXTENDING ITS SANITARY SEWER TREATMENT FACILITY SYSTEM TO SERVE AN AREA LAWFULLY WITHIN ITS JURISDICTION TO SERVE.

WHEREAS, it is necessary for the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky (hereinafter called the association) to raise a portion of the cost of such undertaking by issuance of its bonds in the principal amount of Eight Hundred Twenty Thousand and no/100 pursuant to the provisions of Kentucky Revised Statutes.

WHEREAS, the association intends to obtain assistance from the Farmers Home Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, (hereinafter called the Government) acting under the provisions of the consolidated Farmers Home Administration Act of 1961, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1921 et seq.) in the planning, financing, and supervision of such undertaking and to purchase the bonds lawfully issued, in the event that no other acceptable purchaser for such bonds is found by the association:

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises the association hereby resolves:

1. It has prepared on its behalf and to adopt an ordinance or resolution for the issuance of its bonds and containing such items and in such forms as are required by STATE statutes and as are agreeable and acceptable to the Government.

2. To provide for a public sale after due advertisement of such bonds in a manner consistent with applicable State statutes and acceptable to the Government.

3. To refinance the unpaid balance, in whole or in part, of its bonds upon the request of the Government if at any time it shall appear to the Government that the association is able to refinance its bonds by obtaining a loan for such purposes from responsible cooperative or private sources at reasonable rates and terms for loans for similar purposes and periods of time as required by section 233 (c) of said Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act (7 U.S.C. 1983(c)).

4. To provide for, execute, and perform with Form FHA 400-4, "Nonrecognition Agreement", and Form FHA 100-1, "Equal Opportunity Agreement", including an "Equal Opportunity Clause", which clause is to be incorporated in, or attached as a rider to each construction contract and subcontract involving in excess of $10,000.

5. To indemnify the Government for any payment made or losses suffered by the Government on behalf of the association.

6. That upon default in the payments of any principal and accrued interest on the bonds or in the performance of any covenant or agreement contained herein or in the instruments incident to making or insuring the loan, the Government, at its option may (a) declare the entire principal amount, or interest thereon, or accrued interest immediately due and payable, (b) for the account of the association incur and pay reasonable expenses for repair, maintenance, and operation of the system and such other reasonable expenses as may be necessary to cure the cause of default, and/or (c) take possession of the system, repair, maintain, and operate or rent it. Default under the provisions of this Resolution or any instrument incident to the making or insuring of the loan may be construed by the Government to constitute default under any other instrument held by the Government and assumed by the association, and default under any such instrument may be construed by the Government to constitute default hereunder.

7. Not to sell, transfer, lease, or otherwise encumber the system or any portion thereof, or interest thereon, nor permit others to do so, without the prior written consent of the Government.

8. Not to borrow any money from any source, enter into any contract or agreement, or incur any other liability or obligation, including the making of enlargements, improvements or extensions to, or for any other purpose in connection with, the system (exclusive of normal maintenance) without the prior written consent of the Government.

9. To place the proceeds of the bonds on deposit in an account, in a bank, and in a manner approved by the Government.

10. To comply with all applicable State and Federal laws and regulations and to continually operate and maintain the system in good condition.

11. To provide for the receipt of adequate revenues to meet the requirements of debt service operation and maintenance, and the establishment of adequate reserves. No free service or use of the system will be permitted.

12. To acquire and maintain such insurance coverage including fidelity bonds as may be required by the Government.

13. To establish and maintain such books and records relating to the operation of the system and its financial affairs and to provide for the annual audit thereof in such a manner as may be required by the Government, to provide the Government with its request copy of such audit, and to make and forward to the Government such additional information and reports as may from time to time require.

14. To provide the Government at all reasonable times access to all books and records relating to the system and access to the property of the system so that the Government may ascertain that the association is complying with the provisions hereof and of the instruments incident to the making or insuring of the loan.

15. To serve any applicant within the service area who desires service and can be feasibly and legally served, and to obtain the concurrence of the Farmers Home Administration prior to refusing service to such applicant.

The provisions hereof and the provisions of the instruments incident to the making or insuring of the loan, unless otherwise specifically provided by the terms of such instruments, shall be binding upon the association as long as the bonds are held or insured by the Government. The provisions of sections 1 through 13 hereof may be provided for in more specific detail in the bond resolution or ordinance; to the extent that the provisions contained in such bond resolution or ordinance shall be found to be inconsistent with the provisions hereof, these provisions shall be construed as controlling as between the association and the Government.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, has duly adopted this Resolution and caused it to be executed by the officers below in duplicate on this 10th day of September, 1974.

CERTIFICATION
I, the undersigned, as City Clerk of the City of Walton, Kentucky, hereby certify that the City Council of such Association or Corporation is composed of six (6) members, of whom four (4), constituting a quorum, were present at a meeting thereof duly called and held on the 10th day of September, 1974; that the foregoing resolution was adopted at such meeting by the vote shown above; and that said resolution has not been rescinded or amended in any way.

Dated, this 10th day of September, 1974

Anna Mae Simpson
City Clerk, City of Walton, Kentucky

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY

A regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, was held at the regular meeting place of said City Council at the City Hall in said City at 7:00 P.M., E.S.T., on September 10, 1974.

Mayor Samuel Gamble presided, and the following duly qualified and acting members of the City Council were present:

D. Hess Vest
G. Kyle Nicholson
David Peebles
Roscoe J. Denney
Jack E. Norris
Byron A. Kent

The City Clerk, Anna Mae Simpson, was also present and duly recorded the Minutes of the Meeting.

Thereupon, it was moved by Mr. Kent, seconded by Mr. Norris, and unanimously carried that the following Resolution be adopted:

RESOLUTION 41
RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY, APPROVING: EXECUTION OF AMENDED LEGAL SERVICES AGREEMENTS WITH JOHN A. HARTMAN AS LOCAL COUNSEL AND RUBIN & THAUTWEIN AS BOND COUNSEL.

Whereas, John A. Hartman, Attorney at Law, 21 North Main Street, Walton, Kentucky, and the firm of Rubin & Thautwein, 300 Firstside Building, Louisville, Kentucky, recognized Municipal Bond Counsel, have each submitted to the City Council a form of Amended Legal Services Agreement, by which they would agree to act as Attorneys for the City in the preparation of all legal proceedings and the rendering of all legal services necessary to accomplish the financing and construction of a certain project for the City, consisting of a new sewer system, including both the services normally rendered by Bond Counsel and the services normally rendered by Local Counsel, and all related work, all as set out in said respective Amended Legal Services Agreements, which Agreements are deemed to be for the best interest of the City.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of Walton, Kentucky, on behalf of said City, that said City Council accept and approve each of said Amended Legal Services Agreements, and that the Mayor and the City Clerk be and they are hereby authorized to execute each of said Amended Legal Services Agreements on behalf of said City, a copy of each of which Agreements is attached to the minutes of the meeting at which this Resolution is adopted and is made a part hereof as if copied in full herein.

Thereupon, the Mayor declared that said Resolution had carried and he directed that the Amended Legal Services Agreement between the City and John A. Hartman, Local Counsel, and the Amended Legal Services Agreement between the City and Rubin & Thautwein, Bond Counsel, be executed on behalf of the City by the Mayor and the City Clerk.

Whereupon, each of such Amended Legal Services were duly executed.

The foregoing Minutes were then read by the City Clerk, and no correction being found necessary, it was moved, seconded and unanimously carried that they be approved as read and ordered signed, as provided by law. Thereupon, the Mayor and the City Clerk signed said Minutes with the approval of the members present when the meeting was held.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, it was moved, seconded and unanimously carried that the meeting be adjourned.

Whereupon, the meeting was adjourned.

FEARLESS

by R. W. Lancaster
September 26.
The Moon will be in the fixed air sign Aquarius making good aspects. The next few days would be a good time to plan a weekend trip, safe traveling is indicated through Sunday night. The Moon making a trine to Mars this morning will give you a spurt of energy to start your journey. If you have any legal matters hanging, today or tomorrow would be an ideal time to get them completed.

September 27.
Today would be a good time to look for new transportation or get the old car fixed up for the winter, also start planning how to store your boat or travel trailer and don't forget to drain all the water. An excellent time to get a bargain from a disinclined hooter or camper if you have the storage facilities. If you have trouble with your feet try by shoe shoes today or tomorrow for a good fit.

September 28.
The Moon went into the water sign Pisces early this morning so you can plan on some good fishing through Sunday night. If you want your hair to grow back fast and thick to cover the bald spots get it cut today, also a good time to take treatments to stimulate growth. The Moon squares Neptune in mid-afternoon, so you might get a big disappointment.

Cheap Drugs

Threaten

Medicare

HEW's bargain drug policy may harm the health of the old and the poor, charges an editorial in the September Private Practice. This despite the fact that the policy's scientific basis has been shown to be mythical.

In December 1973, notes the journal of socio-economic medicine published by the Congress of County Medical Societies, HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger announced the new program. HEW would reimburse Medicare and Medicaid patients for only the cheapest drug available — usually a so-called generic one, rather than a brand name pharmaceutical. The HEW directive was based on the notion that chemically equivalent drugs — no matter the cost or the lack of quality controls in their manufacture — are therapeutically equivalent.

This is not true for many reasons, including pH stability, purity, coating, rate of absorption, and rate of deterioration. The recent recall of some manufacturers' digoxin is only the most recent example.

"Current standards and regulatory practices do not assure bioequivalence for drug products," states a report issued by the Senate Health Sub-committee on the subject.

"Not only may the products of different manufacturers vary, but the product of a single manufacturer may vary from batch to batch or may change during storage," the report continued.

The report was a serious and objective one. But typically, the facts made no impression on the Washington bureaucracy. Undaunted by the scientific findings of the Office of Technology Assessment, Weinberger has pledged to press ahead with his program to reimburse Medicare and Medicaid patients for only the lowest cost drugs. HEW Assistant Secretary Dr. Charles Edwards, while praising the OTA report has said it represents no obstacle to the HEW plans, which are based on the notion that cheap products are equal to more expensive ones, thus applying says "Private Practice" editor Llewellyn H. Rockwell, Jr., "a standard to the health of the American people that he would hesitate to use when buying Scotch or golf balls."

Colonels work for open date

RICHMOND—A week free from having to practice for a scheduled game is usually spent nursing injuries and, generally, slacking off from the hitting and drills which accompany a regular week of practice.

"We're going to try and make up for lost time when we missed so many days because of rainy weather," said Kidd. "We will be working hard on our kicking game and several fundamentals which did not receive enough work before our opener against Dayton. We just hope the weatherman cooperates."

Eastern saw a 17-16 lead evaporate midway through the final period when Dayton quarterback Tom Voshberg hit flanker Doug Kastliahn with a 27-yard scoring pass to give the Flyers a 23-17 victory.

"We were satisfied with the effort our kids gave, although, overall we did not have a sharp game. Maybe we wanted to win the game so much, we became tight and didn't execute as well as we should," said Kidd.

Statistics showed that EKU outrushed Dayton 211-150 and had 16 first downs to the Flyers' 11. But the Colonels were only able to convert two of 15 third down situations.

Statistics showed that EKU outrushed Dayton 211-150 and had 16 first downs to the Flyers' 14. But the Colonels were only able to convert two of 15 third down situations.

"You have to convert at least 60 per cent of those situations if you expect to win," said Kidd.

The Colonels' defense, led by senior middle guard Stan Roberts' six tackles and nine assists, held Dayton's Walt Wingard, who had rushed for 149 yards in the Drake game, to just 83 yards in 24 carries.

"Our defense did a good job taking away the game from them, except in the latter part of the game when they were able to get outside with some success," noted Kidd.

Besides Roberts, other individuals commended for outstanding play were sophomore guard Joe Alvino, junior tackle Robyn Hatley and sophomore tailback Everett Talbert. Alvino and Hatley both blocked winning football (70 per cent success or more), while Talbert rushed for 140 yards in 24 carries and scored touchdowns on runs of 50 and 14 yards.

EKU hosts the ETSU Bucs Sept. 28 in a 2 p.m. Parents Day-Band Day contest at Hanger Field. Tickets for the Colonels' five-game Excitement '74 home season are on sale at the EKU Athletic Ticket Office.

"UP WITH PEOPLE" Coming to Northern Ky.

One of the three international casts of the "Up With People Show" known on six continents, is coming to Northern Kentucky State College, to perform on October 4 and 5 at 8:00 p.m. in Regents Hall.

The all-new 1974-75 Up With People Show is just that — all new. After a month of staging and rehearsals, bursting from the stages with the flair and spirit that have entertained millions around the world. Even if you've seen Up With People before, you'd better see it again — it's a whole new trip!

The Up With People show is a two-hour kaleidoscope of contemporary music — rock, jazz, country, and folk — with choreographed staging. It puts 130 performers on stage at once, young men and women from all over the United States and 11 other countries, white, black, red and yellow, bringing together a hundred different backgrounds and points of view. Along with an instrumental combo of guitars, drums, and funky brass, they put on a show that has brought in rave reviews from an assortment of critics in an assortment of places.

Up With People is an independent, nonprofit, educational corporation. The students in the three casts include a large number of students who are taking their first year of university studies in a program operated through the University of Arizona; others are completing their senior year of high school. The students are accompanied by their professors, and the daily program is organized around a wide variety of learning experiences.

The "Daily Express" in London, reviewing the show, wrote: "They're black and white and Buddhist and Catholic and slant-eyed and crinkly-haired and they're young and they're beautiful. More than anything, they believe in the future."

The Up With People show is a happening that shouldn't be missed — an exciting and unique experience in communication and entertainment.

National Beauty Salon Week

October 7-13 is National Beauty Salon Week. Stop by and see your favorite hairdresser to give her a lift and make an appointment and get a lift. Either way she will be delighted to hear from you. Your hairdresser does it better.

RUSSIAN FESTIVAL ON ICE, OCT. 15

For the past 14 years, the loud and enthusiastic applause of over 8,000,000 people all over the world has greeted "The Ukrainian Festival On Ice," one of the most popular ice spectacles in the Soviet Union for its unusual combination of folk dancing, ballet, and ice skating skills. Since 1960, the Kiev-based ensemble has given over 1500 performances across the Soviet Union and has made visits to other countries, often more than once, to much acclaim.

"The Ukrainian Festival On Ice" opens at Cincinnati Gardens beginning Tuesday, October 15 through Sunday, October 20 for 8 performances.

What is now a lavish and thoroughly professional skating and dance presentation started modestly, through enthusiasm, when initial ads were placed in newspapers announcing for a new ice show.

Over 2000 men and women were screened, but only 50 were selected. Work began as those who were expert skaters were coached in dance technique, and those who were dancers were taught the fine art of skating. Some even started from scratch.

At all times it was stressed that all members of the burgeoning troupe be aware of music, and how to interpret that music on ice.

Eventually, all the hard work made its mark, and created for the Ukrainian Republic of the U.S.S.R. a unique and valued institution.

Abroad, the ensemble has met with great acclaim in Poland (4 visits), Czechoslovakia, Finland (3 visits), Yugoslavia, Mexico, Germany, Romania and Bulgaria.

Within the company's repertoire, one can find a number of different styles, in one evening the 100-member troupe presents a full length folk tale with story taken from ancient folk tales, a vibrant and athletic Cossack dance, solo and pair work by Soviet champions, lavish production numbers featuring motifs from Russian history, and outstanding acrobatic and tumbling work.

With its current visit to the U.S. and Canada, "The Ukrainian Festival On Ice" makes its North American debut, presented by Edward M. Crowley by arrangement with the U.S.S.R. Sports Committee.

Tickets for the Festival are on sale at Cincinnati Gardens Box Office and all Ticketron Outlets.

Toastmistress Month

Mrs. Barbara Gianietto

Toastmistress Month in October is being proclaimed in honor of International Toastmistress Clubs throughout the world, wherever a Toastmistress Club has been organized. There are clubs in each of the fifty United States and twenty-five foreign countries, each club adhering to International Toastmistress bylaws.

The De La Dama Toastmistress began their sixth year fall session under the presidency of Mrs. Barbara Gianietto, charter member of the local club. The club meets each second and fourth Thursdays at 6:30 P.M. Visitors are welcome to call 331-3778 for reservation.

International Toastmistress Clubs is a non-profit educational organization which places primary emphasis upon a four-point program including proficiency in communication, leadership training, skill in organizational technique and self-development. These goals are attained by active participation in individual clubs, councils, regions and ITC. Applications are accepted from persons in all walks of life, housewives, business or persons interested in community affairs.

The ultimate objective of Toastmistress is the development of the individual so she may be better equipped to give service to her family, her community, her nation and throughout the world. Toastmistress members learn by doing. Opportunities are available to preside at meetings, formulate policies, prepare bylaws, record minutes, learn the basics of record keeping and plan programs which are stimulating to the membership. Members learn how to work with the press, parliamentary law and how to understand and foster good public relations at home and abroad.

Only by attending a Toastmistress meeting can a person come to understand how Toastmistress training can help to educate members gradually and with enjoyment. How would you rate if asked to plan an agenda, conduct a meeting, hold an office, record minutes, evaluate program effectiveness, serve as parliamentarian, present an award, be a convention delegate? Toastmistress can help you. Toastmistress can develop the potential inherent in every individual.

De La Dama Toastmistress presently holds dinner meetings at the Hofbrau Haus on Dixie Highway. Make reservations for any or all of the following dates: October 10th, October 24th, November 14th. Membership Chairman is Mrs. Trula Donohoo, 5 Yager Court, Erlanger, Kentucky 41018, or you may call 341-1795.

A most cordial invitation is extended to persons of this community to attend and meet members who because of their experience are dedicated to Toastmistress.

Social Studies Council Dixie Heights Oct. 5

The Northern Kentucky Social Studies Council will sponsor a program entitled "Interaction of Ideas in Social Studies" on Saturday, October 5, at 10 a.m. at Dixie Heights High School in Ft. Mitchell.

Brief presentations, followed by small group discussions, will be conducted by a number of Northern Kentucky Social Studies teachers in the elementary, junior and senior high school levels.

All area teachers interested in new materials, curricula, and interesting ideas related to Social Studies are urged to attend. For further information, contact Dr. Warren Corbin, Department of Education, Northern Kentucky State College, 781-2600.

Art Museum Fall Opening

The Cincinnati Art Museum's 88th Season begins with the annual Fall Opening for the public on October 5. The featured exhibition, "Masterpieces of American Painting" lent by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, is made up of thirty-two 18th and 19th century works, and will be shown through November 10.

The exhibition will be the first installed by Millard F. Rogers, Jr., who took over as Director of the Museum on September 1, and is himself an authority on American art. It has been arranged with the assistance of Richard J. Boyle, Director of the Pennsylvania Academy and former Curator of Painting at the Art Museum.

The Art Museum is open with free admission from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays. Brochures describing the 1974-75 season and listing special privileges for Museum members and their families also are free to the public at the information desk, or will be sent on request by calling 721-5204.

W-V Boosters Club

On October 3, 1973 the Walton-Verona Boosters Club will sponsor a get acquainted evening at the high school. The evening activities will start at 7:30, with an inter-squad game in which the varsity and reserve basketball players will participate. After the scrimmage, we will all go down to the cafeteria for refreshments and conversation.

The main purpose in having the activity is for the parents, coaches, sponsors, teachers, and friends of the school to get acquainted.

We all have something in common — your children. With this as a common interest we should all pledge ourselves and our energies to helping to provide the best of all possible situations.

I feel and have always felt that understanding and a spirit of cooperation will always bring forth good results.

We will at all times during the year try our best to provide for your children the best program possible. What we ask is that you as parents and friends help us out by coming to this activity so we may both work together in our common interest — helping the kids.

To Speak at Kenton Co. Farm Bureau

E. W. Kesler

E. W. Kesler, assistant executive secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker at the Kenton County Farm Bureau annual meeting.

The event is scheduled to be held at the Twenhofel Junior High School, Independence, at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, October 10.

Kenton County Farm Bureau ranks fifth in membership of all the state farm bureaus with over 154,000 members throughout the 120 counties. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau which has 49 state member organizations, plus Puerto Rico, and a combined membership of more than 2,300,000 farm families.

Menke Family 5 Generations

Front Row (L to R): Ben Menke, first generation. Standing behind Mr. Menke, his daughter, Virginia Hempling, second generation. Next to Mrs. Hempling her daughter, Genna Lou Murray, third generation. Seated in front of Mr. Murray, her son Buddy, fourth generation and his son Adam Shawn, fifth in the Ben Menke line.

W-V High School Holds Event in New Building

The Student Council of Walton-Verona is sponsoring a "Gospel Sing" Saturday, October 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the new gymnasium.

The Gospel Sing is the first event to take place in the new facilities. The Walton-Verona Physical Education facility was dedicated Sept. 15 and is located adjacent to the Walton-Verona High School. The buildings are connected by a covered walkway and bus loading area. Separating the two buildings allows for complete use of the new facility by the school system and the community.

Boone County Library Reception

The friends of Boone County Library cordially invite all citizens of Boone County to come and view the facilities of the Boone County Library on Sunday, October 6th, from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. The library is located at 2 Girard Street in Florence.

The Friends of Library is a newly formed organization and will hold regular meetings after the library is officially open. This group will be planning such activities as children's reading hour, library advice to adults, guest speakers and other activities that will benefit the library. Anyone interested in becoming a member of this organization may call Mrs. Roy Nestor at 371-5826.

In the meantime please plan to attend the library reception and see what is available to all Boone Counties.

Boone County Farm Bureau To Meet

The Boone County Farm Bureau annual meeting will be held at Boone Air County Club on Friday, October 11, at 7:00 p.m. Reservations accompanied by $5.00 per plate will be accepted at the office through Monday, October 8.

Some of the featured singers are The Lawson Family, The Singing Hudsons and The Carpenter Family.

There is a pre-sale of tickets, which may be purchased from any member of the Student Council. Children under 6 are free. Tickets may also be purchased the night of the performance at the auditorium.

UNICEF Halloween

This little orange-and-black UNICEF box will be a familiar sight on Halloween when millions of youngsters ring America's doorbells to request help for needy children in the developing world. A nickel dropped in a UNICEF carton can feed five malnourished African children. A dime covers two youngsters of trachoma. A quarter buys exercise books for eight poverty-stricken Asian or Latin American school children anxious to learn. With our help at Halloween UNICEF can do a world of good for all the world's children.

World Wide Communion

World-Wide Communion will be observed Sunday, October 6. You are cordially invited to attend the church of your choice for this occasion.

V.F.W. Leaders Make Official Visit

The Ninth District Veterans of Foreign Wars Commander, Mr. Stanley Meyers, and Ladies Auxiliary President, Mrs. Betty Bolser will make their official visit and inspection at the Boone County Memorial Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6099 on October 9 at 8 p.m. at the post in Union, Ky.

The Boone County V.F.W. Post will be host at the Ft. Thomas V.A. Nursing Home in October.

Walton-Verona High Attends EKU Day

Eastern Kentucky University on Saturday (Sept. 29) featured band day, parents day and Columbia football.

More than 40 high schools bands were led by EKV's Model Laboratory School, in a parade from the campus through downtown Richmond.

Later, the high school musicians, numbering about 4,500 played in a massed band concert on Hanger Field during the halftime of the football game between the EKV Colonels and the East Tennessee State University Buccaneers, beginning at 2 p.m.

In honor of the special day, EKV students bought tickets to the football game in advance for their parents at half price. Following the game, parents were guests at receptions and open houses in several dormitories.

Many high school bands participated in the parade, including Walton-Verona.

ADA Meeting

Dairy farmers from this area will hold their annual district meeting, October 22, at the Henry County Fair Building in New Castle. John H. Smith is chairman of the meeting.

Activities will start with a 7:00 p.m. (local time) dairy buffet for all dairymen and their families. A general session will follow with a welcome from the county host, introduction of dairy princess candidates, a report on "How Dairy Wives Promote 'Real' Dairy Products" by a member of the Ada Executive Committee, and a talk on "A New and Exciting Approach—Milk is a Natural" by Frank C. Carpenter, ADA Manager, and Robert W. Baase, Coordinator. A discussion period and election of an ADA Board Member for a two-year term will follow.

Highlights of the meeting include presentation of the district Ada Scholarship Award and the coronation of the district dairy princess.

Ada officers who will be speaking at the various districts this year include Mrs. H. H. Barlow, Jr., Cave City, president; Mrs. John Smith, Smithfield, first vice president; Mrs. Paul McCarthy, Jeffersontown, second vice president; and Mrs. J. L. Coots, Finchville, secretary-treasurer. The local Ada Chairman is Mrs. John Smith.

Door prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the meeting.

National Fire Prevention Week Begins Sunday, October 6

On Sunday, October 6, Fire Prevention Week begins throughout the United States.

The Campbell County Fire Fighters Educational Association and its member departments will put on demonstrations at the Veterans Administration Nursing Home, South Ft. Thomas Avenue, Ft. Thomas, at 2 p.m.

There will be 15 Fire Departments represented, and several evolutions on fire suppression and rescue will be performed. These departments are from: Alexandria, Bellevue, Camp Springs, Cold Springs-Crestview, Dayton, Ft. Thomas, Highland Heights, Melbourne, Newport, Eastern Campbell County and Southern Campbell County, Silver Grove, Southgate, Wilder and Woodlawn.

Veterans Counselor

Mr. Ben K. Hall, a Veterans Counselor of the Department for Human Resources, Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs, will be present Oct. 9, 1974 at the Court House in Burlington, to assist veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service. He will be present from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Court House, Warsaw.

The general public is invited to view the performances and display.

Rescue and emergency squads will be on display and the public is invited to view same and ask about the use of the types of equipment.

Ky. Medical Association Elects New President

Hoyt D. Gardner, M.D.

Hoyt D. Gardner, M.D., a general surgeon from Louisville, Kentucky, was elected the 121st President of the Kentucky Medical Association at its annual session being held in Louisville. Doctor Gardner, who was elected by the House of Delegates for this high honor, succeeds Fred C. Rainey, M.D., Elizabethtown.

In addition to this most recent honor, Doctor Gardner was elected in June as a member of the Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association and in July of this year was chosen Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the University of Louisville.

Doctor Gardner, a native of Arkansas and a 1960 graduate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, has practiced in Louisville since 1957. Currently he is Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery at U of L. One of medicine's most outspoken orators for physician involvement in political and civic affairs, Doctor Gardner served 12 years as Chairman for National Affairs of the KMA Committee on Legislative Activities and served a two-year term as Chairman of the American Medical Political Action Committee.

He is a past President of the Jefferson County Medical Society and has also been Chairman of the Louisville and Jefferson County Board of Health where he has given innumerable hours toward helping to provide better health care facilities for this area.

A Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery and a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, Doctor Gardner is a member of the Kentucky and Southeastern Surgical Societies.

Walton Advertiser—Walton, Kentucky Local Teen-agers Invited To Enter Miss Kentucky Teen-ager Pageant

Young ladies of this area are invited to enter the 4th Annual Miss Kentucky Teen-ager Pageant to be held at the Continental Inn, Lexington, Kentucky, March 21, 22, and 23, 1975. The Miss Kentucky Teen-ager Pageant is the Official State Final to the MISS NATIONAL TEEN-AGER PAGEANT to be held in Atlanta, Georgia, in August 1975.

The reigning Miss Kentucky Teen-ager is Cindy Isen of Greenup. Cindy has been the recipient of many honors since being crowned Miss Kentucky Teen-ager.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement-leadership; poise-personality; and beauty. There is NO swimsuit or talent competition. Each contestant will be required to recite a 100 word speech of her own composition on the subject, "What's Right About America."

Miss Kentucky Teen-ager 1975 will receive a scholarship, other prizes, and an all expense paid trip to the National Pageant in Atlanta for one week where all 50 states and the District of Columbia will compete for the title. Miss National Teen-ager 1975 is Lisa Lyons of Port Richey, Florida. Lisa won a $3,500.00 Cash Scholarship and a new car as two of her prizes.

Any teen-ager 13-17 years of age interested in entering the Miss Kentucky Teen-ager Pageant may write for further information to Mrs. Donna Forrest, P.O. Box 10162, Charleston, S.C. 29411; or call 803-571-2032.

"HAPPY HEARTS"

Mr. Russell "Coke" Hall is a frequent visitor of the Happy Hearts Senior Citizens noon meal at Walton Christian Church. The meal is sponsored by Senior Citizens of Northern Ky., Inc.

Pastor Nathaniel Simpson of Immanuel Baptist Church, Burlington, and his wife, Phyllis, were guests of the "Happy Hearts" Senior Citizens, meeting September 26.

The Pastor plays the guitar and he and his wife entertained the members with several hymns. He later gave a devotional to the group of over 50.

Among the guests were Wayne Rice, Burnadette Powers, Bill Duchimen, Mary Piner, Russell Hall, Nora Utz, George and Edna Brooks, Edward Perkins, Beulah Smith (who prepares the tables each day) and Senior Citizens of Northern Kentucky Inc. Representative, Sue Powell.

Miss Powell would like to stress the need at this time for local volunteers which are desperately needed to help with transportation for the over 60's who otherwise may not be able to come in for the Hot noon meal served most weekdays. The members all live LOCALLY and perhaps some of our churches in town might endeavor to encourage their members to participate in this worthwhile charitable act of providing the needed transportation. The time involved is minimal and would be greatly appreciated by these people.

Future scheduled speakers at the "Happy Hearts" meetings are a representative from Bell Telephone who will present the film "Life and Legend of Northern Kentucky", Tuesday October 8.

On October 15 there will be a presentation on "Home Health" by the Visiting Nurse Association representatives Loretta Hall and Leslie Meyer.

For further information as to how you can participate in the "Happy Hearts" group, Phone 485-4591 each Thursday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The "Happy Hearts" meet most weekdays at the Walton Christian Church.

The September meeting of the Piner Clever Clover 4-H Club was held at the home of Dexter LaFollette.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Scott Parker. The members welcomed a new member, Geri Chapman. Pledges to the flags were led by Doug Smith.

A report of the Kentucky State Fair Variety Show was given. All members and leaders enjoyed the trip to the State Fair. The club has been asked to perform at the County Recognition Banquet, which will be held sometime in October.

All members took part in the Kenton County Fair by exhibiting many projects and receiving many ribbons. COMMISSIONER

Wendell P. Butler,
Commissioner of Agriculture

One of this country's fine youth organizations is being honored the week of October 6 through the observance of "National 4-H Week."

Over 5 million boys and girls are members of 4-H in the 50 states, District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Here in Kentucky more than 133,000 rural and urban youths hold membership in 4-H clubs.

The theme for this year's observance is

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK
October 6-12

With the many problems we face as a nation it is refreshing to see our young people ready and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism has always been an admirable quality of American youth. Their vigor inspires all of us to do a better job in coping with our problems.

Youthful exuberance combined with the guidance and experience of adults provides an unbeatable combination. The results of that cooperation are evident in the 4-H program.

We salute the combined efforts of 4-H'ers and their leaders "to make the best better" on the occasion of 1974 National 4-H Week October 6-12.

The theme of the annual observance is "We Can Make It Happen." Those five words emphasize the commitment and cooperation of nearly 5.3 million youths and 560,000 volunteer leaders working together to solve common problems. With their enthusiasm and energy in all 50 states Puerto Rico and Washington DC, 4-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources. The youths work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production, and help improve health and nutrition habits of the community. In the process, the 4-H'ers develop good citizenship, and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life.

Youthful enthusiasm and energy, combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose—that's the 4-H story in 1974. And we support the efforts of 4-H'ers, their parents, their leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

And we would encourage our young readers, who have plenty of enthusiasm and our adult readers who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to get involved in 4-H and help "make it happen."

Information on 4-H programs and activities in the area can be obtained from the county extension service office or state 4-H office.

BUTLER LOOKS AT Agriculture

"We Can Make It Happen." For many years now the 4-H Club program has been giving boys and girls an opportunity to conduct projects, develop leadership skills and to learn the principles of good citizenship.

I understand that today, about 31 percent of the membership in 4-H is comprised of rural youths, with the remainder coming from small towns and urban areas. This is a major change from a few years ago when 4-H was mainly a rural-oriented organization.

As the membership percentage implies, urban youths now have the opportunity of participating in 4-H and getting the benefits which membership in the organization provides. Although we often think of 4-H projects as dealing with crops or livestock there are many more projects areas in which 4-H members can become involved. Urban youths can select from a wide range of projects, including foods, clothing, photography, etc.

One of the things about 4-H which I like is the fact that it serves many young people who otherwise could never enjoy the benefits of membership in a training leadership type organization. This applies to urban areas as well as rural communities. These benefits as I mentioned earlier, include such things as the knowledge and training that come from the carrying out of a project and the development of leadership skills.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture conducts a number of programs in which 4-H Club members participate. These include the district dairy, beef, swine and sheep shows, the soil judging contest, plus a number of events at the Kentucky State Fair.

Regardless of whether the member is participating in an event sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, an individual project, or a club project, I believe he or she will be a better citizen for having had the experience of being a 4-H club member.

COUNTY AGENT'S 1/2 ACRE

In these days when the emphasis is on environmental and consumer protection, it is encouraging to know that the regulation of pesticides by our Governmental agencies has set a standard of excellence the world over. A pesticide is a chemical used to control insects, plant diseases, weeds, nematodes, rodents and other pests. Insecticides, herbicides and fungicides are specific pesticides.

The correct use of any pesticide is the responsibility of every home gardener. The label on the container clearly lists the necessary precautions and the application rates. The choice of the proper pesticide to apply can be difficult, especially for the new home owner.

For example, there are more than 200 products on the market that are either effective against specific insects, or all-purpose types that help control a wide range of insects. The use of an all-purpose insecticide offers numerous advantages. You eliminate the need for buying several insecticides, or switching from one to another. There is only one label to read and understand. Less storage room is required.

Three well-tested formulas are available—aerosols for the small home gardener, liquid concentrate and granular. Aerosol cans should be held at least eighteen inches away from the plant to prevent burning the foliage. Liquid concentrate can be applied with hose-end sprayer or hand sprayer.

equipment on larger plantings. Granules are ideal for spreader-application, especially on lawns.

A few hints on the correct use of pesticides may be helpful, as suggested by the National Wildlife Federation. All pesticides should be handled with great care. Always follow directions explicitly and do not exceed the amount of pesticide recommended.

Never use a pesticide for any purpose not specified. Buy in small amounts, preferably for immediate future use. Store carefully, out of reach of children and animals. Keep pesticides in their original containers.

Mix only the amount of pesticide you intend to use each time. Do not smoke or eat while mixing, or applying pesticides. Avoid contact with skin, eyes and mouth.

Other hints, from experience, suggest the application of pesticides only on quiet days when there is little or no wind. Early morning or late afternoon are the best times for these applications.

Spraying should be done on a regular basis every ten to fourteen days during the growing season. Always cover the entire plant until the leaves begin to drip. The painstaking and costly research by manufacturers before introduction of a pesticide, and the vigilance to maintain high-quality standards for the protection of the consumer, will be futile, unless the product is carefully and correctly used for the specified purpose.

God's Concern About Leaders

(2 Samuel 7:8-10; 21-29)

The history of the world is the history of its leadership. The history of Israel is the history of its leadership. When Israel had good kings and priests Israel prospered spiritually and otherwise. It was a different story when the leadership was idolatrous, debauched, and sinful. The father of Josiah was the wicked Amon, and under his leadership the nation became idolatrous and viciously immoral. Josiah, by his respect for things holy and his consistent example, led the people back to the Bible and to God. What our nation and the world need today is leadership that honors God and His Word, not in pretending, but in all sincerity.

God has always been concerned about leadership. His selection and appointment of leaders manifests the grace of God.

The Grace of God

Chapter seven begins with King David and his spiritual advisor, Nathan, in the king's house. These things have gone well with the king and out of gratitude to God for His goodness David decides he will build God a house. David shares his decision with Nathan, the prophet. Nathan responded about the same way any pastor would respond if some leader of the church informed him that he was going to write a check for the whole building project! Nathan said, "Go, do all that is in thine heart; for the Lord is with thee."

After Nathan had spent some time with God, he realized his advice to the king has been given in haste. God sends him back to remind David that it was "the Lord of hosts" who had taken David from the shepherd fields and made him ruler of the people.

Walton Advertiser—Walton, Kentucky

It had been the grace of God working in the heart of a shepherd boy that had made David's enemies and had given David a great name. God promised David that He would appoint a place for His People and establish them. They would have a place of their own and would no longer need to wander from place to place. In other words, God would build a house for David!

In the selection, appointment, and concern for leaders, one may see the greatness of God.

Greatness of God

David saw what God had done as being an expression of God's great heart. David came to an even greater appreciation of his God. Any leader will be overwhelmed by the goodness and greatness of God if he will remember to whom he owes his talents and powers for leadership. Leaders are in for trouble when they forget there is One far greater than they could ever be.

God wants His leaders to be great. God gives ability to lead. Leaders are necessary in any form of government. Leaders should see themselves as leaders under God. As long as Israel recognized God as her Leader, she remained unique and glorious.

America and other nations of the world need to see the greatness of God. That leader in our nation or any other nation who follows the leadership of God will be a better leader of men.

David saw God's concern for leaders as a means of bringing glory to God.

The Glory of God

David was speaking to God. He spoke to God concerning God's promise to him. But David's thoughts go beyond what good may come to himself. He wanted God's name to be magnified forever. David would have it understood that "The Lord of hosts is the God over Israel."

It is wonderful to hear men talk about leading the nation in the right course because they seek to do good for the nation. It would be even more glorious if leaders saw beyond the nation and saw God high and lifted up. Leaders who lead for the Glory of God will do more for the nation than those who seek only the nation's good.

Our nation is a great nation today. America has many great and godly leaders. Those of us who vote for the men who lead us to make it known that we are concerned that they follow God's leadership. There are those who believe that America's greatness is in proportion to the godliness of our leadership in the past and present. What do you think about this? Was this so with the nation of Israel?

We are admonished to pray for those in position of leadership. Whether leadership in government, schools, or churches. God is concerned about leadership. Let us pray that our leaders will be concerned about God.

Presbyterians Begin New Ministry

The Union Presbyterian Church begins a new phase of ministry this week when the Rev. Roy Sharpe assumes the pastorate on a full-time basis. For the past two years the Union Church has shared a pastor with the Richwood Church and prior to that the church was served by a seminary student.

Rev. Sharpe, a graduate of Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, and Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, came to Boone County in 1969 as student pastor at the Richwood Church. Two years ago he accepted the call to the Union-Richwood Yoked Ministry.

The change of status at Union will be celebrated on a day of commitment and fellowship on Sunday, October 6. During the 11:00 worship hour, the pastor and congregation will pledge love and dedication to each other and to the ministry of Jesus Christ. That commitment will be sealed in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, as the Presbyterians join Christians throughout the world in observing World Communion Sunday. Following the worship service there will be a potluck fellowship dinner. The day will conclude with the Second Annual Jeremiah Bowl, a football clash between the youth of the church and the adults.

In Memory

Garnett Elmo Worthington had only one job in his life — he worked 30 years for I. & N. Railroad.

He retired in 1971 but entered a hospital a few days after and it was discovered he had a terminal illness. Worthington's brother, Audrey Lee, Erlanger, said today.

"He was in confinement much of the time since. He spent many hours at Clark County Memorial Hospital, Jeffersonville, Ind., where he lived," the brother explained.

Worthington grew up in Gallatin County and attended Florence High School.

He served with the Army during World War II and suffered a shrapnel wound in the fighting at Luxembourg. It left him with an unmovable limp.

He returned to his crane operator's job with I. & N. after military service.

Garnett was not active in sports but he enjoyed listening to both football and baseball games," his brother said.

Garnett's father, Col. Frank Worthington, was a widely-known real estate agent and auctioneer in Northern Kentucky. He is now retired.

Garnett's long bout with illness came to an end at 1 p.m. Sunday at Clark County Memorial Hospital.

Worthington's home was at 1815 Lakeside Dr., Jeffersonville.

Survivors: Widow, Mrs. Mary Morris Worthington; son, Garnett Jr., Jeffersonville; parents, Col. and Mrs. A.L. Worthington, Crittenden; sisters, Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Robert Stephenson, both Walton; other brothers, Harold, Crittenden, and John, Louisville.

Stop... and look

A child is born with imagination, with the ability to see the magic of the world around him. Yet so much creativity—so much "seeing"—is often lost as we grow older and the complexities of life sweep over us.

When a child confronts nature, he isn't in a hurry. He takes time to study each blade of grass, to appreciate the colors of a butterfly, to marvel at a flower or the soft fur of a kitten.

We shouldn't lose this sensibility as we grow up. God created a world, but man has often abused it. So stop—once in a while—and look, feel and listen. This is communion, reflection... like the spirit you find in church.

"WATCHDOGGING" AGAINST INFLATION

by
M. GENE SNYDER
U. S. Congressman
4th District, Kentucky

This week I have once again been selected to review the annual "Watchdog of the Treasury" Award of the National Associated Businessmen for my efforts in Congress to achieve fiscal sanity in Federal Government programs, a goal that directly affects each one of you who reads this column.

I am very pleased at this recognition of my work against deficit spending in Washington, which spending devalues your dollar so that you can buy less and less each time you go to the shoe store, food market, gas station, or any other supplier of your needs.

In this column you have often heard me say that the inflation we have today in America is due directly to the borrowing Uncle Sam engages in when he goes into the marketplace to compete with you for the money he needs. The government's willingness to pay ever increasing interest rates to get those money for a new house, a new car, an education for your son or daughter, gets paid off piled up debts. The farmer and businessman, whether producer, wholesaler or retailer, also must pay higher interest rates, which add to his overhead. He must pass this extra cost of his operations on to you, the consumer, who buys what he sells, or go out of business.

As I have pointed out before, the farmer or businessman who produces anything that others buy, is first of all a consumer himself. He must buy the raw materials that go into his product—whether seed and fertilizer, or iron ore and chrome. He must buy or rent land and buildings and equipment. He must "buy" the labor of the people who work for him. And on top of what he buys in order to make the product that he sells, he must, like you, pay taxes.

The businessman has an additional overhead most individual consumers do not have. That's the red tape—the snarl of paper work that has piled higher and higher over the decades that government demands you to pay higher interest. But, you are not alone in being effected to this hike in your personal life of living, whether you need the regulation has increased and grown more complex. This extra cost alone has driven some small firms out of business, leading to mergers with larger companies whose normal scale of operations included legal and accounting personnel who could handle this increasing load, though also at higher cost. The income tax form that frustrates the individual citizen once a year is but a small example of what the businessman is involved with all year long. New safety and environmental regulations recently have greatly added to his red tape; and consequent costs of doing business that he must add in setting his prices. Let's go back to the beginning—the fact of government borrowing. This practice is engaged in for only one purpose—to meet expenses not covered by taxes. What expenses? Those expenditures that have been called for by Congress through its legislation that is not vetoed by the President.

I have opposed and will continue to oppose, the Federal government's spending of billions of dollars it does not expect to have in tax income, and therefore cannot afford—for foreign aid programs even to hostile nations, for loose, domestic welfare programs that are bled by crooked claimants with no legitimate right to welfare, and for costly programs that government shouldn't even be involved in.

COURTHOUSE NEWS

Eugene E. Siler, Jr., United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, disclosed today the conviction in Federal Court at Covington of Jerry Edwin Royce, 19, 3333 Alamo, Cincinnati, Ohio, for the illegal possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

Royce was sentenced to a term of 1 year and 1 day by Judge Mac Swinford. A codefendant, Billy Ray Kidwell, 24, of 1125 Park, Newport, Kentucky, was previously convicted on the same charge on January 30, 1974. The case arose on July 9, 1973, when Kentucky State Police Detectives Ben Harney and Jim Evans, along with agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, were making a routine motor vehicle check of a Cadillac in which Royce and Kidwell were travelling when it was discovered that Kidwell was wanted by the Newport Police and he was taken into custody and his automobile impounded. Under the front seat was found a loaded 20 gauge sawed off shotgun. When officers accompanied Royce back to his apartment, they observed another shotgun and confiscated it.

Senator Marlow W. Cook

Attempt At Ending Debate On Consumer Agency Fails

Kentucky Senator Marlow Cook voted with the majority to cut off debate on the so-called consumer protection agency bill but the 64 to 34 count fell two votes short of the two-thirds needed to send a filibuster which has blocked a vote on the actual legislation.

The vote Sept. 19 to invoke cloture, or end the debate on the Agency for Consumer Advocacy, was the fourth attempt by the Senate. Cook said only three cloture votes normally are held. Unless another, fifth, petition to invoke cloture is successful, the legislation, in effect, is dead for this session of Congress.

Railroad Pension Bill Goes To Full Senate

Legislation restructuring the Railroad Retirement System, including a new method for computing retirement benefits, has been cleared for a full Senate vote.

Senator Marlow Cook reported the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee favorably reported the measure, H.R. 15301, on Sept. 18. The Senator predicted, however, that further action by the Senate probably would not come for at least another two weeks.

The House of Representatives adopted the measure and sent it to the Senate for approval by a 343 to 10 vote on Sept. 12. Sponsors have warned that without the legislation the railroad retirement fund would collapse financially by 1981.

Senate Kills Effort To Delay Pay Raises

Voting to fight the inflation which has robbed all workers of buying power, Kentucky's Senator, Marlow W. Cook and Walter D. Huddleston, sided with the President Sept. 19 in an effort to delay pay raises for federal workers by three months and save the government $700 million.

The anti-inflation move failed by a 64 to 35 margin, however.

In explanation of his vote to uphold the President's order putting off the raises until Jan. 1, Cook stated, "While I feel it is regrettable that the federal employees must be called upon to make this sacrifice, I believed that the deferral was needed for its long-range effect on inflation is to be curbed."

The Senate action means increases will go into effect Oct. 1, but the amount of the raises still must be determined.

Cook Joins Bill Opening Up Federal Work Opportunities

Increased employment opportunity with federal agencies for persons unable to work standard working hours would be provided under terms of a bill Senator Marlow Cook has cosponsored.

Among those who would benefit if the bill is adopted are working parents, particularly mothers, students, veterans, handicapped individuals and men and women nearing retirement age who want to end fulltime employment gradually.

There will be billed at the applicable standard rate 6,000 cubic feet.

All additional gas used will be billed at:

(1) 9¢ per 100 cubic feet per Mcf determined in accordance with the "Gas Cost Adjustment" set forth on Sheet No. 9 of this tariff.

Minimum: The minimum as stated in the applicable standard rates.

All other provisions are unchanged.

(Third Revised Sheet No. 8 cancelling and superseding Second Revised Sheet No. 8)

NET MONTHLY BILL
Computed in accordance with the following charges:

First 6,000 cubic feet of gas at the applicable standard rate.

(1) Next 10,000 cubic feet of gas per ton of installed absorption type Summer Air Conditioning equipment at $9.80¢ per 100 cubic feet.

(2) Plus or minus an adjustment per Mcf determined in accordance with the "Gas Cost Adjustment" set forth on Sheet No. 9 of this tariff.

Minimum: The minimum as stated in the applicable standard rates.

All other provisions are unchanged.

(First Revised Sheet No. 9 cancelling and superseding Original Sheet No. 9)

A. Change in Rate
At the end of each calendar quarter or whenever a change occurs after the effective date of these proposed rates in city gate tariff rates, put into effect by a major supplier the Company as soon as practical, shall submit to the Public Service Commission of Kentucky a report setting forth the change in cost of gas, per Mcf of Company wide firm gas sales, which shall be determined as follows:

(1) The effect per Mcf of sales of a change in cost of gas shall be determined by:

(a) the applicable effective rate in effect at the time of the change in cost of gas, multiplied by the firm sales portion of the Company's most recent billing demand, applicable to each such respective tariff, and

(b) the average monthly volume of gas purchased, applicable to each such respective tariff, by the Company during the twelve month period after the deduction of off-peak sales including unaccounted for gas in proportion to total sales.

(2) Reduce the total average monthly cost, as determined in (a) above, by the average monthly cost of firm gas sold to The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company under The Union Light, Heat and Power Company's Tariff X-5.

(3) dividing the average monthly cost of gas calculated in (a) and (b) above by the average monthly volume of gas sales during the twelve month period after the deduction of off-peak sales and under other special contracts, comparing the resulting quotient to the pro forma average cost per Mcf of firm gas sales as of the effective date of these proposed rates, the difference so derived to the nearest 0.1 cent shall represent the effect of change(s) in gas cost per Mcf of sales.

The pro forma average cost of firm gas and off-peak gas, as of June 30, 1974 calculated in accordance with (a), (b) and (c) herein has been determined to be $1.55¢ per Mcf and $4.88¢ per Mcf, respectively.

(4) The rates as stated in the applicable rate sheets shall be decreased or increased, upon approval by the Public Service Commission of Kentucky, effective with gas delivered to customers on and after the effective date of a change in city gate tariffs, by application of a Gas Cost Adjustment for the combined decrease or increase in cost of gas as determined in (1) above. When meter readings are not available the gas volume for the meter reading period will be prorated by the number of days in the period.

B. Refund Adjustment
When accumulated refunds received by the Company from its gas suppliers are sufficient to indicate that a change in Refunding Rate per Mcf will occur, the Company will:

(1) Summarize the demand, commodity and interest received portions of the refund amounts. Should a refund amount be received by the Company with undesignated dollar amounts, such amount shall be treated as a commodity portion of the refund.

(2) Allocate the interest as between commodity and demand on the basis of the demand and/or commodity portion of dollars received.

(3) Calculate the Off-Peak Refunding Rate per Mcf as follows:

(a) divide the commodity portion (including allocated interest received) by the total Mcf of gas sales for the prior 12-month period. The resulting quotient, rounded to the nearest one-tenth cent, shall represent the Off-Peak Refunding Rate per Mcf times the total prior 12-month period.

(4) Calculate the Firm Use Refunding Rate per Mcf as follows:

(a) deduct from the total refund dollars received by the Company the total refund due the off-peak customers as calculated in (3) above to determine the portion of the refund applicable to firm sales. Divide this firm sales portion (including allocated interest received and any amounts carried forward from prior refunding) by the total Mcf of gas sales, less sales of off-peak and other special contracts, during the prior 12-month period. The resulting quotient, rounded to the nearest one-tenth cent, shall represent the Firm Use Refunding Rate per Mcf.

(b) reduce the rate as stated in the applicable rate sheets by subtracting the Firm Refunding Rate per Mcf from the Gas Cost Adjustment per Mcf to develop a Net Rate Adjustment per Mcf to be applied to firm gas sales. The total net

October 3.
The Moon in the fixed earth sign Taurus is a good time to take care of business matters. Advertising and sales will do well today and tomorrow. See your banker for a loan anytime today and, if you want to collect, try the afternoon hours while the Moon is sextile Jupiter. See your dentist today or tomorrow and if you need glasses, get your eyes tested today.

October 4.
This Friday would be a good time to get beauty treatments. Get a permanent wave today and it will last a long time and look nice, have your hair cut today and it will be slow growing back; also a good time for a manicure. Buy new clothing today and you will have the inclination to buy something that is long wearing with the latest style and it will fit well. Any new friendships made this evening should last a lifetime.

October 5.
The Moon goes into the air sign Gemini early this morning, so your plans should be on the mental plane for the next couple of days. After all those beauty treatments yesterday why not plan on some friendly calls or a trip to the local movie house. If you prefer to stay home, you would enjoy a good book, and any letters you write now will be interesting and well received.

October 6.
Peace and harmony will reign when you awake this morning. The Moon trines the Sun early this morning and then forms a trine to Mars at church time. You can expect some compliments on your neat appearance and new clothes today. Do not be embarrassed, you deserve the praise. The afternoon and evening would be a good time to entertain at home.

October 7.
The Moon moves into the water sign

Walton Advertiser—Walton, Kentucky

Cancer about mid-day, so the fish should start biting again and you can expect good fishing until noon Wednesday. The afternoon would be a good time for canning and yeast dough will rise well if you want to do some baking. If you are looking for employment this is an excellent day for an interview.

October 8.
If you have trouble keeping a curl in your hair this is the day for a new permanent and if you need glasses get your eye tested any time today. Not too late to do some more home canning and baking. If you plan on pruning your trees or shrubs before winter today or tomorrow would be an excellent time.

October 9.
The Moon squares Uranus at mid-morning, so do not do anything rash or might start a dispute. The moon goes into the fixed sign Leo after lunch, so if you have been planning on going on a diet, plan your evening meal accordingly and start losing weight. Also a good time to start breaking any other bad habits. Try to finish your home canning before lunch.

Errinophily Stamps Honor Kissinger

The Dr. Henry Alfred Kissinger commemorative stamps have been released from Holland by Kees van Muyilwijk, Errinophilist, of Groningen, who is represented in the United States by Catalysts Unlimited of 250 West 57 Street, Suite 2012, New York 10019. The stamps show Doctor Kissinger, the countries where he made contacts and where he mediated on the difficult road to peace, as well as Sweden, where he was awarded the Nobel prize.

Says Vic Kassery of Catalysts Unlimited:

"These stamps (not valid for postal use) were issued in Holland (as our laws forbid us to place a living person on a stamp) and are printed in four color offset. The warranted maximum run is only 250,000 pieces. Printers: Joh. Enschede en Zonen Grafische Inrichting B.V., Haarlem, Holland. Designer is the eminent Dutch Artist: Piet Wetselaar. In order to have this very small run safeguarded for collectors, all the printing material and plates are scheduled to be destroyed under government and legal supervision. The price per set of blocks (one perforated and one imperforated block) is $10. postage prepaid. Collectors have already enhanced the value and these stamps are now selling for much more in Europe. UNICEF, the United Nations division concerned with under privileged children throughout the world, is earmarked for 20% of the proceeds.

The checks are made payable to Catalysts Unlimited and orders should be mailed to Vic Kassery, Catalysts Unlimited, 250 West 57 Street, Suite 2012, New York, New York 10019.

Staying Warm By Using Your Cool

Temperatures are going down. Thermostats are going up. But conserving heating fuel can cut air pollution as well as costs.

A recent list of suggestions in Good Housekeeping Magazine says that heating bills can be reduced by 30 percent if weather stripping is put around windows and doors, and if all cracks around windows, doors, and walls are sealed.

Insulation is critical. Three to four inches of glass fiber insulation or its equivalent is recommended for exterior walls. And six inches of the same is suggested for top-floor ceilings or attic floors. The insulation helps prevent loss of heat into an unheated attic.

If the attic floor is unfinished, you can roll out insulation bats or spread "loose" insulation material. If the floor is finished, someone experienced can raise a few floorboards and insulation can be blown in.

Installing weather stripping around loosely fitted attic doors is wise. So is closing off all unused rooms. And, of course, storm windows pay for themselves in fuel savings.

Many doctors recommend living with the thermostat as low as is comfortably possible. It's good for health. And for savings. Each degree above 68a recommended setting for most people requires three percent more energy. At night, you can lower the thermostat another five or even ten degrees.

There are ways to conserve energy and curb the pollution caused by creating that energy. Join the Kentucky Lung Association in the fight against air pollution.

And answer your Christmas Seal letter today. It's a matter of life and breath.

International Bicentennial Festival

Homemade breads, hot apple cider, barbecued ribs, a replica of the Taj Mahal. Folk dancers, singers, puppets, and thousands of art objects, clothing and furnishings.

This assemblage of people, food, and objects from all parts of Kentucky and the world will be under the roof of the University of Kentucky Memorial Coliseum in Lexington on Oct. 9, 10, and 11.

The International Bicentennial Festival will feature some 60 exhibits on the floor of the coliseum, as well as an international market, Christmas shop, various art exhibits and food booths.

In addition, some 40 groups from all over Central Kentucky have volunteered their time and talents to perform hourly during the festival.

In addition, some 40 groups from all over Central Kentucky have volunteered their time and talents to perform hourly during the festival.

The Shriners' clowns; balladier John Jacob Niles; the Buckskin Pioneers and the Kentucky Heritage Dancers directed by Carl Clark; Mexican dancers Rosario Drucker and her daughter; the Green Singers directed by Richard Green; the Lexington Singers; a Thailand Classical dancer and Thai-style boxing; and the "Senior Swingers from Bell House" and their kitchen band, are just a few of the groups who are scheduled throughout the three days.

Recognized as an official Kentucky bicentennial event, the three-day 32-hour extravaganza will open at 2 p.m. on Wednesday (Oct. 9). Thursday and Friday (Oct. 10-11) the hours are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and fifty cents for children. Groups of 10 or more will be admitted half price.

Mrs. Louie B. Nunn and Mrs. Peter P. Bosomworth are co-chairmen. The idea of a festival grew from the International Book Project—a non-profit, Lexington-based agency which arranges for books and professional publications no longer needed in developed countries to be sent to people who request them in less developed countries.

Theme for the festival is "Out of Many, One", based on the United States motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

Mrs. Nunn said, "At a time of much unrest in the world, the festival committee takes great pride in presenting to Central Kentucky a festival which proclaims peace, good will, and beauty from all corners of the world to all the people of the world."

Devou Park Scene of Covington Oktoberfest

Northern Kentucky's German heritage will be spotlighted at Oktoberfest, to be held Oct. 11-13 at Covington's Devou Park.

The German festival, a special Bicentennial project, will feature the food, drink, music and culture of Germany in its many activities, which are coordinated by the Covington-Kenton County Jaycees.

Festivities will get underway on Oct. 11 at 6:30 p.m. with an Oktoberfest Parade in downtown Covington. Saturday and Sunday the activities will move to Devou Park with art shows, ethnic foods, including German sausages, sauerkraut, potato salad, hot pretzels, pickles, chicken on a spit and a German Bakery and delicatessen. There will be amusement rides and field games for children.

Some 40 artists and craftsmen will be demonstrating their talents at the park during the festival.

Special events include a hot air balloon launch, sky divers and an antique car show. Entertainment will be provided by the Germania Dancers, square dancers, choral groups from Notre Dame Academy and Northern Kentucky State College and the Sons of Dixie, a barber shop group. The 113th Army Band from Fort Knox will appear on Sunday.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY

Through the years, the newspapers have carried several stories of Halloween trick-or-treaters given fruit with razor blades and poisoned candy. Before the kids put on their costumes for the big night of the year, some safety reminders should be given.

Besides staying in well-lit neighborhoods, youngsters should trick-or-treat in familiar territory. Small children should always be accompanied by parents or older children.

In order to prevent unnecessary accidents, trick-or-treaters should avoid wearing elaborate costumes. It's also wise for them to wear makeup instead of masks so they can see better.

Cars can see children walking on streets much easier if the youngsters walk facing traffic and wear light reflective colors or objects. It's also much safer to carry flashlights instead of candles or jack-o-lanterns.

As a final precaution, parents should give their children strict instruction not to eat anything given to them by strangers until they get home. This gives parents enough time to inspect everything received.

90th Birthday Celebration

Mary Blau and Doris Cowser entertained relatives and friends for the 90th birthday of Mrs. Mayme Blau on Saturday, Sept. 28.

Those present were Mrs. Mayme Blau and Cyril, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gamm, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kaub, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Fields, Mary Ann, Debbie, Alice and Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cowser, Tommy, Rusty, Kathy and Billy Jr., Mary Blau, Tony and Tammy.

Bluegrass and German music will also be presented.

For more information, contact Dan or Janice Hall at 1122 Cecelia Ave., Park Hills, Ky. 41011, phone (606) 291-6233.

RED LEAF BRINGS TOP PRICES

Burley tobacco growers who have red leaf and tips to sell at this year's auction markets will receive premium prices for these grades, according to Ira Maasie, Extension tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"These grades have consistently topped the market for the past three years, and undoubtedly will again this year," says the UK specialist. "Farmers who have these grades available and can strip these grades can increase the income from their crop."

Maasie says there is a critical shortage of red leaf and tips. "These grades have a great deal of aroma, taste, filling power and overall desirability," he points out. "They are especially in demand by manufacturers of pipe tobacco and are also used in other tobacco products."

Maasie says tips come out of the top of the top three or four leaves of the plant, and the leaves which produce red leaf are immediately under those which produce tips. "Because of the large amount of rainfall late in the season, we would expect more red leaf than tips this year," he points out.

Attend Career Conference

Robert A. Tewes of 7080 Teagarden Lane, Independence, Kentucky has qualified to attend a career conference of New York Life Insurance Company's agents this month in Perryville, Ohio, according to Larry A. Greene, C.I.U. general manager of the company's Ohio Valley General Office.

Tewes will join other agents and company executives for educational, work in life underwriting, health and employee protection insurance.

Turkey Shoot

There will be a Turkey Shoot Sunday, October 13th, at the American Legion Post 277, located at the end of High Street, Walton. Everyone is welcome.

Benefit Turkey Shoot

Cabindale Inn, 3 miles north of Walton, was destroyed by fire in the early morning hours of October 4. Ellis Spencer, operator of the establishment, said all contents were destroyed and a total loss, as he was uninsured.

The Walton Lions Club is sponsoring a Benefit Turkey Shoot on Nov. 17 at Barrel Lake for Mr. Spencer.

"He lost everything," said Kenny DeWalt, past President of the Lions. We have a few other ideas that haven't gelled yet. But we definitely are going to hold the Turkey Shoot on the 17th of November.

BALER CONVERTS LOCAL WASTE INTO RESOURCE

While you're shopping you'll never see it but the backroom of IGA's Walton branch, has helped ease the paper shortage and to relieve the pressure on landfill.

"Before we installed our Muncher, a waste paper baling machine," said Stan Jones, "we were forced to haul tons of cardboard boxes to the dump. Or worse yet, pollute the air by burning them."

Now the Walton IGA is baling boxes and selling them to a paper dealer for recycling.

"Not only does baling and recycling preserve the environment and natural resources, but it also helps keep the cost of what we sell down," Mr. Jones added.

The Muncher, simple and safe enough for all store personnel, compresses cardboard boxes for efficient hauling. The bales are then shredded and the fibers re-woven by the paper company.

When saving trees and sparing on overflowing landfill become a way to cut store expenses, you realize that social conscience and free enterprise can accomplish the same goals.

Health Education Wins Senate Approval

The Senate in Washington has approved the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act with an amendment ensuring the Food and Drug Administration treats vitamins as food and not as drugs.

Senator Marlow Cook, reporting on passage of that legislation Sept. 24, said the amendment is aimed at preventing the federal agency from regulating safe vitamins and minerals as dangerous drugs. The House of Representatives now must give its approval.

Food Coding Gets Committee Review In light of relatively frequent recalls of food and other products, the Senate consumer subcommittee, on which Senator Marlow Cook is ranking minority member has begun public consideration of a measure for setting up a uniform coding system to help identify hazardous products easily.

Cook said the hearings are conducted on the food coding amendment on Sept. 24.

The amendment would establish a system by which certain production information would be encoded and placed on packaged food containers. That coded information would then be required on invoices or other sales documents to help carry out and monitor food recalls.

More Protection Sought For Income Tax Returns

Unauthorized inspection of any federal income tax return without prior consent of the taxpayer involved would be outlawed under the provisions of a bill Senator Marlow Cook has cosponsored.

The purpose of the bill was to protect the confidentiality of the information that citizens provide on their returns in the belief that the data will not be viewed by unauthorized individuals.

Testimony before congressional committees during the past year has revealed that present restrictions on access to such information had been abused. The legislation Cook has joined in would make it a felony to inspect or receive confidential tax materials in violation of the new rules.

Walton Lodge To Meet

Walton Lodge No-719 F&AM will hold its regular monthly business meeting on Thursday October 17 at 7:00 p.m.

There will also be work in the E.A. Degree. All members are urged to attend. Visitors are welcome.

Car Wash

Saturday, Oct. 12 beginning at 10:00 a.m., there will be a car wash at the Independence Christian Church parking lot (weather permitting). The car wash is sponsored by Chi Rho and CYF of the church.

Paper Drive

The Finer Boy Scouts will be picking up papers Friday October 11. Anyone who needs pickup may call Lucille Hetterman at 485-4314 or Mrs. J. Beemon at 358-7781.

Walton Lions Play Ball

Tonight, October 10 at 8:00 p.m., a rematch game, between Walton Lions and Walton American Legion, will be played at Walton Verons High School ball field.

Walton Lions defeated Walton American Legion 25 to 8 in last week's game. Tickets may be purchased at the game.

Walton Woods Park Allotted $4,868

Gov. Wendell H. Ford has approved $44,803 in matching federal funds for recreation in Boone County.

The Boone Woods Park, located south of Burlington, will receive $49,935 for a picnic area, with a shelter and restrooms, six tennis courts with lighting and fencing, utilities and excavation of a small lake.

The Walton Woods Park was granted $1,868 for a picnic shelter and play equipment.

The funds are part of an approximate $2.7 million grant to Kentucky from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, an agency of the U.S. Department of Interior.

NOTICE

Dixie State Bank will be closed Monday, October 14, in accordance with other banks in this area.

Junior Hockey Registration

The Cincinnati Junior Amateur Hockey Association will hold its annual registration for all interested youths between the ages of 8 and 16 on Saturday, October 19th at the annex to Cincinnati Gardens between 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The association, a non-profit organization, is the area representative of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, and brings a full winter's program of coaching and games to all interested children in the area.

Parents interested in coaching or helping administer the program are also encouraged to register at this time. . . their help is welcome.

Bi-County Farm Co-op

The Boone County Artificial Breeding Cooperative and Bi-County Farm Bureau Co-op Association will have a luncheon meeting Thursday, October 17, 12:30 p.m., at Johnston's Smorgasboard, U.S. 26 and Industrial Road. Patrons and friends are invited.

Does Anyone Know India Slade or Her Descendants

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 10 - An estate valued at approximately $83,000 is searching in the greater Cincinnati, Ohio and adjacent Kentucky area for India Slade or her descendants or brothers and sisters, to settle the inheritance of which they are obviously unaware.

This became known here today when Jordan L. Cox, probate genealogist, 302 West Elm St., Tucson, who specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, took over the search with incomplete clues as his guide.

"Records indicate that India Slade," Mr. Cox said, "was a resident of Cincinnati, Ohio in 1911. She is believed to be the daughter of William Slade who was born in Lebanon, Illinois on Sept. 12, 1840, the son of Independence and Nancy (nee McDermott) Slade.

"William Slade died June 17, 1911 at Albuquerque, New Mexico, at which time he was reported to have one daughter named India, who was living in the Cincinnati area."

"India Slade, or her descendants if she is deceased," Mr. Cox continued, "would be entitled to share in the sizeable fortune. Other children born of William and Nancy Slade, or their descendants if they can be found, could also share in the inheritance of which they doubtless are unaware."

Mr. Cox said he is also seeking people who may have known India Slade or members of her family, and can give information which will help the rightful heirs claim their inheritance.

CONSTRUCTION UNDERWAY ON FLORENCE WIRE CENTER

Construction is underway on a second floor addition to Cincinnati Bell's Florence Wire Center, less than five years after original structure on Gigard Street was placed into service for Boone County customers.

Harry Dapper, Dial Equipment Engineer, said "The second floor will house an Electronic Switching System, the fastest and most modern method for switching telephone calls."

Total cost for the project—construction of the addition and the installation of the ESS equipment—is estimated at more than $3 million.

Bill Hagen, Engineer, said "The building addition, designed by Flak, Rinehart, Hall, McAllister and Stockwell, will cost an estimated $426,000. The architectural firm is the same designer of the original structure, which won a Kentucky State Architectural Award shortly after opening in November 1969."

"Installation of the ESS equipment," Dapper added, "will be handled by Western Electric Co. and will cost an estimated $2.6 million. More than 6,000 lines will be made available in the initial installation."

The Florence ESS will be the second electronic unit placed into service in Cincinnati Bell's Northern Kentucky operating territory. The first was installed in the Covington Building in 1971. The Covington installation also was the first installed in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Construction of the second floor addition will be completed about July

Snyder Keeps In Touch

Congressman Gene Snyder, along with staying on the job in Washington in this critical time, is still endeavoring to get in as much campaigning as possible. With most of the past weekend devoted to the campaign trail in Jefferson County, this week will find him working in Gallatin County on Monday, and in Boone County and other sections of Northern Kentucky toward the end of the week.

Almost daily accounts in the news media attest to Snyder staying on top of things in the national capital, especially in regard to inflation and the economy. Regardless of who says it, Snyder disagrees or agrees with their thoughts, he has been instantly making his thoughts known to the media and to his constituents.

"It's a two-way street," Snyder observes, "the voters in my district let me know how they feel on things, and obviously they need to know how I stand. That's what I call keeping in touch. I've made it my policy to always keep in touch with the folks in my district to the best of my ability. I believe it's something a good Congressman should do, and I feel I've been a good Congressman."

It is evident whenever he shakes a hand or calls out a 'hello' he has been in touch and the people appreciate it.

Loan Office Open Tuesdays

Small Business Administration will have a Loan Officer in the Newport office on the 3rd Tuesday of each month from 12:00 noon to 3:00 p.m. The SBA office is located in the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Office, 914 Monmouth Street, Newport. Those interested may contact the SBA representative at the Chamber of Commerce office, or by phoning 491-3091.

In order to determine credit and eligibility requirements for SBA loan programs, it is suggested that the businessman bring with him a recent financial statement or balance sheet of the business and a profit and loss statement for the previous full year. This information pertains to established businesses. However, anyone interested in establishing a new business encouraged to consult with this representative, as well as other businessmen who are in need of financial advice or assistance.

WOMEN'S CLUB
Wa-Na Club
The Wa-Na Club held their October meeting Thursday October 3, at the Walton Methodist Church. The meeting opened with Spiritual Guidance by Mrs. Chester Sturgeon followed by a "Taster's Party." Everyone enjoyed the delicious food. Our program was on "Conservation" by Mrs. Ann Rouse.
Mrs. Ernie Lauterwasser presented a Tupperware Display. The Wa-Na Club members are taking orders for Tupperware products if anyone would wish to order.
Mrs. Ann Rouse and Mrs. Gayle McElroy gave a report on the K.F.W.C. Fall Board meeting, which they attended at the Lexington Hill Inn on Sept. 10.
Mrs. Daniel Hance asked the Wa-Na Club members to save their Campbell soup, pork and beans labels or any labels from Campbell products. They are collecting them for Walton-Verona Schools.
Members attending were Mesdames Wally Wireman, Jack Norris, Jerry Treadway, Mrs. George Black, David Beeble, Robert Blumachmidt, Jack Rouse, Daniel Hance, Chester Sturgeon, William Locke, Malcolm Simpson, Ernie Lauterwasser, Ann Rouse, Gayle McElroy, and Miss Joella Sleet and Miss Louise Conrad, Mrs. Robert Vance, Mrs. Robert Slayback and Mrs. Wendell Rouse.
The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Jack Norris and Mrs. Elmer Groger.

Walton Womens Club
Mrs. James Lee Cobb, president, presided and led in opening ceremonies October 2nd, of the Walton Womens Club.
Hostesses, Mrs. W. W. Rouse, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Thomas Rodney and Mrs. J. C. Mayhugh entertained in Fellowship Hall, Walton Christian Church. All present enjoyed the lovely table decorations and the dessert course of cakes, sherbert and coffee.
Programs always begin with spiritual guidance and prayer. October's leader, Mrs. Zada Clore, read scripture from which many of the lessons emphasized in our club collect were taken.
Guest speaker, John Grubbs, Superintendent of Walton Verona Schools, was introduced by Mrs. John Farrell.
His subject, "Education" was illustrated with many charming and interesting pictures of children from all grades in their beautiful new buildings. All appeared busy and happy in various learning situations.
John's numbered list of all the duties of a school superintendent was hilarious. It brought "the house down" and closed his excellent talk on a very happy note. A question and answer period followed.
Honored guests were: Mr. John Grubbs, Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. Evan Hance, Mrs. Wallace Grubbs and Mrs. Gayle McElroy.
Members present were Mesdames Dan Hedinger, W. R. Belcher, R. C. Brakefield, William Brown, John Campbell, James Lee Cobb, Zayda Clore, John Farrell, A. H. Gaines, Clifton Mayhugh, Melvin Moore, W. H. Preaser, Thomas Rodney L. R. Richardson, W. W. Rouse, Sam B. Sleet, Bruce Wallace and Misses Rachel Acres, Virginia Beverly and Louise Conrad.

Choose Washington Russets

Markets are plentiful with this season's bountiful crop of Russet potatoes from Washington State. Excellent bakers, these high quality potatoes are the perfect choice for using in delicious Cheesy Potatoes on the Half Shell.

Centers of baked potatoes are combined with hot milk, egg, butter, and both Cheddar and Parmesan cheeses. The fluffy mixture is piled into the scooped-out shells, then returned to the oven until puffed and golden. If desired, the stuffed potatoes may be prepared in advance and refrigerated or even frozen before reheating at serving time.

Cheesy Potatoes On The Half Shell
3 large Washington Russet potatoes
1/2 cup of hot milk
3 tbs. butter
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper

1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
2 tbs. grated Parmesan cheese

Scrub potatoes and bake at 400 degrees 50 to 60 minutes. Halve potatoes; remove and mash pulp. Add remaining ingredients, mixing well. Spoon into potato shells. Return to a 400 degree oven 15 minutes or until heated through and golden. Makes 6 servings.

FFA NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Approximately 375 members of the Kentucky Association of Future Farmers of America will travel to Kansas City, Mo. the week of Oct. 14 for the 47th National FFA Conference.

More than 15,000 FFA members and guests from 50 states and Puerto Rico are expected to attend this year's convention, the purpose of which is to conduct national business of the FFA organization and to recognize the accomplishments of members.

The Kentucky delegation will be led by Joe Roberts, Hickman County, state FFA president, and Richard White, Union County, state FFA vice president, who will serve as the state's "official delegates." Approximately two delegates from each state form the convention's voting body. Mike Easley, state FFA secretary from Scott County, is listed as an alternate delegate.

Ky. Fallout Shelter Food To Bangladesh

Twenty tons of stockpiled food has begun a journey from Owensboro to Bangladesh.

The Kentucky shipment is part of millions of pounds of fallout shelter survival food which is being donated to the famine-stricken country by communities across the nation. The federal Defense Civil Preparedness Agency is having the food flown to the Asian nation at the request of the American Ambassador to Bangladesh. According to the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services, the food is fortified survival crackers and hard candy which the federal government turned over to local communities for storage in fallout shelters in the early 1960's. When the food was developed, researchers said a few crackers or pieces of candy would supply a person with the minimum daily requirements for survival. However, according to federal civil defense officials, much of the food is deteriorating from age and is being given away before it becomes inedible.

The Owensboro shipment had been stored in fallout shelters at Kentucky Wesleyan College, Brescia College, the old Owensboro post office, the public library and the county court house.

According to Robert S. Roberts, Owensboro-Jefferson County Civil Defense director, about 28 persons from the local rescue associations, Army Reserves and civil defense staff gathered the food and stored it in the National Guard Armory in Owensboro the weekend before it was picked up for transport to Bangladesh.

Care Aids Honduras Hurricane Victims

COLUMBUS—Judith Johnson, Ohio-Ky. Regional Director of CARE, the International Relief and Development Agency, announced today that they were in communication with Jerry Lewis, Director of CARE-HONDURAS, and had already begun relief efforts for the survivors of the hurricane FIFL.

The Choluteca River is overflowing in Tequigulpa and assistance will be required there. The Choluteca area in the south is already seriously affected by the swollen river and a team of CARE-MEDICO nurses has left for Monjares to help out in the emergency medical units.

Contributions should be sent to Honduras Emergency Fund, CARE—8 E. Chestnut St., Columbus, Ohio 43215. Further information can be obtained by calling the office at (614) 224-5176.

Lodged In The Lungs

Swallowing something "the wrong way" can cause trouble. Even tragedy. Instead of traveling down the throat and into the stomach, objects can drop into the windpipe. Some restaurants now have special instruments to remove the major causes of choking catastrophes: pieces of steak and big portions of food. If the portion completely blocks the windpipe and cannot be dislodged in minutes, then death occurs.

But offending objects can pass beyond the windpipe and into the air passages of the lungs. Blocking an air passage can cause a lung disease called bronchiectasis. In some cases, surgery may be required to remove the object.

Tiny tools are now being tested to avoid these traumas. Threading these tools through a flexible, nylon tube with a lens on one end, two investigators at the University of Iowa College of Medicine have recovered an amazing variety of objects from the inner recesses of animals' lungs. The tools are just big enough to grasp a peanut. When they are squeezed through a flexible, lighted tube, the tools can be controlled by the researchers' hands. They can pick up items such as paper clips, beans, seeds, coins, chicken bones, screws, and safety pins.

In research supported by the American Lung Association, Drs. Donald C. Zavala and Mitchell L. Rhodes have found these techniques effective with animals. But more investigation is necessary before the procedures can be attempted on humans. The doctors believe that the tools will be useful in dislodging objects from the lungs of all but very young children, who have small and delicate air passages. Dr. Zavala, however, is now testing tools to use on infants and toddlers.

Christmas Seals support research to help protect everyone's lungs. Answer the Kentucky Lung Association's Christmas Seal appeal today. It's a matter of life and breath.

Burley Tobacco Growers Association

Burley tobacco's role in international trade continues to increase in scope—both through the shipments of leaf, or "unmanufactured," tobacco and the exports of American-made cigarettes containing burley.

Burley exports for the marketing year which ended Oct. 1 were expected to exceed 85 million pounds (farm sales weight), a new record, and a substantial gain over the 75 million pounds of a year earlier. Shipments of American-made cigarettes to foreign customers will rise to 50 billion this year from 1973's 41.5 billion cigarettes.

Major importers of U.S. burley tobacco include West Germany, Italy, Japan, Sweden, the Netherlands, Denmark, Switzerland, Finland, Thailand, and the Philippines. A scattering of other countries around the world take lesser amounts.

The burley is used in American-type blended cigarettes and other tobacco products made by foreign manufacturers.

Leading destinations for American cigarettes shipped abroad in the last year included Hong Kong, Spain, Kuwait, West Germany, France, Italy, Paraguay, Ecuador, Panama, and the Canary Islands. A variety of U.S. brands are shipped to most countries of the world.

An official of a major U.S. cigarette manufacturer, James C. Bowling of Philip Morris, said in a talk to tobacco men recently that world use of cigarettes is expected to double within the next 25 years.

Frank B. Snodgrass, vice president of the Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Export Association, noted an upswing in the world demand for cigarettes and tobacco products has been created by the increase in world population and waning international influence. Bulk tobacco exports which consist of specially prepared cigarette leaf and cut or shredded tobacco, including U.S. burley, are substantially higher this year than last. Bulk tobacco goes mostly to foreign cigarette factories of American-based companies or their foreign licensees.

Burley tobacco growers themselves, through contributions to Burley Sales Promotion Fund, have long played a major role in the development of foreign markets for U.S. burley. They support the work of H.C. Travis, a cigarette blending expert who travels abroad for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association helping foreign manufacturers make cigarettes using U.S. burley, and they contribute to the international promotion work of the Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Export Association.

God's Concern About Worship

(2 Chronicles 5:7-14; 7:12-14)
Anselm spoke this wise counsel concerning worship: "Come now, little man flee for awhile from your tasks, hide yourself for a little space from the turmoil of your thoughts. For a little while give your time to God, and rest in him for a little."

Another has wisely noted: "I have never known a man, who habitually and on principle absented himself from the public worship of God, who did not sooner or later bring sorrow upon himself or his family." — Bellows.

Our lesson for today enables us to see something of God's concern about man's worship.

God's people wandered in the wilderness for four decades without a permanent home or permanent place of worship. But they were not without a place of worship. God had given detailed instructions to Moses concerning the construction of the tabernacle was the ark of the covenant. This item was also constructed by divine instructions. It, above all other items, symbolized the presence of God.

At the conclusion of the building of the Temple by Solomon this ark was brought to the Temple and placed in the Holy of Holies.

The Placing of the Ark, 2 Chronicles 5:7-10
According to 1 Kings 6:37-38, it took seven years to build this first Temple on Mount Moriah. It was to be the site of other temples when this and the next ones would be destroyed. It is today the location of a Moslem Mosque.

According to the Chronicler the priests brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord to its place, the inner sanctuary of the Temple. This would be in the most holy place or the Holy of Holies. The words "to the oracle of the house" is a reference to the inner sanctuary. The ark was placed beneath the wings of the cherubim. The cherubim represented angelic beings. They were symbolic of the presence of God.

Verse 9 states that the poles (used to carry the ark) were so long the ends of them could be seen from the holy place. This seems to mean that they pressed against the curtain or veil in such a way that they could not be seen from the outside but their imprint could.

The writer of this account says they were nothing in the ark except the two tables of the commandments which Moses had put there at Horeb.

The following verses present a marvelous sight - the processional of the priests.

The Processional of the Priests, 5:11-14

This was an important occasion. All of the priests were on hand to participate. Those who were on duty and those who were not were there for this occasion. They had made preparation for this experience by setting themselves apart for the Lord's service. The Levitical choir were arrayed in fine linen and equipped with various instruments to make music. They had practiced until their music was in unison.

What does this passage say about God's concern for worship? Are we sometimes critical of fine choir robes for our choirs? Are we as members of the choir at times reluctant to give the needed time to practice? Am I one of those who likes loud, cheerful, speedy singing whether in unison or not? Does inspired music play a part in bringing about a realization of God's presence in our worship services? The climax of that occasion was that God's house was filled with His presence. How wonderful if today the minister found it difficult to stand in the House of the Lord because the glory of the Lord so filled the House!

Solomon had made his petition to God for the people. The next verses give us the Promise of the Lord.

Chronicles 7:12-14
I the night the Lord made His appearance to Solomon the king. God had heard Solomon's prayer. God had answered. He assures the King that He has chosen this place and this house as a house of sacrifice. Is this not a note needed today in our worship of God? Our religion of Christianity was born in blood. Dare we to make our houses of worship mere instruments whereby we save our consciences? Some use God's house to catch up on sleep they lost the night before!

Yes, God promises that if His people will humble themselves - His people upon whom His name has been called (correct meaning here); if they pray and seek His face and turn from their wicked ways, He will hear from heaven and forgive. God's people are promised forgiveness for their sins.

They are promised healing for their land. Does this suggest that our greatest need in America today is to acknowledge our need of God, pray to Him, seek His presence, turn from our wicked ways and then believe that God will intervene!

"THE FRIENDLY BANK"

Too many pressing responsibilities in the Lord's work. The congregation couldn't afford to have its church painted.

But painted it was!

That was a glorious Saturday—no picnic or ball games, just hours of hard work. And what with the paint supplied at cost by a local dealer, and the brushes loaned by the very painter who might have hoped for the contract—nobody made a nickel!

But the remarkable thing is that nobody in town thought all this remarkable...

You know Christianity has had a deep influence on the life of a community when we begin to take for granted the zeal and sacrifice of Christian neighbors. The next step is to add our strength and faith to theirs in the worship and work of the Church.

Against Tax On Gasoline

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Congressman Gene Snyder announced today that he had introduced H.R. 17000, a bill to close off the possibility of the Federal Energy Administration levying any tax, fee or other charge without previous approval by Congress of the special levy.

"The American people are so mad about a proposed hike in the Federal tax on gasoline that I had Members of Congress standing in line to cosponsor my measure and I had to put in a second bill to carry all their names," declared Representative Snyder. "With so many precedents for legislation by executive fiat without a solid basis in law, I don't want to take any chances of the FEA socking it to the taxpayer in the same manner merely by the publication in the Federal Register of some agency regulation or executive order." The Snyder move was inspired by FEA Administrator John Sawhill's proposal favoring as much as a $3.50 Federal levy on a gallon of gasoline. Yesterday, following Sawhill's appearance on television to discuss his ideas, Mr. Snyder wired President Ford asking him to fire Sawhill and all his "advisors" out of touch with the common man's problem to recommend such abuse of the people.

The language of the bill reads as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Federal Energy Administration shall have no authority to impose any tax, fee, or other charge, unless such tax, fee, or charge is approved by Congress by law.

Dear Sir:

I have prepared a review of the remarks made by President Ford during his last press conference regarding his pardon of former President Nixon.

It seemed to me you might find it useful if Mr. Ford's explanatory comments about the pardon were drawn together in one place in a question and answer sequence. It is possible that this treatment of the subject might be helpful to you.

THE NIXON PARDON

President Gerald Ford's pardon of former President Richard Nixon joined the Nation by its timing and suddenness. Why did President Ford take the action he did when he did?

Although thousands of words have been written about the pardon and speculation has been rife, too little attention has been paid to the explanations given by Mr. Ford during his nationally televised press conference of September 16. There may still be millions of Americans who are looking for other reasons to explain Mr. Ford's action, but the fact remains that he did in fact furnish them with a full explanation of his pardon decision during his press conference. It might be well to review his stated reasons when pulled together in one place.

First of all, as he told the Nation, he was informed by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski that because of prejudicial publicity it would take probably nine months to a year or longer before a Nixon trial could get under way. Even then it might be questionable whether there could be a fair trial.

The President noted that the Special Prosecutor's Office investigating 10 areas in which the former President may have been involved. The Special Prosecutor's Office pointed out that none of these areas of investigation "had risen to the level of ability" of the Prosecutor's Office to "prove even a probable criminal violation" on the former President's part. This list was made public by the White House Press Office. It was in addition to the Watergate coverup matter, about which no comments were made by, or received from, the Special Prosecutor's Office.

In connection with that explanation, Mr. Ford went on to note that "the acceptance of a pardon can be construed by many, if not all, as an admission of guilt." The President further noted that "35 members of House Committee on the Judiciary Democrat and Republican have unanimously agreed in the report that was filed (with the House) that the former President was guilty of an impeachable offense" involving the Watergate coverup. The President flatly and unequivocally stated his chief reason for pardoning Mr. Nixon at this time:

Letters to the Editor

The main concern that I had at the time I made the decision was to heal the wounds throughout the United States. For a period of 18 months or longer we had had turmoil and divisiveness in American society. At the same time the United States had major... It came up with volumes of information. In addition, the Special Prosecutor's Office under Mr. Jaworski has conducted an intensive investigation. And the Special Prosecutor's Office will issue a report at the conclusion of their responsibilities that I think will probably make additional information available to the American public. And thirdly, as the various criminal trials proceed in the months ahead, there obviously will be additional information made available to the American people. So when you see what has been done and what undoubtedly will be done, I think the full story will be made available to the American People. President Ford personally and unshakably convinced that he made the right decision. He is trusting to time to bear him out in that belief.

Sincerely
Paul A. Milich
Special Assistant

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Meadows:

In recognition of National Newspaper Week I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks to you and the Walton Advertiser for your outstanding cooperation in publishing items of interest to the veterans of your community.

Your contribution in getting "the word" to our veterans and their dependents on various benefits is certainly invaluable. Without the excellent public service efforts your newspaper has made in bringing this useful information to your readers, many of our veterans would not be aware of their benefits.

Again, on behalf of the Veterans Administration and its employees, I extend our most heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely yours,
R. F. Welch
Director

Dear MR. Meadows:

Congratulations on the new cold type process initiated for production of the Advertiser. The readability is noticeably improved.

Certainly this step is further proof that yours is a progressive newspaper, "serving a progressive community."

Very Truly Yours
Clyde Middleton

To the Editor

I would like to say a few words on behalf of the Seniors Citizens Club (The Happy Heart) club to whom meals are served at the Christian Church for days a week.

It is my honest opinion that this is one of the finest projects that has been in our town for some time. When I was able to attend, I was there, for being alone, and working part time it was a great help to me in many ways. I do not feel this is charity, for a number of people work hard on this program.

Mrs. Sue Powell, the research director is there every day to help in any way she can. She picks up some who have no way to go among other duties, and she is very dedicated to her work with older people and says she loves helping them. Since I have been unable to attend the past few weeks my meals have been delivered to my door. This touches my heart deeply, and I feel a deep sense of gratitude to those who are responsible. Namely: Mrs. Beulas Smith, our hostess who is so efficient in serving the needs, to the volunteers, the ladies who take their cars and take the meals to those who are unable to come to the church. Those are Mrs. Jack Rouse, Mrs. Lula Huey, Mrs. Audrey Spencer, Mrs. Doris Eisenschmidt, Mrs. Jack Berkshire, and Mrs. Garrison.

Thanks again to all of you who have been so kind in helping me when I was in need.

Sincerely,
Burdetta F. Powers

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Breaking Ground

by Gary Huddleston

Arguments over whether to end burley quotas for next year revolve around one basic question—how can we get the right amount of burley produced to satisfy cigarette makers, but at the same time protect prices paid to farmers? Anti-quota spokesmen, including some USDA officials and tobacco companies, say there is no need to continue quotas, as production is not satisfying demand. A lower-than-predicted crop this year, combined with already low carryover inventories, invites the use by cigarette makers of burley substitutes or imported leaf, they note.

Pro-quota tobacco producers and farm organizations, on the other hand, say a quota increase for 1975, combined with super-strong prices on the auction markets this fall, will provide sufficient incentive for farmers to grow more tobacco.

Elimination of quotas, they add, will benefit the big tobacco producers and kill off the small growers, thus causing irreparable damage to local economies where small burley allotments are common.

Kentucky Farm Bureau, the state's largest farm organization, is solidly behind the present poundage control program, including the use of quotas. Most other tobacco grower organizations and associations agree with this position, and any attempt by USDA to eliminate quotas is sure to evoke a storm of protest which might be strong enough to block the action.

In essence, two people can voice the same arguments and come to opposite conclusions as to the benefits of quotas. But most on both sides of the question agree that if quotas are ever done away with, it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to get them back.

The implication is, "you'd better be sure before you decide you can do without them, because the change might be permanent."

Quotas for burley production in Kentucky are a deeply ingrained part of economies in rural counties throughout the Central and Eastern two-thirds of the state.

Allotments have long been a factor in valuing farmland, and their elimination would have an immediate impact on the comparative worth of various land tracts in a burley-producing area.

In addition, the certainty which the quota program gives to the tobacco portion of a farmers annual income is considered by many commercial lenders as a type of collateral for loans on other higher-risk crops, such as livestock and grain.

These economic impacts of annual allotments are fairly easy to trace, but the effect of quotas on today's total leaf production is subject to differing interpretations.

Some burley experts fret that production and inventories are so low, growers are courting disaster if they try to pressure prices upward with a continuing tight supply of the leaf.

Buyers will begin looking to other markets to satisfy their needs, they say, and in fact have already lowered the burley ratio in cigarettes after last year's small crop.

But many growers tend to discount talk of finding burley substitutes as largely a ploy by tobacco companies to get a big increase in burley production and glut the market. The result would be lower prices for farmers, and the elimination of any need to increase wholesale and retail cigarette prices.

At any rate, Kentucky tobacco growers should have plenty to talk about during the upcoming winter months. This year's weather damage, this year's prices, next year's fertilizer, next year's quotas or next year's quota-less crop—all these items are sure to be the subject of endless discussion between now and next spring.

And even if quotas are retained for 1975, one thing seems certain—if next year's burley crop again falls short of anticipated need, the pressure to change our long-standing quota program may become too great to bear.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

There is something in autumn that sets our gypsy blood aflutter, something that is all but strictly American—the wonderful, varied colors of October foliage. The deep purple of the starry-leaved sweet gums, burnished gold and scarlet of maples, russet of oaks, bright yellow of hickories, and various other tints and hues of other trees—all attest to the glory of the American autumn.

The delightful, brilliant fall colors seen here in this country are the result of the swift transition from summer heat to autumn chill. The nature of the climate and chemical action within the trees as they shift from activity to dormancy—and not just from—provide all this seasonal beauty.

Europeans, it is said, do not enjoy the beautiful outdoor autumns such as we have here. Mainly because of climate differences, trees in most of Europe go through a gradual transition to dormancy. Cooler summers followed by a long, slow change to winter do not permit the chemical processes that produce the full colors Americans enjoy.

In order to provide summer shade and autumn beauty around the homestead, October is a good month in which to transplant most deciduous trees and shrubs (those which lose their leaves each year). Fall plantings usually give better results than similar work done in the spring—except for a few varieties such as poplar, birch, dogwood, mountain magnolia, and others that have soft fleshy roots. Dwarf fruit trees can also be transplanted in October, but be sure to stake and wrap them with hurlup or tough paper to protect against the ravages of sun, desiccating winds and hark-loving rabbits.

Before transplanting trees at this time, however, check with your county Extension agent or nurseryman to be sure that the tree you have in mind is adaptable for fall planting. Also before transplanting, visualize how the tree will be some 15 years from now. Don't plant it too close to a building or driveway where its size may later cause it to be in the way. Instead, set the tree along a boundary or in some place where, in the future, it can be appreciated without causing inconvenience.

Also in planting, set the tree or shrub no deeper than it formerly stood. Give it ample space to develop and plenty of water until it has become well established—but don't drown it. According to Stoltz, roots are living, breathing structures and must have oxygen; too much water can limit oxygen and kill the tree.

It has been written that nothing a person can do in October will be of more worth, both tangible and intangible, to future generations than to plant a tree or trees. The tree may, in time, provide dollars, fresher air to breathe, restful shade on hot summer days, and beauty sufficient to refresh the soul.

Program On Problem Drinker To Show

In cooperation with Kentucky Educational Television (KET), the Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR) will present a one-hour special, Oct. 21 at 7:30 p.m. The program will focus on the problem drinker and the effects produced upon those close to the drinker.

The special, titled "Drink, Drunk, Drunk," is hosted by comedienne Carol Burnett and is composed of comedy vignettes, original music and discussions of the problems by people who have lived through them.

The program will be of interest to the general television audience but, specifically, it will be aimed at people who have to deal with alcoholics on a regular basis—spouses, children, parents, employers, union leaders and friends.

Others who will view this program with particular interest will be those people who routinely encounter the alcoholic in their professions, doctors, policemen, social workers, counselors and clergymen.

A third major audience will be people who may themselves one day be alcoholics, people who may benefit from some information about early detection and warning signals.

"We are interested in cosponsoring this particular program because alcohol abuse and alcohol-related problems affect over 140,000 Kentuckians," says Laurel W. True, secretary for Human Resources. "Within the Bureau for Health Services, we have initiated programs to assist the alcoholic to cope with his drinking problem. We have welded a 'Circle of Care' consisting of emergency treatment, inpatient and outpatient care, consultation and education programs, and a transitional process which returns the alcoholic to a productive life."

Secretary True added, "Over 16,000 Kentuckians have been helped through this 'Circle of Care' in the past year, but while we may take some pride in this figure, we know that there are many more who could be, but are not being, reached. Hopefully, this television program, 'Drink, Drunk, Drunk,' will alert Kentuckians to the plight of the problem drinker and point them to a source of help and possible solution."

SCHOOL PERSONNEL PERFORMANCE

A newly formed 14-member committee of professional and lay persons interested in Kentucky's educational system recently met to launch a "Project for Improving the Professional Performance of School Personnel."

The committee is the outcome of a long-felt concern for a universal evaluation system for both school teachers and administrators. Delegates, selected from organizations representing all phases of education, hope to formulate such a guideline.

"I consider this project to be one of the most important professional undertakings ever attempted in Kentucky," Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, said.

Fred Newton, supervisor for Fort Campbell Dependent Schools, was elected chairman and Denzil Ramsey, principal of Jesse Stuart High School in Valley Station, was chosen as the group's co-chairman.

Dr. Sidney Simandle, director of the Division of Teacher Education and Certification, Department of Education, and his staff will provide supporting services for the committee.

New Inspectors Learn By Doing

And Debby Eversole, the first woman reclamation in Kentucky, is no exception. With Pearl Burns as her tutor, Eversole is making a routine inspection of the Lewis County strip mine to determine if proper reclamation is being done. Eversole has been with the Kentucky Division of Reclamation for two weeks.

Other than being college educated, interested in science, single and in their mid-twenties, Debby Eversole and Ann Nuckols would appear to have little in common. Eversole grew up with two sisters and brother in the Perry community of Chavies, while Nuckols spent her childhood on her father's farm in McLean County.

Nuckols left western Kentucky to study agriculture at the University of Kentucky, and Eversole moved away from her mountain home to earn her degree in biological sciences at Morehead State University.

Although they have never met, their new jobs have created a common bond that separates them from other Kentucky inspectors. They are the first women to work as strip mine inspectors for the state Division of Reclamation.

With two weeks experience in the division's Hazard field office, Eversole is the veteran of the first Tuesday, Oct. 1, was Nuckols' first day at the Prestonsburg office.

Eversole didn't expect to work as an inspector when she applied for a job as a laboratory assistant. She liked lab work while in school and wanted to continue in the lab.

There were no openings for laboratory personnel. What the division needed, she was told, were strip mine inspectors. When John Roberts, the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection's director of Reclamation, asked if she would be willing to try for an inspector's job, she agreed.

Roberts said the job was not offered to Eversole because she was a woman but "because we need inspectors; and her degree in biology qualifies her for the job."

The director and other reclamation inspectors have some reservations about women inspectors, but not because they can't do the job. They are concerned about a lone woman being in an isolated area where most strip mines are located.

There is no reason why a woman could not be a successful reclamation inspector, according to Roberts. He agreed it may take time for her to be accepted by coal operators and inspectors alike, but he said any new male inspector also must prove himself.

"If the job required physical labor, I could see where a woman might not be able to do the work," he noted, "but manual labor is not a requirement for an inspector." He added that women are working in the same capacity in other coal states.

After a 5 1/2 mile trek over rugged terrain and a hike over a new strip mine, Eversole and veteran inspector Pearl Burns might disagree with Roberts' comments on physical labor.

Burns considers walking a (strip mine) permit (tracing the boundaries of a proposed strip mine) hard work. Before a permit is issued, the inspector is required to walk over the exact outlines of the new site even if it means going through thickets of thorns or over boulders.

The new inspector has been working with Burns and other experienced inspectors, learning various mining and reclamation techniques. She will work with others until she has grasped the details of her job.

The usual training period is two or three months, according to Burns, who has trained many new people in his eight years as an inspector. Describing Eversole as "plucky," Burns said she is a fast learner and he doesn't expect her to require extra time for training.

Eversole didn't know she was the first woman inspector until she was asked if she had any qualms about opening the door for other women.

She said the operators have appeared to accept her and have been very cordial when she has visited various mines. Burns said this will change when she writes her first noncompliance. "Then they will forget she is a woman and treat her like any other inspector and forget the friendliness."

When so many young people are leaving Eastern Kentucky for better, higher paying jobs, why does a young woman with credits towards a Masters Degree return to her home for a job?

"I like the mountains," Eversole said, "and I always would like to live near mountains, if not here, then in the Rockies. I grew up here and the mountains are a part of me."

She thinks being a native will make her easier for her. "If I am being accepted, or will be accepted, because I am not an outsider," she said. "And," she added, "I don't have to adjust to a new environment."

Ann Nuckols didn't grow up in the mountains, but she soon came to appreciate them after many camping and canoeing trips through Eastern Kentucky.

When she applied for a job with the Reclamation Division, she wanted a job as a reclamation inspector.

While visiting her first strip mine Tuesday, she said she was more than a little nervous about being an outsider, unfamiliar with Eastern Kentucky mining methods and a woman in a traditionally male profession.

"I am from a small town and I know how hard it is for a new resident to adjust. It may take time but I think I will," she said.

Because she doesn't know anything about strip mining in the mountains, she is concerned that it may take her longer to learn. "I will have to be taught everything from scratch," she said.

Her lack of knowledge of strip mining does not concern reclamation officials. The state director said the length of time required to learn varies from "person to person."

Nuckols said she is familiar with male "unconventional" role. She said there was some opposition to her choice of agriculture as a major in college because "there really aren't that many women working in that area yet."

With time she thinks she will be accepted as a "person first and a woman second."

"I think people will realize that because I am a woman does not mean that I cannot have the same feelings about a beautiful mountain or tree as a man. It is not because I am a woman that I think if we are going to have strip mining, it should be done right. Many men share the same thought. We all have a responsibility to the mountains and the land, especially when we think about how short a time we are here in relation to future generations."

Debby Eversole and Ann Nuckols are not the last women to work as reclamation inspectors. Another woman, a friend of Eversole's, will begin working in the Madisonville area later this month and officials in Frankfort expect more to seek the jobs.

VETERANS INSURANCE

Former members of the National Guard with 20 years of creditable service are now eligible for low-cost group life insurance. Under the Veterans Insurance Act of 1974, these Guardsmen may apply for Servicemen's Group Life Insurance if they have not yet reached age 60.

Premium rates for $20,000 coverage are: $6 per month through age 39; $8 per month, 40 through 49 years of age; and $10 per month, 50 years and over.

Applications are available at any Veterans Administration office or veterans service organization.

Applications and premiums for this coverage must be sent directly to the Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington St., Newark, N.J. 07102.

According to the VA, upwards of 100,000 retired National Guardsmen are eligible for low-cost coverage. Eligibility expires automatically when the insured receives his first retirement check.

THE FUTURE REFLECTING THE PAST

A SERIES BY MEMBERS OF THE KENTUCKY YOUNG HISTORIANS ASSOCIATION OF THE KENTUCKY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

(EDITORS NOTE: The following is the first of a weekly series of award-winning essays by members of the Kentucky Young Historians' Association, junior affiliates of the state Historical Society. The organization's members, ranging from fourth-graders through high school students, have gained recognition far beyond Kentucky's borders for outstanding historical research. They are still, of course, amateurs, no professional historians might occasionally find minor inaccuracies in their research, but the articles nevertheless promise to be interesting, while promoting enthusiasm for our state's rich heritage. So, please feel free to use any forthcoming essays.)

The Kentucky long rifle was truly the first American firearm. The earliest models were built by pioneers in Pennsylvania. It was long, slender, and in both hunting and warfare it was accurate. The rifle weighed between nine and ten pounds. The barrels were fifty-one to seventy-seven inches long. The stocks were mostly made of maple, or in the South, applewood. The man who discovered the cloth-patch loading method of guns was an unknown genius. Because of this invention backwoodsmen could get their second shot off in less than thirty seconds.

The rifles had forty-four to fifty parts which were not interchangeable. Most guns did not have too much decoration, because the sunlight would reflect and scare away the game. They sold for about twelve to fourteen dollars apiece. The Kentucky flintlock firing mechanism had other uses. Most frontiersmen sighted their rifles to shoot a little high at fifty yards. At one hundred yards it registered a three inch drop. Most owners of Kentucky rifles were so pleased with their fine weapons and so determined to improve their marksmanship that they practiced regularly and entered contests of all kinds.

The gun was made in steps. First came the barrel. The artisan would get a long bar about the right weight and put it in the fire until red-hot, then hammer it until it was straight. To rifle the gun, he would cut grooves inside the bore. The huge trigger guards of the Central European rifles were completely inadequate on the rough American frontier, and the pioneer riflesmiths were quick to replace them with strong, low, structural iron guards. Kentucky rifles had both plain and set triggers. After the revolution nearly fifty percent were set triggers.

Front and back sights were fixed to the barrel by grooved slides that could be moved sideways. Target rifles were usually equipped with pinhead front sights and some kind of an aperture rear sight, which was adjustable. Some of them even had sunshades. Even then, telescopes were used on the early flintlocks. Some of them were the length of the barrel. In 1776, the Continental Congress authorized the purchase of telescopes for rifles.

The Jaeger rifle is the father of the Kentucky or Pennsylvania rifle. At first the Jaeger rifle was used unaltered, as those made in the New World by the immigrant German gunsmiths were identical to those used in Germany. For some years this was the rifle of the early settlers and as such was the first rifle to be used in establishing the bridgehead of the colonial frontier. Conditions here were different from those in Europe. It wasn't until after 1760 that the Kentucky rifle finally parted company with its German ancestor. Even up until the Revolution some Kentuckians still retained the German pattern stock dimensions with a flag butt plate and a sliding wood patch cover. After the war, rifles with their butt stocks of crescent-shaped butt plates and hinged brass patch boxes became common.

Flintlock rifles were primed by means of a powder horn. Rifles like this were used widely in America in colonial times. Flintlock rifles had a piece of flint in the cocking hammer. Flintlocks were first used in muskets, then pistols, then rifles. No better all-purpose weapon was ever made for conditions as they used to be. This was the Kentucky rifle in flintlock and in percussion lock, from its infancy about 1750, until the time when the muzzle loader was superseded by the breech loader more than a century later.

Landscape Shortcourse

There will be a landscape shortcourse offered to Northern Kentucky homeowners, Tuesday evenings at 7:30 on October 8, 15, 22 and 29, at the Area Vocational School, Amsterdam Road, Park Hills. The course is being sponsored jointly by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky and the Northern Kentucky Area Vocational School. Instructor for the course is William "Bill" Straw, former Area Extension Horticultural Agent, registrar of the Aristocrat Ornamental Plant Tree, and owner of the Corliss Nursery. Topics are: Why Landscape, Designing a Landscape, Considerations in Plant Selection and Placement, Transplanting Your Selections, Maintaining Your Landscape for Life and Beauty, Insect and Disease Control, Patio Landscaping & Answers to Special Landscape Problems. A registration fee of $2 per household in advance covers all four sessions. For registration and more complete information call the Kenton County Extension Office at 356-3155.

Did you know that the annual income of the United Nations Children's Fund is less than the amount spent on world armaments in two hours?

With UNICEF's help, the death rate from malaria among children has been lowered from 3.5 million in the fifties to less than one million per year.

Five hundred million children of the developing nations face severe malnutrition and famine as a result of world-wide shortages of food and fertilizer. UNICEF has adopted a record $137.9 million program to assist these children.

Cooperative Extension Service News

Farmers who hire labor should be aware of the requirements for paying social security taxes. That reminder comes from Stephen G. Allen, Extension farm management specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Allen points out that farmers who pay cash wages for agricultural labor must report and pay social security taxes on each employee to whom $150 or more in cash wages was paid during a calendar year or who worked 20 days or more for any amount of cash wages during the year.

An employer can deduct half the tax due from an employee's wages, but must add the other half himself. For 1974, the social security tax rate is 5.85 percent each for the employee and employer. The total tax is 11.7 percent of the first $12,800 in wages paid to each employee.

Allen says agricultural labor generally refers to services performed for hire on a farm. It includes the raising of crops and livestock and other associated activities. It also includes domestic work in a private home if the home is on a farm operated for a profit. However, wages paid to a son or daughter under 21 years of age are not subject to the tax. An employer's wife or husband also is not covered by the tax requirement.

If the social security tax is due, the employer must pay it regardless of whether or not he has collected a share from the employee. If the total tax due (including the employer's and employee's share) at the end of the calendar year is less than $200, the total tax may be paid directly to the Internal Revenue Service, using form 943.

If the total tax due at the end of any month other than December amounts to $200 or more, a deposit must be made with an authorized commercial bank depository or with a Federal Reserve bank. In such case a Federal Tax Deposit Form 511 must accompany each deposit. Other rules may apply when a large number of people are employed.

For further information, refer to Circular A, Agricultural Employer's Tax Guide, available from the Internal Revenue Service, or contact the nearest IRS or Social Security office.

Killer Disease

Measles is a childhood disease we're more inclined to laugh about than worry over. Yet in famine-stricken West Africa that childhood disease is killing thousands of youngsters whose normal body defenses are weakened by severe malnutrition. UNICEF is providing vaccines, drugs and medical supplies to help combat the deadly effects of disease on West Africa's vulnerable young inhabitants.

TOBACCO FESTIVAL TO BE HELD IN BLOOMFIELD

Kentucky's most important cash crop will be honored during Bloomfield's Tobacco Festival, held Oct. 24-26, as part of Nelson County's celebration of Kentucky's Bicentennial year.

Kick-off for the three-day event will be Thursday night, Oct. 24 at 7:30 p.m. with a dinner at the Bloomfield Junior Club. The Tobacco Festival Queen will be crowned during the dinner.

Friday evening, there will be a steeple chase, square dance, local entertainment and game booths at the warehouse.

Friday, a flea market will be open all day at the Nelson County Gas Warehouse in Bloomfield on Depot Street. The Kentucky Historymobile will be displayed on both Thursday and Friday.

A tourist parade will begin Saturday's activities at 10 a.m. with bands from Nelson County and Fairdale High Schools, antique cars and tractors, Amish horses and many floats. The Giant Pumpkin will arrive during the parade, to be held from Big Harley to the Tappin Road Warehouse.

Saturday afternoon will feature contests of various sorts held on Depot Street from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m., including tobacco spitting, a bicycle race, a grained pig contest and hog calling.

A tour of historic sites in Central Kentucky, including Harrodsburg, Frankfort and Shakerstown at Pleasant Hill, will be held on Sat. Oct. 12, the last day of the meeting.

Open to the public, the symposium will cost $5 per person, $3 for students. Prices for meals will be $2.50 for dinner on Oct. 10 and $1.25 for the luncheon on Oct. 11. Room reservations should be made directly with the Lexington Hilton Inn, 105 Stanton Way, Lexington, Ky. 40503. For more information on the history symposium, contact Charles Hinds, Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives, 602-561-1100.

You can save money with washers!

The third greatest energy use in most homes is the heating of water. So here are some simple facts about saving: oversized water heaters waste energy by heating unneeded water.

Dripping faucets waste hundreds of gallons of hot water in a year's time, and this often can be corrected just by replacing faulty washers.

Showers use less hot water than baths. And washing clothes in warm or cold water costs less than when hot water is used. It all adds up... to waste, or to saving.

Electricity is too good to waste!

New Technique Helps Before Birth

One problem of very small premature babies is immature lungs. But new techniques can help baby's lungs develop, even before these babies are born.

Unlike some organs, lungs must be able to function at the instant of birth, or the baby will die. To survive the first breath, the baby's lungs must produce a substance called surfactant, which coats the millions of air sacs in the lungs. Surfactant gives the lungs the stretching power they need to expand with air, and keeps them from collapsing when the air is exhaled. Without surfactant, lungs cannot function.

Tests of the amniotic fluid in the mother's womb can measure how much surfactant the fetus' lungs are producing. If these levels are too low when premature labor begins, emergency measures must be taken.

From extensive research on pregnant sheep and rabbits, Dr. Mary Ellen Avery at Harvard Medical School has found ways to help trigger the production of surfactant in newborn babies. Even more astonishing, she has found techniques to stimulate the lungs of the fetus to produce its own surfactant before it is born. Administering small doses of a substance produced by the pituitary gland, Dr. Avery has found, can help fetal lungs develop at an increased pace and supply surfactant to the air sacs.

These new techniques can help save some of the thousands of babies in the United States who die every year from hyaline membrane disease.

Ky Burley Goes Abroad

A sizeable amount of the burley tobacco grown on Kentucky farms in 1974 was sold to foreign buyers. And it is likely that even more of this year's crop will go overseas, according to Ira Massey, Extension tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Predictions are that we will export an all-time high of 85 million pounds from this year's crop produced in the burley belt, with most of this tobacco coming from Kentucky," says Massey. "And if recent trends continue, even more of this year's burley crop will be exported."

The UK specialist says foreign buyers prefer first choice lucas, bright leaf and red leaf and are willing to pay "top dollar" to get these grades. "They demand full-bodied, high-aroma, non-injured, clean-striped grades," he adds.

FEARLESS

by R. W. Lancaster

October 10,
The Moon in the fixed sign Leo is a good time to fix things we have been putting off and get ready for winter. Weather permitting, this is a good time for painting or pouring concrete. Set fence posts now and they will stay tight in the ground, finish digging your potatoes and they will keep all winter. See your dentist today for fillings or plate impressions.

October 11,
Try to finish yesterday's projects before evening as the Moon goes into the earth sign Virgo at 4:15 local time. If you are planning to have a sale the 18th or 19th of this month plan your sales strategy. Advertise this evening or tomorrow and you will be well pleased with the results.

October 12,
The Moon makes a square to Neptune early this morning so you will probably remember some wild dream when you wake up. The confusion will pass after breakfast as you get ready for the day's activities. This is a good day to start treatments to eliminate corns, callouses, and warts; also a safe day for travel.

October 13,
The Almanac indicates we will have fair weather in our area this Sunday and the morning hours should be exceptionally nice. You could have some confusion in the afternoon as the planet Mercury turns retrograde, but this will pass before evening as the Moon enters the air sign Libra. Some good music would be very enjoyable and restful before bed time.

October 14,
You will wake up full of ambition this morning as the Sun conjuncts Mars early in the day. Make the most of this aspect by asking for a promotion or a raise in pay and you may get a pleasant surprise; also a good time to collect outstanding debts. The morning hours would be best. If you are going to have that sale on the 18th or 19th give it some more thought in the evening hours.

October 15,
We have a new Moon at 5:51 a.m. local time as the Moon conjuncts the Sun so the outlook for the next couple of weeks should be optimistic, especially the political promises. The afternoon would be a good time to do some sewing and any home baking would turn out very well, also an excellent time for house cleaning. Choose some new house furnishings today and you will be well pleased with your purchases.

October 16,
The Moon went into the water sign Scorpio last night, so today would be a good time to make an appointment to see your doctor and check up on your health. Get an eye test today if you need glasses and if you need any teeth extracted, get an appointment for this Friday or Saturday, while the moon is in Sagittarius. Today or tomorrow would be a good time to move into a new home if you want to stay a long time.

Forecast

Senate Okays Railroad Bill

By an 86 to one vote, the Senate has adopted legislation reauthorizing 1.5 million railroad employees and retirees that the railroad retirement system will be put on a sound financial basis.

Senator Marlow Cook, who voted with the majority approving H.R. 15301 on Sept. 25, said technical changes were made by the Senate in the version previously passed by the House of Representatives. Approval of those changes by the House was expected shortly, and the measure then would go to the President to be signed.

In the complex legislation restructuring the retirement system, according to Cook, Congress has tried to assure the employees and retired persons that the system they depend on for economic security will continue and that none of the benefit increases enacted by Congress in recent years will be reduced. Senator Cook Cosponsors Endorsement Of President's Anti-inflation Fight

Senior Kentucky Senator Marlow Cook has joined in a resolution expressing Congressional support for the President's call for oil-producing nations to roll back petroleum prices in the interest of world economic stability.

While lacking the force of law, the resolution he makes clear "that the well-being of the world and all of its people is gravely threatened by exorbitant or rigged foreign oil prices."

The price exacted by the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries for crude oil has quadrupled in the past two years. And, as the Senate resolution points out, "unprecedented inflation in the price of petroleum is and will continue to be a major contributor to inflation in countless sectors of the world economy, inflation which threatens the economic structure of the United States and the free world."

Law Enforcement Students

Law enforcement is entering an era of greater assistance from government on all levels. Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll recently told 100 graduates of a state-sponsored police training course.

Carroll said an example of the increased assistance in Kentucky is the salary incentive program enacted by the 1972 General Assembly, entitling graduates of certified courses in basic police training to a 15 per cent pay hike.

Among beneficiaries of that program are the 96 male and four female police officers representing 51 police departments who successfully completed 10 weeks of training at the state Justice Department's Bureau of Training. Carroll's remarks were made during graduation exercises held at bureau headquarters at Richmond.

According to Bureau Commissioner Robert Clark Stone, it marked the first time that the number of graduates had hit the century mark. The graduates comprised three different classes, but began training at the same time in mid-July.

Some courses included in the basic training curricula were traffic accident investigation, fingerprinting and search and seizure techniques. There also was introductory training in the new penal code. Local Graduates Are:

Richard T. Berger and David J. Moore, Kenton County and Thomas Roberts, Erlanger.

► The Orthodox Church of Greece has banned simultaneous marriages of two brothers to two sisters. Under Greek law, relatives may not marry and in-laws on either side are considered relatives. The provision has been circumvented in the past by simultaneously wedding two members of one family to two members of another. The argument was that the partners were not related to future in-laws prior to the conclusion of the sacrament.

ANTIQUE FESTIVAL TO BE HELD OCT. 25

The Cincinnati Antiques Festival will be held October 25, 26, and 27th at the Carrousel Inn, 8001 Reading Road, Cincinnati, Ohio. Hours of the show are 12 noon to 10 Friday and Saturday, noon to 6 on Sunday. The exhibit and sale of 30 prominent dealers in the finest antiques is sponsored by the Association of Volunteers of the Convalescent Hospital for Children which benefits from the admission donation of $2.50.

Mrs. William Robertson, Chairman of the event, reports that a wide selection of unique items representative of many periods will be offered for those who wish to buy or browse. Included, will be a special Loan Exhibit sponsored by Western Southern Life on "The Development of Taste" a survey of Table Appointments 1680 to 1850-containing many items of interest assembled from private area collections.

Mr. Louis Arnoff, a member of the Appraisers Association of America, Inc., will be available for expert oral appraisals at a $3.00 fee for each item presented to him on Friday and Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m., and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

An Antique Clinic "How to Care for your Antiques" will be held from 7-9 p.m. Friday. Mr. Edward R. Gilbert, Chief Conservator, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Michigan, will conduct the talk, accompanied by slides and illustrations.

Business Men Blast 2-Cent Health Tax as 'Burden'

Boone County Businessmen's Assn. has blasted a proposed two-cent health tax for the county.

In a letter sent to the homes of County Judge Ferguson and the three county commissioners, the associations says that by a unanimous vote of its members, it is in opposition of the tax because people cannot withstand additional tax burdens.

Tuesday, the court studied various ways to county could obtain revenue to build a much needed jail and county office building.

Means cited by Ferguson are the extension tax, payroll tax, health tax, and county car sticker.

Ferguson said he favors the two-cent health tax because it would allow the money the county budgets for the health department to be used for building project.

"One reason we object to the tax is that once it is approved by the fiscal court the health department could raise the tax from 2 to 6 cents," said William Shotwell, chairman board of directors.

But Ferguson maintains it is time the county stops supporting the health department from the general fund.

"Each year the health department comes to us with more demands for more money," said Ferguson.

"The department is pushing the general fund and the time will come to

The popular Lecture-Luncheon Forum will be repeated on Friday, October 25 at 10 a.m., with two outstanding speakers. Mrs. Louise Conway Belden, assistant curator at the Henry Francis Dupont Winterthur Museum, will speak on "18th Century Party Tables". Cook, Snyder Announce Grant

The Transit Authority of Northern Kentucky will purchase 78 new buses with part of the $318,268 granted to it Washington Friday, Senator Marlow Cook and Congressman M.G. "Gene" Snyder have announced.

Cook and Snyder said the money from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration would supplement $1,188,816 previously approved for the transit authority.

In addition to the buses, the grant approved Oct. 11 will go toward acquiring supervisory and maintenance vehicles and for related bus system equipment, the Senator and Fourth District Congressman said.

Wade Slams Ford's Wheat Give-away

October 8, 1974: Kentucky Farm Bureau President J. Robert Wade has sharply criticized President Ford's intervention in a planned Soviet grain sale, calling the action "nothing less than a callous slap in the face of every farmer in Kentucky and the nation."

Wade's criticism came in the form of a prepared statement, issued shortly after the President's announcement that a sale of $500 million worth of corn and wheat to the Soviet Union was being cancelled.

The suddenness and the timing of Ford's decision to intervene are "inexcusable and unthinking," Wade said, and his action will hurt farmers financially while actually increasing profit opportunities for speculators and buyers.

Specifically, Wade called President Ford to task for his seeming failure to consult with Secretary of Agriculture Earl Buttz prior to making the decision to intervene. This omission shows a lack of concern on the part of Ford top staff for the economic effects of the cancellation on farmers, Wade said.

In addition, the Farm Bureau leader said the timing of the intervention, which came during the middle of corn harvest season, was such that it will hurt "more farmers in more ways than a similar incident could at any other time of the year."

The immediate impact of the President's action was to plug normal grain marketing outlets. Wade said Kentucky farmers who could not store harvested grain on the farm were forced to unload truckloads at local elevators with no promise of what price it would bring once normal marketing resumes.

Wade pointed to substantially increased production costs, especially fertilizer, machinery and fuel, which have been absorbed by farmers during the current crop year, and which will have to be paid for by the crop now being harvested.

"It is a shame to have the farmers of this nation manhandled by policy makers in Washington who deal from a stacked deck of politically expedient embargoes, price manipulations and ceilings," he said.

"Only a few months ago, these same people were begging farmers to plant more crops and raise more meat to feed the nation and the world. Then this past weekend, as the weather-shortened crops were moving to market, Washington rewarded the food producers by cutting off an important transaction, and placing in question future sales to legitimate customers here and abroad."

Noting that Ford's action was applauded by consumer interests as a way to hold down food prices, Wade said the effect on supermarket prices would be minimal, while the effect on farm prices could, since it comes during the peak of harvest be devastating.

"The ironic aspect of this situation is the likelihood that grain prices will rebound later in the year, after harvest, and after much of the grain is out of farmers' hands," Wade said.

"Thus the President's action will have at most a temporary lowering effect on consumer prices, and may actually increase the opportunity for profit by speculators and grain buyers who buy now at lower prices from farmers and sell later, much later and much higher, to processors and consumers."

"No" to Inflation

According to the director of information for the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, "... if inflation is to be checked, control of federal spending is an absolute MUST. And if federal spending is to be reined, the answer has to be a resounding 'No' to demands for an ever-greater flow from the federal treasury and a reversal of the trend toward centralized government."

Dismissal Of Suit Against Office Of Management And Budget

U.S. Representative John B. Breckinridge (D-Ky) today announced that the Congressional Rural Caucus will seek a dismissal of its suit filed last May against the Administration. The Rural Caucus, which consists of 49 Members of Congress representing rural districts in some 30 states and which was organized in the 93rd Congress, is increasingly involved in working with Federal, state, local and nongovernmental representatives in behalf of the orderly growth and development of rural America.

In his capacity as a member of the Caucus and chairman of its Impoundments Committee, Congressman Breckinridge initiated the action which sought the release of nearly $4.5 billion in funds appropriated by Congress for nine domestic programs but impounded by the Administration, having to do with water and sewer disposal grants, open space land programs, preservation and restoration of wetlands, development of new communities, model cities, community development and highway construction.

Breckinridge, in explaining the decision to drop the suit, said that court action is no longer necessary to achieve the Caucus' original objectives. The Kentucky Democrat reported that at the time the Caucus initiated its litigation a number of impoundment suits had been ruled on throughout the country and were in varying stages of appeal, and that one of the main purposes of the suit was the codification of that impoundment litigation. Breckinridge went on to say that the situation has now changed, in that funds for four of the nine programs covered by the suit have now been fully released or appropriated by the Administration in response to the suit. Of the remaining five programs, three HUD programs are scheduled for termination and all five are the subject of special Presidential messages requesting deferral and/or rescission pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 93-344, known as the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, Breckinridge added.

"It would appear from the foregoing," Rep. Breckinridge went on to say, "that the Administration is in this regard in substantial compliance with the President's expressed intent, as stated in his Inaugural Address to the Congress wherein he outlined his desire to work cooperatively in solving the problems confronting our constituents."

At Breckinridge's suggestion a letter was sent by the Caucus to the President, reiterating the intention of Caucus members to cooperate in an appropriate manner in the solution of the problems of the peoples they represent.

UNITED APPEAL

Robert H. Williams

640-ft. Florence "moat" Result of "mix-up"

Unless you cruise around in a tank, don't try to drive to Ammon's Garden Center in the Florence Mall for a while.

Although the new $110,000 nursery shop is the only business four-lane Mall Rd. will lead to when it's blacktopped next week, drivers can't use it. Roadbuilders have cut a gaping drainage ditch between road and store that would only look inviting to Evel Knievel.

And to make matters worse, it appears the 640-foot trench was illegally excavated. Florence, Ammons and developer Chelsea Corp., in a flurry of indoor digging, haven't turned up any document authorizing the ditch.

Unless a construction easement suddenly appears at today's meeting of developer, nursery owner, Florence officials and state road planners, Ammons could sue, and sue hard.

"He has a case for illegal taking of his property, and he could seek money damages for the inconvenience," said Ray Vincent, Florence City Attorney.

But co-owners Ammons and Bob Maddox don't want a court battle; they want a road.

They expect to open Nov. 1 in their new headquarters, and have Florence Council's approval to fill in the moat-like trench. "We'll work out who will pay and how we will pay later," said Mayor C. M. Ewing.

He agreed with Ammons' persuasive logic: the equipment to fill the trench is now on the site and the cost of drainage pipe is going out of sight.

Some $4000 of 24-inch concrete drainage pipe was delivered Monday and work is moving ahead on the job, which will cost approximately $20,000.

Mayor Ewing suggested council pay for repaving the ditched area with funds from the $1.3 million Mall Rd. Improvement Fund, although no official spending has been authorized.

"Last July, when the bulldozers came to cut the (60 foot wide) trench, we thought there was something wrong," said nurseryman Maddox.

"It looked like they were cutting about 50 feet into our property," Drees Const. Co. drivers gave nursery crews a few hours to transplant the most valuable trees in the path, but many were simply mowed down, he said.

Who's responsibility was it to secure the right easements?

Florence's attorney Vincent said that right-of-way and permit duties were delegated to Chelsea Corp. in this case, but said the city normally handles these matters.

Florence is building the access roadways to the proposed multimillion dollar mall under supervision of the Kentucky Bureau of Highways.

Walton P.T.A. Halloween Festival

The Walton P.T.A. is sponsoring a Halloween festival Oct. 24 at W-V High School in the new gym. There will be booths, games, and prizes.

There will be many prizes given for the costumes for young and old. There will also be a Chili Supper served at the festival beginning at 6:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come.

Bake Sale

Walton Verona Junior Class will sponsor a bake sale at 10:30 Saturday, Oct. 19 in front of the Dixie State Bank.

Northern Kentucky area resident Robert H. Williams is serving as Special Gifts Division Chairman responsible for Boone and Kenton County UA solicitations in the 1974 United Appeal Fund Drive.

This year's goal to meet the needs of some 100 Community Chest agencies and the service programs of the Cincinnati Area Red Cross in our five-county Greater Cincinnati area is $1,150,000.

Chairman Daniel LeBlond last week indicated the fund drive is keeping the pace he had hoped for. He reported after two full weeks of campaigning pledges totaling $5,877,236, which is 49.6 percent of the goal, had been turned in. The campaign ends Oct. 31.

Williams is Accounts Manager for Cincinnati Bell, Inc. He is a resident of 186 Pelly Rd., Independence, with his wife, June, and son Robert. He is a member of the Independence Lions Club and has served as a UA solicitor.

Bicentennial Medals Make Ideal Souvenirs

Though most Americans are normally not avid collectors, the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) is trying to make sure that everyone is aware of the historical medals it is offering as part of the commemoration of the nation's 200th anniversary.

The series of medals is the only one issued under authority of the Congress by the United States and they are expected to be one of the most popular mementos of the period.

The 1974 Bicentennial medal, available in silver or bronze, is being produced by the United States Mint. Orders must be placed by November 1.

The silver medal is $15 and the bronze medal is $3.50. Net revenues from the sale of the official medals are used by the ARBA to help fund the Bicentennial projects of cities, communities and non-profit organizations throughout the nation.

The front of the medal features a bust of John Adams, second President of the United States and a delegate of the First Continental Congress, which is commemorated on the reverse side of the medal by a colonial figure silhouetted against a relief map of the original 13 colonies. The medal is dated 1974.

Turkey Shoot

All Saints Church on Needmore St. in Walton is having their Turkey Shoot on November 3, from 12:00 till dark. Lunch and a social will also be included.

Mrs. Steiner's ad appeared in more than 40 community newspapers in Cincinnati Bell's Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky operating territory.

American Education Week

It's October! Have you met your child's teacher yet?

This is the question that Walton-Verona educators would like you to consider as American Education Week—October 27-November 2 approaches.

To celebrate this annual observance, the teachers and administrators of the Walton-Verona school system are planning a "Happening" at Verona Elementary School. The main purpose and theme is "to celebrate the exciting cause of education," and the major emphasis is involvement.

The "Happening" or Open House is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 p.m. Demonstrations, exhibits, and activities of all kinds are being planned at all levels and in all subjects to illustrate the important work your educators are doing in grades 1-12.

So, if you feel that nothing new or nothing exciting goes on in your schools, come to the American Education Week "Happening", Oct. 28, 7:30 p.m. You may find yourself getting excited about your schools.

Showboat Announces All New Fall-Spring Season

The Showboat Majestic is happy to announce that due to tremendous audience response, it is now able to produce an all new Fall-Spring Season. The season, entitled "Just for Fun," will contain four top hit comedies.

Neil Simon's "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will open the season on October 24th and run thru November 9th. This hilarious comedy explores the world of a would-be philanthropist with a flair for picking the wrong pillow partners. This sad sack just can't succeed in aiming. The remainder to the season is as follows: "The Owl and the Pussycat," November 14 thru November 30; "Luv," March 13 thru March 29; and "Butterflies Are Free," April 3 thru April 19.

Performance times are Thursdays and Fridays at 8:30 p.m., Saturdays at 7:00 and 10:00 p.m. There will be one Sunday 3:00 matinee for each show. The Sunday performance of "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" will be November 3rd.

By subscribing to the Showboat Season, a person can see all four shows for the price of three. Single ticket prices and group rates are also available.

The Showboat is docked on the Cincinnati Public Landing off Mehring Way. For ticket information call the Showboat Majestic box office at 241-6550.

Wilmington Lodge Sponsors Ham Dinner

The Fellow Craft Club of Wilmington Lodge 362 F&AM, Fiskburg, Ky. will sponsor a Ham Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 19 from 5 to 9 p.m.

Proceeds are to go for the Building Fund.

Special entertainment will be by the Gospel Singers.

Kenton County Schools

Southern Kenton County's high school, Simon Kenton, may be expanded to care for 2000 students.

On the other hand, there is also a possibility that a new high school will be constructed.

Those two possibilities emerged from the October meeting of the Board of Education and set the stage for a visit to Frankfort and a conference with State Department of Education officials for Monday, October 21.

Superintendent Davis cited needs for a girls' athletic facility mandated by state law, space for home economics and industrial arts as well as other needs.

Any expansion program, which would also include Dixie Heights, would be designed to relieve present overcrowding and a return to the 6-2-4 system, six grades in elementary school, two in junior high and four in high school.

Any construction program, Davis cautioned, would require two to three years for completion.

Northern Kentucky Retired
Teachers Association

Retired teachers from the seven counties of the Northern Kentucky District are asked to convene in the Covington YMCA, corner of Pike Street and Madison Avenue on Friday, Oct. 25th at 1:30 p.m., Room 2, second floor of the Y is scheduled for the annual session.
The counties of the area are Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Grant, Gallatin, Pendleton and Bracken. Northern Kentucky Retired Teachers Association is an affiliate of the Northern Kentucky Education Association which will hold its annual meeting on the same date in Boone County High School, Florence.
The speaker will be Mr. John M. Ridgway, a member of the Legislative Committee of the Kentucky Retired Teachers Association. He is a dedicated educator who retired from the position of Superintendent of Lexington City Schools. It will be worth while to hear him tell of the present conditions and future plans for retired teachers in Kentucky.

Kenton County
Homemakers

The Kenton County Homemakers are planning a special series of programs entitled The Fine Art of Being A Mother (or How to be a Super-Mom!) designed to explore and enrich parent-child relationships. Programs will be held each Tuesday night in November at the Kentucky Federal Savings Community Room at 6890 Dixie Highway and will begin at 7:30 p.m.
Many interested individuals and agencies will participate in presenting the topics, designed to allow for a "rap session" after a short address by the speaker.
These programs will all be open to the public at no charge. For further information, or to register for programs, contact Gertrude Paprotka, County Extension Agent, at 356-3155.

STRETCHING Your
Good dollar..

Studies show that hungry shoppers are big spenders at the supermarket, according to UK Extension specialists in consumer economics. They recommend that you eat first, shop later. Studies also show that individuals shopping alone usually spend less than those shopping with someone, so you may save money by going to the supermarket by yourself rather than taking along family members or friends.

Staffordsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Mills of Middletown, O. were visiting relatives here Monday.
Work has begun on the Methodist Parsonage. The basement is dug and they hope to have it closed in before bad weather. George Fennell Jr. is the builder.
We have certainly had a lovely week to do fall work, it was a little late for some who either had their tobacco frozen or frosted. They are eager farmers to save all they can as it seems most anything is going to sell this year.
Had a letter from friends in Fairport N. Y., saying they had a 5 inch snow a week ago.

Bob Braun Kicks Off
Christmas Fund

With the entire Fun Hunch for lunch on hand, Bob Braun, host of Avco Broadcasting's successful 50-50 Club, kicked off the 1974 Ruth Lyon Christmas Fund with the new theme song, "The Spirit of Christmas." After opening today's (October 4th) program with this new theme song, written and composed by Tom Miller of Cincinnati and Cliff Lash, Bob welcomed the day's special guest, Walter E. Bartlett, Avco Broadcasting's Senior Vice President-Television. Mr. Bartlett extended to Bob and the Fun Hunch wishes for a successful Christmas Fund campaign and also brought remarks from John T. Murphy, the Company's President.
Mr. Murphy's letter stated, "October 4th is a most important day to you (Bob Braun) and your viewers of 50-50 Club... and have been responsible for raising nearly three-and-a-half million dollars. But, when we think of the Fund, our thought is not money, but of the smiles we bring to the faces of little children. That is the true meaning of the Ruth Lyon's Christmas Fund."

Q. Where can you find directions

Helping A Veteran

A Veterans Administration nurse has discovered a cure for skin ulcers, or "bed sores," by combining the skills learned both as a nurse and a housewife.

Gladya C. Wallace, of the Louisville, Ky., VA Hospital, had tried every recognized method of dealing with a gunshot wound in the abdomen of a 21-year old Vietnam veteran paraplegic. When the wound refused to heal despite the best of care, she sprinkled him liberally with karaya vegetable gum powder and wrapped him in a well known plastic kitchen wrap. Healing started the next day and was complete within a week.

A surgeon and Mrs. Wallace then treated the young veteran's leg ulcers and a deep ulcer over his spinal cord with karaya gum in the form of rings. All healed. He has gained 60 pounds and is active and happy.

The hospital has since used karaya vegetable gum and powder for more than 100 patients, including paraplegics and quadriplegics with decubitus ulcers, amputees with infected leg stumps, and diabetics.

The average times for complete healing have been 7 days for the more superficial ulcers and widely affecting skin areas, 14 days for ulcers extending down to the muscle, and 75 days for wounds involving muscle.

Woodshed Wisdom

Using Massachusetts Institute of Technology figures, a Wall Street Journal column reports that from two to five percent of the babies being born today in large American cities someday may die by violence the victims of homicide. If present rates of increase continue, the chance of being murdered for babies born in Detroit or Cleveland, for example, could eventually run anywhere from one out of 69 to one out of 14.

There is no explanation for this increase in the national murder rate. But, since it appears to be across the board, the only thing that can change the trend, The Journal article notes, is a change in social conditions and public policies. This would mean things like greater use of capital punishment, better drug treatment or a strengthening of family discipline. It may boil down to old-fashioned woodshed wisdom rooted in such aphorisms as "spare the rod and spoil the child" or "let the punishment fit the crime."

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norris announced the marriage of their daughter, Janet Norris to Mark L. Meadows, on September 14.

Q. What is the advantage in removing some of the leg tendons in a turkey?

A. This makes carving the leg much easier. The rich dark meat can be removed in generous slices when most of the leg tendons have been pulled.

Pumpkin Corn Meal Muffins

With rosy cheeks, shoes untied and hair all windblown - children burst (never walk) into the kitchen after school. Pumpkin Corn Meal Muffins, cooling on the counter, make fair target for after-school appetites. The lovely, spicy aroma somehow wards off the first chill of autumn - while making the kitchen a cozy and warm place to be.

Beautiful muffins - the easiest of the quick breads to prepare - become a real "health" food in this pumpkin-corn meal recipe. Using plentiful canned pumpkin adds Vitamin A to the overall nutrition picture. Eggs and milk provide protein. The major dry ingredient, enriched self-rising corn meal, has extra B-vitamins - thiamine, riboflavin and niacin plus two important minerals...iron and calcium - both essential to good health.

Pumpkin Corn Meal Muffins

- 12 to 14 muffins
2 cups enriched self-rising corn meal
1-3 cup sugar
1 tbs. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. ground cloves
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 cup butter, melted
1 cup chopped dates

Stir together dry ingredients. Blend eggs, milk, pumpkin, and butter, stir in dates and add all at once to corn meal mixture, stirring until smooth. Filled greased muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown.

Finger Licken-Good

CELEBRATE... NEW YORK "It's not finger lickin' good, it's sure lip smackin' good, and that's Fresh Pork, the Good Cook's Alternative," says Henry County farmer Jim Ellis, President of the Ky. Pork Producers Assoc. Announcing plans for a month long celebration, Ellis greeted more than 100 guests attending the annual Kickoff Breakfast, in Louisville Monday, of the 1974 October Porkfest. Addressing an audience of fellow pork producers, agribusiness leaders and guests of honor, Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, Ellis added, "Soon homemakers throughout Ky. and across the nation will be hearing about the 'Good Cook's Alternative', this year's Porkfest theme.

Concerned about the nation's eating habits, the image of pork, and the high cost of food, pork producers have concentrated their efforts to saturate mass media with the facts about "New Pork" which the average consumer may have missed. Consumers will be reading about "New Pork" in periodicals including Red Book, Family Circle, Reader's Digest, daily and weekly newspapers; and hearing about "The Good Cook's Alternative Fresh Pork," of course, on network radio and television. As the 71,000 pork producers across the nation supporting October Porkfest see it, this campaign gives them the chance to get the word in about their product for a change.

In Ky. the message will even be carried directly to the meat counter. There, Porkettes (wives of pork producers) will distribute literature and recipes on the "New Pork" to the shopper making purchases in the local super market. Several meat packing companies and nearly 100 retail super markets in the state are cooperating by featuring a "Whole Hog Pork Sale" during October, helping to make pork a budget stretcher for the harried homemaker.

In case that isn't enough to make pork irresistible to the consumer, Ky. Pork Producers are adding another strategy to their promotion program. Their secret weapon says Ellis is, "Ky. Style Barbecue Pork Chops." This will be the main dish Ky. Pork Producer Assoc. members will be serving to more than 2000 Kentuckians attending various civic and community picnics around the state.

"Once they get a whiff of the enticing aroma of those thick, tender and M-M good, barbecued pork chops," assures Ellis, "they won't be content until they've served that tantalizing dish in their home." And just to be sure "Ms. Homemaker" can, the recipe for those unforgettable pork chops (and more than 140 other pork dishes) is featured in a new cookbook now on sale by the Association.

Not Enough Children Being Protected

"Last year, there were over 400 cases of measles and of rubella or three-day measles here in Kentucky," says Mrs. Mary Cress RN, public health nurse of the Boone County Health Department. "The real tragedy however, is that not enough children are being immunized to assure that epidemics will not occur on a broader scale."

One of the main problems, she continues, is that many parents wait until their children approach school age before having them immunized. "This leaves the child unprotected during the first four or five years of his life, when some diseases are most serious and most likely to strike. Moreover, this means that if an epidemic occurs, it is most likely to spread quickly among children of this age group."

Mrs. Cress says that by the time a child is two years old, he should be fully protected against polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough or pertussis. However, statistics from the Center of Disease Control, US Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, indicate that the percentage of young children immunized against these diseases has been declining at an alarming rate in recent years. As a result, diseases that were once well controlled, such as polio, measles, and rubella, are becoming a problem once again.

"The statistics are really pretty frightening," Mrs. Cress adds. "In 1963, 84 percent of the children between the ages of one and four were immunized against polio. Last year, only 78 percent of Kentucky's two-year-olds had completed their oral polio vaccine series. Nationwide, it's even worse - only 60 percent. That simply isn't enough to prevent epidemics. Anyone who remembers the polio epidemics of the '50's, when thousands of children were permanently disabled, knows how serious this disease can be."

Polio isn't the only problem. The statistics for rubella or German measles show that 22 percent of Kentucky's two-year-olds have not been immunized. "Ten years ago, we had a rubella epidemic and now, Kentucky must spend over $3.6 million every year, to cover the cost of treatment, special education and institutional care for children whose birth defects were the result of their mothers' contracting rubella during pregnancy. Then the vaccine was developed and, because of an intensive state-wide immunization program, the epidemic predicted for 1970 and 1971 was prevented. But now we face the threat of an epidemic again because not enough children are being immunized."

One out of five or 20 percent of Kentucky's two-year-olds have not been protected against measles.

Mom's Halloween Tale... or Ode To A Candy Mess

Witches and goblins, unexplainable sights
Ghosts and great pumpkins, even white knights
All are a part of the Halloween scene
Whether you're three or you're past seventeen

For mothers of children, the day though means more
Their angels eat chocolate and goodies galore
Not a real problem, you say with a grin
Halloween's out as fast as it's in

No not a real problem, for Dad or for Bea
But what if dear Julie comes home all a mess
What'll mom do 'bout the stains on her blouse
How 'bout that chocolate that ran down from her mouth

What of that grape juice she had at Aunt Bea's
How 'bout that mustard she got on her knees
Oh and that lipstick she got on her sleeve
What of the bubble gum she set on at Steve's

Don't jump on that broomstick
It won't go away
So, for one day a year
Your child went astray

Your fairy godmother, from Miracle White
Ms. Virginia, will help solve your plight
Just follow directions as they do appear
Like magic you'll find stains do disappear

For chocolate and lipstick for grape juice and gum
The answer's so easy, no need to be grim
Just read very carefully, have patience not fear
Before you know it, you'll kiss the "I'll" deer.

CHOCOLATE OR COCOA

Place stained area in cold water, rubbing area until stain does not lighten further. Machine wash garment in hot water (160 degrees or more) with 1/2 cup Super Cleaner, 1/2 cup non-chlorine bleach and 1 cup detergent. If grease stain remains after drying, sponge with dry cleaner.

CHEWING GUM (BUBBLE GUM)

Rub stained area with ice. Scrape off as much as possible with a dull knife. Sponge with dry cleaning fluid and rinse well. Launder in the hottest water fabric will allow with 1/2 cup Super Cleaner and 1 cup detergent.

FRUIT & BERRY JUICES (GRAPE JUICE)

Fruit and berry stains (except cherry, pear, peach and plum) can be removed by pouring hot water through the stain until lightened. If hot water is not safe for fabric, soak in warm water with 1/2 cup Super Cleaner and 1 cup detergent for 1/2 hour in machine. After soak period, run through complete cycle. For cherry, pear, peach and plum stains: Sponge with cold water, rub in a small amount of detergent. Launder in hot water with 1/2 cup of Super Cleaner and 1 cup detergent.

COSMETICS (LIPSTICK)

Wet stains with cool water. Rub in detergent until a thick suds is formed. Rub in suds until outline of stain is gone. Rinse well and launder in hot water with 1/2 cup Super Cleaner and 1 cup detergent.

Strong Wheat Crop Price Expected For 1975

The sale price of the 1975 crop of wheat, which is being planted this fall, should be relatively strong. So says Steve Callahan, Extension agricultural economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Kentucky farmers should give serious consideration to increasing their wheat acreage for the 1975 crop," says Callahan. "If price weakness develops before the harvest season, the price for the crop can be locked in by selling on a cash contract to a local elevator, or by selling July futures in the commodity market."

"Although many farmers may feel it is too early to sell in the futures market, the current futures price of July 1975 wheat does point to price strength next year at harvest time," he continues.

The UK economist says double-cropping wheat and soybeans looks like an excellent program for 1975. "Current conditions point to excellent price levels for soybeans, as well as wheat, for next year," he explains. "Those who will learn how to double crop successfully and will become a serious student of when to establish grain prices should find 1975 to be another excellent year to be in the grain business."

In regard to the wheat market in the more immediate future, Callahan says prices should continue to be strong in the weeks ahead. He adds that when the market reaches a daily or weekly peak, it will be a good time to sell part of the crop still being held in inventory.

If normal weather conditions and current supply-demand factors prevail, there will likely be a very large acreage planted in all major wheat-producing countries next year, the UK economist points out. Announcements that show good progress in planting wheat will naturally be price depressing. Thus, Callahan expects prices to soften later this fall or in early winter.

"A price pattern similar to last year would be reasonable to expect, with the price being somewhat lower than last year throughout the season," he notes. "The extreme price strength developed last winter is not likely to be repeated."

Picture May Improve

Callahan points out that U.S. wheat prices are tied very closely to the world wheat market. He says the current world wheat supply picture is improved somewhat compared to the past two years, with both the United States and Europe producing very large wheat crops in 1974. However, although production increased in 1974, the world supply situation has not increased to the point where prices are expected to be burdensome in the immediate future, he adds.

The food you buy today is the best the American Family ever ate. It's high quality, abundant food grown on the most modern farms in the world.

It's processed in modern factories maintaining the highest standards of cleanliness and quality.

It's packaged in attractive containers designed to prolong storage life and save time in the kitchen. Our food is wrapped in convenience. We have concentrated frozen fruit juices, precooked dinners and cereals, frozen pies ready for baking, and cakes already mixed.

Americans enjoy the most nutritious food in the world today, and although you pay more for it than a few years ago, it's still the most reasonably priced in the world. Americans spend about 16 percent of their disposable income on food. That compares favorably with the 22 percent of disposable income spent for food 20 years ago.

Canadians now spend about 21 percent of their disposable income on food, the French 23 percent, and the Japanese more than 27 percent. In many other countries of the world the percentages are much higher than these.

The basis of our efficient food system is the American farmer, the agribusiness industries which serve him, and those who process and market the thousands of food items. All the abundant, nutritious food we enjoy from American farms is produced for us by less than 5 percent of our population. Never have so many been dependent on so few.

Equestrians Hayride

October 26th the Equestrians will sponsor a hayride at the home of Patrick Kelly on Big Bone Church Road in Union, Ky. All members and families of Boone County 4-H Horse Club are invited to attend. The Equestrians will furnish bon fire, wagons, tractors, hay, and fun. Each horse club is asked to bring enough hot dogs, buns, marshmallows and hot chocolate for their members. For more information call Cathy Holladay, President at 483-5133.

Butler Looks at Agriculture

Wendell P. Butler
Commissioner of Agriculture

The second annual Kentucky National Simmental Show and Sale will be held Oct. 19 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

A strong consignment of top animals is expected for this year's event. The animals will be competing in the show ring and then be sold at auction, with every animal being sold.

The Simmental Show is one in a series of nine beef cattle shows sponsored jointly by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and each of the breed associations. The purpose of the Kentucky National series is to promote the nation's cattle industry through recognition of the finest animals.

To insure that only the very best of the breed will be exhibited in Louisville, all cattle accepted for the show and sale are carefully screened by the sale committee and the sale managers. Managers for this year's sale are officials from Ruben and Reyes of San Antonio, Texas.

The Simmental Show and Sale is different from all others of the Kentucky National series in that animals are judged not only by their appearance in the show ring, but also by their performance on the farm. About 50 percent of the animal's point score depends on its rate-of-gain during the first 205 days of life.

Last year's show and sale, the first held for Simmental cattle, saw 72 head competing and a sale average of $3,368 per animal. The high-selling animal was a bull consigned by Anglo-American Cattle Company of Cleburne, Texas which brought a bid of $19,800.

Judging this year's event will be Dr. Gary Minniss of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va. The on-foot show is scheduled to begin around 9 a.m. in the West Wing Pavilion, with the sale getting underway in New Market Hall at 1 p.m.

Inquiries about the 1974 Kentucky National Simmental Show and Sale may be directed to the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, Division of Shows and Fairs, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Simon Kenton FFA Members Attend National Convention

Five members of the Simon Kenton FFA chapter will attend the convention. Delegates are Gary Riley and Tim Smith, other members are Peggy Collins, Stan Collet, Larry Orme and one chaperone, Mrs. Alice Cheesman. We would like to thank her for her cooperation.

They will be leaving S.K. at 5:00 Tuesday, Oct. 15, to go to Louisville to catch a bus. They will return Saturday, Oct. 19, at 8:00 a.m. at Louisville. They will have a complete report at the November meeting.

The Convention, which opens Tuesday, October 15, and ends Friday is one of the largest annual youth events in the nation. More than 15,000 FFA members and guests from 50 states and Puerto Rico are expected to attend this year's convention. The purpose of the Convention is to conduct national business of the FFA Organization and to recognize the accomplishments of FFA members.

The Kentucky delegation will be led by Joe Roberts, Hickman County, State FFA President, and Richard White, Union County, State FFA Vice President, who will serve as the state's "Official Delegates". Approximately 20 delegates from each state form the Convention's voting body. Mike Easley, State FFA Secretary from Scott County, is listed as an alternate delegate.

Eighteen Kentucky FFA members expect to receive the American Farmer

Degree, the highest Degree of achievement and leadership in farming or agribusiness. Each Kentucky American Farmer receives a gold key, a certificate, and a $70 check from the National FFA Foundation.

The Kentucky candidates already have been approved by the National FFA Board of Directors and National Officers. While they must be approved by County, William E. Lynch, Jr., Lower; Rodney F. Macy, Hickman County; James L. Midkiff, Fordville; William Mitchell, Jr., Woodford County; Gerry Seaton, Caneyville; Ralph Glenn Sager, Shelby County; Dennis M. Smith, Park City; Donald E. Wright, Lone Oak; and James Lacy Williams, Caldwell County.

Chas. Smith, National Public Speaking winner and State FFA Secretary, in 1972-73, will run for National Officer. Dennis, along with approximately 35 other applicants, will be interviewed by the National Officer Nominating Committee.

The State Public Speaking winner, Jim Newberry from Hiseville FFA Chapter, will participate in the Central Region Public Speaking Contest on Tuesday, October 15. If Jim wins the regional contest, he will compete in the national finals on Thursday evening.

Two state FFA members will participate in the FFA's 110-piece National Band. Ricky Smith, Tompkinsville, and Dan Combs, Jessamine County, were selected to represent Kentucky. The band members will go to Kansas City early to start practice sessions on October 13. They will remain until the 19th to participate in the opening parade of the 1974 American Royal Livestock and Horse Show.

The FFA band is organized and directed by Roger Heath of Virginia Technical University in Blacksburg, Virginia, who recruits members by mail

Simon Kenton F.F.A.

On Tuesday, Oct. 1 at 3:45 p.m. the Simon Kenton FFA chapter held its regular monthly meeting in the school cafeteria. The devotion was given and opening ceremonies were observed.

The main activity of the meeting was Keeping Greenhands. In order to become a greenhand and enter the FFA the new members had to dress up in short pants, backward shirt, tie, greenhand corn cobs made into the letters FFA for a necklace, a dress shoe on one foot and a work shoe on the other and also recite the FFA creed. Greenhands are as follows:

Joe Bergman, Daniel Chapman, Becky Crawford, Jed Detters, Daryl Epperson, Danny Evans, William Huffacker, Mike Jump, Kevin Koberly, John Kidwell, Joe Ouborn, Tim Overbay, Chris Parker, Mark Parker, Sammy Schadler, Troy Schadler, Tony Tanner, Jeff Troutman, Janet Lee Trapp, and Steve Liggert.

The chapter has got the FFA tobacco crop in the barn and looking good. The III & IV hour class is cutting tobacco in the community and are booked up on cutting tobacco for 2 or 3 weeks. The chapter has sold 100 cans of peanuts. The sale ended this week. Closing ceremonies were given. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1974 at 3:45 in the Agriculture Shop.

Search For Leadership

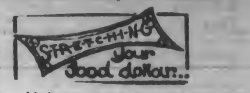

"FHA's Search for Leadership" was the theme at Simon Kenton High School, Saturday, October 5, where 16 chapters of Region 7 had their Fall Regional Meeting.

John P. DeMarcus, Vice-President of Northern Kentucky State College, gave a talk on "Qualities of Leadership."

Robert Abell, principal of Simon Kenton High School and Miss Charlotte Deters, president of Simon Kenton FFA, welcomed the other chapters, advisors and parents.

"Clues for Leadership" were presented by the ten regional officers.

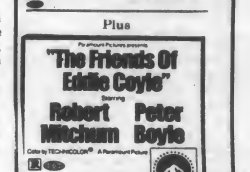

Diane Jump and Margaret Collett represented Simon Kenton as Regional Treasurer and Reporter.

Kentucky Day Celebrated at Expo '74

Kentucky received an international tribute Saturday, Oct. 12, when Expo '74, the world's fair in Spokane, Wash., celebrated Kentucky Day.

As part of Expo's series of state days, Kentucky Day honored the heritage and people of the Commonwealth with ceremonies and activities for Kentucky officials and visitors from throughout the world. Kentucky Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson represented Gov. Wendell H. Ford and was accompanied by Wendell H. Ford, deputy commissioner of parks.

During ceremonies at the Boeing International Amphitheater, Johnson officially opened Kentucky Day with a message of greetings on behalf of the people of Kentucky. He then raised the Kentucky flag while a brief history of the state was read.

Following the ceremonies was a state-day luncheon which featured Johnson as the guest speaker. Visitors were then taken on a tour of the fair and a formal state-day dinner concluded the day's activities.

Also participating in Kentucky Day were Claude Bekins, US Commissioner General to Expo, representing President Gerald Ford; James Dilliver, assistant to Washington Gov. Dan Evans; Luke Williams, president of the Washington State Commission for Expo; King Cole, president of Expo, Inc.; and Spokane Mayor David Rodgers.

Record crowds have visited Expo since its opening May 1. The fair features exhibits and pavilions from over 20 nations, as well as displays sponsored by railroads, airlines and industries. A riverboat trip, the world's largest merry-go-round and continuous entertainment in one of Expo's five amphitheaters are a few of the fair's attractions.

Johnson highly commended the entire operation at Expo, noting that it is an impressive achievement for the city of Spokane and everyone involved.

"I'm extremely proud to represent Kentucky on our day," he added, "and very grateful for the warm reception we've received and the enthusiasm that everyone at Expo has shown."

Johnson said he was also taking this opportunity to visit parks in the Northwest. During the upcoming week, he plans to meet with parks officials from Oregon and examine the facilities and operations at several of its state parks.

Vest Lindsey House Being Restored

The Vest Lindsey House in Frankfort, the home of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, is closed to tourists temporarily. However, those with business to transact with the staff of the Heritage Commission may continue to do so.

Restoration of the Vest Lindsey House, constructed around the 19th century, now is in the final stages. All but the basement was completed when restoration began several years ago. The basement now is being restored to the original kitchen.

Ma. Eldred Melton, acting director of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said that when completed, "the kitchen will

Cigarette Production

Cigarette production and the use principal outlet for burley tobacco continue to climb steadily, and this is the major reason why the 1974 farm production of burley, with all of its weather, labor and cost handicaps, is being watched closely by manufacturers and dealers.

As this year's crop was being moved into the barn for the air-curing phase of the production cycle, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, in its September estimate, forecast a crop of 576.2 million pounds in the eight-state burley belt, a figure that is about one-fourth larger than 1973's sales of 461.2 million.

The effects of rains during the crucial cutting and housing season are yet to be seen, and should be reflected in the crop forecast which will be made in October. Estimates of the crop size also will be made in November and December.

The USDA says the current supply of U.S. burley total stocks in the hands of manufacturers, dealers and associations administering the price support program represents (at 1,687 million pounds) about 2.6 years' use, "barely enough for trade requirements."

Cigarette use in the United States, meanwhile, is expected to increase by four per cent this year, according to the USDA's Economic Research Service, with both the population and the per-capita use of cigarettes increasing. Persons 18 years old and older will smoke more cigarettes in 1974 than last year's 208 packs per capita, the report says, noting that for the year ending next June, U.S. cigarette output is expected to exceed the 652 billion cigarettes produced in the previous year.

An average of 30 to 35 per cent of the American blended cigarette is burley tobacco produced in the eight-state belt Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Missouri.

Citing on October 4th letter to the President by the Freshman Lawmaker and some 80 colleagues, Breckinridge indicated that in his opinion: "A tax of this nature would only have had the effect of reinforcing the spiral of inflation and would push the already strained working man and woman past the financial breaking point." He added that: "While the encouragement of greater reliance on mass transportation as a fuel saving move is an admirable goal, it is impractical in view of the fact that 78 per cent of the public is forced to rely on private automobiles to get to and from work because of inadequate mass transit. Additionally, there is no question that the burden of this tax would have been borne on the shoulders of those least able to bear it."

A penalty rate of 70 cents a pound for excess marketings of burley tobacco has been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The rate will be in effect for the 1974-75 marketing year.

The USDA noted that the Agricultural Act of 1938, as amended, provides that marketings of burley in excess of 110 per cent of a farm's poundage quota are subject to the penalty.

have a brick fireplace that was common to the 1800s." She adds, "the Heritage Commission plans to furnish the kitchen with utensils and furniture of that period. Next to the kitchen is a cistern in a room all to itself."

A part of the basement is being adapted for office space.

Ma. Melton said that the restoration should be completed by Nov. 10, when the house will be reopened to visitors.

For Paralyzed Veterans

The Castle Point, N.Y., Veterans Administration Hospital is attracting international attention as the "proving ground" for a new line of prosthetic "hardware" that give totally paralyzed Vietnam veterans mobility never expected a decade ago.

Devices developed by the VA Prosthetics Center in New York City and tested at Castle Point permit a quadriplegic paralyzed from the neck down to turn a television set or stereo on and off, to elevate the hospital bed, and answer the telephone.

Also being tested at the hospital is a closed circuit TV device permitting a paralyzed veteran to monitor his front door—see who is there, speak with the visitor, admit him or send him on his way.

Also being tested is a van which, by use of an arm and winch, will permit a wheelchair patient to lift himself into the vehicle, chair and all, and place himself behind the wheel.

The hospital first gained prominence in this field during the Vietnam War when 57 South Vietnam soldiers were flown there for spinal cord injury treatment on the advice of Dr. Howard A. Rusk, Director of the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at New York University Medical School.

After little more than a year at Castle Point, all had returned home, most of them to useful, self-supporting jobs.

Castle Point is one of several VA spinal cord injury centers where 2,675 U.S. veterans, paralyzed by spinal cord injury, have been transferred directly from military hospitals since the beginning of the Vietnam War.

Vietnam War quadriplegics are the first to have from their youth the advantages of being able to drive their own automobiles or vans, take themselves in breath-controlled or chin-controlled powered wheelchairs to restaurants or the movies, and travel long-distance with stops at hotels especially equipped for the handicapped.

"IGNORANCE IS CRAZY."

Carroll O'Connor

"I've never had cancer. But I'd be crazy to ignore it. You'd have to go along with that. The fact is, many cancers can be cured if they're detected early. Do you know that 1 1/2 million Americans have already been cured? But you've got to know the warning signals:

- Change in bowel or bladder habits.
- A sore that does not heal.
- Unusual bleeding or discharge.
- Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere.
- Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
- Obvious change in wart or mole.
- Nagging cough or hoarseness.

These are the signals. If one of them appears see your doctor right away. The odds are you don't have cancer. But only your doctor can tell you that for sure.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Few home decorations are more adaptive and attractive in carrying out the motif of autumn than a tastefully arranged basket or bowl of ornamental gourds. For such purposes, however, they should be carefully harvested and cured. Otherwise, they may soon discolor and decay.

For use as home decorations, gourds should be picked fully ripe, before they have been subjected to heavy frost. It is best to cut them from the vine with pruning shears, leaving 2-3 inches of stem attached.

Gourds may have hard heads, but they also have tender, easily damaged skins, so handle them with care when gathering and curing them. Abrasions or bruises on the tender skin of gourds may cause them to develop unsightly spots or rot.

To prepare the gourds for curing, UK Extension specialists recommend that each fruit be washed carefully with a mild borax solution and dried with a soft cloth. This will get rid of dirt and organisms of decay.

When this has been done, place the gourds on a shallow slatted tray, screen or open shelf in a well-ventilated area, out of the direct sunlight, where the temperature is about 50-60 degrees. Do not store curing gourds in a damp basement or in tight, unventilated containers.

Turn the gourds daily and discard any that develop soft spots or show signs of shriveling up. After the first week of curing, the skins will become hard and tough and frequent turning will no longer be necessary. However, at least three more weeks are needed to complete the curing process—larger gourds may take even longer. The Extension specialists advise continuing inspection every few days to locate and remove any fruit that shrivels or shows signs of discoloration.

The colors of properly cured gourds can be expected to last for three or four months at least. The application of a protective coat of white shellac, floor wax, or furniture polish to the dry, completely cured fruit will help them retain their color for even longer.

Gourd purchased at a roadside market should be treated in the same manner, but before purchasing, the specialists caution, be sure to examine them closely and select only those that show evidence of careful harvesting and handling.

American Revolution Bicentennial Board Approves Grants

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration's Board today issued guidelines for and approved matching grants to States and Territories for their Bicentennial programs.

Up to $240,000 is available to each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and American Samoa.

The Congress authorized $200,000 of the money in appropriated funds under Public Law 93-179, which established the ARBA. The remaining $40,000 per State is from money raised through the sale of official Bicentennial medals.

In releasing the guidelines, John W. Warner, Administrator of ARBA, said: "The new Bicentennial Administration is endeavoring in every way to improve and increase its assistance to State Bicentennial Commissions. The guidelines for the grants provide a wide latitude of discretion and authority so that each State can best accomplish its purpose and aims in commemorating the nation's 200th anniversary."

The ARBA has previously provided $2.1 million in non-appropriated matching grants which are supporting approximately 500 Bicentennial programs. These grants have gone to projects which have generated an additional $16 million from other sources.

Mr. Warner expressed the hopes "that this new grant money will encourage an equally impressive outpouring on the part of private, local and State entities in support of Bicentennial activities."

Projects to be supported by the grants may be conducted directly by the State Bicentennial Commission or by State or local government agencies or non-profit organizations. All money will be awarded through State Commissions, which will also monitor the grants.

Communities and non-profit organizations must apply to the State Commissions for the grant money, and projects must be officially endorsed or recognized by the Commissions to be eligible for grant support. Determination of eligibility of projects for funding with grant money is primarily within the discretion of State Commissions.

The State Commissions can use in-kind contributions for up to one half of the matching requirement to promote the widest possible participation in the Bicentennial, include youth, minority and ethnic groups, and others who may not have the financial resources to meet a total dollar matching share requirement.

Public Law 93-179 established the period of official Bicentennial commemoration between March 1975 and December 31, 1976, and all projects funded must bear a direct relation, but are not confined, to this period.

To be eligible, projects must be within one or more of the three basic national themes of "Heritage '76," "Festival USA" or "Horizons '76."

The guidelines also include accounting and reporting requirements and details on procedures and time limits for requesting funds. Under federal regulations, the guidelines will be open for comment for the next thirty days under circular AHS.

Board members attending were U.S. Senators Edward Brooke and Joseph Montoya, House members Lindy Boggs and M. Caldwell Butler, a representative for Secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton, Miss Carol L. Evans, Mr. J. Duane Squires and John W. Warner.

The oath of office was read to Miss Evans, Detroit, Michigan, and Mr. Squires, New London, New Hampshire, two of the three state commission members on the board appointed by

Training Films Distributed By EMT

A series of training films for Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs), developed by Kentucky, now is being distributed for use across the nation by the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Audiovisual Center (NAC), in Washington, D.C.

According to Thomas Thompson, training coordinator for Emergency Medical Services, Bureau for Health Services, some 30 states now have purchased the series and are using it in their EMT training programs.

The series evolved from a grant through the Highway Safety Act of 1966. This legislation contained provisions for upgrading and professionalizing the ambulance field and improving its life-sustaining abilities, a goal of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Working together, the former departments of Health and Public Safety (now incorporated into the Departments for Human Resources and Justice, respectively), began developing a training program for EMTs. One of the major stumbling blocks in the program, according to Thompson, was a lack of available physicians to serve as instructors. Those who were available usually were overworked, on call, or sometimes called in the middle of a lecture to treat a needy patient.

To solve this problem, the decision was made to film the lectures. This was done at the University of Kentucky with the cooperation of the TV Center and the College of Medicine, utilizing faculty physicians. Also, special services were provided by Dr. Paul H. Owen, director of medical services at UK, and Roger Koome, head of production at the school's TV Center.

Kentucky was the first state to get such a program off the ground, Thompson said, and the other states soon began to request the films, leading the NAC to the decision to distribute the series nationally.

Since Kentucky began using the training films, along with other segments of the EMT training program, more than 1,960 persons have been certified as EMTs.

The course is intended to prepare ambulance attendants, rescue squad members, and public safety personnel to provide life-sustaining care until the patient can be taken to a physician or hospital.

The EMT course consists of 71 hours of classroom instruction and practice, plus 40 hours of hospital observation.

Caramel Apples Fun to Make and Eat

What do children like as much as romping through the leaves on a breezy autumn afternoon and more than stopping at the store for penny candy? If you're a homemaker looking for the answer to this question, you'll want to treat your youngster to Caramel Apples and Crunchy Mallow Candy.

If it's a rainy day or the children are just looking for something new to do, they might enjoy helping with these treats. Both recipes are simple to prepare, and Caramel Apples are especially fun. Young cooks will love dipping the bright, fresh apples into the thick caramel mixture and then decorating them with the variety of goodies available. Crushed Peanut Brittle suggested in this recipe is one of many choices which might include marshmallows, gum drops, raisins, nuts or cereals.

Caramels and apples are available year 'round for making Caramel Apples. Apples, however, are in greatest abundance during the fall season. In fact, October is National Apple month. During the fall you'll find 14-oz. bags of caramels in your grocer's produce section as well as on the candy shelves, with wooden sticks tucked right inside the package.

Everything is ready to make autumn the perfect season for "Caramel Apple'ing."

For other good food ideas featuring caramels and apples, write Caramel Apple Recipes, 6768, Chicago, Illinois.

The Bureaucratic Mind Insight Into Socialism

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Occasionally a glaring example of the way too many Federal bureaucrats think surfaces to full public view. A real beast was the proposal of Federal Energy Administrator John Sawhill last week to levy a "conservation fee" of up to 30 cents on every gallon of gasoline used in this country with some compensation through a "tax-credit", depending on one's mileage per gallon.

This "solution" is typical of the ivory tower official who has not only his head, but his feet in the clouds. Removed from reality, he's way out of touch with the common people who have to underwrite his pet cure-all schemes with their hard-earned tax money. I'm not denying the good motivation of most bureaucrats of this type, just pointing out their lack of common sense. Common sense would dictate saving petroleum by temporarily lifting tight environmental standards and making massive use of Kentucky coal, instead of keeping it restricted.

It costs you an arm and a leg now, not only for the groceries you have to buy each week, but for the gas you use just to get to the store. On top of the high price big chunk of which is current Federal and state tax Sawhill would have added burden of some 50 percent more per gallon to achieve his purpose.

I moved fast to head off this measure. On hearing of Sawhill's proposal on TV the morning of October 2nd, I immediately wired President Gerald Ford. I urged him to fire the FEA Administrator and every other White House adviser who'd abuse our people who have done much voluntarily to conserve fuel. I urged him to announce he would O.K. no new Federal gas tax.

At noon I introduced a bill H.R. 17000 that would prohibit the FEA from imposing any tax, fee, or other charge unless such tax, fee, or charge is approved by Congress by law. The reaction of the country was evident by the fact that 49 members of Congress immediately co-sponsored my bill, and 6 more co-sponsored one identical bill. My phone rang off the hook with other Members inquiring about it. President Ford subsequently did announce that he disapproved of Sawhill's proposal and there'd be no levy added to gasoline.

Let this warn those who might be even a little bit persuaded that socialism would be a better system than our own, because the government would run our industry, transportation and other major enterprises under overall planning. Don't be fooled by the claim that socialism is a "one-class" system as workers opposed to capitalism's "two class capitalists and workers." In reality, Sawhill and his associates had a plan for you, but fortunately, under our system, you have a representative to fight for you!

Senator
Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Foreign Investment Review Act of 1974

I am currently co-sponsoring the Foreign Investment Review Act of 1974, legislation which is pending before the Senate Commerce Committee. This bill will close an information gap which has existed too long in the area of foreign investment in the United States. In essence, it would provide for the systematic collection of investment information, something the Federal Government does not now have the authority to do.

Foreign investment is without a doubt one of the cornerstones of world economic activity. For years we have been concerned with it, primarily because U.S. foreign investment was contributing to our balance-of-payments problem. However, now that many of the world's economies have changed relative to ours, we are again concerned with foreign investment, only this time from the standpoint of how it affects our domestic economy.

Recent figures show that in 1973 foreign direct investment in the U.S. was $17.7 billion and foreign portfolio investment was $49.8 billion. This is a substantial increase from 1961 when foreign investment stood at approximately $7 billion.

When we consider that our Gross National Product totals $1.3 trillion, these figures may not surprise or concern us. However, when we stop to consider that these figures are merely so much guesswork this should and does give rise to a great deal of concern. To demonstrate the lack of reliable information we have, non-government witnesses at recent Congressional hearings testified that direct investments are probably closer to $38 billion.

Information has always been the life blood of any economy. Without a knowledge of what is happening, intelligent and rational decisions cannot be made by those who have the responsibility to do so. An outstanding example of this is the unpleasant experience the United States had with Soviet wheat deal. A definite lack of centralized information prevented government officials from knowing fully the extent of the wheat purchases until prices went through the ceiling. That's what this legislation is designed to cure.

Extravaganza

In a display of unity such as Northern Kentucky has never before seen, the candidacies of Wendell Ford, Kyle Hubbard, John Breckinridge and James Galliece at a huge rally to be held at the Latonia Race Track on Tuesday, Oct. 29 beginning at 6:30 p.m. More than a thousand people are expected to attend. Arrangements for the affair are under the direction of state representatives Elmer Dietz of Kenton County, Bill Donermeyer of Campbell County, and Bill McHee of Boone County. All the candidates will be present along with Lieutenant Governor Julian Carroll. The public is cordially invited.

Not intended to be a fund raiser but rather as a pre-victory celebration, admission to the affair is minimum. This includes food, refreshments, music, dancing, and door prizes.

A unique feature of the party will be local lawmakers, dressed in appropriate garb, serving food to the guests. Among these are Dietz, Donermeyer, McHee, State Senator Gus Sheehan, Representatives John Isler, Phil King and Terry Mann.

President Ford Proclaims National School Lunch Week

President Gerald R. Ford has proclaimed the week of October 13 as National School Lunch Week, asking the American people to give special attention to nutrition for young people during that week.

In issuing the proclamation, President Ford said that "providing nutritious lunches for millions of American school children is a concrete way of investing in our future well-being as a Nation."

Congress designates the second week of October each year as National School Lunch Week, and asks that the President issue a proclamation recognizing the week.

President Ford noted that "only healthy, well-nourished students can realize their fullest mental and physical potential and transform equality of opportunity from an ideal into a reality."

To the Editor:

Each year at this time was ask your cooperation in bring the fall UNICEF Trick or Treat campaign to the attention of your readers

This year we submit our request with special urgency.

For the first time in its 28-year history, the United Nations Children's Fund has declared a state of worldwide emergency. Five hundred million children in the poorest and least developed countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America are now threatened with severe malnutrition and even starvation because of droughts, skyrocketing inflation and actual food, fuel and fertilizer shortages.

One effective way that more fortunate citizens of this resourceful country can help UNICEF's extraordinary efforts to avert this impending disaster is through their support of the Halloween fund-raising programs. Last year, more than $3,000,000 was collected in the familiar orange and black UNICEF cartons by American children at Halloween a generous contribution to the less fortunate youngsters with whom they will share the future.

Your editorial cooperation can contribute significantly this year to the success of the millions of American Volunteers who, through the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, are redoubling their efforts to help the world's needy children.

We thank you, on behalf of those children, for whatever editorial, news and feature space you can give us.

Sincerely,
Johnna Grant

SUNDAY SERMON

God's Concern About Daily Living (Temperance)
(Proverbs 3:5-8; 13-14; 15:1-4; 23:19-21)

Ralph Tyler Flewelling said, "We live in an age to which self restraint is hateful. Our emphasis is placed on achievement. Restraint without achievement is nothing, but achievement without restraint is worse." Caird said, "Self government is, indeed, the noblest rule on earth; the object of a loftier ambition than the possession of crowns or sceptres. The trust conquest is where the soul is bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ. The monarch of his own mind is the only real potentate." The above statement is in keeping with the suggestion that if one would learn self-mastery, he must begin by yielding himself to the One Great Master.

Our lesson for today speaks of the worth of wisdom.
The Worth of Wisdom, Proverbs 3:5-8, 13-14

If man is to live life at its highest and best he must have wisdom. This wisdom does not come by human achievement, it is the gift of God. The apostle James, writing to Christians about how to live in a complicated world, how to make the right choices said, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him" (James 1:5).

Wisdom that comes from above touches man to "trust in the Lord with all (of his) heart." This wholehearted confidence in God brings a peace that passes all understanding. It is the assurance that all is well, even in the midst of trouble and trials. Further admonition is "lean not unto thine own understanding." Man's understanding is always limited. He needs the guidance that can come from God alone who is the Giver of life.

Verse 6 calls for total commitment to the Lord. The person who makes this total surrender to the Lord will experience divine direction. Bear in mind that the call is for total submission. Does this make good sense to you? Do you believe that God will give guidance to a person who acknowledges Him in all of his ways?

Don't be wise in your own eyes is another way of saying that man needs God's guidance. "Fear the Lord" means to hold Him in reverence and honor. The other words in verse 7 must be followed, "and depart from evil." One must settle the sin question in his life if he expects God to direct his path.

Verse 3 is a promise of blessings to such surrender and trust. Healing will come to the flesh and refreshment to the bones. God's blessings abide upon the man who gives God first place in his life.

What is the worth of wisdom? Verse 13 says that the man who finds wisdom will find happiness. An understanding of God's will and a dedicated, determined effort to follow God's will brings joy and peace. It is not possible to put a price tag on such wisdom. It is greater than the most valuable measurements of value known to man.

Proverbs 15:1-4 speaks to us about the way of words.

The Way of Words, Proverbs 15:1-4
Words of kindness put an end to anger. It is difficult to be angry with a kind person. The opposite is true where words of unkindness are spoken. Many marriages have taken the road that led to a dead-end because of grievous and unkind words. Words stir up anger.

Verse 2 tells us that the tongue of the wise will give forth knowledge but the mouth of fools pour out foolishness. The apostle Paul speaks in Ephesians chapters 4 and 5 concerning speech which builds up over against that which tears down. One can never be too careful with his words. Words reveal whether we are men of wisdom or men of folly.

The eyes of the Lord are in every place, taking note of the evil and the good. In other words, no evil or good word or deed passes the attention of God. If we speak words that build up, our tongues will be instruments which God used to help men live. But if we speak carelessly, without regard for the truth, we will break the spirit of people. We will pull down. We will hurt and hinder. Our society needs healing today. There is no place for tearing down and spreading discouragement.

Kindergarden Protest

Fifty Roman Catholic mothers, led by three seminarians, staged a demonstration in the Town Hall in the coastal city of Split, Yugoslavia, to protest a local government ban on four church-run kindergartens, according to the Belgrade evening newspaper, Vecernje Novosti. Astonished authorities agreed to suspend its ban on the church-run kindergartens "until alternate kindergartens" were provided, pointing out that the Yugoslav Constitution allows churches to provide "any religious instruction" and to conduct seminars for future priests.

Card of Thanks

We want to thank everyone who helped while we were in the hospital from our accident. We want to thank the life squad and helpers who got us there so fast. All the doctors and nurses who were so nice during our stay and all the nice cards, phone calls, and gifts, at the hospital and home. The ministers who had prayer at the church. Again we want to thank all in the time of need.

THE PUBLIC IS CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND

Not long ago I was driving home along the parkway, depressed and worried by many problems. The day was bleak and gloomy. Huge clouds boiled and churned above dark, forbidding mountains. Even the foliage hung limp and still.

Suddenly the clouds parted and a ray of sun streaked through. In that fleeting moment the landscape became beautiful—grayness transformed into mauves, deep blues and lively greens. It was like watching Creation. For the first time in a long time, I thought of God. And I prayed as I had been taught long ago in my church.

That was a turning point. Since then God and His Church have once more become a part of my life, and my problems have disappeared in a way I never dreamed possible.

God's goodness is always present. Go to your church, and learn the truths that can transform your life.

World Of Good For The

Across the U.S.A., in homes and communities everywhere, children will celebrate "All Hallows' Eve" with parties and costumes, tricks and treats, ghosts and goblins with UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

Through UNICEF their efforts to collect funds for the world's needy children will be transformed into material signs of help, hope, and health for some of the millions of children struggling to stay alive in the developing world. American children's evening of excitement, games and good deeds will become food for young Africans caught in their country's seven-year siege of drought and famine. It will help provide insurance, in the form of Vitamin A capsules, against terrifying vitamin deficiency blindness for youngsters in wartorn Indochina. It will help supply clean-water wells to stop sickness in India, emergency aid to flooded and beleaguered Bangladesh, and a teacher, a school and education supplies for illiterate children of a Bolivian village. Through UNICEF, the Halloween fun of children here at home will mean a new lease on life for desperate children in countries around the world.

Help for these children can't come too soon. The same conditions making Americans pay 40 cents for a loaf of bread and over half a dollar for a gallon of gasoline are turning the existence of children in already poverty-stricken nations into a nearly impossible feat. World-wide shortages of fuel, food and fertilizer have caused prices to soar. Global inflation is so severe that governments must trim their budgets, and social services for children and mothers are often the first to be cut.

Every day famine pushes its path further around the equator, threatening up to half a billion Third World Children. These children face the most basic dangers to human life: malnutrition, disease, starvation and death. To UNICEF has for the first time in its 28-year history, declared a State of Emergency for Children in the Developing World.

UNICEF already is shipping and distributing high-protein food and intravenous rehydration and feeding fluids to children and mothers in drought-stricken West Africa and Ethiopia. It is also applying well-drilling equipment to the areas to provide desperately needed clean water for drinking. The Children's Fund can help governments establish nutrition programs, train parents and community leaders to increase local food production, and support other emergency child feeding projects. But UNICEF must find an additional $80 million in the next 12 to 15 months to meet the emergency needs.

It is fitting that the world's youngest and neediest should be helped by their peers here at home. On or around Oct. 31, children and young people will "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" ride bikes for UNICEF, arrange block parties, "hunger" banquets and even Bobby Riggs and Billie Jean King style tennis matches for UNICEF. Such activities will assume greater importance this fall as reports of world-wide child tragedy mount and the need for funds becomes increasingly apparent.

Last year over 35 million young people in 50 states and on military bases in Europe and Asia raised over $3 million at Halloween-time, having fun with a purpose, mixing games with good will, making magic for mankind. This year they'll be out ringing doorbells again. They know Halloween's for children all around the world.

BOND ORDINANCE 1974-40
CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY

ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, AUTHORIZING THE ACQUISITION AND CONSTRUCTION OF A SEWER SYSTEM AND ALL APPURTENANT FACILITIES; AUTHORIZING AND PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF EIGHT HUNDRED TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($820,000) PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF CITY OF WALTON SEWER REVENUE BONDS OF 1975, FOR THE PURPOSE OF FINANCING THE COST (NOT OTHERWISE PROVIDED) OF THE AFORESAID ACQUISITION AND CONSTRUCTION; SETTING FORTH THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS UPON WHICH SAID BONDS MAY BE ISSUED AND OUTSTANDING; PROVIDING FOR THE RIGHTS OF THE HOLDERS OF SAID BONDS AND THE ENFORCEMENT THEREOF; AND PROVIDING FOR AN ADVERTISED, PUBLIC, COMPETITIVE SALE OF SAID BONDS.

WHEREAS, the City of Walton, a fifth class City of Boone County, Kentucky, has no central sewer system and it is necessary for the preservation of the health and welfare of the citizens of said City that the City provide for the acquisition and construction of a new sewer system in accordance with certain plans and specifications prepared by Kral, Zepf, Freitag & Associates, Engineers, Cincinnati, Ohio, now on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City, and

WHEREAS, it is the desire and intent of this City Council at this time to adopt this Ordinance pursuant to the provisions of Sections 94.160 and 96.350 through 96.510, inclusive, of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, to authorize and provide for the issuance of revenue bonds in the principal amount of $820,000, for the purpose of defraying the cost (not otherwise provided) of the acquisition and construction of a new sewer system for the City and to prescribe the covenants of the City, the rights of bondholders and the details of the issuance and sale of said Bonds, and

WHEREAS, the proceeds of said Bonds will be supplemented by an approved FmHA grant in the amount of $380,000, an approved HUD grant in the amount of $252,700, an approved EPA grant in the amount of $889,845, an approved KPAA loan in the amount of $403,701, and by sewer connection charges in the minimum amount of $190,000, of which amount at least $180,000 is to be deposited initially into the Construction Account and at least $10,000 from such connection charges is to be deposited initially into the Operation and Maintenance Fund,

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALTON, KENTUCKY, DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. DEFINITIONS.

A. The "City" refers to the City of Walton, in Boone County, Kentucky.
B. The "City Council" means the City Council of the City of Walton, in Boone County, Kentucky, or such other body as shall be the governing body of said City under the laws of Kentucky at any given time.
C. The term "system" refers to the new City sewer system, the acquisition and construction of which is being financed by the Bonds herein authorized (supplemented by certain approved grants and by sewer connection charges).
D. The "Bonds" means any of the Bonds of the original authorized issue of $820,000, specifically authorized by this Ordinance.
E. The term "parity bonds" means bonds which may be issued in the future, in addition to the $820,000 of Bonds herein specifically authorized, which bonds issued in the future will, pursuant to the provisions of this Ordinance, rank on a basis of parity with said $820,000 of Bonds, as to priority, security and source of payment, and does not refer to bonds which might be issued so as to rank inferior to the security and source of payment of said $820,000 of Bonds.
F. The term "Fully Registered Bond" shall refer to a single or series of negotiable (subject to registration requirements as to transferability, as herein prescribed) Bonds payable to the registered owner (if such purchaser shall elect to take the Bonds so purchased in the form of a Fully Registered Bond), of the form set out in this Ordinance under the title "FORM OF FULLY REGISTERED BOND".

G. The term "Engineer" or "Engineers" means the Engineer or any one of them, who prepared the plans and specifications for the construction of said system and who will supervise the construction thereof, and shall be deemed to refer to the firm of Kral, Zepf, Freitag & Associates, Engineers, 3021 Vernon Place, Cincinnati, Ohio 45219, or a member of said firm, or their successors or successors.
H. The term "Independent Consulting Engineer" refers to an Independent Consulting Engineer or firm of Engineers of recognized excellent reputation in the field of sewer system engineering, and such definition includes the Engineers named above.

I. The term "beginning month" means the month following the month in which the sewer system is completed and becomes revenue-producing, as certified by the Engineers.
J. The term "payor bank" or "paying agent" or "depository bank" means the bank at which the principal and interest on the Bonds herein authorized will be payable and which shall serve as the depository of all of the various funds created in this Ordinance, which bank is the Dixie State Bank, Walton, Kentucky, or its successor.
K. The term "alternate payor bank" means the alternate bank designated as the alternate payor of the Bonds, which designation may be made by the successful purchaser of the Bonds.

L. The "FmHA" or "Government" means the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture of the United States Government.
M. The term "original purchaser" means the agency, person, firm or firms to whom the $820,000 of Bonds herein authorized are awarded at the public sale of the Bonds, or their successors, and such definition shall refer to the FmHA if it is the original purchaser of the Bonds at said public sale.
N. The term "U.S. obligations" means bonds or notes which are the direct obligations of the United States of America, or obligations the principal of and interest on which are guaranteed by the United States of America.

O. The words "Bond", "owner", "holder", and "person" shall include the plural as well as the singular number unless the context otherwise indicate. The term "bondholder" means, and comprehends, unless the context otherwise indicates, the holders of the Bonds and/or coupons at the time issued and outstanding hereunder, or any of them, and shall be deemed to include the registered owner of a Fully Registered Bond provided for herein.
SECTION 2. ACQUISITION AND CONSTRUCTION OF SYSTEM.
The City shall acquire and construct the sewer system referred to in the preamble hereto which is generally described in the plans, specifications and report prepared by Kral, Zepf, Freitag & Associates, Cincinnati, Ohio, Consulting Engineers, now on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City, and shall operate said system as a revenue-producing project under Sections 94.160 and 96.350 through 96.510, inclusive, of the Kentucky Revised Statutes.
SECTION 3. DECLARATION OF PERIOD OF USEFULNESS.
The City Council hereby declares that the period of usefulness of the proposed new sewer system is more than forty (40) years from the date of completion thereof.

SECTION 4. AUTHORIZATION OF BONDS.
It has been heretofore determined that the total cost of acquisition and construction of said system (not otherwise provided), including preliminary expenses, land and rights-of-way, engineering expense, capitalized interest during construction, legal and administrative costs, publication costs, initial deposits required and all incidental expenses, will be not exceeding $2,936,246; and after deducting certain sewer connection fees, an approved FmHA grant in the amount of $380,000, an approved HUD grant in the amount of $252,700, an approved EPA grant in the amount of $889,845, and an approved KPAA loan in the amount of $403,701, it is necessary that the City issue $820,000 of its Sewer Revenue Bonds of 1974. Accordingly, for the purpose of financing the cost (not otherwise provided) of the aforesaid acquisition and construction, under the provisions of Sections 94.160 and 96.350 through 96.510, inclusive, of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, there are hereby authorized to be issued and sold Eight Hundred Twenty Thousand Dollars ($820,000) principal amount of City of Walton Sewer Revenue Bonds of 1975. All of said Bonds shall be dated as of the date of delivery to the purchaser thereof, shall bear interest from such date at the rate of not exceeding five percent (5%) per annum, as may be fixed by supplemental resolution as a result of the advertised sale and competitive bidding for such Bonds, as hereinafter provided, and shall be issued and delivered either according to Coupon Bonds or in the form of "Fully Registered Bonds", as prescribed in Section 11B hereof.

Interest shall be payable semi-annually on January 1 and July 1 of each year, provided that the first interest payment period will cover interest only from the date of delivery of the Bonds to the ensuing January 1 or July 1, as the case may be. Principal of said Bonds shall mature on January 1 of each of the respective years of maturity.
Such Bonds as may be issued in coupon bond form will be issued in the denomination of $1,000, provided, however, that the purchaser of said Bonds at the public sale shall have the right to elect that such Bonds be issued in the denomination of from $1,000 to $10,000, or any combination of same consistent with the schedule of maturities, or such purchaser may elect that such Bonds so purchased be issued to such purchaser in the form of a "Fully Registered Bond", as hereinafter set out.

SECTION 5. ISSUANCE OF FULLY REGISTERED BONDS.
